Kentucky is Forested Twice as Heavy

Nearly one half of Kentucky's total land area, 11,400,000 acres is forested, according to an article appearing in the March issue of Kentucky Business, official magazine of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. Surveys just completed by the Central States Forest Experiment Station and the Kentucky Division of Forestry reveal that the state has twice the volume of saw timber estimated in previous reports.

The article, written by Harold B. Newland, Kentucky State Forester, sets the total volume of Kentucky saw timber at 24.5 billion board feet. The average volume of saw-forest land varies from 1,897 board feet in central Kentucky to 2,349 board feet in Western Kentucky, the article relates, adding that eastern Kentucky timber lands average 2,400 board feet per acre. The average volume of growing stock on each acre of commercial forest land is 649 cubic feet in central Kentucky and 666 in the Western part of the state.

Altogether, there are more than 70 native species of trees in Kentucky of which at least 59 have commercial value. About 85 per cent of the sawtimber in the state is hardwood, the article continues.

Newland cites in the article that good protection and manmost of the commercial forests are badly stocked. The sawtimber volume per acre should be perhaps 10,000 board feet, which is from 7,000 to 8,000 board feet more than now contains. Notwithstanding this, Kentucky Business reports, the state is growing timber faster than we are using it, but too much of the excess growth is of the wrong species, form or size. We have twice as much southern hardwoods and some of them grow very fast.

The article contends that there is a need for new industries in the state which can utilize inferior timber material at a profit. Specifically, the story points out the need for pulp and paper mills which would manufacture Kentucky's timber.

Newland lauds several private and government agencies for the pioneering work they have done to save Kentucky's forests, but he urges cooperation among timber land owners and operators.

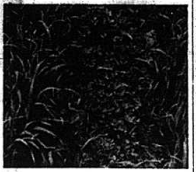

He calls imperative the success of a sound forestry for Kentucky.

Full Feed of Plant Nutrients Pays Off In Extra Bushels of Spring Seeded Grains

SPRING seeded small grains will pay extra dividends in more bushels per acre at harvest, if you give them a full feed of fertilizer carrying nitrogen, phosphate and potash. You will also get more hay and forage from the legume-grass crop seeded with the small grains.

The Middle West Soil Improvement Committee cites these benefits from providing wheat, oats and barley with an adequate supply of nutrients at seeding time:

- 1—You will get more stalks and heads per seed.
- 2—Grain will be plumper and of higher quality.
- 3—You will get a better seeding.
- 4—Make sure your soil has a good balance of nitrogen to phosphate to potash, the committee advises. All of these nutrients have to work together to establish strong roots, build stiff straw and high yielding grain. If your soil is short on one

Well-fertilized seeding yields more grain and forage. Nutrient and long on another, the plants can't develop and mature and give you bushel-building ground.

The committee says that the number of stalks from a single seed can be doubled through the use of fertilizer.

Magazine Hits New Circulation High

The circulation of Kentucky official publication, "Kentucky Business," reached 55,000 with the Spring issue, the Division of Publicity announced today. This is in comparison with a circulation of 27,000 four years ago, and is an increase of 5,000 from the previous issue.

The Spring issue, which came off the press today, features Miss Betty Lynn, Harrodsburg, Queen of the Mountain Laurel Festival, on the cover and has a feature about the colorful event on the inside pages.

Six pages are devoted to the new Kenlake Hotel, which opened last week at Kentucky Lake State Park. Another feature announces the addition of a new shrine to the state park system. It is the burial ground of Isaac Shelby, first governor of Kentucky.

Other feature tell of the fishing outlook in Kentucky this year, the only race that Man O'War lost, attractions around Herrington Lake, and the Kentucky Derby julep cups.

Teamwork of Lime and Fertilizer Builds Pasture, Ups Legume-Grass Yields 5-Fold

Typical of how Midwestern farmers are building profits and improving soil fertility via the grassland route, is the experience of Clarence Kates, Eckert, Ind., according to Dr. Dodd. When Kates first limed and fertilized, he got 5 times more legumes and grass than formerly. Now he adds 200 to 300 pounds per acre of 0-20-20 yearly to all his sod land. He has kept 5 fields of Ladino clover and grass in high production for 5 to 10 years through his yearly fertilizer treatment and grazing management. Kates and his son are making a good living on 78 acres. Hay yields of 3 tons per acre, 70 to 80 bushels of corn and 90 to 70 bushels of oats are being produced on Walter Virtue's farm near Hanover, Ill., through a grassland improvement program. This includes use of 150 pounds per acre of 34-12 at corn planting time and about 150 pounds of superphosphate in the grain seeding in which new meadow is being established.

Thirty-five acres are yielding more income than most 150-acre farms for W. M. Cornwall, Franklin, Ky. He uses 500 to 1,000 pounds of fertilizer per acre annually. He is producing 10,000 pounds of milk a month on 100 acres of sod. His most intensively fertilized pastures that formerly was without land.

240,000 Income Tax Returns to be Filed

Based on last year's figures, it appears that about 240,000 Kentucky State Income Tax returns will have to be filed in less than 30 days to meet the April 15 deadline.

Nelson Perry, field division director for the Kentucky Department of Revenue, said reports from the field offices show that 26,389 returns were filed during January and February. This is a greater total than for the same months last year, but far under the complete total expected, Perry said.

The department believes that with expanded employment during 1951, the total number of returns on which tax must be paid will greatly exceed the pay returns filed last year. Over 1,000,000 forms have been distributed by the department to take care of the filings for 1951.

Single persons earning an income of 1,000 or more during 1951, or a man and wife together earning $2,000 or more during 1951, are required to file Kentucky State Income Tax returns.

Department of Revenue Offices are located in Ashland, Bowling Green, Hazard, Covington, Frankfort, Lexington, Louisville, Owensboro, Somerset, Paducah.

The deadline for filing is April 15.

ANSWER THE CALL

With the simple phrase "Answer the Call" the American Red Cross this month makes its appeal to every citizen to carry on its local, national and international work. Here, surely is a call we must answer generously and with a full measure of warm hearted approval. For the call of the Red Cross is the call of suffering humanity everywhere of human beings in need or distress across the street or across the nation. It is a call which Americans have never failed to answer. It is particularly appropriate to this appeal because we know that the Red Cross should be a part of American life. The Red Cross is not an organization apart from the people of this community. It is made up of the people themselves. When it acts, anywhere, it acts for all people of this country. It is made up of the people themselves. It acts for all people of this country. It is made up of the people themselves. When it acts, anywhere, it acts for all people of this country. It is made up of the people themselves.

Everett Harrison, who was working in the place at the time of the raid, was fined twenty dollars and sentenced to thirty days in jail. Lets Build That Hospital

Much has been said recently about the building of a hospital for Rockcastle County. There are few people who deny that our need for this idea was expressed in our community. Mr. Oscar Reynolds, president of the Rockcastle Chamber of Commerce, wrote to the Board of Health that there would be any possibility. Federal assistance on such a project. He was informed that our county had been put in the same district with Madison County and that any additional hospitals or hospital expansion would be made in Richmond, which would still leave many of our people 30 or 40 miles from the hospital. By then our doctors, suffering from cracked vertebrae from riding jeeps and mules will have been confined to wheel chairs and our beloved county will be a medical no man's land.

How to Grow 100 Bushels of Corn Per Acre

This farm soil has what it takes to grow bumper crops...
WHAT does it take to grow a 100-bushel per acre corn crop? Four main essentials are necessary, says the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee:
1. Good seed. Plant well adapted hybrids that are particularly suited to your growing conditions.
2. Be sure you have enough stalks per acre. That means from 14,000 to 16,000 on most farm soils.
3. Provide the soil with sufficient amounts of well-balanced plant food so it will be able to feed the crop all season long—from germination to maturity.
4. Keep the soil in shape to take in plenty of water and hold it for the crop's use. An inch or two of rain can make the difference between average and high yields when plowed out of a good soil crop is mellow, fluffy, well drained and able to supply the moisture a corn crop needs for extra bushels per acre.

Keep Corn Plant's 'Pipe Lines' Open To Get High Yields

KEEP the corn plant's pipe line system open, if you want to get high yields per acre this year. You can do this by making sure the soil furnishes the crop with a well-balanced supply of the three major plant nutrients—nitrogen, phosphate and potash.
Each corn plant has from 1 to 1 1/2 miles of interior tubes or pipe lines, according to Dr. George N. Hoffer, Midwest manager of the American Potash Institute. These tubes carry up to the leaves. Here the nutrients are manufactured into starches, sugars and proteins. Other tubes carry these foods back to the roots and through the ear sheaths for developing kernels.
The joints or nodes in a corn plant are distribution centers where all the pipe lines are interwoven in a

CHICKEN POX EPIDEMIC IN KENTUCKY

Chicken pox is breaking out all over the Commonwealth with 933 cases reported during January and February. However, the number is not abnormal for this season as the late winter and early spring a mild epidemic of the disease. High contagious chicken pox most often is transmitted directly from one person to another but even persons who handle clothing or articles used by the patient may become infected. It generally follows its course within 14 to 21 days. There is no vaccination to prevent the disease but persons who have had chicken pox are immune to a second attack.
Usually mild in children but more severe in adults, chicken pox is infectious a short time before the pox or rash appears and continues until the pox is out of balance—particularly if potash is lacking—the tubes in the joint tissues in the base of the corn plant get clogged. Then the roots starve, the stalks become weakened and infected and the plants lodge. When tubes in the ear nodes fail to work, kernels cannot be filled. Ears do not mature.
Tissue tests on many Midwestern farms last summer showed that corn plants with defective pipe lines were starving for potash. Joint tissues were swollen, detached and disorganized due to accumulations of iron and other metals.
Healthy plants with efficiently operating pipe lines had plenty of potash. Potash keeps the joint tissues active in producing protective enzymes that protect the inner health of the corn plants.
When all the plant nutrients are in well balanced supply you will get thirty, high producing corn crops.

THEY WERE WATCHING A movie the night that Alice came to her decision.

They had been engaged two years then. They would have been married 12 months ago, but Jud didn't feel that they could get along on the commusions he made selling tours for the travel agency which employed him. He had ideas that he was working on that he had expected to materialize long since. He wanted to establish a freight line to haul lumber down from Maine under sail. Money in it. But he gave that up for an exclusive summer cruise line, also involving sailing vessels. Alice liked anything having to do with the water, and both ideas appealed to her. It had been Jud's idea, his dreams of adventure, that had drawn her to him in the first place.

The summer cruise plans had gone by the board in favor of a travel agency of his own. He was working on that plan now. In the dim light of the theatre she looked at him. He had a strong profile. The movie enthralled him. Its title was "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Presently she looked away and Jud stirred. "O. K., let's get out of here." "It wasn't like him! He never finished anything. Couldn't even wait to see the movie through. They crossed the Common and Chariot street and found a bench in the Public Garden. It was a warm night, moonless. Tremont street's electric signs winked at them through the trees.

"I must tell him," Alice thought. "I can't let this go on. Marriage would mean unhappiness for both of us. Never finishing anything." "I'm glad you wanted to leave

THE PRESIDENT'S DIARY

A person in high position is very often a lonely man. His contacts are so many and varied, and important, so that he can confide little to anyone. He must keep many matters secret. His decisions are of national, if not of world importance. What he says now may become world history.

The power such a man wields is beyond comprehension.

In the book by William Hillman, titled "Mr. President" the author describes the occupant of the White House as a very lonely man. It is in diary form, consisting of memos the president wrote to other people or to himself. The phase that President Truman wrote about to describe his feelings when he wrote, "What a Life" at first thought taken by itself thrill of being President. But taken in its context, it means the opposite. The President sat alone at the dinner table and wrote the following:

"Had dinner by myself tonight. Worked in the Lee House until dinner time. A butler came in very formally and said, "Mr. President, dinner is served." I walk into the dining room in the Blair House. Barnett in tails and white tie brings me a fruit cup. Barnett takes away the empty cup. John brings me a plate. Barnett brings me a tenderloin. John brings me asparagus. Barnett brings me carrots and beets. I have to eat alone and in silence in candle-lit room.

I ring. Barnett takes the plate and butter plates. John comes in with a napkin and silver crumb tray—there are no crumbs but John has to brush them off the table anyway. Barnett brings me a plate with a finger bowl and a little doily on it. I remove the finger bowl and doily and John puts a glass saucer and a little bowl on the plate. Barnett brings me some chocolate custard. John brings me a demitasse (at home a little cup of coffee—about two small gulps) and my dinner is over. I take a hand bath in the finger bowl and go back to work. What a life!

Who would want to aspire to be president of the United States after reading this diary?

THE OTHER SHEEP

By a witness of Jehovah
Rose Jasper

Jehovah is testing the ears of all nations to find ears that hear the voice of his beloved Son Jesus Christ. (St. Jn. 27-29) (Psa. 93:13)

It is now time for world change, and mankind's sore need for a righteous world ruler. Jehovah has raised up his Chief Official Christ Jesus to be the royal ruler over all the earth and its peoples. (Rev. 19:11 to 16) (Rev. 11:5) (St. Jn. 18:36,37)

The other sheep are hearing the call and taking up the proclamation of the Kingdom of God and hailing Christ Jesus as King as they did when He rode into Jerusalem on a colt. (Mark. 11:1-10)

Today the dividing work is in progress as it is written at (St. Mat. 25:31-46)

For He shall judge the living and the dead at His appearing and His Kingdom. (2 Tim. 4:1)

In for such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh. (Mat. 24:44)

Behold I come as a thief. Blessed is he who watches and keep his garments lest he walk naked and see his shame. (Rev. 16:16-15)

Blessed are they that mourn for they shall be comforted. (Mt. 5:4)

Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth. (Mt. 5:5)

We live in a world at the present time wherein dwells wickedness, but all this will melt away in fervent heat of a great time of trouble. (Mt. 24:21)

But Peter says, "According to God's promise we look for a new heaven and a new earth wherein dwells righteousness. (2 Pet 3:13)

With righteousness shall he judge the poor and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth and he shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked. The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, the leopard shall lie down with the kid, the calf and young lion and the fawn together and a little child shall lead them.

And the cow and bear shall feed, their young ones shall lie down together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock.

The sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the cockatrice den. They shall not hurt or destroy in all my holy mountains for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters that cover the sea. (Isa. 11:1-9)

For behold I create a new heaven and new earth and the former shall not be remembered or come to mind. (Isa. 65:17-25)

As the earth brings forth her bud and as the garden causeth the things that are sown in it to spring forth, so the Lord God will cause righteousness to spring forth before all the nation. (Isa. 61:11)

And the angel said to Mary Fear not Mary for thou hast feared favor with God. And supreme glory shall be called the Son of the Highest and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever and of his Kingdom there shall be no end. (Luke 1:30-33)

And this gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached throughout all the world as a witness to all nations, then shall the end come. St. Mt. 24:14)

Therefore we pray, "Thy Kingdom come thy will be done in the earth as it is in heaven." Amen. (Mt. 24:14)

CHOOSE YE THIS DAY

By Bro. Wendell Below

We are told that nearly three thousand years ago it was the custom of some of the inhabitants of Canaan and Philistia to worship a god called Moloch. The god was represented in the form of an iron image which sat, legs crossed and arms out stretched as though in an attitude of begging. Upon certain nights, particularly when the moon was full, the devotees of this idol would come to adore and appease their god. To show the warmth of their affection they built a great fire about the iron figure and heated it until its white hot glow illumined the country round about. Now was a moment of intense joy and ecstasy. The crowd of worshippers chanted and shouted a word of adoration and swayed to the music of beating drums. An infant child was taken from the arms of a mother and placed in the waiting arms of the fiery god. The drums beat the voices of the worshippers rose in great crescendo. The plaintive cries of the infant were not heard because of the noise of the multitude.

How terrible! We think we rejoice that such worship is not carried on today. Yet many persons in our land and community pay such homage to a evil god. The modern idol is one of worldly pleasure, of material things, or of ourselves. To them we offer the best we have; our homes, our children, and, even our souls. The sound of church bells on a Sunday morning disturbs our ears a little or we do not hear. The little child says, "Mother, let's go to Sunday School this morning," and mother drowns out with the cry, "We would but daddy never wants to go."

The preacher stops by and urges you to become a Christian but you cover the sound of his urgings by shouting excuses and accusations: You're as good as many who are church members, you are benevolent and kind, your parents were good Christians, you want to become a Christian after a while but you are not ready now. All these excuses are but beating drums and shouts which are used to still the voice that speaks within you. The voice of the True God speaks to each of us and says, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve, God or mammon."
