Delayed Report
200 People Attend Field Day
 The Field Day last Wednesday was a great success. 235 Farmers, businessmen and women witnessed one of the best Field Days the county has ever had. It was carried out on three farms:

- (1) At Mason Poynter's farm an outstanding dairy herd was exhibited and records discussed by Mr. Poynter. There was a number of cows with 5 to 7 gallons a day record in this herd. A modern dairy barn was also inspected.
- (2) At Murphy Whitehead's farm a tobacco discussion was held out in the field where diseases and insects were found and discussed by Mr. Russell Hunt, Tobacco Specialist from the College of Agriculture. He continued his tobacco discussion after lunch under one of the famous maple trees which furnished shade big enough to serve dinner to the entire crowd and still some shade left over unoccupied.

The Quail Homemakers Club served an excellent lunch of sandwiches, lemonade, coffee and pie. After dinner there was a talk made by Mr. Hunt, Mr. Leonard and Mr. Reynolds—all added information and inspiration to the crowd.

(3) The afternoon was spent on John Houston's farm. It was an inspiration to all to see the acres and acres covered with grass, legumes, corn and wheat. Wheat made 50 bushels per acre this year. Mr. Houston has already harvested over 5000 bushels of high quality hay and he is now ready for harvest. Five stops were made on this farm and at each stop Mr. Houston explained what had been done and the results in the last 3 years. The 4th stop, was to observe a herd of beef cattle grazing on land where only one cow can graze more than one steer. The 5th stop and last one was made to enjoy a water melon treat which John Houston had arranged. The crowd left Mr. Houston's farm about 4:00 p. m. filled with information and inspiration as well as with ice cold water melon.

This Is Time To Vaccinate
 The time to vaccinate for Newcastle disease and fowl pox is while the birds are still on range. Immunizing birds marked for the laying flock at which these two diseases are cheap insurance against interruptions of egg production when egg prices are high or when most farms need the eggs. For general purposes, the most practical procedure for the laying flock will be wing-wet virus vaccination when the pullets are from 10 to 16 weeks of age, or 30 to 50 days before they come into production.

It is now becoming a common practice to vaccinate for Newcastle disease and fowl pox at the same time. The best procedure is to apply the vaccine in one wing-wet and the Newcastle disease vaccine in the opposite wing-wet.

Comb or Pullet Disease
 This is the time of year to be on the look-out for Blue Comb disease in the pullets approaching maturity. This condition usually begins, with the wilting of the comb accompanied with a bluish red color of the head and legs. A watery diarrhea and slightly impacted crop often accompanies the blue comb. In laying birds, there is usually a 10 to 60 per cent. For a positive diagnosis, birds should be sent to a laboratory.

The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station recommends the following treatment:

- (1) Add 1 tablespoonful of potassium permanganate per gallon of drinking water for 4 or 5 days.
- (2) Follow this treatment by using 1 percent of this same drug in the mash for 2 weeks. Other treatments which seem to give good results are the use of givco products as potassium dichromate or marinate potassium chloride in the above treatment. A cup of black strap molasses per gallon of water used as above is also recommended. The latest treatment is the use of aureomycin in the feed.

Fair Calf Show
 October 10 is the 4-H Fair Bud Clark Show and Sale at Lonefork. All club members planning to show and sell calves should be fitting their calves. Calves must be broke to lead with halter. Boys and girls should be present to help and get them well trained by the time of the Fair at Mt. Vernon and then for the London show and sale. Acting on fat if you expect to sell.

DOMESTIC PROBLEMS

Human Relations Center Set Up at University of Pennsylvania

A human relations center, the first of its kind ever organized in this country to provide a complete service to communities faced with racial and religious conflicts, has been established at the University of Pennsylvania.

It was a new development in meeting "the outstanding problem in democratic life" is known as the Albert M. Greenfield Center for Human Relations. It was announced by Harold E. Stassen, president of the university and Dr. Everett R. Clincy, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

It will start its work in September. The program was made possible through the combined financing of the Philadelphia area office of the National Conference, the University of Pennsylvania, and Albert M. Greenfield, a Philadelphia realtor and civic leader.

The governing body of the center is an executive committee consisting of two representatives each from the university, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and the community. Dr. Martin W. Chocrowicz, of Columbia University, has been named director.

"The urgent need to improve the quality of human relations in our country has been stressed as the outstanding problem in our democratic life," declared the members of the executive committee in a statement outlining objectives of the university dedicated to the advancement of knowledge and to the education of people to render more effective service to citizens and as members of their respective professions has a special responsibility to serve the community in solving human relations problems.

"Because of an increasingly widespread recognition of the unifying need and of the role which institutions of higher learning can assume," the statement added, "the resources of the university and the community are being brought together in a center for human relations where many of the problems in our society, both racial and religious, can be attacked."

THE WORK OF THE new center can be compared to our modern health centers, Dr. Clincy said. "They will provide communities with a complete service to meet their needs and to solve their problems and conflicts in the same way that a modern medical center does."

He explained that the center would conduct research activities; train students in intergroup problems; serve the community in meeting situations growing out of group conflict, and test existing methods for meeting these problems.

"While the centers would be equipped to study the causes and treatment of chronic social disease like prejudice, discrimination, and racism," Dr. Clincy said, "basically they would be concerned with the general concern for correcting and eliminating conditions that lead to hostilities in social relations."

Members of the executive committee representing the National Conference are Mr. Greenfield and Dr. Clincy, and as a representative to the Board of Superintendents of the Public Education of Philadelphia.

There Is Hope '52 Election Will Oust Wastrels

By Wright A. Patterson

DESPITE all the needs for economy, my countrymen, I am sure, are not so much concerned with the President's admonitions that he insists are necessary on the part of every American.

In government the waste goes merrily on, with Gen. George Marshall's department of defense leading the way. In the private sector, recently the army wanted several million pounds of margarine for the troops in Korea. The purchasing agent of the army purchased the several million pounds at a price of 25 cents a pound. Within a few minutes the price had risen to 50 cents a pound. That butter had been purchased by the department to keep the price of butter up to the American consumer.

Had it been provided for our armed forces, the result on the home market would have been the same as selling it to Italy. Such transactions represent unnecessary waste.

Hundreds of such items have been dug out of the records by members of congress, and are aimed on the floor. It is the airing of such items that causes the careful scrutiny of appropriate bills.

Each one of the hundreds of items of about waste that are being seen are but a drop in the inflationary rainstorm, but the total of them constitutes a flood.

It takes desire for economies on the part of executive heads from the President down. Those who do not have such a desire, those who are responsible for the waste to be found in the executive departments of government, should be severely disciplined.

The coming national election might contain hopes for improvement, hopes for a radical reduction in the army of inefficient bureaucrats, but the Republicans are making no promises. They are not interested in a reduction in the bureaucratic army, only in effecting a change in the personnel that will save army of more than 2,300,000.

BRIGHT IDEA

By Richard H. Wilkinson

MR. and Mrs. Roscoe Hardy found themselves in a sad predicament. For years they had solved the problem of summer vacations by visiting friends and relatives.

They had made a career of it. They were professional guests. But now they were no longer welcome.

Now then, thought Roscoe, what about taking Uncle Ralph to the good graces of the family circle?

They were rather grudging about handing out compliments to her husband. But she had to admit that this was a very clever serving of a lot of credit.

"Humph!" Mrs. Roscoe smiled the letter with a look of triumph.

"I was a long drive to Philadelphia, and Roscoe had been there for three days, and he got them there. But the future now loomed bright. There would be a pleasant month of relaxation, free from any worry about the world.

They now represented Democratic votes, when the personnel changed they will represent Republican votes, but be equally as inefficient.

Gen. Ridgway will not be dissatisfied for not following President's directives, though doing so brings dishonor and defeat to America.

The first automobile club was started in Chicago in 1893.

Our fear of war with Russia is home grown.

WE NEED LOYAL AMERICANS

It is a favorite pastime of most Americans to discuss what the country needs. Just now, however, in a period as critical as any that the Republic has faced, we might point out that the nation needs most the loyal support of patriotic men and women and the confidence of those who believe in the democratic way of life.

There is no substitute for loyalty. Flag-waving, public demonstrations and community-wide expressions of solidarity do not replace the faithful individual, upon whose successful government depends. As a citizen, it is essential for you to make your contribution to the United States of America.

We do not know, and we would hesitate to suggest, what any man, woman or child do in the present emergency. We do not have the intelligence to outline a program for all to follow. We would modestly recommend, however, that loyal Americans consider their present conditions and the plight of their country and then make some positive contribution to the common good.

Do not mislead yourself. You cannot make a positive contribution to the cause of civilization in the face of great danger without some personal sacrifice. If you have any plan in mind which enables you to escape the pressure of world conditions, you can put it aside because it will not work. You cannot contribute at a profit.

WE CANNOT GAMBLE WITH STALIN

When one considers the peril of the United States, in connection with what might happen in Europe, it is easy to outline a program of events that will leave the United States in any kind of position that the imagination prefers.

These schedules are interesting but nobody knows, of course, what will happen. Consequently, intelligent leadership in this country is compelled to prepare for the worst while hoping for the best.

The defense of the United States must be based upon the assumption that Stalin will attempt to extend his sway throughout Europe and become more formidable rather than less dangerous to the peaceful development of the world.

It would be utterly foolish to gamble the welfare of this great country upon the uncertainty that we might be able to get along with the Communists. We must, if we are to wisely defend ourselves, assume that we shall have to do so not only for ourselves but for the Western nations of Europe.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

By Clay A. Colson

Robert Barker says, "I made my own soil. I made one kind of sericea than I ever made of the same field in one year since I have owned it." Mr. Barker was interested in sowing alfalfa on the field but his soil capability map made by the Soil Conservation Service showed a hard-pan soil so he was advised to soil sericea. He deza which he did. He seeded 30 pounds per acre in the spring of 1950 after he had spread rock-phosphate (500 lbs.) and 200 pounds of 2-12-6 fertilizer per acre on this fall or next spring. The sericea will furnish two or three cuttings per year but Mr. Barker says he doesn't need the hay so he plans on letting it fall back on the land.

Drainage Roy Barwell who lives on the Chestnut Grove Road has just finished constructing a drainage ditch using "ditching dynamite."

Mr. Henry Halcomb, who was helping pitch the holes for the dynamite said, "I have been shooting dynamite all my life but I never saw anything to equal this ditching dynamite. About 600 feet of ditch 4 1/2 feet deep and 5 feet wide at the top was blown in about a half-day. Several of Roy's neighbors heard the blasts and came over to see the ditch." Mr. Ed McWhorter expressed the opinion of them all when he said, "You certainly can get a good big ditch in a hurry using that dynamite."

Dynamite can be used in soft ground where a bulldozer can't work. One case of dynamite will blow 115 to 120 feet of dirt. Rudolph Burdette, Mr. Barwell's "G. I." instructor, helped to supervise the blasting of the ditch. Several members of the Veteran Farm Training Classes have used dynamite to construct ditches and change creeks and have had good success using it.

ROCKCASTLE FACTS and STORIES

By RALPH GRIFFIN

Your correspondent had calls from two fans today; a most unusual number. Frank Beatty, of Somerset, stopped in to say howdy. He began by asking if I remembered telling a fellow's shirt off his back, forty-two years ago, then went on to introduce himself as the owner and wearer of the shirt at the time of the assault. I did remember Frank, after he told me who he was, although I could not recall that particular shirt. Just to avoid any possibility of renewing the conflict after all that time, I gave Frank the shirt I was wearing. We shook hands all around and had a very pleasant visit together. His call was inspired, he said, because he was a reader of Facts & Stories.

The other caller was drinking, or at least he said he was. He said that it had just occurred to him that he liked this column very much, so he came in to tell me. I asked him how he felt about it when he was sober. He replied that he couldn't remember for sure but that he honestly didn't think that he liked it much then. I very much appreciated his call and his honesty; we parted the best of friends.

Following this brief introduction and recognition of old friends, let us return to the history of The Mt. Vernon Signal. Last week we admitted that the most of what we know comes from old Signal files, which should answer Joe Henderson's questions about where we have been getting it. At the time the following notes were taken, we found it amusing the way many medicines extolled the virtues of their concoctions, fifty years ago. For example, we find: "A Horrible Outbreak," "Night Was Her Terror," "Strikes Rich Find," "Stood Death Off," "A Shocking Calamity," "Saved From Awful Death," "A Murderer Killed," and many others. These glaring headlines attracted the reader's immediate attention, of course, and he then proceeded to read a very tame story or testimonial concerning an infallible drug.

Just as we were about to drag forth these relics of past days and poke fun at them, south doesn't break out the same tactics again and sell a million dollars of swamp water and vitamins to moderns at fancy prices! We are taking the stuff ourselves and it's helping us!

Many and lurid are the stories of Rockcastle which are to be found in the records of the middle years of her history. There is no better way of presenting a picture of the times than thru a repetition of some of these news stories, as presented from different slants. In 1897 an item is telegraphed from Harrodsburg to the Louisville Post, stating that deputy collectors J. C. Wilson, of Louisville and Tom Austin, of Garrard County, had just made a raid into the Great Salt Petre Cave, in the Crooked Creek section of Rockcastle. There they found "Two stills which were 100 gallon capacity each, and a mile underground and several hundred feet below the surface, two or three boxes of human bones were discovered. Half a dozen Winchester rifles were picked up at the stills, which were singing merrily the full of intoxication, as the steam and smoke lazily rolled up."

This story mightily arouses the ire of Editors Maret and the Blue Grass correspondents, for such "cock and bull stories" concerning the mountains. He admits that the mountains have plenty of law-breakers and bad men, but advises the Blue Grass sections to look after their own "toll gate raiders" and "give us a rest."

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS OF Main Street and the World Quick Agreement in Korea Unlikely; Control Fight Confused Main Street

A LONG WAY from PEACE... The UN pointed out, and rightly so, that the question was purely political and could not be discussed at the preliminary talks. Most observers are inclined to believe the Reds will withdraw their demand that the issue be put on the agenda. If they don't withdraw, it is almost a certainty that troop talks will collapse.

Even if the troop-withdrawal issue is solved, however, home towners should realize it will not necessarily mean a cease-fire in Korea. It will be merely an agreement on what subjects to discuss in seeking a cease-fire. The issue of withdrawing all foreign troops from Korea will come up again in the main talks. As a result, the UN pointed out, and rightly so, that the home towners can draw; the world is a long way from peace.

SHADOWS OF 1952... In an address described as the jump-off for his bid for the 1952 GOP presidential nomination, Taft described the Korean conflict as a "useless and expensive war brought about by the Truman administration."

Despite the fact he approved intervention in Korea, Taft charged that the United States is involved in a "useless and expensive war."

CONTROL FIGHT CONFUSING... To most home towners the battle over the price control bill, which should by this time be the law of the land, has been a fight of confusion.

TRAINING PROGRAM OVER... Thousands of World War II veterans in the small towns and big towns of the nation received educational benefits under the GI bill that expired in 1950.

SPECIAL FLOOD APPEAL... For the first time since 1938, the American Red Cross launches a general disaster fund appeal in an effort to raise $5,000,000 to help 45,800 families affected by the midwest floods.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS... BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN... Christian's Spending... Lesson for August 12, 1951

ONCE upon a time, so they say, a Schotchman opened his pocketbook in December, and a June-bug flew out. That story belongs to the class of stories that sound funny because they are impossible, like the Paul Bunyan stories.

Is Your Money Yours? "It's my money and I can do what I like with it," says the average man's attitude toward his money. But it's not the Christian attitude.

Coal Was Created Before Human Advent... What is coal? How was it made? Well, it all started many millions of years ago, in what is called the Carboniferous Period.

Profits or Profit? THE earliest Christians of Jerusalem pooled all their resources and dealt them out to all, in proportion to their individual needs.

Well, even the law, slanted though it may seem toward the protection of wealth, puts limits on the ways a man can handle his money.

To take another angle: down in Atlanta (Georgia) a highly successful industrialist, when he died, left the stock in his company to his employees.

The Money-God NO temples on our main streets are labeled "To the God Mammon." But money is often a god, all the same.

But let us watch ourselves. Do we smalltimers criticize the paunchy big-bos because we really hate all the money that hangs from their greed, or is it because we are envious?

But let us watch ourselves. Do we smalltimers criticize the paunchy big-bos because we really hate all the money that hangs from their greed, or is it because we are envious?

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE... BY ROGER C. WHITMAN... Question: I just finished the staggering task of removing some casing paint from a bathroom ceiling...

Answer: You did all right, for you succeeded in doing what you started out to do. But the water softening solution should all be thoroughly washed off, for if you let it stay on the ceiling, it will continue to work on your new paint and spoil the job.
