TIRED OF TURKEY?

Tired of turkey? Had enough? Ready to swear off for the New Year? Be of good cheer, lady, for there are other meats. You'll find relief from that tired turkey, if you'll look around, and ask that friendly butcher what's good, plentiful, and, if not exactly cheap, at least reasonable.

If you want to taper off, and still retain the poultry taste in lesser quantity, there are broilers galore. The public demand for broiling chickens has increased production to an all-time high of 1,750,000,000 by the end of 1951. You have eaten 29.7 pounds of chicken per person, or almost 3 pounds more than the year before. That's a lot of chickens.

As for the New Year, the U.S. Department of Agriculture forecasts a still larger increase in supply to meet your demand. The department's forecast is 12% million more birds than the all-time record of the year just past.

PIGS IS PIGS

Pork too, is coming back into its own, and is an excellent choice for a thrifty meal. More hogs were marketed on a given day here than any day during the year, 1950. In 1951, this continues, total pork production for a given week may hit a record of 100 million. Supplies will most likely continue at a high level until spring, at least.

For that Sunday family dinner, can you think of anything more tempting, both to the purse and to the appetite, than a stuffed roast pork shoulder? Get a 6 or 8 pounder, and have your butcher remove skin and bones. Make a dressing of celery, onion, bread or cracker crumbs, salt, pepper and other favorite seasoning.

Brown the celery and onions (to the way they're both an excellent list), add the crumbs and seasoning, and stir until thoroughly mixed and evenly moist. Pack it loosely, for crumbs have a way of swelling, and sew or skewer it up. Roast in a moderate oven about 4 hours as pork demands a lot of cooking.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Intelligence and Artistry Helps Set Dining Table Attractively

By Eritta Haley

If, just once in your life, you have set an attractively table, you know that you are never, content to sit down to one which shows no imagination or beauty. Even simple, everyday meals take on something special when they are served on a well-appointed table.

The average homemaker must set the table many and almost countless times during her career as the head of her household. It can mean fun for her and enjoyment for the family, then this table becomes less of a chore and more of a hobby.

Each woman's family deserves her very best, and especially in the matter of table setting, for this is the one who sits down to eat most often. Practice your skill every day with every meal. Be not only a good housewife, but yourself at noon, and see how much pleasure there is in table setting.

Consider your table as carefully as a picture when you're setting it. Start with a few well chosen items, and add to them as your skill and interest increase. With simple and even inexpensive accessories you can create tables that are interesting and as important to the pleasure of dining.

In gathering china, glass, silverware and linens for the table, do not be misled by what you see or some motif in mind so that the items will be related. Table accessories should harmonize with whatever period predominates in your home. This does not mean match exactly your furnishings, but rather, feel that there is no lack of harmony present.

Sturdy Table

Whether these youngsters play games, do clay modeling or coloring, they need have no fear of harming the many layered glass table top that resists heat, beverage or scratches. Tubular steel legs hold up against vigorous activities. A heat added to this extendable table makes it a dietetic set which will serve six people adequately.

Use plain glass with it, so the dinnerware will stand out. Or, if you have ornate glassware, combine it with plain dinnerware. Two ornate things together will give you too busy, as well as too restless an atmosphere.

Do you have a cloth handed down from grandmother or great grandmother for special occasions? Display it to best advantage by keeping china and glassware simple. Let the cloth tell the story, and without interruption.

Rich and very heavy silverware should be allowed to stand out in its own glory; set it on an unadorned table, or one with a simple, plain, or at the most, banded dinnerware and plain glass.

There should be a consistency of quality in everything which you use on your table. Though both silverware and china cannot be designed, their quality and craftsmanship can and should match if they're going to be used together, or one will show off to the disadvantage of the other.

Use a tea table, for instance. You would not use delicate tea cups and saucers with inexpensive cotton napkins, would you? You do not have to be an expert to know that these just do not go together, and the same holds true of whatever kind of table you set.

If you are just starting out and cannot afford to design, then use table accessories you can still have good taste and effective tables.

Those whose budget permits only pottery and textured cotton dories or cloths will find that the lustre colors and good design can lend a dramatic touch that is just as effective in its way as more expensive accessories.

Build Perfect Settings

In buying glassware, you might start with a small plain, even a eight inches in diameter to use for both desserts and salads. Next come water tumblers, set without a foot, white, iv. In keeping with your taste and style.

Long-stemmed, hand-blown crystal is considered formal, while low short-stemmed glasses are equally good in taste. Some of the formal modern patterns have low, long lines.

If you cannot buy a great variety, remember that finger bowls can be used for dessert or for holding small flowers and cigarettes; ash trays double as candle holders; vases double as book ends.

When choosing things for dining, have place settings put together, and then look at them as a whole. In this way you can correlate table appointments for the sake of decorative unity.

You may not always want to use your best glassware and silverware for the simpler meals, but china for the decorative use. A simple, plain glass beauty through use. Select breakfast settings that will go with the dinnerware.

Decorative Arrangements

You will often like some decoration for tables, be these flowers, figurines or a combination. These should be used, but you do not want to detract from the beauty of the other things.

Flowers should always be real. Let anything else in an imitation of the real thing, even if it is just not in good taste. Few flowers are often better than many and have a long life. They should often make flowers go a long way.

There is so much available in the decorative line. A simple green plant in an attractive, turquoise planter, or arrangements of birds on a mirror, or carved woods or other decorative articles, all these can be used effectively.

Set every table dramatically...

Set every table dramatically... whatever period predominates in your home. This does not mean match exactly your furnishings, but rather, feel that there is no lack of harmony present.

Be the Dining Room's Queen

It does not matter which room you do the dining, part of the kitchen, a regular dining room or even the living room. The room should be restful in the way it is decorated, and it should be appealing so as to enhance your dining pleasure.

Dining is more than just eating the food you need. It is a great deal of doing it graciously. It should be pleasant talk and relaxation and complete enjoyment. To do this, you must have a room for dining which helps you in these things.

If the room for dining is small, use just a single color on the walls, containing several shades a foot larger. If you go in for something that has design, be certain it creates a restful feeling, rather than one of busyness or jitter.

Have only the essential pieces of furniture in the dining room, for the look overworked.

When you set the table, you add quite a bit to the room, and you do not want to look overworked.

WAMPVILLE, N.Y.—The Madison county supervisors have established a public relations committee and have asked newsmen covering meetings of the group to show their notes taken at meetings to the committee.

The committee chairman said the request was "not a formal demand," and was designed to help the reporters have the best story.

Louisiana Farmers Stock Ponds With Beams, Bass

KINGDOM, La.—Water parish farmers have recently stockpiled 100 constructed farm ponds with 80,000 hatchery-raised bluegill broodstock. Two farmers are participating in the program of building farm ponds to assure an ample supply of livestock water, and are stocking with bluegill next spring in the parish when 2,000 largemouth bass are distributed.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

REVOLUTIONARY AND LITERARY DEVOTIONAL READING: Isaiah 58: 1-7

How to Find Christ

Lesson for January 6, 1952

NOT every one finds Christ in just the same way. This was at the beginning and it still is true. A very interesting recent book is, "These Found the Way," edited by David Cooper. (Westminster Press, Philadelphia, 1951, $2.50.) It contains the stories of a dozen modern people who have become Christians. No two of them have the same story to tell, yet there is something in common among all of them.

Each of them in some way has "found" Christ. It is a mistake to think that all Christians must be cast in the same mold, or that each of us must plant his feet exactly in the footprints (for example) of St. Paul.

Sensational Conversations

At the beginning of John's gospel we find the story of his conversation after another who followed Christ. There is only one of these who believed in Jesus on the basis of what could be called a "supernatural" experience. This was John the Baptist. He testified that he had "seen the Spirit" (that is, God's Spirit) coming upon Jesus.

Now you cannot "see" the Spirit in the same way, but you can have a fence-post. Even if you take the story in the most literal way, and think that all Christians must be cast in the same mold, or that each of us must plant his feet exactly in the footprints (for example) of St. Paul.

Hot Breakfast Bread

WHEN THE FAMILY gathers for breakfast in the morning, there's nothing so basic and healthy as hot breads to help start the day with a genuine smile.

Grandmothers know that the best way to get those late risers out of bed on time to school, was to wave a wand of fragrance from the kitchen. That irresistible odor of something baking is the best alarm anyone can have.

What's the homemaker's reward for getting out of bed just a bit earlier to bake the morning's bread? The pleasure of seeing her family off to a good and cheerful start in the morning. Knead lightly. Roll dough slightly more than 1/4 inch thick; cut with floured cutter. Place biscuits in muffin tin which has been rubbed with shortening, in which 1 teaspoon butter, 1/4 teaspoon brown sugar and chopped pecans have been mixed. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Spicy Oatmeal Muffins

(Makes 8-10 large muffins)
 1 cup quick rolled oats, uncooked
 1/2 cup buttermilk or sour milk
 1/2 cup applesauce
 1/2 cup raisins
 1/2 cup brown sugar
 1 cup sifted enriched flour
 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 1/4 teaspoon soda
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 cup melted shortening
 Combine rolling oats and buttermilk; mix well. Add applesauce, raisins and sugar. Stir in ingredients and add to mixture, stirring only enough to combine. Fill in melted shortening. Fill greased muffin pan 2/3 full. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

Apricot Coffee Cake

(Makes an 8-inch square)
 1/2 cup shortening
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 egg
 1/4 cup sifted enriched flour
 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup quick rolled oats, uncooked
 1/2 cup cooked, dried apricots (well drained)
 1 tablespoon melted butter
 1/2 cup brown sugar
 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream well. Add egg, beat. Add flour and mix until beating well after each addition. Add sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture 1/2 cup oats and 1/2 cup apricots. Pour into greased 8-inch square pan. Combine ingredients for topping and sprinkle over batter. Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) for 20 to 25 minutes.

Butterscotch Pecan Biscuits

(Makes 18 to 20 medium biscuits)
 2 cups sifted flour
 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 1/2 cup brown sugar
 1/2 cup melted butter
 1 egg
 1/4 cup chopped nuts
 Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream well. Add egg, beat. Add flour and mix until beating well after each addition. Add sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture 1/2 cup sugar and 1/2 cup nuts. Pour into greased 8-inch square pan. Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) for 20 to 25 minutes.

Relieve Colds

It's so easy to relieve colds in a hurry this home-proved way... with 2 spoonfuls of Vicks VapoRub in a vaporizer or in a bowl of boiling water directed towards you.

Just breathe in the steam! Every single breath carries VapoRub's soothing medications deep into throat and large bronchial tubes. It medicates irritated membranes, helps restore normal breathing. For coughs or upper bronchial congestion there's nothing like using Vicks VapoRub in steam.

For continued relief always rub it on throat, chest and back.

Night Coughing

Quickly Relieved by Home Mixture

Saves Big Dollars. No Coughing.

This splendid recipe has relieved 85 million because it makes such an effective cough syrup. It's a real home remedy for children, too. It's a real home remedy for a child coughed off.

From a single quart of 2 1/2 quarts of Pinex, a special compound of proven efficacy, in concentrated form, which has a soothing effect on throat and bronchial irritation.

Then make a syrup with two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water. No cooking needed. Or you may use extra sugar or honey instead of sugar syrup. Add the Pinex into a pint bottle and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of cough syrup. It's a real home remedy for a child coughed off.

Salad dressings are to be avoided in reducing programs because most of them contain highly starchy oils or fats. Make a dressing with lemon juice or vinegar with salt and pepper.

COMMERCIAL TRUCKERS SHOULD BUILD THEIR OWN HIGHWAYS

A concerted campaign launched within recent weeks by trucking interests, manufacturers of motor vehicles, tire companies and allied interests seeking to focus public attention upon the need for more and better highways... and away from heavy trucks and the great damage these do to our roads needs looking at with clarity by every owner of an automobile.

These companies currently are leading the propaganda, appearing in double-page, full color advertisements in our best periodicals, calling for more super-highways to end bottle-necks in traffic and to afford Mister and Mistress Motorist more pleasure and greater safety when they go driving on Sunday afternoons.

What this boils down to is that the motor makers and their friends want the general public to put up about 60 billions of dollars for multiphase concrete highways... for the benefit of the highway freight trains, the destroyers of life, wreckers of roads and the real creators of traffic bottle-necks.

In the November 24 issue of Collier's magazine, an advertisement read, in part: "We Americans like to go places, but you can't motor very far anywhere today without being caught in endless traffic snarls that waste hours, frazzle tempers and foster accidents." After developing the fact that our highways are inadequate, the question is asked: "What can we do about it?" Then follows the answer, which contains the real point of the whole costly advertisement:

"Highway congestion is not a problem that can be solved by laws restricting traffic and loads. The root of the trouble is not too many or too heavy vehicles but too few modern, multilane highways between our principal cities, the transport arteries of the nation."

The next step, of course, will be to demand that especially constructed lanes be set aside for the use of heavy trucks.

The question is: Who will pay for construction and maintenance of these super-roads upon which commercial carriers will carry on their business?

Under the law, as announced by the Supreme Court of the United States, highways are constructed "primarily for the use of the public in the ordinary way." Their use "for purposes of gain in special and extraordinary, and generally at least, may be prohibited or conditioned as the legislature deems proper." And in another place the same authority has ruled that "To exclude unnecessary vehicles, particularly the large ones commonly used by carriers for hire, promotes both safety and economy."

More than 99 per cent of all motor vehicles and more than 94 per cent of all trucks on our highways are, private automobiles and light trucks, operated by farmers, merchants and others using the highways in the ordinary manner. The operators of these vehicles pay 90 per cent of all highway taxes. On the other hand, the commercial highway freighters, including all trucks of three axles or more, comprise less than 1 per cent of all motor vehicles and pay less than 10 per cent of all highway taxes.

The big trucks which pound our highways to pieces faster than we can build... to say nothing of pay for them, use the highways at public expense; yet for a decade their operators have been demanding and exerting pressure of every sort to sweep load limits ever upward until now they seek 50-ton load limit laws.

These are the vehicles for which the friends of the highway freighters are demanding that we build super-duper highways, with multiple lanes... with the average motorist footing 90 per cent of the bill.

It is time we made the huge road-busting trucks build their own highways.

ROCKCASTLE FACTS and STORIES

By RALPH GRIFFIN

Continuing reminiscences of pillar to stand behind—anything to get out of the center of that big room where it seemed that thousands of feminine eyes were upon him.

Then he located the refuge—every corner was full of his fellows who had preceded him down the line. There they huddled and milled about like corralled steers, each trying to get behind the other. But this was not to be, trained teachers and older girls bore down upon them and gradually managed to cut individuals from out of the herd. They were steered and led to chairs, into which each sank with a sigh of relief, leaving his guide free to capture others.

Eventually the ice was broken to the extent that simple games could be played, so long as they could be carried out from a sitting position. Each boy and young man was sitting bolt-upright in his seat with his feet and legs twisted about his chair, sounds of determined fashion; it was plain to be seen that the two could not be dis-entwined without brute physical force; never the twin should part.

Trained leaders managed to carry on simple games. At first the boys croaked and grunted and gasped like stranded fish, but gradually they became accustomed to the sound of their own voices. After this point was reached most of them were enabled to perk up considerably and play almost as human intelligence. Most of the girls were embarrassed, too, once the boys realized it.

From this point on the party management was a matter of gradual progression. The next game was "spin the plate," if it were to be carried out with any degree of success, the boys would have to be lured from their seats in some manner. The girls set a pattern by enthusiastically lunging about the floor in pursuit of the elusive plate. Finally a daring lad darted out a few feet from his chair, grabbed the plate and dashed back to safety. Not to be outdone, other boys followed his example and soon the game was progressing merrily. But the minute the game was over each boy was again firmly planted in his chair, for his twisted about the rounds as formerly.

There the situation would have continued as a complete impasse, had not a teacher suggested musical chair. Every reader is familiar with this game and can understand the shrewd way in which the chairs were gradually removed from the room, and each boy cast out upon his own resources. A teacher had been planted in each corner to prevent the boys from piling up there again and smothering. Eventually each one found a place for his hands and feet and even managed to walk about a bit, altho still avoiding the girls when it was at all possible.

Finally there came the horror—refreshments and the ordeal of learning to balance a cup and saucer while nibbling a cookie. At first some of the boys blew their coffee to cool it and some even tried pouring it out in their saucers; but gradually, over a long period of ed to master the situation reasonably well.

It can be said quite truthfully, that the teachers of Langdon school could have made sills-purses from sows-ears if anyone could.

This column extends thanks to Mrs. Robins for her article in last weeks Signal concerning Mrs. Roy E. Jones and her dolls. Having recently seen her Renfro Valley group we are full of enthusiasm about this lady and her creations; she is an artist. Mrs. Jones has written two letters to this column recently; they indicate that her heart is still in Rockcastle county.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my dear husband,

Jack Stallworth, who died 12 years ago today, January 2, 1925.

You went away and I know not why you had to leave us; down in a lonely graveyard where the flowers bloom and fade—where our dear ones lie sleeping in a cold and silent grave. You left us with many heartaches and life is so lonely without you. Sweet memories often bring silent tears. They are beautiful memories of the one we all loved so dearly.

Sadly missed by your children and wife, Della. ltp

Kentucky Railroads Are the Backbone of Kentucky Industry

KENTUCKY'S railroads are a vital necessity to Kentucky's industries. They haul the raw materials to the factories and mills and haul the finished products to markets all over the country.

They are especially important to the mining, lumber, tobacco, agricultural, electric power, chemical, rubber and distilling industries — which require dependable, large volume, economical transportation.

Furthermore — plans for large industrial operations in the North and East, investigating the State's possibilities for the location of factories, depend upon Kentucky's railroads for information of all kinds essential to plant location—covering sites, raw materials, labor, transportation facilities, markets, etc.

For many years Kentucky's railroads—through their industrial development departments,—have been steadily working to develop new and existing industries in Kentucky... thus helping to provide more jobs, greater prosperity, larger tax revenues and better living conditions all over the Commonwealth.

Miss Linville's essay (Continued from page one) did not read so many comic books of the low type, there would be less crime.
Our towns and community have the poorest telephone system of any in Kentucky. We have very poor service in town and no service at all in the rural districts.
I think it is just as necessary to have good telephone service in the country as in town. The people live farther apart, and it is not as easy to get in touch with people. A good telephone system would save farmers time and money.
Schools are another big problem. The people who will be at the head of our county and country are going to school now. We should try our best to give them every opportunity we can to get a better education.
In the rural schools we need more buildings and more school-rooms. Some of the buildings that we have need to be repaired. During the summer older boys and boys of school age destroy school property. A law should be enforced to keep the students in school. The county schools need some means of making money besides having pie suppers. There should be more money for recreation equipment and for roads leading to the school.
We need more qualified teachers. Very often the emergency teachers are incapable of teaching a group of small students.
We should have more and better law-enforcement officers. Our policemen should have cars. If there were cars speeding, there isn't any way of stopping them.
To protect our very young HATS OFF TO MILK . . . BUILDER OF STRONG BODIES people there should be a curfew law. There should be a certain time for them to be off of the streets. The parents are the ones who have the say over this.

As I have shown, the needs of my community are many, but with sufficient community spirit and cooperation among our citizens these needs can be met and our community made a better place in which to live.

Plymouth's Cranbrook Four-Door Sedan for '52

Here's the new Plymouth for 1952, a more beautiful, smoother operating, easier riding, safer car which features 46 important improvements. There is new beauty in the car's road-hugging, sweeping appearance, and color harmony perfection in the new interiors, which are Tone-Tailored with quality fabrics. The luxurious interiors blend beautifully with the exterior colors. The car has all the features for comfort, economy, safety and durability which have become traditional with Plymouth. Shown above is the new four-door Cranbrook sedan.

Smooth, Easy Performance Featured in New Plymouth

The new Plymouth for 1952 will go on display in dealer showrooms throughout the United States, Friday, January 4.
A long list of improvements-46 in all-has been incorporated in the engine, the brakes, the electrical system, the chassis, and to the inside and outside of the body.
The new car, according to D. C. Eddins, president of Plymouth, has been improved and refined to provide the most gentle ride in the automobile performance and the greatest safety ever built into a car for the lowest price field.
Exceptional drive smoothness is produced through a newly designed combustion chamber; brakes are stronger and longer-lasting; Plymouth's famous Sixty-Flow ride has been made even more comfortable by improvements in the springing and to the Offroad shock absorbers; and the car's beauty is enhanced by numerous styling refinements.
The Plymouth has a road-hugging, sweeping appearance, accentuated by changes in the external adornments. A new luxurious standard for interiors is attained with the high quality upholstery fabrics in harmonious colors which blend beautifully with the instrument and door panels.
The smart hufftop club coupe, the Belvedere, is the pace-setter in the lowest price field with its new concepts in styling and beauty. The car has glistering, lively-two-tone colors which set it apart and give it the essential look. The color used on the roof follows the Belvedere's streamlined contours around the spacious rear window and down over the rear deck. The color used on the molding outlines the top and carries back to separate the two colors at their junction at the rear quarter panel. Interior of the Belvedere is luxurious, with colorful quality fabrics and vinyl blended in perfect harmony with the shades used on the exterior. Low-wearing carpeting adds to complementary color scheme on the inside.
The color combinations are available on the Belvedere; Studebaker; the new top Element Blue Poly-metallic with Suning Grey top; Mint Green with Black top.
