

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

Artificial Breeding Cooperative Back a number of years ago a meeting of dairy Project Leaders was held in the County Agent's Office at Mt. Vernon. These leaders had been selected by the farmers of different communities to promote the dairy project work which had been set up in the different County Plan of Work promoted by the County Agricultural Extension Committee.

What Carl said then sounded far in the future. Little did he or any one think at that time an Artificial Breeding Cooperative would be ready to serve Rockcastle County by January 24, 1932.

The Artificial Breeding Cooperative was organized at

Follow U. S. 25 To The Stirrup Cup Lexington's Top Drive-In Restaurant Dishes Hour 5:00 to 8:30

Berea for Rockcastle and Madison Counties December 18, 1931. It will be ready for service January 25. It has already started in a minor way but will be ready for general services to all members January 25. The Board of Directors met at Berea January 11 to work out plans for the farmers to notify the inseminator and other details. Each member will get a letter from the cooperative giving details.

From the time Carl Cotton mentioned how best to start dairy improvement, there has been much work done and many committee meetings and individual conversations carried on. There is quite a history to the developing of the breeding coop. The plan for Rockcastle to combine in the project, was worked out by the two County Agents of Rockcastle and Madison and H. B. Monier of Berea College.

The success of the breeding cooperative will depend on the members and directors. There must be cooperation, patience and understanding on the part of all to make it a success.

Hunt and Johnstone to Break At Courthouse

Hundreds of farmers from all sections of Rockcastle County will be in Mt. Vernon on January 24, to hear Mr. Hunt speak on the subject of "Save The Tobacco Crop of Kentucky." Black Shank threatens the crop as well as a number of other things for 1932. Come and hear Hunt at 10:00 a. m. in the courthouse.

Mr. Johnson, director of Kentucky Green Pasture Program, will speak to the farmers at 1:30 p. m. on the subject of "Corn and Pasture Production for 1932." The farmers of the United States have been asked to increase their corn and hay this year. It seems to be necessary in order to meet the needs of food and feed for people and livestock.

Let's not get discouraged about the telephone service even though it has been some time since Congress passed the bill to make it possible for cooperative telephone systems to be set up by the farmers and others.

We have been working for 28 years to get a telephone service for Rockcastle County. We are nearer now than ever. Harold Sawyer, chairman of the County organization committee says, "It's Coming!" Yes the telephone system will come in the future. It won't break out with Russia. Let's keep on working, hoping and praying for the best.

Farm and Home Convention for all farm men and women, will be held at the University of Kentucky January 29, 30, 31 and February 1. Make plans to attend.

Buy fertilizer and field seed NOW. Don't be late.

TOYS FOSTER GANGSTERISM AND GAMBLING SAYS

Is there any connection between youthful delinquency and the toys youngsters see on the toy counters of stores? Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, thinks there is such a connection and, in a statement made at Evanston, Illinois, called upon merchants to get in step with the religious significance of Christmas and also heed warnings of the Kefauver Crime Committee.

Mrs. Colvin said she saw on toy counters toy roulette wheels, pinball and slot machines, race horse and dice games, toy guns and other costumes and games. "Obviously the displays do not fit into observance of the Saviour's birthday," she said. "They are a glorification of gambling and gangsterism."

Many people think that the W.C.T.U. in the arch foe of liquor only. With the passing of the years and the changes time has brought about in people's outlook, the W.C.T.U. is still a foe of liquor, but it also emphasizes the Christian temperance, "extending temperance" to every activity of life and Famous Last Words... "Aw, leave the switch on - I'll be finished in a second!" Ordinarily, one injury out of every 200 accidents is fatal. But where electricity is involved, the rate increases to one fatality in every five injuries. Few people realize that an ordinary 115-volt lighting circuit can be as deadly as 40,000 volts. It's the current amperage that kills, not the voltage, just a small fraction of an ampere can be fatal if its path is through a vital organ. So be careful with electricity. Remember... electric current can kill.

Cigarette Tax Law Being Violated

An increasing number of complaints check in progress, Nelson Perry, Director of the Field Division said in Frankfort.

Most complaints involve cigarettes which are sold at retail at special locations such as night clubs, rail and bus stations, news stands and hotels. Perry explained that each pack of cigarettes sold at retail requires one cent tax for each 10 cents or fraction thereof of total sale price before tax. Most brands at present are selling at 20 cents plus 2 cents tax. If a retailer sells a pack of cigarettes for more than 22 cents total then additional tax is required. The tax is paid by the wholesaler who applies stamps to denote the tax paid. Penalties are provided for violation.

Farm Bureau Drive January 21-26

At the Farm Bureau board of directors meeting December 21, 1931, plans were made for the county membership drive. This drive will take place from January 21st to 26th.

Mr. Henry Brown, local secretary, had this to say regarding the drive:

"If your farm Bureau membership is due, you may expect your director to call for it. We would like to spend most of our time securing new memberships, so it would save a lot of time and be greatly appreciated if you would drop by the office or mail your dues in."

"Our goal for this drive is 150 new members. We could double our membership of 450 members if each member would secure one new member. See your neighbor, who is not a member, and ask him to help you carry the load, which makes Farm Bureau so dear to you, and the load will be easy for you to carry."

"The drive will begin with a kick-off meeting January 18, at the regular board meeting, at 7:30. The organization director will be at this meeting."

"All the workers will meet for a breakfast at Mary Deatherage's Cafe January 21, at 8:00 a. m. Plans for the drive will be discussed and the rest of the day spent recruiting members."

Unique Suit Filed In Bourbon County

Paris, Ky.—Suit was filed in Bourbon Circuit Court Wednesday seeking a court order which would compel all county and city officials to make an annual statement of the collection and disbursements of all public funds and to publish an audit of their financial affairs.

If this is not done, the suit stated, as requested by law, the court was asked that every defendant be required to forfeit their office and subject themselves to fines and penalties provided under statutes of the commonwealth.

Newspapers, Taxpayers Act The suit was filed by two Paris newspapers, the Paris Daily Enterprise and the Kentucky Citizen, and Curtis Farley, a taxpayer of the city of Paris and Bourbon county.

Named defendants were all city and county officials who receive, hold, disburse or disburse any public funds, and Robert Cooper, a taxpayer of the city of Paris and Bourbon county.

The suit was believed to be the first of its kind to be filed in Kentucky.

The newspapers instituted the action following their rejection of a general financial report submitted by Bourbon Circuit Court. They said state law requires an itemized financial report be published annually.

The suit contends that under the Kentucky revised statutes, it is the duty of each and every local officer and official in Bourbon county, as well as in all other counties of the state, to make an annual report of the collection and disbursements of any and all public funds except in counties containing a city of the first class.

Four Projects Will Affect This County Construction projects costing approximately $830,000 are scheduled for Highway U. S. No. 45 in Rockcastle and connecting in the county a proposed five-year program announced today by State Highway Commissioner W. P. Curllin.

Part of the work scheduled is in Madison County. All the work is to be completed this year.

The program, affecting more than 800 miles of roads throughout Kentucky, would cost an estimated $1,000,000. All projects are in the primary road system and are to be financed on a fifty-fifty basis by the state and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads. The program does not include rural-road construction which is financed by a separate fund.

Curllin said the plan is the most far-reaching in the history of the Department of Highways. He said the proposal has been under study by state and federal engineers for the last year and its purpose is "to provide systematic improvement of the state's key highways."

Included in the program are new construction, widening, reconstruction, resurfacing, and bridge construction. All projects are subject to restrictions on steel by the Defense Production Administration.

Projects affecting Rockcastle county are:

London-Mt. Vernon Road from east city limits of Mt. Vernon to end of concrete pavement, 1.5 miles of resurfacing, $100,000.

London-Mt. Vernon, truck route, 1.5 miles of resurfacing, $100,000.

London-Mt. Vernon Road from Livingston to end of concrete pavement south of Mt. Vernon, 1.5 miles of resurfacing, $200,000.

Mt. Vernon-Berea Road, Roundstone to Berea, 9.4 miles, resurface curves, widen and resurface, $390,000.

ED HIBBARD RELEASED Ed Hibbard, 49, Rockcastle County, spending two years for carrying a concealed weapon, has been released from the state reformatory at LaGrange.

REWARD—A $25 award will be given for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person turning in a false fire alarm in the city of Mt. Vernon. Fire Department.

OPERATION UNITY The East-West Struggle Places Europeans in Political Quandary

By FARNHAM F. DUDGEON Editor, WNU

Second in a Series
Europeans are having an extremely difficult time trying to face in two opposite directions at the same time. There is, of course, ever present Soviet threat of military invasion.

Europe is Concerned
But, as the United States enters into a crucial election year in which the fate of European military and economic aid will be determined in congressional debate in next November's election, these people are extremely concerned with political events in the United States.

American taxpayers can feel fairly sure on one important aspect of this situation. Their representatives from both houses of Congress have poured into Europe in good numbers to observe firsthand the political and military situation as it exists.

When the great debates start, both in the halls of Congress and on the campaign platforms of America's home towns, there will be a store of first-hand observations, which will enable the American voters to make direct questions and be reasonably sure of getting well-founded replies with regard to the state we have in Europe.

Both American officials and the officials of other countries told us that these congressmen and senators, who visited them to get a look and should be able to present a clear picture. We noticed that both political parties were well represented in these congressional inspection teams.

No Backing Down
If economic and military aid from the United States were to be drawn, or seriously curtailed, it would be difficult to speculate on the outcome of such action. These congressmen are not only in direct contact with the political and military situation as it exists, but they are also in direct contact with the people of the countries they are visiting.

Countries like Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia have no choice but to stand as firmly as they can against the Soviet Union. In Turkey we were told, for example, that the world would get into such a sorry state today if other countries had taken as firm a position against Russia as have the Turks.

In Yugoslavia there is great concern on the part of many observers, as to whether or not the people of that country are completely convinced that the Tito-defection from the Kremlin has been complete and unqualified. Our representatives were told that the Yugoslavians are indeed, cast her lot with the West.

In France there are thousands of people who still vote as "Communists". However, the general appraisal of these people by American officials is that only a small percentage are real "hard-core" Communists. They ally themselves with Communist candidates as a protest against the other political parties which currently govern them in France.

If the cold war turned to a hot one, these people would undoubtedly fight against the Russian Communist regime. This is not to say, of course, that the majority of them would support the west.

In subject to the above speculation, it is interesting to note that the "will to fight" in Europe is strong. Its economy has been battered by almost a half century of war through the first half of this century. Its people bear physical and moral scars of these conflicts.

GRASSROOTS Truman and Cohorts Leading America into Morass

By Wright A. Patterson

AS WAS THE CASE in the last English elections, when the socialist Attlee was voted out and the Conservative Churchill was voted in, the one issue, the only issue, was socialism. The English people were asked to pass judgement on the results of the socialistic experiment.

In our presidential election of next November the one issue will be socialism for America. The American people will have the opportunity of saying whether or not they want to continue the socialistic experiment which Truman and his fair deal cohorts in office, or whether they want a decided turn to the right.

The proponents of socialism may not express the issue as definitely as that, but the voters should be notified by any such phrase as "welfare state," that is but socialism of the brand England has rejected. The same road has been broken, England, darkened its factory chimneys, polluted its fields, and left England a fourth rate nation, despite the $3 billions of American money Washington poured into that socialistic morass.

Socialists are the park-keepers of the nation, those who are asking something for nothing, who wish to eat, without doing their share in the work of the nation.

The fair dealers would have America bogged down in that same morass in which England is now trapped.

THE FICTION CORNER OVER THE COUNTER

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

DALA was thinking of Bill when the young man with the white teeth leaned over her counter. Kate Holland had said that she had seen Bill and Reba Ellison dancing at Sutton's.

"In the early stages of our trip, we encountered an American business man, who was primarily concerned with getting us into the country to his two most important questions: (1) 'Do these people (the Europeans) really appreciate what we are doing for them?'

"Appreciation" is hardly the word for the feeling which most Europeans have for the United States, with regard to our aid in their reconstruction. They know, and say freely and openly, that we are doing them a great service. But by and large, these people are strongly nationalistic, and they are not happy with their fate under the recipients of American "benevolence."

"They don't feel that we are 'giving' them anything. They feel that we are buying their partnership in an alliance against a common enemy."

"I feel, also, that they would like to have the aid, which we have been giving them, terminated just as soon as it is militarily and economically unnecessary. They feel that we are buying much with the money we are spending in Europe."

"Many of them are frank to say that it is much better for America to have a 'front' against Soviet Russia located where it is today, than to have it located in the Atlantic seaboard of the United States."

"The telephone was ringing when she turned the key in her apartment door at 8:10 that evening. It was Bill of course. 'Hello,' she said, trying to force casualness into her tone."

"Remember me?" said a voice. "I'm the man who bought the hotel."

"It's a bad penny," Dala said. "Or didn't you understand me?"

"DALA was returning from lunch when she ran into Bill. He was in a hurry. Or said he was. He only stopped for a minute."

"The realization made her kind of sick at heart. No matter whether you loved a man or not, it was something of a blow to find out he was two-timing you."

"She jumped when the young man with the mousethatche spoke into her ear. 'I die hard,' he grinned. 'There's still tonight and I promise to be good.'"

"Dala looked at him and thought of Bill. 'All right,' she sighed resignedly."

"They had dinner at a restaurant where Dala hadn't eaten before. She liked the place and wondered what Johnny did for a living."

"Two nights later Johnny took her to the nightclub and later to a night club. It was then she began to wonder about him."

"He regarded her in surprise when she put the question. 'But, I've already told you, I'm the man who bought the Empire. I thought you knew.'"

"She said nothing until they were in the lighted hallway of her apartment house. 'Now tell me,' she said, looking at him. 'Tell me again.'"

"He told her and suddenly the floor seemed to give away beneath her. She turned, but he caught her hand. 'What difference does it make?' he pleaded. 'I knew you didn't know.'"

"She put her hand over his mouth. 'Don't say it. The answer is yes, I didn't know.' You see, I've just recovered from being made a fool of by one man. And now this..."

SUPPOSE IT WERE YOUR KID

Suppose it were your kid—your girl or boy—happy, protected, cherished—with dreams of growing up to become a movie star or pilot.

What could happen to her—or to him, laughing and playing in the sun under your watchful eyes? The chances are, nothing.

But to thousands of such carefree, loved, protected youngsters something did happen last year. Dreaded, sneak-attacking polio struck at them, childish laughter was stifled. There were days of pain, of excruciating anxiety, for some, a prospect of lifelong handicap. Suppose one of them had been your girl or boy.

January is March of Dimes month and during this time all of us have a chance to act as if our own children were among the unfortunate. We can strike back at this cruel disease by contributing generously to the MARCH OF DIMES to help them.

The job of getting kids back on their feet—in a literal sense—cannot continue unless you and I and all the rest of us put up more dollars and dimes than ever before. There have been 132,000 cases in four years, triple what used to be a "normal" number.

When you see the smiling-faced lad on the MARCH OF DIMES posters or in the newspapers, think of the good that can be accomplished for him and others like him through the MARCH OF DIMES.

ROCKCASTLE FACTS and STORIES

By RALPH GRIFFIN

For some three or four weeks this column has told of Langdon School days and the influence of this school upon the youth of Mt. Vernon, as well as Rockcastle at large. From the style of these articles it might be assumed that we only considered the matter lightly and in humorous vein. That would be a mistake.

Langdon was established within this community with the very serious intention of bringing a better way of life to this section of Eastern Kentucky. There was an introduction of culture as well as education, both religious and secular. Girls were taught to be better wives and mothers, or how to get out into professions of their own.

Girls and young women were enrolled from this county and from probably every other county in this section of the state. The work was highly successful and the results will be long felt. The school remained in Mt. Vernon until it was felt by its sponsors that the most urgent need was over here; only then was the school disbanded and its physical properties sold.

she can suspend from school, she can report to many and various disciplinary methods but she cannot, with dignity, while the tar out of grown boys and young men. Consequently, when Houston took over he found the field white and the harvest.

As has been previously stated, this gentleman arose to the demands of the occasion with great enthusiasm. He fervently believed that to spare the rod was to spoil the child. Within a matter of weeks he had developed mighty muscles in his good right arm and the tough boys were taking their meals from a standing position.

Once he had demonstrated conclusively to all concerned that he would tolerate no foolishness, Tom Houston proceeded to set up an athletic program which tended to divert the animal spirits of his charges to more productive fields.

Up into this time there had never been any organization attempted to supervise playground activities. Pupils had organized their own games, which were very much of the rough and ready type. They played leap-frog, sheep-meat, own-ball, snow-ball and crack-the-whip. There was no segregation of age-groups and the younger fry suffered accordingly. They were continually being used for cannon-fodder of one kind or another.

A light boy with a small back came in very handy as a sort of goal-post during the game of leap-frog. He hunkered down upon his all-fours while the older lads took long runs and flying leaps over his back. He couldn't win because he would be gradually extended until the inevitable happened: one of his elders eventually landed in the small of his back with hob-nailed boots. The victim would then be granted a temporary or permanent leave of absence from the game and another lad took his place. In the game of crack-the-whip a light boy was absolutely indispensable. Sometimes he would be thrown so far that recess would be over before he could walk back. In all the other games of the pre-Houston period the smaller boys suffered proportionately.

The new principal had not been around many days until he saw that changes must be made. At the rate things were going the older boys would eventually graduate and there would be no able-bodied young ones to take their place. Seeing himself faced with the loss of his job, Professor Houston introduced other games.

the miracle of the Modern Monday

Where did the morning get-to? It began normally enough, until you decided, while tidying up, that the bathroom curtains looked soiled. That reminded you of the chair slip cover, and before you knew it, you had a stack of laundry that high. So here it is noon; there's lunch to get and a bridge date at 2 o'clock. Oh, woe!

No woe! Not with the automatic laundry. Watch how easy this becomes. Into the washer goes one stack, and fiddle... splash... you can forget about that load and start lunch. In no time at all those clothes will be washed, rinsed, and whirled damp dry. See how snowy white and soft your towels and sheets come out.

Lunch finished. Dishes stacked. Then out of the washer with one load, and into the dryer. The other load is tucked into the washer at the same time. The first load will wash, the second dry while you're getting dressed for the party. The load in the dryer requires no attention. It will come out fresh, sweet-smelling, and soft, ready for ironing.

"Pardon me, mam, but didn't you go off and leave a load of clothes in your dryer, and another in the washer?" "I did. Both are automatic and will shut off when they're through. When I get home, I'll empty the dryer and put in the wet clothes. Those are the ones I want damp dry for ironing tomorrow."

If there's no resemblance between this and your washday, ask your dealer to show you those miraculous laundry twins, the automatic washer and dryer.

About Face

TAX collectors and customs officers in these days are highly respectable men. They are not (officially) popular, but every one knows they are necessary to the collection of taxes by law, and they get no commission on their collections. They live on a salary only so fixed by law. If any one feels "gouged" by taxes he never accuses the collector, the fault is somewhere else.

Now in Palestine, in the time of Dr. Foreman Christ, it was different. Throughout the gospels the name "publican" or, as translated in present-day English, "tax-collector," is evidently a name for a mean man. Jesus himself used publicans as examples of the lowest level of society. The reason was this: In the Roman system of levying taxes in a given district was "farmed out" that is to say, offered at auction to the highest bidder. The collector, the privilege of levying taxes in a given district was "farmed out" that is to say, offered at auction to the highest bidder. The man who gave the franchise, and then he or men he hired, would proceed to collect all the traffic would bear.

A Christian's Job
ONE day Jesus just said "follow me" to one of these men, named Matthew, and the man got up and followed him. So far as we know, he never set foot in his office again. It is likely, as a great deal has been suggested, this was not the first time Matthew had seen Jesus. Possibly they had had conversations before, out of business hours. The preacher goes on to suggest that Matthew may have come to loathe his job, but never have seen just how he could leave it.

Be that as it may, Matthew understood quite well that he could not be both a publican and a follower of Jesus. This raises a question: Are there Christians today which a true Christian might follow with respect? There was a dope peddler one night sitting on a stone wall outside a New England church. Somehow the Spirit of God blessed the dingy that night for one of the hymns sang its way straight into that man's heart, and that very hour he threw his pack of dope away and went to that business. We can all see that he was right; but are there other things that cannot have the blessing of Christ upon them?

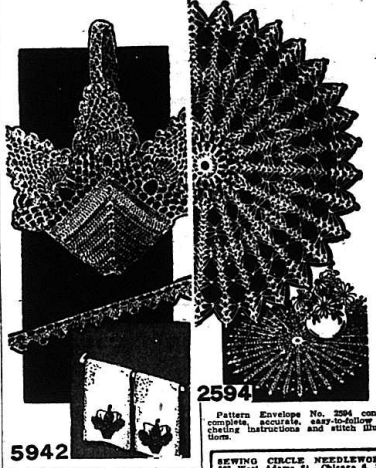

Whom Do You Follow?
THE story of Matthew suggests a line that every one is some kind of follower. Some people just "follow their noses"; that is, they just keep on in the routine of their life doing things today as they did yesterday just because they have the habit of living in this way. Others follow an ambition, either desire for money, other follow pleasure, others attach themselves to a leader (political, social or what not) and follow somebody else's bandwagon.

The tragedy of the Christian church is that although every Christian, or rather every church member, has solemnly promised to follow Jesus Christ, they don't all follow him, by any means. They go right on living in their habit, or pleasure, or ambition, and they do not ask (as Matthew must have asked) whether these things are such as Christ can bless, or not.

In spite of Jesus' plain statement: You cannot serve God and Mammon the god of money, or Mammon the right serving Mammon in spite of their Christian profession.

About Face!
THE word "conversion" means I simply "turning around." It means turning all the way around. When the sergeant says "about face" it won't do for the rookie to twist his face around, or to turn one foot this way or the other, or to twist his all the way or nothing. Yet when Jesus says "Convert" he gives the command "About Face!" how many Christians barely move a muscle! The church is so well loaded with half-converted people that they are turned around enough to go to church, but the rest of the week they are headed just the other way. If you are not a Christian, what we need is more Matthews, converted 100 per cent. (Copyright 1951 by The Christian Science Monitor, Boston, Mass. Reprinted by permission of the publisher.)
