GUTENBERG REPRINT IS ACQUIRED AT UK

Facsimile of the original Gutenberg Bible is the latest addition to the rare book collection at University of Kentucky's Margaret L. King library. The acquisition of the facsimile one of ten such reprints now in the United States, was made possible by a generous gift from an anonymous friend of the library. Published in Germany in 1466, the original Gutenberg Bible reputedly was the first book ever printed from movable type, and the original Bible now sells for one-half million dollars. According to Dr. Lawrence S. Thompson, director of UK libraries, the book still is considered by many experts to be the most beautiful work ever published because it competed with hand-written manuscripts of that period.

Pendleton County, Ky., is famous for its honey. It is one of the few Kentucky counties to produce honey in commercial quantities. Catlettsburg, Ky., once was one of the most prosperous towns in the state. It served hunters and trappers for 50 years as a trading post and later flourished during steamboat days.

Silk worms once were raised in Kentucky. The Shaker religious sect, which settled near Russellville in 1800 raised their own silk worms from which they wove fine fabrics.

BOOM OR BUST in 1953? Federal economists are split on the outlook. The majority of federal prophets foresee continued good times, but the pessimists have more arguments and are in agreement with many private businessmen.

PRO BOOM ANTI BOOM The federal spending program will be steady in 1953. Defense outlays will be at a $60-billion instead of the $50-billion rate now. And plant and equipment expenditure will be equal to this year's level. New home construction will hit around 900,000. This is a slight drop in home construction from 1952, but this year has been an abnormally good one. Defense spending has about $10 billion a year to climb before leveling off. Congress, if it enacts the excess profits tax as expected, will have to ease the personal income tax, especially the 10 percent boost of 1951, and this will give consumers a psychological impetus to spend more money. Under our present social security system, if wages and salaries fall a little more than $2-billion, unemployment insurance will put $1-billion back in earners' pockets, keeping buying power safe. And if income drops, the amount taken from it in income tax drops correspondingly, making up for some of the income drop. Farm price supports will keep agricultural America's income on a fairly even level and preserve rural buying power.

Diabetes Week

The fifth annual Diabetes Detection Week will be observed nationwide November 16-22. Sponsored by the American Diabetes Association, the week is designed to find an estimated 1,000,000 unknown diabetics in the United States. Diabetes Detection Week in Ky. will find private physicians, local hospitals and clinical laboratories cooperating in the performance of urine tests for sugar. Bruce Underwood, M. D., State Health Commissioner, urges all Kentuckians to support this campaign to find diabetics since in 1951 diabetes ranked as 11th in the major causes of death in the state. Kentucky state Department of Health statistics further reveal that there were 372 deaths resulting from this cause.

Studies show that one out of every 75 persons in the country has diabetes. The tendency of the disease is to strike persons past forty, the overweight women and relatives of a diabetic. Diabetes is unpredictable however, and can strike anyone. For this reason each Kentuckian should see his private physician, local hospital or laboratory during this special week. Early detection is important. The earlier diabetes is diagnosed the easier it is to control, so that the diabetic can lead a normal life with his family and in his community.

FHA Helps Families Farm Better

Aim of the Farmers Home Administration in Rockcastle County is to help families farm better so they can live better and produce food and grain needed for defense, Robert C. Winn, FHA County Supervisor explained today. "We have two tools with which to do our job" Winn said. They are credit and supervision or guidance in good farm practices to accompany loans. In the FHA program of supervised credit, qualified family type farmers receive both credit and guidance in making and carrying out sound farm and home plans. Since the agency does not compete with banks and other local credit institutions, loans are limited to persons unable to get suitable credit terms elsewhere. Loans are made for production purposes, to buy livestock, equipment, fertilizer, lime, in-secticides, seed, or other supplies, for farm ownership to buy family-type farms or to enlarge or develop inadequate farms; for farm housing, to construct, remodel or repair houses or other farm buildings. Mr. Winn believes planning and supervision are of major importance with each type of credit. Borrowers are aided in planning and adopting good farm and home practices. In construction, removal or repair of buildings, special attention is given to improving crop yields increasing milk and meat production, and conserving the soil. The major agriculture goal include proper land use, balance of livestock with feed crops, and full use of family labor supply. Families cooperating with the Farmers Home Administration are encouraged to take advantage of services offered by other agricultural agencies as well, Mr. Winn pointed out. The FHA office for Rockcastle County is located in the county Educational Building on the same floor with other USDA Agricultural Agencies.

NEIGHBOR STATES SOGG BIG TRUCKS FOR OVERLOADING While Kentuckians know little of enforcement of their state's excellent laws governing highway freighting, newspapers in neighboring states have recently published plenty about efforts of Highway Police and other agencies to safeguard the roads and the motorists who pay for them. The North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles reports that in July, 1952, its workers weighed 36,991 trucks, found 438 in violation of the state's weight load limit laws and collected fines of $18,377.15. The annual report of the Virginia Highway Department for the year ending June 30, 1951, says the state collected in that year $980,000 in fines against overloaded trucks. A total of 725,000 trucks were weighed. Virginia has 30 percent scales. Weighing is done by the State Police. The money collected in fines goes to schools. In West Virginia, the Division of Enforcement, state road commission, reported that from July, 1951 to March 31, 1952, it caught 2226 trucks hauling loads in excess of legal limits and collected $96,074.71 in fines and costs. Indiana caught 760 big trucks violating the weight limits in April, and the Florida Supreme Court has held it is constitutional to seize trucks for violation of its weight load limits. The Ohio Highway Patrol reporting for 1951, showed 7,703 arrests of truckers for overloaded boxcars using the roads, have moved strongly in recent months by greater efforts to enforce laws regulating the use of highways by the freight trucks widely called in Kentucky state park system.

In the referendum on Nov. 22, burley growers will vote on the question of retaining quotas for 1953, 1954, and 1955. They may vote to fix a quota for three years, for quota for 1953 only, or against quotas.

FARM AND HOME NEWS

Robert F. Spence Tobacco Allotments for 1953 The Production and Marketing Administration has released the following information to farmers of Kentucky on Burley Tobacco allotments for 1953.

Burley tobacco acreage allotments for 1953 will be mailed to all growers before the Burley marketing quota referendum on November 22. R. O. Wilson, chairman of the Production and Marketing Administration, said here today.

All 1953 burley allotments except those exempted by law will be reduced approximately 10 per cent below 1952 farm acreage allotments. The mathematical factor used in calculating allotments, as required by marketing quota law and regulations is 0.8993 but most allotments will be reduced only one per cent since allotment of one acre or less may be reduced more than one tenth in any one year.

In the referendum on Nov. 22, burley growers will vote on the question of retaining quotas for 1953, 1954, and 1955. They may vote to fix a quota for three years, for quota for 1953 only, or against quotas.

Polling places will be established and announced by county PMA committees. The poll will open no later than 9 A. M. and close at 5 P. M. Wilson said. In some cases, the polls may be opened as early as 8 A. M. All farmers producing burley tobacco in 1952, whether they are growers or tenants are eligible to vote.

THE RIP-SNORTN QUARTET.

At the city of Chicago in the month of July, The Democratic convention selected Adlai Stevenson for the campaign. And add a little mite to his bronch-bustin fame. Adlai got off to a record pace with apparent signs of winning the race. He had the wind, the rain and headed out west o'er mountain and plain. With that old, old story we all know so well. About going out again and 'givin' em hell. He was called 'Harro' and 'Dear' Albin roared and Sparkman hissed. With deep-freezes to the right of them, mink coats to the left of them, five-percenters in front of them and 'red' 'niggers' all around them. They roared and thunders. While the pollsters, in silence wondered. Adlai seems to have over-shot with his guess that the Fair Deal would be chosen for 'bossness'. A little talk with Harry while they were all alone. Convinced Adlai that there was none. Quoth Harry, Washington is as clean as a milkmaid's pail: 'You'd better put a whole Republican in my federal jail.' (Sen. Thomas) Returning from the west, somewhere along the way. Perhaps it was Missouri on election day. The old donkey sickened, he refused to munch his oats and died, - buried neath an avalanche of opposition votes. The funeral train wended its back home. While Harry played the funeral march on (not a piano) - a 'red fiddler's' bone.

IMMORTAL TWELVE

Lesson for November 16, 1952 If the twelve Apostles wanted to join your church, would you let them in? Peter Marshall thought not. Books of sermons are often full of reading, but Dr. Marshall's book called 'The Twelve' is a masterpiece as a fascinating account of the twelve Apostles for the first time in a typical American church. One by one each man is re-created - all but Judas Iscariot, man of money, the church wits his services.

Even worse than all that could have been said of some of the Twelve. There was one very doubtful character among them, the man Matthew the Publican. Publicans were tax-collectors for the Roman government. He was respected them; Jesus himself used the name Publican as meaning the tax-collector. Men who knew how to sin were different from those who had never sinned. Jesus called two of these men devils at different times; Judas stayed one, but Peter changed that. Let us in to the secret of why Jesus chose these particular men. It was not for what they were at the time, not for anything that had been done for them, but for what he could do with them, that Jesus chose these men. He selected them for their different sins; that they should go out and tell other men about him. To be ready to do this, they were to spend some time in close company with him. When these men went out to speak for Jesus and the Kingdom of God they knew what they were talking about. They were different men. All but Judas, who missed his life's great chance. For these men were to be ready to do this with them. That is what the Church is and ought to be: the community of men and women who are being changed by Christ, for service in his name.
