

All Areas Critical In A-Bomb War

If your community is one of those which boasts no defense plant, no military establishment, no supply depot, no large concentration of population then you may be saying to yourself—"No one would bother dropping a bomb on our town. We're too small to concern the enemy." You may be right, but no community is really safe.

on exposed skin up to two miles away. Any shielding substance, including clothing, affords some protection. "Flash Heat" can start brush and forest fires. In an air burst of an atomic bomb 50% of nuclear radiation occurs in the first second, 80% in the first 10 seconds. In most cases, if you are not wounded or burned, you need not worry about radiation. The effects of radiation linger longer from surface or sub-surface atomic bursts than from air bursts, since dust and other materials become radioactive. Lingering radiation is serious, but can be handled by specially trained civil defense workers.

a single package, but their overall power still has very definite limits. Not even hydrogen bombs will blow the earth apart or kill us all by radioactivity. Modern A-bombs can cause heavy damage 2 miles away, but doubling their power would extend that range only to 2 1/2 miles. To stretch the damage range from 2 to 4 miles would require a weapon more than eight times the rated power of present models. In most atom bomb raids, blast and heat are by far the greatest dangers that people must face. Radioactivity alone would account for only a small percentage of all human deaths and injuries, except in underground or underwater explosions. In small amounts, radioactivity seldom is harmful. Even when serious radiation sickness follows a heavy dosage, there is still a good chance for recovery.

turn off your oil burner and what to do about utilities. Always have a good flashlight, a radio, first-aid equipment and a supply of canned goods in the house. If you have time when an alert sounds, close the house up tight in order to keep out fire sparks and radioactive dust and to lessen the chances of being cut by flying glass. Keep the house closed until all danger is past.

Caleb McFadden Makes Statement In State Senator's Race

TO THE VOTERS OF THE 19TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

I was born and reared on a Laurel County farm and I desire to state, to you again my platform as a candidate for the office of State Senator. I trust this platform meets your approval and will merit your support.

I will be one hundred percent opposed to the liquor and gambling interests in their efforts to further their cause in the Legislature.

I will be opposed to dishonesty and graft in every instance where it may become an issue in our law making body.

I will support and work for the enactment of school legislation as recommended by our school leaders that will give to our teachers and our children the very best program of education that our State is able to provide. I will be a friend of our schools, our children are our most priceless asset.

I believe our State should do more for its dependent old people to make their closing days more comfortable and secure. Also the needy blind and dependent children.

I will support and work for the enactment of legislation for the benefit of our veterans and their dependents. I believe in and will work for better roads in our District.

which they feel are for the best interests of our District to feel that will give to every farm and rural home in our District electric lights and power at reasonable prices.

It is being said by some that I should not be elected, because a Senator cannot do anything for his District unless he takes part in and stands high among the drinking parties at Frankfort. Friends don't be misled. Don't you want your representative in the State Senate to be sober? He helps to make the laws that govern your State? Do you want your State Senator to be in a drinking party at Frankfort while you work and pray at home for a better country for yourself and your children?

I have faith to believe that I can be sober, a gentleman and a preacher and do as much for our District as any man can do. Give me a chance. I will do my best to serve you in such manner that you will never regret electing me.

The election day is drawing close. I am deeply grateful for the good reports that are coming from all over the District, but I may I urge you who are for me not to be over confident but to see your friends and go to the polls and vote on August 4th.

I will not try to buy the office and if you elect me the office will not be for sale. Thank you and God bless you.

Your Friend,
CALEB MCFADDEN

For Circuit Court Clerk Votes For Mattie G. Robertson (X)

The August 4 drawing near when you will be called upon to decide who will serve you as Circuit Court Clerk for the next six years. Of course, you know that I hope and trust you will decide in my favor. May I give you some reasons why I feel that I could make you a good officer.

1. I am well qualified for the office.
2. I have no profession other than clerical work by which to earn a living, hence I would try very hard to make good in this capacity.
3. I shall consider myself your servant and shall not seek to be your master.
4. No one could influence me to do anything but what is in the Circuit Court Clerk's office anywhere else. It is the one desire of my heart to be honest before a public body.
5. I really speak to you from the depths of my heart.
6. I have never asked you to respect me continuously in office. I am willing to "live and let live."

It has been 18 years since I served as a public officer, and 12 years since I went out of office.

My mother will be 85 years old, my father is 80, I am totally blind and is also sick. I need to work as near as possible to my home so that I can give her the proper attention and care.

I need to make more money than I am making now in order to fulfill these obligations. I want to do my duty along these lines and you know that I must make a good living in order to do it.

It is true that I have a son. He has a family of his own to take care of and he is not a rich man. I am 59 years of age, and if he were able to support me, I would not want him to do it. I want to support myself and my mother.

If you feel in your heart that you want me for your next Circuit Court Clerk, it would make me very happy as I like to serve the public and enjoy working with people. If you give me your vote of confidence, I promise you that I will do everything in my power to make you an honest, capable and efficient officer.

My name appears first on the ballot under the office of Circuit Court Clerk, and since I have never asked for help, Mattie Griffin Robertson was too long a name to be printed without using two lines, it will appear "Mattie G. Robertson."

Thanking you for any help you are able to give me, I am,

Your Friend,
Mattie Griffin Robertson

The three men are: William A. Phillips, Three Links; Michael B. Cummins, Mt. Vernon; Donald Southard, Pine Hill, and John H. York, Conway.

Phillips was sent to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, O., while Cummins, Southard and York are taking their training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

T-Sgt. Shreve also reports that approximately 30 men in Rockcastle County will be notified that they will have about one week in which to enlist in the U. S. Army or Air Force.

These men will receive preliminary notices sometime after August 1st.

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF ROCKCASTLE COUNTY:

I have been conducting my campaign for Circuit Judge without a resort to personalities and in a way to provoke no one. I desired a campaign of peace and free from feeling or strife. My record as Circuit Judge cannot be assailed truthfully, and I know that my public and private life before you cannot be challenged.

I was willing to leave all the issues with the people, that they might settle them calmly and without passion. I have been handed a letter that is being circulated in Pulaski County by J. S. Sandusky and I expect that it will reach Rockcastle County. He makes an assault on me and my friends that cannot go unanswered. He denies that in his petition for a change of venue in his suit against Onie P. Hamilton that he stated he could not get a fair trial in Pulaski County or in Rockcastle County. In his letter he charges that those who fell that he made such statement are falsifiers. You are entitled to have the truth and determine for yourself who is truthful. I am giving you below the pertinent part of Sandusky's petition for a change of venue which was sworn by him:

Pulaski Circuit Court Plaintiff
VS. PETITION FOR CHANGE OF VENUE
Onie P. Hamilton Defendant

Comes the plaintiff, J. S. Sandusky, and petitions the court to grant him a change of venue in the above style action and to transfer said action for trial to some county other than Pulaski County, or Rockcastle County, which counties now compose the 28th Judicial District of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and as grounds for said motion the plaintiff says that he is informed and believes that on account of the undue influence of the defendant, Onie P. Hamilton, especially in Pulaski County, that the plaintiff cannot have a fair trial in either PULASKI COUNTY or ROCKCASTLE COUNTY for the reasons hereinafter set out.

Wherefore plaintiff prays the court to enter an order transferring this cause for trial to some county other than Pulaski County or Rockcastle County, Kentucky, and for all proper relief.

— J. S. Sandusky
Plaintiff

Subscribed and sworn to before me by J. S. Sandusky this 22nd day of January, 1951.

R. C. Weddle,
Clerk Pulaski Circuit Court

To me it is difficult to understand why any man had served among the people of Rockcastle County for 18 years would think that they would not and could not give him a fair trial.

The voters desire to know what this lawsuit, J. S. Sandusky vs. Onie P. Hamilton for $30,000.00 is all about. Two years ago Onie P. Hamilton was a candidate for County Clerk of Pulaski County and for some reason Sandusky attacked him both in the newspapers and over the radio. In self defense Hamilton issued a statement which contained the following language:

"Sandusky was Circuit Judge when the fraudulent audit was made by a Frankfort Democrat, which charged that I owed Pulaski County. The county officials never recognized or approved the work of Frankfort Democrat, for they knew that it did not state the truth. Sandusky was Circuit Judge at the time, and now states that he knew then all about the charge. If he is telling the truth, why didn't he instruct the grand jury to indict me? But he waits eight long years to give his name to an unbelievable story. To make the charge now he confesses that he violated his oath of office."

Alkon Attacks Byrd

SEN. George Alkon was once governor of the rockribbed Republican State of Vermont, one of two states voting for Alf Landon in 1936. Alkon is a frugal gentleman as most Vermonters are, but he was not as frugal as Senator Byrd of Virginia lead a drive to cut appropriations for school lunches, juvenile delinquency, The Women's Bureau and The Children's Bureau.

Finally Alkon could stand it no more. "An $80,000,000 ship is being built at Newport News, Virginia," he told Senator Byrd, "who is to be governor of Virginia. It will be turned over to one of the shipping lines for $20,000,000 a year by Uncle Sam for $50,000,000 that is 50 per cent more money than we plan to appropriate for maternal and child welfare work this country under budget cuts."

"Does a five-year-old child have any cash value?" continued the usually mild-mannered Alkon, "What is the value of a healthy mother, as compared to a sick one? Are we to determine this in terms of dollars and cents, and if so, how few cents the better off the country will be?"

A Reason for Peace

Unquestionably one reason for MacArthur's peace fever is the ineffectiveness of a little-known U.S. weapon in Korea. For some reason, never explained at the MacArthur hearings, General MacArthur failed to use this weapon in the early stages of the Korean war. More recent, however, he used terrific Chinese casualties.

The weapon is the radar-controlled proximity fuse, now no longer secret. This amazing device explodes when it is just as they hit the target, giving them a devastating effect. Previously this fuse was used to bury themselves in the ground, which detracted from their effect.

The proximity fuse was used during the end of World War II, but it has been a major mystery why MacArthur failed to use it in the early stages of the Korean war. If he had done so, the back of the Communist offensive might have been broken early with countless saving of American lives.

To solve the mystery of MacArthur's failure to use the proximity fuse, the Pentagon finally sent out the expert Col. H. H. Roberts to Korea. He came back with the explanation that MacArthur had failed to train artillery crews in the use of the fuse.

Under Gen. Ridgway, however, the proximity fuse has become the key to American victory. The chief reason the Chinese have suffered such devastating casualties. Undoubtedly also the reason why Malik has thrown out overtures for peace.

Note—Illustrative of the Army's present policy of correcting mistakes, Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks press beach in Washington is willing to accept the facts regarding the proximity fuse. However, the Far Eastern Command overruled Parks.

Peace Overtures It is no longer a secret that U.S. delegates to the United Nations have been working with other U.N. members for some time on a Korean truce proposal and that Comrade Malik jumped the gun on them.

The most important issue in these discussions, however, has not leaked out—namely, the differences of opinion regarding the proximity fuse. The two principal points: 1. Disposition of Formosa; and 2. Seating the Chinese Reds in the United Nations. The U.S. proposal is to seat the United States with 15 other U.N. nations by U.S. Ambassador Ernest Gros, was to postpone any consideration of Formosa or seating the Reds until after all other conditions had been ironed out. The State Department was completely adamant on this point and maintained that we would not discuss these two points even until the 1. The whole Korean question had been settled, and 2. All troops had been withdrawn.

This was the chief stumbling block between ourselves and some other U.N. members. The above terms were somewhat similar to those which President Truman sent to General MacArthur for his personal file before Easton and which MacArthur subsequently issued as his own. MacArthur's jumping the gun was one fact which contributed to his ouster. The President, however, is in no position to out Comrade Malik for likewise jumping the gun when he heard that the U.N. and the U.S.A. were working on a truce.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World "Cease-Fire" Talks Should Follow Unusual Pattern of Korean Events

PEACE—LIKE THE WAR—PUZZLING—With the continuing Korean conflict little more than a year old, the prospects for peace suddenly became brighter than ever. For the average citizen on the Main Street of America, however, the promises and the possibilities of an end to hostilities seemed just about as puzzling as ever.

American government and military leaders at first took a dim view of the "feelers" for cease-fire negotiations. With understandable caution, they mistrusted the sincerity and purpose of Red China and those pulling the strings of the puppet from behind. But UN and American leaders would not miss a chance for a just peace. Truman sounded the keynote: "We are ready to negotiate, as we have always been."

As America, and then the world, watched with abated breath, the peace campaign followed the pattern of war—aggressiveness and then reticence on both sides. Appropriately enough, thin-lipped Jacob Malik made the first overture—suggesting a cease-fire and withdrawal behind the famed 38th parallel as the "first step." After some half-silent political jockeying, negotiations began through normal diplomatic channels in Washington and Moscow. Then wires hummed between Tokyo, Peking and Pyongyang.

Anxious to save lives, Ridgway declared himself ready to talk to the Reds as early as July 5th. They, however, wanted a preliminary meeting on the 8th and a meeting of the top brass later. Ridgway concurred, and the first meeting was held in a one-room home in the "no-man's-land" of Kaesong. The UN, the three colonels, one a South Korean. The Reds dispatched a like number, but included "receptive personnel."

The first meeting, merely a preparing for the real negotiations, was tense, and held in utmost secrecy. American officers returned light-tipped to their stations, but said the meeting had been "harmonious." Tuesday the top brass began to get at the core of things. As they did, American officials pointed out to the folks at home that a cease-fire order would not be an assurance of peace, and that the approach to this one seemed fraught with trickery. The statement, intended, no doubt, to ward off optimism, was not necessary.

Generally, the American belief was that the Communists wanted to quieten the Korean scene in advance of a new outbreak somewhere else. The UN's opinion, and that of those who thought the quest for a cease-fire meant the Russians were desirous of shifting main efforts to the diplomatic fronts in view of the disastrous failures in Korea. So-called "reliable" sources also said that Stalin was willing there was a general internal struggle in Moscow to get him for his job, and so the Reds needed more time to devote to the home front. One of the most logical ideas was that Red China wanted out while it still could "save face" and say it had not seemed fraught with trickery. The statement, intended, no doubt, to ward off optimism, was not necessary.

Keener U.S. observers marked the week the beginning of peace in Korea. Yet, they were quick to point out that, if peace comes, the hypothesis is that the Reds are not so sure they could turn the situation to many other ailments. A peace in Korea might be fuel for a colder war.

Think of Brother

LESSONS for July 29, 1951

THE Christians in the city of Corinth were asked to think of their brothers. One of them never bothers anybody any more, and yet, strange as it seems, it throws a light on some of the hottest problems a Christian meets.

The Corinthian problem was best stated by Paul: "We have a problem with that too—that is, how far Formosa are we going to pay for?" That wasn't the Corinthian problem.

This was always back in Roman times. Every city had its temple where sacrifices were made to the gods. Sacrifices were of all kinds, from flowers to cattle. It was considered rather wasteful, after killing a big bull, to throw the carcass away; so after the ceremonies at the temple, the roe-gardians would be taken to the butcher's shop, and the animal would be hauled away to some butcher's shop, where it would be cut up into roast, steaks and chops.

Now some of the Christians began to worry over their meat supply. They had a steak in the market (one would ask) and suppose that steak came from a bull which had been killed as a sacrifice to one of these heathen gods? Won't that make me guilty of idolatry?

Your Conscience Must Be Clear, but—So they wrote to the best man they knew, their old evangelist and pastor, the man who had converted them to Christ and organized their church, the Apostle Paul. They asked him about this and other things; and what we call "1 Corinthians" is his answer.

You might think this beef-steak problem a funny, old-fashioned problem. It is a trivial way. He approached the problem in this way: Meat was made from an eating animal, was the bull's fault that he was part of a heathen ceremony. As for the butcher, he paid no heed to the eating animal in a perfectly respectable business transaction. Then there was the sin in calling such meat?

But wait a minute. Suppose you are dining out, and you happen to know where the meat came from, and everybody at the table knows, and somebody at the table isn't very clear-headed, and when he sees you eating the meat, he thinks you are eating such meat as you must be approving of heathen sacrifices; then what?

Or perhaps, some one else is less concerned. If an act, even a harmless one, makes them think you are eating such meat as you must be approving of heathen sacrifices; then what?

Plastics Ancient Plastics are generally considered rather new, but their use goes back well over 100 years. First there was the use of natural resins, gums, shellac, and ceiling-wax. In 1846 cellulose nitrate began to be produced. Progress has been steady in the past century with now, if it were not known as the Atomic Age, might well be called the "Plastics" Age.

Lack of fertility, poor drainage or both causes most in some lawns. Fertility deficiency is corrected by raking away the moss and fertilizing the bare spots liberally with a special lawn food. Where water gathers because of faulty drainage, this moss-causing factor can be ended by changing the grade. If surface drainage is good but seepage water saturates the subsoil it may be necessary to install tile to end the difficulty.

Cleaning Brushes The painter who neglects to clean his brushes after they've been used doesn't deserve much sympathy; but at least he deserves a tip on how to recondition his brushes the next time they have to be used. Fill up an old can with vinegar, stick the brushes in it, and put it on the stove until it boils for ten or fifteen minutes. This may cause falling bristles in inferior quality brushes; but it will soften them up considerably, and a good washing should complete the reconditioning.

A Statement From Judge R. C. Tartar

His alibi may be that at that time he was busy dodging Government agents who were on his trail as the big shot Black Market operator. His grocery store adjoined the court house and the back was in sight of my office. I am giving facts that I saw myself and not hearsay. The midnight scenes of Black Market violations by Sandusky that I saw cannot be counted on my fingers and toes. He trusted no flunky or meat cutter, but met the hot most hoodlums in person. He carried many a fly blown hog carcass through his back door wrapped in dirty sacks. Skinny cow sides and quarters, and hunks of old hulk racks his shoulder. The next day he retained the old rickety furniture to the people of Pulaski County at top prices. This was not only a violation of the war laws of our country, but disloyalty and treason to the flag. Other grocery men of Somerset obeyed the rationing law for the sake of their lives. The penalty of its violation was the Federal prison. For more than three years he pursued this unholy venture, and practically abandoned the work of the Circuit Court. When our boys were fighting and our citizens tightening their belts, Sandusky was selling Black Market meat, at the price of Armour's best. Before he assaults me, let him wash the grease, filth, and slime of the Black Market off his back. Only the intervention of his law partner, the O. P. A. attorney saved him from prison. He was ordered to get out of business and pay the penalty exacted. The O. P. A. attorneys drew the sword on the small storekeepers for selling a can of sardines for a nickel more than the O. P. A. price, but let Sandusky get away with his racket. I am worth many times the value of the character of J. S. Sandusky in cold cash, and I now repeat that every word I have stated is the truth, and I challenge him to test it in Court.

Sandusky waited nearly a year and then sued Hamilton for $30,000.00 because that the above publication was untrue and that it slandered him. Hamilton filed an answer and said that every word in the publication was true and that he relied upon its truth as a defense.

I refused to try the case and a Special Judge was sent by the Chief Justice to hear the case. Acting upon Sandusky's petition for a Change of Venue, Judge Tye sent the case to Casey Circuit Court at Liberty, Ky., for trial. It came on for trial before Judge J. C. Carter and a jury of 12 honorable men of Casey County. They heard all the evidence and decided the case unanimously in favor of the defendant, Onie P. Hamilton, in other words, a jury of twelve Casey County citizens decided that Onie P. Hamilton had told the truth about Sandusky's Black Market.

The people of Rockcastle County are entitled to know these facts and they are history and not abuse. How any man who has been condemned as a law violator by twelve good men in Casey County can consistently ask to be elected Circuit Judge I cannot understand.

I urge every Rockcastle County voter to go to the polls without fail on August 4th. I will appreciate your support.

ROCKCASTLE FACTS AND STORIES

By RALPH GRIFFIN

Telephones came to Rockcastle in the year 1898, an exchange and a few phones being installed in Mt. Vernon. Lines were gradually extended short distances to other sections of the county and the phones gradually assumed the position of importance to their possessors which the radio and television enjoy today. Due to lack of transportation and the absence of sidewalks and lights, neighbors had always been isolated to a great extent, particularly in winter. The telephone was eagerly accepted as a medium of social intercourse.

Almost every phone was on a party line so such a thing as a private conversation was unknown and seldom desired. Choice tidbits of news and gossip were relayed from house to house during most of the day and far into the night. Each individual home had its particular "ring" but every receiver clicked at the first tinkle of the bell. In the lives of the good housewives these new-fangled instruments were an excellent substitute for soap opera.

The graphophone had slightly preceded the telephone, while a very few prosperous homes possessed organs and even pianos. There were impromptu concerts broadcast over the party lines nightly from the homes which possessed such musical instruments and someone to torture them. A general ring, or a ring of any sort for that matter, supplied an eager audience. The graphophone, organ or piano was trundled to a strategic position near the transmitter and the agony was on.

After each rendition of late nineteenth century Corn the artist stepped to the telephone to receive the applause of his listening audience; very sparse encouragement was sufficient to prolong the concert until midnight. It was considered the height of discourtesy for anyone to "hang up" until the show was over; after the novelty wore off the thing many party-listeners suffered countless hours of unrolled agony. The suffering was greatest among those who possessed a taste for music. Sections which had no telephones were urgent in their pleas that the line be extended to their locality, even as of today. The Signal, then as now, became the Eagle for a few days, Ed Smith, W. R. Cross, James Maret again, E. S. Albright, R. H. Miller, Mrs. Annie Miller, Herbert Reynolds, W. T. Davis, W. L. Simpson and the present editor, Mr. A. F. Hoffmann.

Electricity on the Farm doesn't cost—IT PAYS!

Higher Production Seen for State in '51

By THOMAS P. COOPER
Dept. of Agriculture
University of Kentucky

A thriving agriculture is basic to a thriving state. This is particularly applicable to states such as Kentucky in which a large percentage of the population is engaged in agriculture and the handling of agricultural products.

Approximately two-fifths of Kentucky's population live on farms, and 75 per cent of its population either lives from farms or is dependent on business from farm people.

Farm people are progressive and large numbers of them have put into practice the results of the research of the Agricultural Experiment Station. Through the adoption of the practices recommended, farmers have obtained increased crop yields, higher livestock production, and protection of the soil.

Faster Farm Mortgages

Farm families generally are in stronger financial position than in earlier years. In the past year, only one farm in four was mortgaged, and personal and chattel mortgages have declined.

The trend in volume of Kentucky farm production is up. A 50 per cent increase occurred between 1928 and 1948, and there is no reason to believe that the peak of production has yet been reached. Barring abnormal weather, Kentucky farmers may produce a greater amount of products in 1951 than ever before.

There are several reasons why. Tobacco acreage allotments have been increased about 10 per cent. Cattle numbers, including milk cows, are seven per cent higher, which means higher production of beef and milk. Horses and mules decreased 22,000 during 1950, making probable an increase in other livestock on many farms.

Products Demand To Increase

It seems reasonable that the increases in population, higher employment, and stockpiling of some farm products for defense will greatly increase the demand for farm products.

Farm people would do well to adapt, so far as possible, the practices recommended by the Experiment Station so that they may be in a position to take advantage of opportunities for increased production.

Infra-Red Foster Mothers

Mrs. Carolyn Harry Gibson, left, and W. H. Dearen of Carroll Division Farm Service Advisor, look over some of the 8,000 chicks now being brooded under heat lamps. Dearen helped plan and layout lamp set-up.

Broods 8,000 Chicks Under Heat Lamps

"Brooding chickens under heat lamps is by far the most successful and effective method I've used." So says Harry Gibson, Mercer County poultry farmer, who has been raising chickens in Ohio and Kentucky, for more than 10 years.

Since 1940, Gibson has raised almost one million chickens and, in doing so, has used almost every brooding method and combinations of brooding methods known.

Mary Gibson, Gibson, who recently moved to Kentucky, started his first chicks this year on February 5, using the infra-red lamp or heat lamp method. Of this brood, numbering 5,446 chicks, he lost only 145. "This is a 3 1/2 per cent loss, which he says is good. "I am well satisfied when my losses can be kept under 5 per cent," he said. He considers this small loss percentage outstanding considering the fact that the chicks were started in weather 14 degrees below zero. Waters were frozen. In general, chicks were raised under bad weather conditions.

Brooding Cost: 3¢ a Chick

When asked about electric costs, Gibson replied, "My cost in using the heat lamp method was about 2¢ per chick on this particular brood. Even that's a little high, but the reason can be found in the extremely cold weather we had last winter." Gibson also thought his electricity costs were offset by time and labor saved in using the heat lamp brooder. He brought out the fact that thermostats which require constant attention are not necessary with his heat lamp brooder.

Gibson pays no attention to room-air temperature. He lets the chicks decide on their own heat requirements. "The heat lamp method allows the chicks to get away from the heat if they want. It also keeps the chicks in full view at all times. An atmosphere that is too hot is a lot more serious in brooding chicks than an atmosphere that is too cold," he said.

In his chicken house he has six 250 watt infra-red lamps over each 500-chick pen. The chicks are partitioned in the pens for two weeks, after which they are allowed to run together. He sells them when they are ten to eleven weeks old. They never touch ground.

Second Brood Started May 6

To safeguard against coccidiosis, Gibson spreads a heavy layer of plain dehydrated lime in the pens until a distinct lime odor is attained. From past experience he has found this to be successful. In his last brood of 5,140 chicks, he had no losses from New Hampshire Red, one of two strains of this brood successfully developed for fryers.

FACTORY

Today half the 5,373,000 electrified farms in the U. S. are served by utility companies, and half by RECCs. These farms constitute 90% of the U. S. total. In 1950, co-ops purchased 57% of their electricity from the companies, generated 7% in their own plants, purchased the remainder from the government or municipal plants.

The average co-op buying from its own super-cooperative paid 50% more for electricity in 1950 than those buying from utility companies. The super-cooperatives sold theirs for an average of 1 1/2 cents a kilowatt hour while the companies, including KU, sold theirs for an average of less than 1 cent.
