OPERATION UNITY Europe Is Weary of Eternal War But Wary of Forming Alliances

By Farnham F. Dodge. (Editor's note: This is one of a series of articles prepared by the Editor of Western Newspaper Union while on a reporting trip through Europe and the Near East.)

Wary and wary. That's a two-word diagnosis of Patient Europe's condition as the fever mounts, recedes, and climbs again. These countries are weary of war.

They are wary of alliances that might lead to another war. Like Americans, these people would like to be left alone "beyond the fields". But unlike Americans, all they need to do is look out across their fields, to see the massed forces of the Russian military machines aligned along the Iron Curtain.

In face of such a disheartening picture how has it been possible for the free world to effect any unity whatsoever in its political and military organizations? That force binds century-old nationalities enemies together?

"Old time religion" is a pretty good answer. It is the key. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, key figure in both the political organization and the military organization, is the key figure in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its military arm, SHAPE, has been tramping up and down Europe for nine months now with the real and much of same spiritual vigor of some of our legendary American evangelists.

In fact, he told us in his European headquarters that he had, indeed, been tagged as "another Billy Sunday" using the words he added, "I accept the designation because it is his firm conviction that the only way in which the free countries can survive is by creating a unity which is based on a spiritual appeal direct to the hearts of men."

To emphasize this point, General Eisenhower said: "Military might is the product and not the sum of spiritual strength, economic health and military power. If any one factor is reduced to zero, the product of the three becomes zero."

Spark of Hope. Eisenhower's "right-hand", Chief of Staff Gen. Albert M. Gruenther, echoed this name philosophy in his shorter post. Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of Allied Air Forces Central Europe, told us at his Fontainebleau headquarters that the year he had been in Europe he had seen a kindling of "the spark of reviving hope". He believes that the reviving hope is the spark of reviving hope. Europeans are getting from the feeling of collective security created by the cooperative military and political efforts of the United States. Everywhere in the SHAPE command you find this spirit.

But there are still more than inspiration to mass the forces of the free world. What is the nature of the organization we have in Europe today, and how does it function? Treaty Is Foundation. Foundation stone of this structure is the North Atlantic Treaty, ratified by the United States Senate in July 1949. In this treaty, the signatory nations agreed to stand in armed attack against one or more of them shall be considered an attack against all. And they pledged themselves to a conference of self-help and mutual aid for the purpose of developing their individual and joint capacity to resist aggression. This treaty sets up NATO, which stands for North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Member nations are Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, United Kingdom, and the United States.

The announced object of the North Atlantic community of nations is to preserve peace through strength by building up the powers of the free world to point where no aggressor will be bold enough to strike.

To build up such a power, NATO, of course, had to develop a military force, and at the Brussels conference in December 1950, the members agreed on plans for building this force. The result is the greatest cooperative effort in history to create a joint army in peacetime for the prevention of war.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was designated supreme commander for the integrated army, and other top positions were filled by officers of the different member nations, who work together as a team. Headquarters are located near Paris, France, and the command is designated by the initials SHAPE: Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe.

It was at this headquarters that we heard from General Eisenhower and his chief of staff, General Al Gruenther just what the problems were with regard to the building up of this force, and a summary of some of the solutions which they were using to meet the complicated situations.

All of the countries belonging to NATO are expected to do everything possible to meet their own defenses. America's contribution is made through the Mutual Defense Assistance Program—MDAP, which supplies economic, potential, and actual military strength with funds, equipment and technical assistance.

"Hands and this assistance are not confined to our NATO partners. Other free nations such as Yugoslavia, Turkey, Greece, and Italy share in MDAP programs. The combined efforts are aimed at building for SHAPE, in order to deter aggression with a show of military power. Russia seems to understand that kind of talk. But the big question remaining is whether or not we can build our forces fast enough to create the desired stalemate. A discussion of the treaty is connected with reaching this objective follows in a subsequent article in this series.

Pilot Lunches at Farm After Near-Miss Crash

SALEM, Ore.—An Air Force pilot, Lt. Clarence Burke, bailed out of his flaming F-81 and then accepted the calm invitation to lunch in a farm home that was almost destroyed by his crashing aircraft. He parachuted to safety from 8,000 feet and then ran to the spot where the plane crashed. The only damage was done by a wing tip that punched a hole in the roof. The pilot is reported to be in good health. James Jackson calmly invited the lieutenant to lunch—and he accepted.

THE FELIX AND MARY CORNER. By Richard Hill Wilkinson. FELIX felt somewhat like the man who said there would be no dining after a street car once you'd caught it. Mary Snell, after two years of courtship by Felix's part, had finally given in and said she would marry him. When Mary Snell said "Yes" or "No," the meaning of the word was not clear. Felix knew it, too. He knew the battle was won. He knew the word was "Yes," and that settled it. Nothing could change her mind.

3-Minute Fiction

Felix wanted to set a date for the wedding, but Felix suggested waiting a while. The fact is, he wanted a chance to catch his breath. He wanted, as the story books put it, to have one last thing before becoming a benedict.

So Felix, without saying a word to any one, packed a bag and went off for Cedar Rapids, as if the first Mary knew that was a letter which she received from the Springs signed by Felix.

In part, the letter said: "I am combining a short business trip with some deep-sea fishing. Please do not worry about me, darling, as I will be home shortly, and we will make plans for the wedding." Felix did not mention that on the deep-sea fishing trip he had met a party of young folks, including a very attractive red-headed girl named Nan.

In fact, Felix had such a nice time during the next few days that he decided to prolong his visit. Which he did, writing Mary Snell to tell her the truth. He was glad he was having such a good time and getting rested. She, of course, was busy making plans for the wedding.

It was an answer to that adolescent boy's wish. We are prone to bewail the delinquency of youth, and then we encourage some of it by such undraped displays of the community's daughters as was given at that service club luncheon.

What is there in our high school curriculum that calls for such display? Certainly it is not the teaching of logic or feminine modesty. Whatever it is, it would be well to discount the study, and to continue the encouragement of at least one form of youth delinquency. Let us get back to grandmother's days and year.

It would seem that old people never die, but just drift into and stay on the relief rolls. In 1934 they numbered 235,000. In 1951 the number had grown to 2,700,000.

SAINTS AND SINNERS

When some fellow yields to temptation
And breaks a conventional law
We look for no good in his make-up
But Oh How we look for the flaw
No one will ask, "How tempted?"
Nor allow for the battles he's fought.
His name becomes food for the jacks
For us who have never been caught.
"He's sinned" shout we from the house-tops
We forget the good he has done;
We center on one lost battle
And forget the times he has won.
"Come, gaze on the sinner!" we thunder,
And by his example be taught
That his footsteps lead to destruction."
Cry we who have never been caught
I'm a sinner, O Lord, and I

I know it:
I'm weak, and I blunder and fail;
I'm tossed on life's stormy ocean
Like ships embroiled in a gale
I'm willing to trust in Thy mercy,
To keep the commandments Thou'st taught;
But deliver me, Lord, from the judgement
Of the "saints" who have never been caught.

ROCKCASTLE FACTS and STORIES

By RALPH GRIFFIN

Before he came to Mt. Vernon as principal of its Graded High School, Professor T. A. Houston had been a football player of some ability. More than that, he owned a ball, which he turned over to the school with no strings attached except that everyone who so desired should have a chance to play with it.

All the boys in school soon belonged to a team, with certain days and hours assigned when various groups could have exclusive use of the pigskin. With the players graded according to size, fatalities fell off at a rapid rate. The game was rough, but nothing to compare with the pastimes which had been engaged in when the school was left to its own devices. By organizing other playground activities for the younger children, Prof. Houston soon had order where chaos had formerly reigned.

The football wore out before this principal left the school, some two years later, if memory serves us correctly. Mt. Vernon never became really football-minded, the boys didn't have a regular football field and there were no teams in nearby towns. The game was never anything more than a pastime.

It remained for Professor Irvine back in these days, we called them all "Professor" if they wore pants and taught school) to really hit the jackpot in sports. He introduced the game which is still with us today and going stronger each succeeding year.

J. S. Irvine came to Mt. Vernon when Houston left for greener pastures and profited much by the work which his predecessor had done. This gentleman was very much interested in sports of all kinds, but particularly so in basketball and tennis. Recollection tells us that he first built a clay tennis court and it wasn't long until this game was going merrily for the few who could afford racquets and tennis shoes to say nothing of white flannels.

There were too many who couldn't induce their parents to invest in such luxuries and these have-nots interfered mightily with the game. They held out for their right to play upon the court in hob-nailed shoes and to bat the balls around with anything from discarded snowshoes to frying pans. Matters were rapidly building up toward a king-sized riot when the good Professor, in desperation, suggested basketball.

Hardly anyone had ever heard of the game but all were ready to try anything new. John Lair was appointed to raise the wherewithal to purchase a ball, task which was far from easy any way may be. In modern times it would probably be easier to raise sufficient funds to erect a new school building.

John appointed everyone whom he suspected of having a dime to serve as his assistants. The job was eventually done largely thru the efforts of the lads who were in position to steal eggs from their hen-houses and exchange them with the school for a few odd pennies. A money-order was purchased and the school awaited, with bated breath, for Sears, Roebuck to fill the order.

Meanwhile, there was no shortage of willing hands to go into the forest and fell goal posts, which were equipped with barrel-hoops and erected in suitable positions upon the playground. For a gymnasium there was all the great outdoors. Where were the spectators going to sit? They weren't! They could stand about upon the grounds upon vantage spots of their own choosing; they could hang out school windows; or they could climb trees. Very little thought was given to the matter at that time nor for several years afterwards. No one suspected that the groundwork was being laid for what was to later become the big business.

The posts were erected and the court carefully lined in what was hoped to be the proper manner, long before the basketball arrived. Within minutes of the time when the package eventually arrived at the local post office the news had passed thru every class in school. "It's here!"

Two of the older boys were permitted to take time off from the last school period to get the ball properly assembled and inflated. When the gong sounded the teachers, even Irvine, abandoned all hopes of discipline for the moment and stood aside to avoid the mad rush to the basketball court.

The Perfect Government
By A Witness Of Jehovah
By Rose Jasper
"And this gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in all the world as a Witness to all Nations, then shall the end come. (Mt. 24:14)

This Kingdom Covenant was made with David that a son from his lineage would be a permanent government of all the nations. (1 Chron. 17:10-14) (Psa. 89:34-37) (Isa. 9:6, 7) (Psa. 72:1-11) (Rev. 11:15) (Rev. 19:11-16)

That Son of David was Jesus Christ the Son of the living God Jehovah, who was the heir of the Kingdom Covenant. (Act. 2:30-18) (Luke 1:30-33)

Soon this Kingdom of Government under Our King Christ Jesus will be realized. For centuries men have prayed, "Thy Kingdom Come, Thy will be done on earth as in heaven." (Mt. 6:10)

This Kingdom or Government was seen in a vision by John. At (Rev. 21:1-5) He says, "Behold I make all things new."

Christ Jesus shall be Earth's King to whom we must lend support and receive his blessings of eternal life on earth under a new system by virtue of Jesus' sacrifice laid down on earth 1900 years ago on our behalf.

Christ Jesus will demonstrate his worthiness of the Prince of Peace. (Luke 2:14) (Mt. 5:5) (St. Jon. 1:16) With such a blessed prospect before us of Peace on Earth under Christ's Righteous Rule including His "Body Members," let all men turn to the true and living God Jehovah and trust in the shed blood of Christ Jesus the Son of God for the remission of sin. Sing forth Jehovah's praises of establishing a perfect government in the hands of His blessed Son, Jesus Christ. And in His name shall the Gentiles trust. (Rom. 15:10-12)

When a "Woman's Privilege" Meets a Kitchen Sink

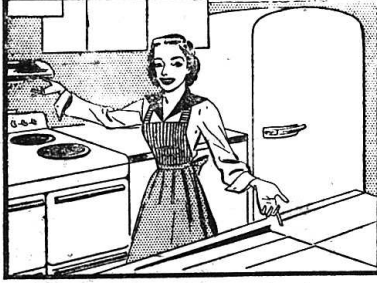

Even in a new home, it's a woman's privilege to rearrange the furniture whenever she sees fit. In the kitchen, however, this irresistible force meets immovable objects.

Kitchens must be planned beforehand. You just can't move a kitchen sink around to satisfy a sudden whim. That usually goes for the range and refrigerator too. Yet many kitchens are built without the careful planning that takes into consideration kitchen efficiency.

Will you be able to set down a bag of groceries and store the items in refrigerator or cabinets without trotting all around the kitchen?

Does your plan consider the countless trips you make from refrigerator to sink, and sink to range? Will a step or two suffice, or will you be scurrying miles each day just to prepare and cook a meal?

Will dishes move from range to dining table with the least lost motion? Is there space to stack plates, platters, bowls for easy serving? Will there be plenty of convenience outlets for your plug-in appliances?

It costs no more to have your kitchen planned beforehand, or to have your present plans checked by experienced kitchen planners. Kentucky Utilities Company maintains a "Kitchen Planning Service" to help you with kitchen planning. This service is free. Phone our nearest office, or send a sealed plan of your kitchen to Customer Service Department, Kentucky Utilities Company, 159 West Main Street, Lexington, Ky.
