Save Twice As Much

A Second Locker Can Mean Double Economy

More and more families are finding that a second locker brings them even greater convenience and savings. They buy beef by the side instead of a quarter... they store enough poultry when prices are low to last for months... they freeze enough fruits and vegetables for all winter.

Women like the extra space for storing baked goods, cooked specialty dishes, ice cream and other good things that make locker living even more enjoyable.

It makes sense to rent a second or even a third locker... it will result in more cents in your pocketbook and better eating for your family.

High Wheat Yields, Thick Legume Stands Come From Fall Fertilization, Spring Top Dressing

CUTTING high wheat yields per acre solves giving the crop a full feed of plant nutrients. Points out the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. This means adding fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash as needed at seeding time this fall and then top-dressing next spring. Then the wheat will have all the nutrients it needs and there will be plenty of plant food for the legume-grass crop seeded in the wheat. The available phosphate and potash will build strong root systems and help the wheat plants harden off in the fall to resist damage from severe winter weather. The extra nitrogen in the spring will enable your fields to support more stems for every kernel of wheat planted. You will get more heads per plant and per acre. You will get bigger and longer heads, too, for there will be enough plant food to fill out the kernels. That means more bushels per acre and better quality wheat. Including phosphate and potash with the nitrogen in the spring top-dressing, says the committee, is especially helpful in wheat seeded to legume-grass mixtures. The nutrients will give the legumes a good start in the spring and offset some of the competition from the wheat. Fertilizing wheat with the plant & it needs is profitable not only

Fertilized wheat (left) has bigger and longer head, will produce more plump, well-filled ears than unfertilized wheat (right). from the standpoint of higher grain and legume-grass yields, but from the soil-building benefits your land receives. Alfalfa and sweet clover in the seeding replenish rundown stocks of organic matter. They put mineralized humus deep down in the subsoil, unlock heavily packed soils and improve drainage and aeration.

Clothing Training Meeting The district meeting on Clothing Guideposts and Consumer Education for homemakers will be held on Friday, August 31, in London, Ky. Head Lice in Children School Health Problem

The presence of head lice in children is a school health problem. This is especially true in schools which are overcrowded, since overcrowding makes it easy for lice to pass from person to person. Lice may spread from hats, brushes and combs. Therefore, parents should teach their children the importance of having and using their own personal belongings.

If lice are discovered on a school child, the child should be sent home and should not be re-admitted until his physician certifies that he has been disinfected. Also, his clothes should be examined immediately to make sure that they have not acquired the parasites.

The first rule for prevention is cleanliness. Hair should be washed regularly and often and clothing should be kept clean. A daily bath is desirable but, if this is not possible, there should be a thorough weekly scrubbing. There are various methods of disinfection, but none should which they can keep free from be undertaken without the advice of a physician. It is actually easier to disinfect a person than it is to keep him free from lice, since the same conditions which were to blame for the first attack may cause a recurrence. Community action is needed to educate people about the dangers of lice, the means of destroying them and ways in which they can be prevented from them.

Should an outbreak of head lice occur in the community, parents and teachers should consult the Rockcastle County Health Department for more complete information. Two leaflets "The Destruction of Head Lice and Nits" and "The Prevention and Control of Communicable Diseases," are available free of charge.

Removing Straw from Harvested Wheat Fields Boosts Hay Production from Legume Seedings

TAKE off all the straw from your wheat fields after the crop is combined if you want to help new legume seedlings live through the winter and boost hay yields next year, advise Ohio State University agronomists. These specialists also recommend pasturing or mowing legume growth for hay, as a means of preventing excess dead material in next year's hay cutting. When you combine wheat or other small grains, half or more of the straw is left in the field. Unless it is promptly clipped and hauled off, it will prevent alfalfa, red clover, Ladino and pasture grasses from getting sufficient sunshine and air. Even more serious, the dampness under the straw will encourage the development of fungus and molds that will destroy the legume growth. In some years, legume stands have been completely killed over the winter by failure to take off the straw and stubble, according to Ohio tests. In other fields, red clover yields were almost doubled by removing straw. The agronomists recommend that new legume seedings should not be cut or pastured after September 10. The legumes need the fall months to store up the plant food in their roots needed for life during the winter and rapid growth the following spring.

Only One Out of Four Actually Want to Retire When He Is Old

In the face of social security requirements and expanding business programs for retirement at 65, only one American breadwinner out of four actually has the idea of retiring to a life of complete leisure when he grows old...

Results of the survey would indicate, the report says, that a modest supplementary retirement income would fulfill the desire of most Americans...

Approximately half of those in the survey who want partial retirement would use such a plan to increase leisure for community service such as general charity work or Scout work...

Among the part-time money-making activities planned for retirement, the most popular objective; operating some form of small business such as a home-based business...

Among the survey group who do not care for a life of leisure is a 38-year-old architectural engineer, who answered in his response, "To many who retire are dead 12 months later..."

ROCKCASTLE FACTS and STORIES

By RALPH GRIFFIN

To understand the sinister reputation which Rockcastle county has acquired and maintained some fifty years ago, we have only to quote from early Signal issues. The issue which printed the satire on our Kentucky Legislature proceedings carried the following items:

"The murder of young Millard Hughes, near the Laurel County line, was the gravest crime ever committed in the county. Lynchings may result. The persons under arrest charged with the crime are Ed Smallwood, his son, Leonard, two daughters, Lizzie and Ida, Mary Cassady and Hamp Gragg. All refuse to talk. The evidence at the coroner's inquest showed that Lizzie Smallwood used a double-barrel shot-gun in the killing. She also tried to shoot Deputy Collier when the arrest was made and gave the officers a sharp tussle when putting handcuffs on her. The prisoners were brought here under a strong guard to prevent lynching. There is the clue as to who fatally night."

"With a deadly monotony such as the following sprinkle the Signal pages during the latter days of the past century:

"At Shouder Blade, near Jackson, on last Sunday afternoon, Jim Spencer was killed by John Howard and Arch Holton was almost shot to death. Seventy-five shots were fired. All were desperate characters."

"Eight violent deaths in as many days have occurred in Clay county this month on account of a feud between the Howards and Bakers. Many more killings are predicted. A dispute arose over some logs a few weeks ago and this started the trouble. Among the slain was a woman and two children."

"News comes from Clay county that Deputy Sheriff Thacker was shot and killed and the mule on which Bob Smith, who accompanied Thacker, was riding along the road was slain. (Wonder how that sentence got by the re-write desk. Ed.) When the mule fell dead Smith lay motionless on the ground for a couple of hours by the side of Thacker, feigning death. At the time Thacker was killed he was on his way to where one of the Griffins lived, to make an arrest. Thacker had testified in court for the Philpots against the killing on July 7th.

"The Philpot faction are up in arms and have sworn revenge against the Griffins. Thacker is the man who was talking with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Philpot's bond when the battle took place between the Philpots and Griffins on July 17th. He was killed near the scene of the Philpot and Griffin battle and within one hundred yards of where Dave Chubbwell, the Griffin faction leader, was shot from ambush two weeks ago. The Philpots swear extermination of the Griffins."

(Note: Thank goodness, they left enough of them for seed!)

"The Interior Journal under date of July 5th says that the mob at Crab Orchard was headed by a man from Rockcastle. We desire to state the facts in the case and show that notwithstanding the fact that the boy murdered on that unfortunate occasion was a Rockcastle county boy, that Rockcastle was the organizing or leading the mob referred to. The mob had been raging for two or three weeks before the men referred to from Rockcastle county arrived. (Note: Ye editor speaks as one having authority.)

"The case of Abraham Sams for the killing of Felix King, of Livingston, was tried last week before Judge Williams (Note: We hadn't realized that Carl had been Judge that long. How time does fly!)

"Judge Williams rendered the following decision: The strong, brawny and vigorous and robust defendant of 18 is charged with murder in the killing of an aged, infirm and decrepit old man of 78. The deceased in his dying statement stated that only a word or two was spoken when the defendant pulled his pistol and shot him twice, the powder burning his face, then leaped upon an embankment and shot him behind the ear."

"Monday morning, near Withers, in a tunnel, Geo. Durbin shot and dangerously wounded John Redmond. It appears that they had a falling out the day before. Durbin followed Redmond to the tunnel where he found him engaged with others shooting craps. Durbin said, 'I have come to shoot you,' and fired. The ball entered the lower part of Redmond's breast. Durbin was brought here and jailed."

Electricity on the farm doesn't cost—it PAYS!

Today's Farmer Is A Business Man

By WILLIAM H. DEAREN
Central Division Farm Service Adviser

The businessman need not be a farmer, but the modern farmer has to be a practical, thoughtful businessman to make a success of farming. Farming must be planned and programmed as a business, with good farm management directing farm operations.

There are four basic resources that make up any business enterprise, and farming is no exception. These are land, labor, capital, and management.

The way you use the first three is management. The best earnings are almost invariably made by farmers who master all of the major management problems, and who have the best balanced farming program.

Good farm management includes:

1. A sound land-use and soil conservation program, including rotation, soil building, and erosion control programs.
 2. High crop yields through soil improvement programs, careful seed selection, seed bed preparation, cultivation, and harvesting.
 3. Livestock best suited to the particular farm, family, and market, healthy animals of good quality, properly fed and handled.
 4. A careful plan for the use of available labor.
 5. A plan for the purchase and use of machinery and equipment. On small farms there will be a plan for the co-operative ownership and use of heavy, seasonal equipment.
 6. Plans for the construction and repair of buildings and fences, and the remodeling of outmoded buildings for new use.
 7. Planning programs that will produce mature, quality products at the season these products bring the best prices.
 8. A program for developing the farm into a business sufficiently large to provide a satisfactory living for the family.
 9. A program for the sound use of credit.
 10. Cooperation with neighbors.
- A farm operated on these principles will be a productive, profitable operation.

One Hour's Grinding—One Week's Feed; Operating Cost about $1.00 A Month

Mr. Routt explains to Bill Johnson, left, KU Farm Service Adviser, how his hammer mill saves time and money in feed handling and grinding.

If you're 29, and planning to retire at 65, you'll work at least eight of those 36 years for the government, according to the Commerce Clearing House.

The Clearing House estimates that Mr. Average American will pay in taxes $3.70 a day, $18.50 a week, or $965 a year, with a good chance that hidden taxes will increase these amounts. It averages out at $2 per cent of his annual income for the 36 years.

These figures don't include such items of hidden federal taxes as the 10 per cent on a baseball glove for junior, or 20 per cent on a light bulb, or 10 per cent on phonograph records, etc.

These continuing increases in taxes are why more and more taxpayers are demanding that their congressmen put a stop to non-essential spending.

In one hour, Richard Routt, Woodford county farmer, can grind enough ear corn, hay, or grain to feed his seven cows for an entire week. It's no wonder then that he considers his electric hammer mill one of the most important pieces of electrical equipment on his 60-acre farm.

Routt prefers to operate his hammer mill with the tractor he once employed because it's more convenient, saves him valuable time, and operates for less. He estimates his operating cost at less than a dollar a month.

Depending on the grain and how he wants it ground, his hammer mill will turn out from 200 to 1,000 pounds of feed an hour. The amount of moisture and the fineness desired largely determine the output of the mill.

Routt believes, too, that he has whipped the mill-choking problem some farmers have when grinding ear-corn. He feeds the mill slowly and gives the corn sufficient time to grind. He is never troubled with choking.

Many farmers, too, are finding that overhead storage bins are profitable. Overhead bins permit gravity feeding at the mill, making it possible for one man to handle the entire operation. If the ground feed is returned to overhead bins, additional time and labor are saved in moving the feed to where it's eaten.

And even when the mill is operating the farmer can be free to do other work if he connects an automatic control in the power line. The control is simple to install, and requires little attention.

Hammer mills, complete with motor and other accessories generally cost from about $400 up. Routt believes his mill is one investment he gets plenty of return on.

If you can't find the freezer packaging materials you need—and shortages are developing—KU Home Service Advisers suggest you save all the vacuum type cans that come into the home, cans that once held coffee or nuts and the like. To use for storing frozen foods, sterilize them, fill, leaving the customary head space, replace the lid, and seal with freezer tape.

FOLKS HAVE TO FEEL WELL TO DO A GOOD DAY'S WORK

HADACOL Helps Folks Troubled With Poor Appetite, Tired-Out Feeling and Sleeplessness Caused by an Upset Stomach, If Due to Lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in System

Too many folks put off doing something for themselves when they don't feel as good as they should. But when they don't feel up to doing their work the situation demands immediate action. Bert Baldwin, Jr., 1898 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, works in a rope factory and for a time he had been feeling tired, didn't sleep well at night and had no appetite. He heard how HADACOL could help folks with conditions like these when due to lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in the system and began taking it. Now he says he feels like working every day. Here is his statement:

"I have tried HADACOL, and it helped me in many ways. Before I took HADACOL I was tired and I did not feel like working and I could not sleep well at night. I did not have a good appetite. After taking the first two bottles I began to eat a good meal three times a day. I am no longer tired and I sleep well all night long. I am 23 years old. I have told my friends what HADACOL has done for me. I feel like working every day since I am taking HADACOL."

Yes, HADACOL has helped many folks of all ages, from all walks of life to feel good again when their ailments were due to deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. That's why HADACOL is America's favorite family formula.

HADACOL makes it possible to continually relieve the real causes of poor appetite, sleeplessness due to an upset stomach, and that tired feeling when due to lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin in the system.

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Bradley Gets Riled

GEN. OMAR BRADLEY, who usually gets riled easily, was pretty sore when he heard how one of his own army spokesmen had blurted out to a press conference the name of an airborne division which had been transferred from Korea to Japan.

The incident took place in a press conference at which the army was explaining how Chinese Communists had built up their strength in North Korea while we had weakened ours.

What happened was that General Ridgway had called Washington for permission to transfer the airborne division in question to the Far East. Ridgway wanted to be on guard against a surprise airborne attack on Japan.

Washington accordingly gave permission to transfer the American airborne division back to Japan. Such a troop movement is highly secret. And the Pentagon briefing officer, anxious to prove that the Chinese have used the force talks to build up their strength, blurted out the movement of this particular division to a roomful of newsmen to which foreign correspondents are admitted.

When General Bradley heard of this, he tried to call army chief of staff Gen. Joe Collins and try to reach him. So he called the assistant chief of staff Maj. Gen. C. L. Bolte and ordered a full investigation of who pulled the boner.

Eisenhower Says No

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has quietly passed the word to his GOP boosters that he is not interested in the Republican nomination—if isolationists control the party.

In addition, he let it be known that he is upset by the timid and hesitant policy of internationally-minded Republicans and the way they're bitter attacks on him go unheeded.

One close friend who returned from Paris recently put it this way: "If the Republicans want to merely to ball out the party and win an election, they're badly mistaken. That would be like putting a million dollar jockey on a two dollar horse."

"The general is not the least bit interested in running for President just to accommodate a candidate for sheriff. Those who say they want to see a duty are going to have to do a lot more than say, 'he's a fine fellow and will win the election for us.' They'll have to work and fight to make the Republic can party the kind of place where the general would feel at home."

Eisenhower's close friends agree that this issue will largely decide whether he consents to run—and on which party. They claim Eisenhower is disturbed by four factors:

1. The prospect that as the GOP nominee he might help elect an isolationist Republican congress.
2. The lack of a hard-hitting, effective international-minded GOP bloc in congress, as existed when Gen. Arthur Vandenberg was active. The last attempt to organize the internationalists among senate Republicans was in January, 1949, when Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., called a meeting. This rump group met only once.

Taft Tightens Grip

The way the Taft-isolationist wing has grabbed control of the GOP party machinery, As Hermann, the national committee's executive director, boasted to senate secretaries the other night: "We're building a sound organization precinct by precinct, so we won't have to ride to victory on the coattails of a strong and popular figure." The Taft crowd are in charge of the Chicago convention machinery and determined to prevent an Eisenhower gallery demonstration.

A Taft-only attacks on the general from both the Chicago Tribune and the Gerald L. K. Smith brand of hate mongers. The mails are being flooded with vile diatribes against the general, while his GOP friends sit on the sidelines.

Washington Pipeline

The senate investigating committee is checking on officials who drive around in government automobiles with no identification painted on the sides. This is against the law. Senators suspect that some officials are using government automobiles for their own personal driving.

The house armed services committee plans to follow up the senate report on military housing with another sharp blast in the very near future.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

By Dr. Kenneth J. Foreman

Are You a Citizen?

Lesson for August 26, 1951

SCRIPTURE: Matthew 22:15-22
LITURGICAL: Luke 12:13-21
VOTATIONAL READING: Amos 5:14-24

LET'S come down home. The official title of this week's lesson is the Christian's Responsibility in Public Life. That is a big thing; a wide circle; but the center of the circle is you, my friend. Let me surround you in the community in which you live.

What kind of town is it? How big, but how good, is it? Does it have a town hall to be a town at all. It may be a section of open country, of farms, ranches or woodland. But it is some kind of community.

In New York state the Citizen's Council prepared the following set of questions which can be used to help you rate your community. After each set of these questions, after you enter 10 for good, 5 for fair, or 0 for poor.

Rate Your Town

1. Education: Does your community make modern education available to every child, youth and adult? Are its schools uncrowded, properly equipped, and in good physical condition? Are the teachers highly qualified and well paid?

2. Housing and Planning: Is every family decently housed? Is there continual planning for improvement of highways and other community necessities? Are parking, transportation problems under control?

3. Religion: Is full opportunity for religious expression offered to every individual in your community? Are your churches strong and well supported?

4. Equality of Opportunity: Do people of different races, religions, nationalities, and social classes have equal opportunity in employment and taking part in community life? Are dangerous tensions kept at a minimum by avoidance of discrimination and injustices?

5. Economic Development: Are good jobs available? Do labor, industry, agriculture and government work together to insure the sound economic growth of your community?

6. Cultural Opportunities: Are your citizens' lives strengthened by opportunity to enjoy music, art, and drama? Does your community have a professionally administered library service which benefits people of all ages? Do your newspapers and radio provide a review the affairs of the community?

7. Recreation: Are there enough supervised playgrounds and facilities for outdoor activities? Does your community offer full opportunity to take part in arts and crafts, in photography, and in other leisure activities?

8. Health and Welfare: Are medical care and hospitalization readily available? Is provision made for the underprivileged, the aged, the military and the handicapped? Can families in trouble secure the help they need?

9. Government: Do capable citizens seek public office? Are your officials concerned above all with community betterment? Does controversy stem from honest differences of opinion and not from squabbles over privilege?

10. Community Organization: Is there an organization (community forum or the like) representative of the whole community, working for the advancement of all? Do your citizens have opportunity to learn about and take part in their local affairs? Is there an organized community-wide discussion program?

It's up to You
NOW add the scores you have put down for each of the ten groups of questions. A total of 100 is fine; 50, fair.

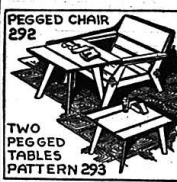

But now look over those questions again. Is there anything you could do, personally, about each of those things? If so, have you done it? Have you done as much as you could? Have you ever tried to get other people interested?

You can make another score sheet and head it: How I Rate as a Citizen. Then grade yourself under each of those ten headings for doing all you can, 5 for doing a little something, 0 for nothing at all. If you are a Christian, be especially strict with yourself.

If you were out of it, would your community miss you as much as you miss it? Would some one forget to put it on the potatoes? If you left your community, would it seem a bit darker there after you were gone?
