FARMERS' FIELD DAY

Farmers' Field Day. Rockcastle County Farmers' Field Day will be held July 18, beginning at 10:00 A. M. Central Standard Time. Farmers will meet first at Mr. Mason Poynter's new dairy barn and here will see a modern up-to-date new type dairy barn. They will also inspect Mr. Poynter's dairy herd.

From Mr. Poynter's they will go to Murphy Whitehead's farm to see a new type of tobacco. Mr. Whitehead has a fine crop of tobacco which will be admired by all of the farmers. Mr. Russell Hunt from the College of Agriculture will be along to answer up or all questions pertaining to tobacco.

At the close of the tobacco meeting, sandwiches and coffee and cold drinks will be served by the Quail Homemakers Club at Mr. Whitehead's barn. The Quail Homemakers Club has a reputation for serving a good lunch.

The afternoon will be spent on John Huston's farm. On this farm the farmers will have an opportunity to see over 200 acres of reclaimed land with wonderful crops of alfalfa, wheat, corn, and acres of hay and pasture land. Mr. Huston's farm reaches from the old Broadhead Road to Route 150, all of which is covered with grain, hay, and pasture that every farmer in the county should see.

Mr. Russell Hunt, Mr. Leonard, and dairyman from the State College of Agriculture will be with us to discuss the various crops and methods of farming on these farms. All farmers of the county are urged to make note of this day—July 18 and attend Farmers' Field Day. Women and Club Members are invited to go on this tour with us as well as the farmers.

Farmicals

Sponsored By KESSLER JEWELERS Richmond, Ky. If Uncle Sam would only follow the advice he has given the American people on combating the forces of inflation, he would go a long way toward reducing this road-block to our nation's defense production effort. But so far Uncle Sam has persistently failed or refused to heed any part of his own advice in the matter, and the consequences may be very costly to the American people.

Persons fishing in privately owned ponds or lakes must have Kentucky fishing license. This does not apply to an owner or lessee of the property.

A thief or thieves entered the Richmond Sales Company pens sometime Saturday night and butchered a calf weighing approximately 190 lbs. Only the choice cuts of meat were taken.

A tomato increases in weight as long as it is attached to the vine, but decreases slowly in weight as soon as it is picked. The care in picking and the amount of bruising affects the rate of weight decrease. Tomatoes should be picked in the containers in which they are to be hauled to the factory, and not in pails from which the fruits are poured into baskets.

It is quite a span from 1858 to 1910, but this was the era of the development of scientific and intensive agricultural production methods. The sales end of the farm business was something about which the farmer admitted he knew little. His job was finished when he grew the crops. The selling of them was a matter that took care of itself in the natural course of things. But about 1910 the farmer began to give thought to distribution problems. He became dissatisfied with existing selling methods and sought to improve them. Consumers, however, became concerned with the methods of distributing agricultural products, and the universal interest that was manifested culminated in 1913 in the authorization by Congress of the formation of what is now the Federal Bureau of Markets under the direction of the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Murphy spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Murphy.

Scaffold Cane Cemetery Being Re-Organized

The old Scaffold Cane Cemetery Church is being re-organized after many years of inactivity. This historical church has had three buildings on this site. The first, a log building in which slaves and their owners worshipped together; the second, a frame building which burned to the ground and the third, a frame building which is now being used.

On one time the church was a very active organization, and joining the church yard is the large Scaffold Cane Cemetery of several acres. It was organized by the Union Church but after a number of years it became a Christian Church. Through the efforts of the Berea Christian Church, the Young People's Class of the Christian Church and the Laymen's League of Christian Church, the Berea Christian Church the work is being re-organized. Now a Sunday School with local teachers is meeting each Sabbath afternoon.

Mattie B. Robertson Announces For Circuit Court Clerk

Dear Friends of Rockcastle County: Many of you know that on account of my mother's health, it will be impossible for me to get out and see the people as much as I would like to do. Nothing would please me more than to sit down in your homes and talk with you, my good friends. I'll do that every chance I get, but please bear in mind that if I can't get to see you that way, it will be due to circumstances over which I have no control.

Picking Peaches
Popular as peaches are, many a food shopper does not know them well enough to do an expert job of buying. With the peach season coming up, U. S. Department of Agriculture food specialists cite the following pointers:
Choose mature peaches, which have a creamy or yellowish ground color. This is more important to look for than the pretty blush which some well-flavored varieties never have at all. Avoid peaches with dark green ground color, for these are immature and will not ripen satisfactorily.
The firm-textured clingstone peaches are grown mainly for commercial canning and are also well suited to home picking. The freestone varieties are favorite for table use and for home canning because of fine flavor, even though they do not hold shape so well.
Yellow-fleshed peaches offer a bonus of somewhat more vitamin A value than the white-fleshed kinds. But generally speaking, you can expect a half-cup of sliced raw peaches to provide about 15 percent of the vitamin A and about 10 percent of the vitamin C recommended daily for an adult.

If scales aren't handy, figure about 4 medium-sized peaches to a pound. A pound will make 4 servings.
A bushel basket will yield 18 to 24 quarts of canned peaches, or 36 to 48 pints of frozen.
Summer Tomatoes
Summer field-grown tomatoes contain about twice as much vitamin C as winter and fall greenhouse tomatoes, point out nutritionists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Intensity of the light in which tomatoes are grown affects the vitamin C contents; fresh tomatoes in winter contain less than those grown in summer sunshine.
Although tomatoes are not as rich in vitamin C as citrus fruits they are an important source of this vitamin because of the quantities eaten. In 1948 tomatoes and tomato products provide almost 3 percent of the vitamin C in American diets. Since the body cannot store much vitamin C, nutritionists recommend one or more servings a day of foods rich in this vitamin.

EVERYBODY AGAINST PRICE CONTROLS

Let us suppose, in an effort to simplify a current public issue, that the average consumer buys ten articles in connection with his regular routine of living.

Every consumer knows that prices have increased sharply since the Korean War began and there is present a fear, on the part of many Americans, that prices will increase much faster than income. Consequently, there is a substantial demand for action by the government to prevent speculation and excessive profits during the emergency.

Accordingly, the Price Administrator of the government takes action to roll back the prices of the various commodities. In general, he has the backing of consumers, but in particular, he has the enmity of every group of producers that make things sell.

The result is that when the price of any product is affected by regulations, the producers put up a howl, charging the government and its officials with all manner of designs upon the economic system and the constitutional processes of democracy.

The result will be, if the ten products that the average consumer buys, in this supposition of ours are affected by regulations, the roar from the producers will frighten timid congressmen out of their wits. Meanwhile, the consumers, as a group, unorganized and without effective expression, will be forgotten and prompt action will be taken to save the producers from "loss."

Letters to the Editor

Mr. A F Hoffman
Mt. Vernon, Ky.
Dear Editor:
I wish to thank you for your article in last week's Signal in which you express a wish for my speedy recovery. I have made much improvement, and I hope it will not be very long until I can take my usual place in the office. Best wishes for everyone.
Sincerely Yours,
Dr. J. D. Henderson

ROCKCASTLE FACTS AND STORIES

By RALPH GRIFFIN

Continuing our railroad accounts from last week, we are following L. N. Detective J. B. Harlan in his early experience in Rockcastle, only a few years after the coming of the railroad. A train had been wrecked in Laurel County, mobs were forming and Harlan was assigned to stand guard over the prisoners for several hours prior to their transfer to Latonia for safe-keeping. As an able assistant upon this occasion the detective chose a man by the name of Andy Johnson.

This seems to have begun an acquaintanceship which was to continue for some time. This Johnson seems to have been quite a character, even in the days when characters were the rule rather than the exception. His rifle was notched, his outfit was blotched, and he seems to have committed almost every crime except one against the railroad. Since Harlan only wanted to protect the railroad's interests, he frankly admits that he cultivated Johnson's friendship in the hope of preventing such crimes.

The strategy apparently succeeded but the officer has this to say about his friend: "Johnson, according to the best informant we received, had to his credit eighteen men whom he had killed at different times. Shoot many of them from ambush." (Nowadays we would debit the man with eighteen men, not credit him.)

The detective continues: "On a Sunday morning a short time before I became acquainted with Johnson, he killed an entire family of five that was enroute to church in a two-horse wagon. He had a grudge against the father and when the wagon passed him he stepped behind a tree, took deliberate aim and shot the father, mother and three small children. This was the most dastardly and cowardly act that he was ever known to commit. (Goodness knows we hope so.)"

He was always seen traveling about with a long Winchester rifle, together with the usual brace of 45 Colt six-shooters strapped to him. "It was about this time that Andy had some trouble with Old Connel Bill Dillon, who was famous throughout the mountains. Col Dillon was considered a very courageous and determined man and at one time he had assisted the local authorities in one of the many chases along the trail of Jesse James and his gang. The Colonel had also had a shooting scrape in the neighborhood of Crab Orchard with the noted guerrilla chieftain, Quantrell. For some reason, however, Dillon never sought to come in direct contact with Johnson, even after some differences and estrangement had arisen between them. "To illustrate Johnson's daring disposition, he went down to Dillon's sawmill which was located on Rockcastle River near Hazel Patch. There he drove all the hands away from the mill by flourishing his big Winchester rifle, then saturated the lumber and mill with coal-oil before setting fire to it. He then calmly walked away for a short distance and took a seat on a mountain ridge, where with more gun-play he defied any of the mill force to go near. After watching the mill burn to ashes he quietly walked away.

"This, like all the rest of the crimes Johnson committed, went unpunished and no action was taken against him. He appeared to be a law unto himself and from some cause or other he was ready to undertake to prosecute him for his bloodthirsty acts."

Even after the year 1900 acts were being committed by negro trains within the county, on one occasion two small boys placed cross-ticks on the tracks near Mt. Vernon and succeeded in rolling an engine down an embankment. The boys were captured and the nearby woods and immediately confessed, simply stating that they thought it would be an easy way to get some money. The Mt. Vernon Signal of that day suspected the boys of having older accomplices but that was never proven. Quoting the Signal again, there was another occasion when twenty-five armed men rode the southbound passenger train from Mt. Vernon to London, upon a tip that a hold-up was to be attempted between those points. To their great disappointment, nothing happened.

At various times overly-exuberant citizens were arrested and fined for firing off their pistols into passing coaches. Brawls and gun-play were frequent upon the passenger trains, and constant vigilance was required to protect the contents of box-cars as they stood upon the sidings.

HOW MANY "INDEPENDENCE DAYS" HAVE WE LEFT?

"We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed..."

"... we need only to recall that the substance of (America's) formula is continuous, strict and closely guarded limitations upon the power of government. Neither the peril of war nor the promise of welfare must ever serve to relax any item of this formula..."

—Immortal words from the Declaration of Independence, adopted on the first 4th of July, just 175 years ago.

From "The Key to Peace" by Dean Clarence Moulton, College of Law, Notre Dame University, published by The Heritage Foundation.

These words are the stones upon which man built history's greatest United States of America. Remember them well!

"All men are created equal..." That means you are as important as the men of God as any man ever brought into this world. You are made in His image and likeness. There is no "superior" man anywhere.

"...that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights..." Here is your highlight—the freedom to live, work, worship and play as you choose. These are rights the government on earth may take from you.

"...That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men..." Here is the reason for and the purpose of government. Government is but a servant—not a master—not a giver of anything.

"...deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed..." In America, the government may assume only the powers you allow it to have. It may assume no others.

From Concord to Korea, your kinsmen have fought and died for the principles of America's Declaration of Independence: belief in God... belief in the God-given rights of man... belief that man is more important than government... belief in the vital need for morality in all man does.

But on this Independence Day, as never before, these beliefs are in deadly peril. There are people in America who would deny your God-given rights, who prefer expediency to morality, and who would make government the master—not the servant—of man. These people are the advocates of an all-powerful, all-providing socialistic government to control your destiny from cradle to grave.

The time has come to answer them with your own "Declaration of Independence"...

Declare that government is responsible TO YOU—rather than FOR you. Declare that freedom is more important to you than "security" or "survival." Declare again that the rights God gave you may not be taken away by any government on any pretext.

Our founding fathers accepted the truths of America's Declaration on faith alone. Today, our nation is proof—absolute and irrevocable—that these truths work. They are the last great hope for the protection of human civilization.

FREEDOM NEEDS YOU

On this 175th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, help give the day the spiritual, religious meaning it had to the founding fathers. Renew your faith and allegiance to the immortal truths stated in the Declaration. Make them an active part of your thinking, your acting, your voting.

Pray for help in maintaining man's closeness to God, in preserving man's God-given rights and responsibilities against those who would make you dependent upon a socialistic, all-powerful government.
