IN MEMORY

From out of the boundless deep... The Reaper entered our Garden of Flowers... Sister Amanda Owens was the first to go... Down the Valley of Night... So we place a rose in the vase of gold... In remembrance of one so dear... Who was plucked from us in the fall of life... To answer the call so faint and clear... Sister Mildred Proctor the Reaper called next... From the midst of loved ones dear... She answered with courageous faith... Which led her on where none could hear... So we place a rose in the vase of gold... In remembrance of one so fair... Who was taken from us in the Spring of life... Leaving a world of pain and strife... When next the Reaper came to us... Bro. Fred Moore's voice answered clear... With nothing left to fear... So we place a rose in the vase of gold... In remembrance of a Worth Patron Dear... Who stepped into the boundless mist... Leaving his Sisters and Brothers here... Sister Ethel Ramsey came next in line... When the Reaper made his call... He lifted her to a world on high... Where once its reached, no one can fall... So we place a rose in the vase of gold... In remembrance of a departed flower... And may her eternal reign above... Be blessed with the Savior's power... The Reaper beckoned from the great beyond... To Sister Velsie Mullins and called her home... To adorn a seat by our Savior... And to sit with him on the Great White Throne... So we place a rose in the vase of gold... In remembrance of one in the Bloom of Youth Who was taken from us to her home above... She had learned the meaning of charity and truth... Brother George Ferguson the next to answer... Valiant in Spirit and bent with age... Leaving our midst for a better land... Left his mark upon life's page... So we place a rose in the vase of gold... In remembrance of one with silvery hair... Who crossed the barrel serene... To travel on to a land so fair... With sad regret we add another... To the list we called Sister and Brother... The arm of fate reached down again... And took its victim by the hand... So we place a rose in the vase of gold... And remember him as of old... Brother Bragg Thompson was wafted above... Whom all will remember with love... By L. B. Past Worthy Marston... Let us not say they are dead... Not really dead... But in the path to Eternity... We mortals tread... Got some few trifling steps ahead... And near to the end... So who can say when one of us will pass the bend... And meet them face to face... And know each other as our friend... We fancied dead... Sadly missed by Sisters and Brothers of Mt. Vernon Chapter No. 468...

Seed Facts — Pasture seeding in Kentucky should reach a high in 1953. Normal spring seeding will be augmented by reseeding of pastures damaged by droughts as prepared, but left unseeded in the dry fall of 1952. Although the supply of some seed may be short, the total supply will be adequate. Farmers may have to change their usual seeding mixtures in some cases but if they will select seed which are in large supply and make their purchase early, pasture seeding may be made within the usual price range. Kentucky produced 1 large crop of blue grass, orchard grass, and fescue seed in 1952 but very small crops of clover and lespedeza. Blue grass seed suppliers will be less than a year earlier because of smaller yields in the western area. A good red-clover crop in the west, augmented by a large carryover from last year, will make that legume a good choice for pasture mixtures. White dutch clover, albedo and sweet vernal seed will also be abundant and relatively cheap. Orchard grass supplies are by imports. Fescue seed is abundant and very cheap. Lespedeza will be very scarce and high. Usual seeding rates may be reduced, without effecting the plan, by supplying additional plant food, seeding at the proper time or by better placement of the seed. In 1952, Kentucky led the nation in the production of orchard grass and fescue seed and ranked near the top in blue-grass seed. This state produced 22.8 million pounds of fescue, slightly over half of the nation's 42.8 million pounds total. Kentucky's orchard grass production as 4.9 million pounds out of the U. S. total of 11.8 million. Land Facts — The rise in farm real estate values since the outbreak of the Korean war has slowed up, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In the first 12 months after the war began prices of farm property climbed 17 per cent in the second year the rise was only 5 per cent. Farmers as a whole have been going further into debt each year since World War II. Both farm mortgages and non-real estate debts of farmers have risen steadily since 1946. By January, 1953 about $6.7 billion, an increase of 7 per cent in 1952. The Federal Land Bank of Louisville expects their farm mortgage loans in 1952 to reach $20 million, the third highest on record, being exceeded only in 1934 and 1932. Corn Facts — For the first time in six years Kentucky's corn yield dropped below 35 bushels in 1952. The forecast for this year indicates a yield of 29 bushels. In the drought year of 1950 Kentucky's corn crop averaged only 10 bushels. In many parts of the state, the drought was more severe in 1952 than in 1950. The highest corn yield recorded in the U. S. was made in 1951 by Cleith Rowe, a 4-H Club member from Magoffin County, Kentucky. He produced 233.2 bushels of dried corn on one acre.

Farm events of Statewide interest... International Livestock Exposition at Chicago on Nov. 30 to Dec. 3rd... Bourbon Beef Show at Louisville on Dec. 9 and 10... Ky. Agriculture Co. will quarterly meeting at Louisville on Jan. 5, 1953... Ky. Green Pastures Program Annual meeting at Louisville on Jan. 7, 1953... Ky. Farm and Home Convention at Lexington on Feb. 3 to 6... FIRE CAUSES MINOR DAMAGE IN BEREA BUSINESS BUILDING... Minor damage to the Wyatt Supply Co. at Berea was caused about 8:30 P. M. Thursday by a fire... Fireman brought the blaze under control within 10 minutes after their arrival. No one was injured... Carlos Fowler, owner of the building, discovered the flames. He stated the fire evidently began when a heater which had been turned off re-ignited... Firemen broke down a door to gain entrance to the building in which are manufactured concrete blocks.

PLAN TO GO on a special beauty schedule so you'll be in tip top shape for the holidays. If you start now, many problems can be solved within a short time. Give yourself or get a permanent as well as a new hair style so that it can soften and look lovely for your big dates. A few days or even a week will teach you how to care for your hair style so that you'll know how to set and wear it most effectively. Cold weather may have chapped your skin and made it look dry, flaky and rough. For comfort as well as beauty, use lotions on the vital spots such as hands, elbows, face, neck and knees.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK California Chicken Pie (Serves 8) 3 cups milk 3 eggs 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin 1/4 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed 1 teaspoon vanilla extract 1/2 teaspoon almond extract 1/2 cup chopped or ready-diced almonds 1 baked 9-inch pastry shell Scald 1 1/2 cup milk in top part of double boiler. Pour over beaten egg yolks and cook over hot water, stirring constantly until custard coats the spoon. Soften gelatin in remaining 1/4 cup milk and dissolve in hot custard mixture. Stir in salt and 1/2 cup brown sugar. Cool until thick but not firm. Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually add remaining brown sugar and flavorings, beating thoroughly after each addition. Fold in thickened custard, then almonds, reserving 1 tablespoon for top. Fill into pastry shell and sprinkle with remaining almonds. Chill until firm.

For faces which have dried out and become flaky, use a nutritive cream both morning and evening to help restore the skin's smoothness. Use a generous amount at each time and remove gently with quilted cotton squares. Use non-drying skin freshener to wipe away all traces of cream. Cleanliness is exceedingly important in the care of the oily complexion. Lather suds into the face two or three times a day, three times a day, using a brisk, rotary motion with a complexion brush.

The Danville Tobacco Warehouses appreciate your patronage and strive to please you. We are looking forward to another good season and hope you will be with us. Sincerely yours Danville Chamber of Commerce. Raleigh Crook, President James A. Beazley, Exec. Sec.

LANDMARK

BY CLARENCE SYDNEY

TED TURNED away from the massive beauty of the mountains. He looked into the face of the girl. "What's the matter, Louise?"

"Nothing, really. I was just thinking of that poor man."

"What poor man's girl friend?" Louise smiled her greeting.

"That man that was lost. Can you imagine being lost in these mountains? The poor man's girl friend was sick. You should have seen her when they found him. She was so happy, that they decided to get married next week."

Ted nodded. "But I just can't figure how he could get lost around here. That mountain," he nodded toward the lowering white crested peak across the valley, "is such a perfect landmark."

Dick frowned. "It's easy. Even people who know their way around get lost sometimes."

"Ted still didn't think anyone could get lost, but Dick and Louise were positive that even guides could get lost. What about you, Louise. Just the other day he had said that a man can't get lost if he keeps his head."

Ted resented the way Dick dominated Louise's time. Right now, for instance, they had wandered off for tennis. Then Ted got to thinking. Maybe, if he got lost, Louise would worry about him.

"So, the next morning, he wandered off into the valley. "Going fishing," he told Louise. Alone. Ted immediately set out to get lost. He wandered about an hour, and just when he thought he was lost, the landmark—the snow covered peak—caught his eye.

He turned his back on the peak, and plunged into the forests. An hour or so later, he was in completely unfamiliar country. Gone from sight was the white topped landmark. But still when lost, Ted remembered the words of the guides. He started to sit, and then moved on down the slight slope to a more comfortable spot.

The hill sloped up above him. He should climb up to the top," he said to himself. And then he decided against it.

The sun found an opening between the trees, and struck his face. "Hey, that sun's coming from the wrong place." It was then that the realization hit him that he really was lost.

The sun was getting lower in the west, when Ted started to feel the sounds of steps. Someone was coming up the hill on the other side. He turned and started to be hit, but stopped in surprise when he saw Louise.

"Ted," she said in surprise. "I was wondering where you were, I thought this was my own private landmark. Come on up."

Puzzled, Ted climbed the hill, and received a sudden shock. He was less than a quarter of a mile from the lodge. Somehow, he had wandered in a circle.

"I didn't know that you came here to get away," Louise smiled. "When you didn't come back at noon, I started to worry. And Dick and I were concerned that you had tried the same trick."

She laughed. "You'll never believe what he tried to do. He tried to make me worry by pretending to get lost."

"He did? That was silly, wasn't it?" "When you didn't show up, I thought maybe you might have tried the same trick."

Ted gulped. "Yes, this is a nice place. And I was thinking about having to go back to the city next week. And I was wondering if I could maybe call you up?"

"Oh, yes." Then she turned to look at the mountains. "But that's a whole week, yet. And I'm not doing anything this evening."

will serve at the table. The message of the morning will be brought by four dependable young men. Those speaking in the service will be Jack Parsons, James Reynolds, Kenneth Stewart and Billy Hiatt.

These young people are setting a great example for other young men and women to follow in these perilous times, when most of the young people are either living in sin or fighting a needless war. All of the county is cordially invited to attend this service at Wildie Christian Church, Wildie, Ky., Nov. 30, 1952.

MUCH WORK IN HOMES CALLED UNNECESSARY

Are you a martyr to the cause of housekeeping, who glories in being worn out? This is one of the questions which management specialists at the University of Kentucky home management specialists ask in their homemakers club lesson, "Make Your Work Easier."

An efficiency engineer is quoted as saying that 25 to 50 per cent of the work done in industry and in the home is unnecessary. The art of housekeeping, it is pointed out should be based on health and efficiency.

Some other questions asked by the University of Kentucky home specialists are:

Are you a putterer, forever picking up and putting down?

Are you a can't find'er, always on the hunt?

Are you a never-get-through'er?

Are you an Atlas, carrying the weight of a day's, week's, or month's work on your shoulders as you do your work?

Are you a putter-offer and at the last minute do you hurry and rush to get things done and maybe have an accident?

Are you an over-doer one day and then do you take two or three days to get over it?

Are you a nervous housekeeper who wears out herself and the family on unnecessary work?

622,229 PUPILS ENROLLED IN SCHOOLS

Public, private and parochial school enrollment in elementary and high schools totaled 622,229 at the close of September, or 60.01 fewer than the number included on the school census rolls, it was reported today by C. T. Ward, director of Census and Attendance of the State Department of Education.

Teachers in these schools aggregate 21,976, an average of less than thirty pupils for each teacher.

The school census includes all children from six to seventeen inclusive, while the compulsory school age ceases at sixteen. Ward explained that a number of the children not in school had passed compulsory school age, some had married and that some few had not reached the enrollment age of seven.

The official figures released by Ward showed that public schools had 425,844 children enrolled in elementary grades and 133,871 in high school, while private schools had 6,112 elementary pupils, 8,837 in high school, 125 parochial schools, 38,939 elementary pupils and 4,462 high school pupils, while state supported College Training institutions listed 1,258 elementary pupils and 1,368 high school pupils.

SPECIAL TO THE MT. VERNON SIGNAL

By E. C. Simon, Minister Wildie Christian Church

In too many affairs of the church the young people of the church of Christ are overlooked, and consequently are late in some instances, for some misconduct in which they become involved. This fact is done degree, the fault of the older people who fail in their responsibility to the present generation and those to come. That is we fail in presenting our young people with some responsibility which will help to cultivate his or her life in the service of the church. This must be remedied in some way.

The Christian Church in Wildie has at least part of the answer. To the knowledge of the minister, such a thing has never before been done at Wildie. It was done once before in his presence, but not in his absence.

While the minister will be visiting his father over the week-end of Nov. 30, the young people will have charge of the church services. This is done of course by consent of the elders of the church. The young ladies will be in charge of the music featuring a special number by the girls trio of the church. Following the song service will be the Lord's Supper. The elders and deacons the approximate 520,000 children attending them. The study-inaugurated more than a year ago, was made under direction of Assistant Supervisor of Public Instruction Gordie Young and Dr. Robert Mills, Erlanger on loan to the Legislative Research Commission from the Department of Education, in connection with an education study.

The study disclosed that 42 per cent of the pupils attending public schools are housed in buildings that are overcrowded or obsolete.

The survey also revealed that to relieve overcrowded conditions there are needed 150 units of 1,138 rooms that would cost $19,656,650 in the elementary and secondary and combined fields alone. These rooms would accommodate 35,198 pupils.

To house increases, it was estimated that 92 units of 795 rooms, and accommodating 23,874 pupils, costing $17,353,455 are needed.

The replacement of obsolete buildings would require 169 units of 5,578 rooms to accommodate 165,833 pupils at a cost of $121,427,111.

Also disclosed by the study are these data:

More than 200,000 children are housed in combustible buildings.

Twenty-six per cent of Kentucky's children attend schools of three rooms or less. There are yet 3,000 one-room schools in use.

Eighty per cent of the school buildings are without central heating facilities, while 12 per cent of the children attend schools without artificial lighting.

A fourth of the children attend schools with hand operated water facilities and 38 per cent attend schools with outdoor toilets, while 2,400 children attend schools with no sanitation facilities.

According to U. S. standards 2,357 school plants are rated unsatisfactory, while only 122 receive approved rating.

FARM INCOMES MAY BE LOWER IN 1953
The economic situation in 19

53 will continue much as it has been since the peak year of 1947 barring unforeseen events. So reported Miss Ida C. Hagman, home management specialist at the University of Kentucky, after attending the out-of-conference in Washington. Approximately 100 farm and home economists were on hand to learn from government economists what 1953 has in store.

A high level of business activity, expanding employment, and increasing population were given as reasons for anticipating little change in incomes for the nation as a whole.

Farmers, however, may have a lower net income, due to increased production costs and wage rates that may be higher than the past year. What the farm family must buy is expected to be somewhat higher in relation to prices received for products sold.

Retail prices of foods will probably show a little change.

Due to an abundant supply of chicken, fish and possibly lamb and mutton, and frozen fruit and juices, prices of these items may show a decrease, while price tags on turkeys, eggs, bread, butter and some cereal products, dry beans, peas and fresh vegetables may be slightly higher. Shipments of potatoes of high quality are large, and lower prices may be expected.

The home freezer was recognized as providing a new incentive for home production of food, resulting in greater variety at reduced prices.

HISTORIAN SPEAKS ON EUROPEAN WARS

"War as a factor in the Emergence of the Western State" was the topic of an address delivered last week at the University of Kentucky as the School's second Blazer Lecture of the year. The speaker was Prof. John B. Wolf at the University of Minnesota's Department of History who told the audience that "war often accomplishes much."

Since the state program for calfhood vaccination has been in effect over 33,000 calves have been vaccinated officially.

in Less Time...with Less Power with a JOHN DEERE Hammer Mill

"John Deere Hammer Mills open the door to low-cost feed-making by turning out more feed per hour with less power.

Light-running, durable John Deere Hammer Mills hold feeding and feed-making costs to rock-bottom. Livestock utilize ground feed fully...you can grind feed as you need it whenever it's convenient. The remarkable grinding units grind all grains, corn, and cured hay or fodder to any degree of fineness. Three sets of semi-rigid, heat-treated hammers are mounted on a tough, hardened-steel, small-diameter rotor. The rotor shaft runs lightly on New Departure ball bearings.

Henry Clay Papers Sought By Writer

A University of Kentucky history professor and writer this week made an appeal for all Kentuckians holding original Henry Clay papers or letters to contact him at once in order that he might obtain copies of their material for the forthcoming "Clay Collection".

Dr. James P. Hopkins, associate professor of History at UK announced that he has started a project which, when completed, will result in the world's largest collection of Clay papers and letters.

As compiler of the collection the UK historian will be the author of editorial comments appearing throughout the work. Although the actual collecting of documents has just begun, early estimates have it that such a work will run to several volumes—possibly as swelling to six or more volumes.

The choice of Dr. Hopkins for the undertaking was based partly on the merit of the price less earlier books which were published by the University of Kentucky press "A History of the Hemp Industry in Kentucky" was his first work, and last year his "University of Kentucky" appeared.

The later book told the story of the University in 1910, and Mr. Hopkins was beginning the second volume of the School's history when he decided to take the Clay assignment.

New Schools Needed For 35,000 Pupils

Kentucky's schools are bursting at the seams for lack of adequate buildings.

A study made by the State Department of Education today disclosed that new construction costing $157,844,316 is needed to provide Kentucky's public elementary and high schools with decent housing for
