

County Agent's Notes

By Robert F. Spence

Farmers' Field Day—July 18
Rockcastle County farmers will have a Field Day July 18 on John Houston's farm. A committee has already gone over the farm with Mr. Houston with the idea of getting things ready. Another committee made up of Roy Brown, Bradley Saylor and Robert Thompson will look after the dinner part of the Field Day.

Russell Hunt, tobacco specialist; a free trip with all expenses and one livestock specialist paid to Cincinnati, with the from the State College of Agriculture will be ready to add their comments on the type of farming on Houston's farm.

Kentucky Fescue 31, Lading Clover, Red Clover, Sweet Clover, Lespedeza, Orchard Grass and combinations, of these grasses can be seen on this 325 acre farm. Yes, and corn, Alfalfa, Tobacco, Hogs, Cattle, and a fine Reservoir and one pond will be inspected. The new dairy barn of Mason Poyter and his fine herd of dairy cattle nearby will be inspected also.

Dinner is being arranged to serve on the farm at 1:30 after which a short program will be conducted with Mr. Hunt, Mr. Leonard and others on the program.

The farm men and women and business and professional men and women are all welcome. This is the day to see what one of our leading farming farms has done in the way of reclaiming a farm and bringing it into excellent production. For an example, he has 75 acres of red clover alone on his farm to say nothing about other legumes.

Plan now and set aside July 18 for this fine day where you will meet friends from all sections of the county. More will be said about this Field Day later on. Watch the Signal for announcement of dinner and hour and place to meet to start over the farm.

4-H Trip To Cincinnati
Lloyd Saylor, Crab Orchard Route 3, and Dexter Lee Roberts, Brodhead, won top honors in 4-H Strawberry Production this year. These two boys get into Cincinnati, with the five other counties. These boys will leave Mt. Vernon on June 12 at 7 a. m., and will return June 13 in the late afternoon. The purpose of this trip is to visit the strawberry market and see how strawberries are handled and sold. They will also visit strawberry fields in northern Kentucky. They will stay at the Netherland Plaza Hotel. The first afternoon will see one of the games of the Cincinnati Reds. There will also be special entertainment at night.

Soil Conservation News

By Clay A. Colson

Sowing of grass seed is an important farm operation. The number of farmers in Rockcastle County sowing grass and legume seed has been increasing every year. It gives farmers another source of farm income and in many cases furnishes more seed with which the farmer can seed additional acreages of grasses and legumes.

The five combines in the county will begin running in a few days when Fescue and Orchard Grass are ready for harvest. Any farmer who has seed that can be sowed should make arrangements to get it harvested. The increased interest over the state and nation in grassland farming means greater demands for seeds. Fescue, Orchard Grass, Lading Clover, Red Clover, Reg Top and Timothy are always in demand for pasture and hay crops and the small grains for cover crops.

Buford Brown sowed 37.3 lbs. of Fescue and over 1,000 lbs. of Orchard Grass last year. Mr. Brown's father, Arthur Brown, was one of the first farmers to sow Fescue in Rockcastle County. He started out by sowing six lbs. of Ky. 31 Fescue on one and one-fourth acres. The seed was furnished by the Soil Conservation Service through the Rockcastle Soil Conservation District. John Houston seeded five acres from seed furnished by the S. C. S. every year.

W. S. Stewart sowed 2.7 acres of Fescue in 1950 and it yielded 1600 lbs. of clean seed. The cost was $100.00 for cleaning and nearly $100.00 for cleaning. Other farmers who have been sowing seeds are: Brody Saylor, Roy Norton, Otis Houk, Roy Brown, John Holbrook, W. S. Cass, E. C.

Herrin, Asbil Brown, W. E. Proctor, Robert Thompson and A. M. Hiett.
You don't have to have big acreages to sow seed. If you have as much as one acre, sow it and sow more meadows, pasture and cover crops.

'Complete Pasture Program' Helps Cows

Keep Milk Pails Full, Spring, Summer and Fall

Well-Fed Cows Pay Off in Extra Milk Dividends.

If you want contented, cud-chewing cows that fill your milk pails, you have to supply them all the feed they need during the hours they graze. Cows don't keep on eating until they are full, points out the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. They graze only a certain period each day. If there isn't sufficient forage available to fill them in that period, then they won't be well-fed.
Surest way to provide a steady, abundant, high-quality pasture ration spring, summer and fall, is to develop a "complete pasture program," including the proper legume-grass mixtures, the use of commercial fertilizer and well-managed grazing, says Earl Jones, Ohio State University extension agronomist. Jones recommends alfalfa, lading

More Corn Per Acre on Midwest Farms Calls For Better Soil Care Plus Plant Food Use

MORE corn per acre—rather than just more acres in corn—is what is needed on many Midwest farms this year, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

With the lid off on 1951 corn acreage allotments and prospects of a "feed squeeze" ahead, the need for more efficient soil management methods to build higher corn yields per acre is more critical than ever, says the committee.

Agronomists at Midwestern agricultural colleges are advising farmers to make long range plans now for high crop yields. They point out that the present international emergency may last a long time. And whether there is a hot or cold war, we will steadily need more food in the years ahead.

The secret of getting and maintaining high corn yields per acre, says the committee's statement, "lies not only in providing a well balanced supply of nutrients, but in giving the soil a backlog of plant food and organic matter on which crops can draw."

"The use of lime and a complete fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash is of top importance. Vital, too, is a rotation that centers around deep-rooted legumes such as alfalfa and sweet clover. Well-tillaged legumes, reinforced by manure and crop residues will add tons of valuable organic matter to the soil. The organic matter improves soil structure and drainage. It binds the soil to make it more resistant to erosion and to the loss of plant food by leaching and frost.

It's the Corn per Acre, Not the Corn per Ear That Counts.

produce more bushels of corn per acre.

"Important, too, in getting top corn yields is a planting rate that provides a big enough stalk population to take advantage of the soil's improved fertility. Planting more stalks per acre may cut the size of the ears, but it will increase yields by giving you more ears."

The committee points out that a complete starter fertilizer applied in the row at planting time will get your corn off to a fast, healthy start. It will help speed up maturity and avoid the danger of damage to the corn crop from early autumn frosts.

Blame for Erosion Rests on Poor Soil Management Methods

THE blame for soil erosion usually rests on poor soil management, rather than on washing of the land, declared Dr. L. E. Beaver, formerly with the Ohio State Agronomy Department.

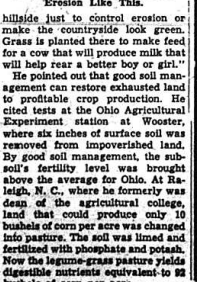

"When we ask the question, 'How serious is soil erosion?' he said, 'we probably have phrased the query wrongly. A better question would be 'How serious is poor soil management?'"

Poor soil management, he said, affects more people than soil erosion. It affects people on level lands as well as rolling and hilly areas. Good soil management on the rolling lands includes more than erosion control.

"Good soil management," he said, "is closely allied to good farm management. You do not put grass on a hillside just to control erosion or make the countryside look green. Grass is planted there to make feed for a cow that will produce milk that will help you a better bet than corn."

He pointed out that good soil management can restore exhausted land to profitable crop production. He cited tests at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station at Wooster, where six inches of surface soil was removed from impoverished land. By good soil management, the subsoil's fertility level was brought above the average for Ohio. At Raleigh, Mo., where he formerly was deep of the agricultural college, land that could produce only 10 bushels of corn per acre was changed into pasture. The soil was limed and fertilized with phosphate and potash. Now the legume-grass pasture yields digestible nutrients equivalent to 80 bushels of corn per acre.

Poor Soil Management Causes Erosion Like This.

Catholics Planning Mission Chapel Here

A Catholic Mission Chapel is being planned for Mt. Vernon and Monsignor Guisen, Chancellor of the Diocese of Covington is expected to be in Mt. Vernon tomorrow to consider a site for the chapel.

A chapel was opened in Berea last fall and a spokesman for the church has reported that negotiations are underway for the locating of chapels in Mt. Vernon and Moxie.

Last week the church purchased lots in the Crawford Heights Sub-division of Mt. Vernon and an official of the church reports that those sites probably will be used for the erection of a church and rectory in the near future. Plans for a Catholic Hospital here could not be confirmed, but the church is operating the hospital in London, which has options on the sites which could be used for a hospital here.

Last week, however, the mission chapel seemed to be the primary object of the church. The chapel is being planned for the site of the church for tourists as well as members of the Catholic Church living in this vicinity.

HARLAND SANDERS

N. Corbin, Ky., Laurel Co.

19th District Rockcastle-Laurel-Glasgow-Jackson Counties

Republican Primary SATURDAY, AUGUST 4th, 1951

I stand only for the best in government.

I have always been an ardent worker for improvement of our highways—both State and County. I will give my untiring support to the further improvement and completion of our county road system.

I know that the churches and schools of this county constitute the cornerstones of our life and it is our duty to constitute the cornerstones of our life. The plight of our schools is bad. I should read and studied the 1952 legislative program of The Kentucky should strive for, and that by putting that program into law we will materially improve the status of our school system. To that end I pledge my support as your Senator.

I am qualified by precept and experience to represent the people of the 19th Senatorial District, and when elected your Senator—I have the will, the courage and ability to properly represent you—and that I will do without fear or weakness.

4,000 Trees Planted In Rockcastle District

The job of planting 4,000 Shortleaf Pines and 500 White Pines has been completed by the Rockcastle District Forestry Division of the National Forest. These trees were set in two old fields which were restocking unsatisfactorily. The white pines were set in patches of a few dozen trees to increase future supplies of this kind of lumber and to serve as future seed sources of this valuable species.

These two small plantations will serve as demonstrations of a profitable use of rough abandoned fields. Planting stock was obtained from the State Nursery at a cost of $5.00 per thousand. Usually seedlings are planted with 6-ft. by 6-ft. spacing requiring 1,200 trees per acre. The cost of stock $6.00 per acre. The planting season is about over for this spring. Anyone desiring to plant next spring can buy planting stock from the state nursery.

Information can be obtained from the County Agent.

Old Time Equipment To Be On Display

It won't be long now until residents of Renfro and visitors of the Renfro settlement will be making purchases or just dropping in for a visit at the Renfro Valley Country Store.

Construction on the Renfro Valley Country Store was started Monday, under the supervision of Harry Mullins and according to John Lair the project should be completed within 60 days.

Bill store will be located between the pond and the road which leads to the horse show grounds. The building will be of box and strip construction with a frontage of 32 feet by 60 feet.

While making plans for the store, Mr. Lair received pictures and blue prints of country stores from all sections of the county. The Renfro Country Store will be a model of all.

The candy counter will be the same counter used by Uncle Bill Foytner at his store in Mt. Vernon. Mr. Lair was a boy of five or six. Even today Mr. Lair says he remembers visiting Uncle Bill's store and candy counter.

Uncle Henry Wood's sugar barrel also will be used in the Renfro Store, the same barrel was located through Uncle Henry's nephew, Tom Wood.

Also on display in the store will be shoes, ladies high top shoes and many other items of by-gone days. The store also will keep a complete line of notions, reminiscent of the days when the Country Store was more than just a business establishment.

The Country Store is being built for the early morning broadcast heard at 7:30 o'clock (CST) over C. B. at 7 o'clock each morning over Radio Station WHAS in Louisville.

The programs now being broadcast from this temporary store set up in the Lodge Building.

Home Agent's Notes
By Letta Jasper

Project Work
June is the month to get your 4-H project started if you have not started it yet. All our economic projects can be started during June and, of course, several can be completed before this time.

Many girls have finished their clothing and foods projects and have turned in records at Rally Day along with their exhibits. There are, however, many girls in the county who did not attend the rally. Records can be written and sent to the Home Agent as soon as the project work is complete. This is a good plan rather than waiting until fall.

Canning, housekeeping and room improvement are projects which can be done during the summer months.

In order to be a club member in good standing the project work must be up-to-date. Club members who attend 4-H Week or 4-H Camp must have project work up-to-date.

4-H Week is June 5-9. 4-H Camp comes July 9-13. It will be held at Levi Jackson State Park, London.

Boys and girls, plan now to get your project work started or finished and arrange with your parents to go to District 4-H Camp.

Iron Curtain Trade

FOR SOME time this column has called attention to the shipment of materials behind the Iron Curtain by European nations.

1. Rolfe G. Grosz of New York, who sent chemicals to Switzerland, later transhipped them to Soviet Russia.

2. The Pacific Trading Corporation of Boston which transhipped steel plates to Communist China.

3. The Ferris Chemical Corporation of New York which obtained a license to ship chemicals to Belgium, then transhipped them to Communist Poland.

4. The American Petroleum Company which shipped oil to Communist Poland, at a time when the American government was getting dangerously short.

Tax Tempers

There were some stormy dissents here in the ways and means committee before it tentatively approved a 3 per cent, across-the-board boost in individual income taxes.

"This is an unfair imposition on the lower-bracket taxpayers," said one of the dissenters.

Rep. Hale Rogers of Louisiana, who favored a graduated increase from 2 to 4 per cent on incomes up to $10,000 a year, also strongly opposed the across-the-board formula.

Dingell was furious because the committee had voted to raise the same rate of increase as the upper-bracket taxpayer.

"America lives on wheels," said the congressman from Detroit. "But if you cripple the automotive industry by increasing taxes to the point where the average fellow can't afford to buy a car, you are threatening the future of our whole economy."

Rep. Dan Reed of New York, the committee's No. 1 Republican, said he was willing to "go along" by not raising individual income taxes at all.

Korean Air Disaster

The American public has shown its ability to take the bad news along with the good and therefore has a right to know about our worst air disaster of the Korean war.

Two B-29's were shot down, one was hit and crashed into the sea. Seven of the big superfortresses had to crash-land in South Korea, but one was badly damaged but made it back to the home base.

Small Business Casualty of Defense; Meat Price Rules Confuse Consumer

UP A TREE—MIA mangled, popular Gen. Omar Bradley, remembered by thousands of World War II veterans in the home towns of America as the "GI's general," will be combined senate armed services and foreign relations committees up a tree during his testimony on the removal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his Pacific commands.

To begin with, General Bradley caused a rift among the Republican members of the senate by opposing the administration's actions with the sweeping statement that General MacArthur's Korean plan "would involve us in the wrong war, at the wrong place, at the wrong time, and with the wrong enemy."

NEW DRAFT LAW—Senate and house conferees, attempting to reach a compromise on the two bills previously passed by the groups, finally agreed on a settlement for extension of the military draft until July 1, 1953.

UP TO OLD TRICKS—After rejecting American plans for a peace treaty with the Russians, the Russians reverted to their old tricks in proposing their version of a treaty.

BEWILDERED HOUSEWIVES—Home town housewives entered their Main Street stores and meat markets on Monday May 14 without unusual degree of visiting a meat counter. The government had just ordered a cut in meat prices.

FAIR TRADE RULING—By a vote of 4-3, the supreme court ruled that merchants who did not sign fair-trade agreements are free to charge cut-in prices if they wish.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

Not to be Served

Lesson for June 16, 1951

THERE are at least three ideas of a what religion is, and two of them are wrong if Jesus was right.

To put this more correctly, all three ideas have some truth in them, but if either the first or the second is taken as the main and only truth, then it is wrong.

Religion is Not Retreat—The man is that it is a retreat from the world, a private conference between God and the soul.

Religion is Not Escape—People holding this idea have literally fled from the world, they have lived as hermits, they have retreated from the world.

Religion is Not a Guarantee—A religion is that it is a means of gain. Being religious is supposed to be a sure way of getting what you want.

ROCKCASTLE FACTS AND STORIES

By RALPH GRIFFIN

The Dillon family had a coffin made for the slain man. County officials instructed that the body be held until they gave permission for burial. They immediately sent a telegram to the Huntington bank, and cashier Oney came quickly by train. He immediately identified the dead man as one of the four who had robbed the bank. By this time the other two had been tentatively identified as Jack Keen and Tom Webb, both notorious outlaws. The fourth member of the quartet was thought to be Frank James or Cole Younger.

Oney had hardly left the Dillon home when there were more callers. The men and boys were some distance from the house and there were several women present. There was a knock at the door and Mrs. Dillon responded she was faced by three strange men. Two of them were rough-looking characters but the third was fairly well-dressed, although clothing showed signs of much travel. This man was the only one who spoke. He understood, he said, that there was a corpse in the house. He wished permission to view the remains. Mrs. Dillon tried to refuse the men admittance, suspecting them to be the companions of the man who had been killed. She told them that the coffin had been sealed, since they had to hold it so long, it could not be opened.

The visitor was polite but firm. There could be no argument, he insisted. The coffin must be opened and that quickly. Reluctantly the woman went for tools and the job was quickly done. The lid lifted, the three men gazed for some moments at the face of the corpse. The leader was emotional and wept openly before turning to Mrs. Dillon and asking, "where is the man who killed him?"

Fearfully she replied that she didn't know, but that he certainly wasn't around the premises. Thanking her politely the three left hurriedly, walking away through the same corn-field where the body of their companion had been found. None of the Dillon men knew of the call until they came home from work that evening. Insofar as is known the strangers were no known gain in Rockcastle, altho the Dillon house was not left unguarded again for several days. There seemed to be no purpose in delaying the funeral further, so county officials gave permission for the final rites. Naturally there were no sincere mourners but Tom McDaniels probably got a better send-off than he deserved. The good women of the neighborhood were touched by the idea that a stranger should be buried so far from his family and friends. They saw to it that there was a preacher to do the formalities properly and to utter a prayer for Tom's soul.

They ransacked their yards and gardens for flowers to make sprays for the coffin and many of the good ladies dropped tears for the slain outlaw. He might have gone farther and done worse than to be killed among such kind and hospitable folks.

Word was later received in Rockcastle that either Keen or Webb had been captured in West Tennessee. He was in possession of a considerable sum of money which he was unable to explain so he was taken to Huntington and there identified as one of the robbers. He was given a long sentence to serve in the West Virginia penitentiary.

The James gang later claimed to have had no connection with the Huntington robbery, attributing the crime to a band of local toughs. According to all information accepted at the time, however, Tom McDaniels had long had active connection with the James boys, so their assertions of innocence were not taken seriously.

R. C. Tartar Announces For Circuit Judge

To the Republicans of Rockcastle County:

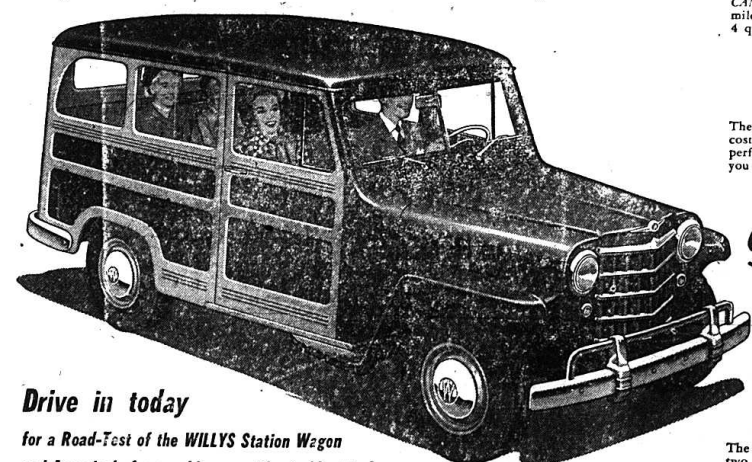

The formal announcement of my candidacy for Circuit Judge, has already been published in the columns of Mt. Vernon Signal. Many people are commenting on the fact that there is now less disorder and lawfulness in Rockcastle County, than there has been for many years. This is a very happy situation. The small civil and criminal dockets in the court is a good omen, and shows that not only the law is being kept, but that good feeling and harmony prevails. The Circuit Court has enforced the law and has given the people protection. We have cooperated in the fullest with the lower courts in their efforts to rid the county of disturbance and the lawless. The policy of the circuit court in respecting the verdicts of the juries, and in refusing to make the probation laws a way of escape for the law-breaker has paid off.

No judge is in a position to enforce the law, unless he obeys all of the laws, and tries to be an example in public and private conduct. This I have done. The record of my work is outstanding among all of the circuit judges of the state. I have kept myself free from prejudice and influence, and I have decided all matters in the light of my own intelligence and conscience. I have heard all appeals from rich and poor alike, with kindness and consideration. I wish that I could see every voter in Rockcastle County, before the primary election. But that will be impossible. I shall endeavor to reach many in person, and from time to time communicate with you through the newspaper. I want your sympathy and support, and I urge all of my friends to become active in my behalf. We will not relax our efforts until the polls close.

Your Friend,
R. C. Tartar
