Two Hardest

Lesson for January 25, 1953

WHEN YOU see a pole-vaulter sailing like a bird over the high bar, it looks like the easiest thing in the world. When you see a watchmaker putting a hairspring into place, or a good cook whipping a cake together, it looks simple. But the simple things are seldom as easy as they look. So it is in the Christian life. It can be made to sound absolutely simple, but it never is. And if never is, it is either. Perhaps the two hardest things sound the easiest. Jesus made it plain that without them one cannot call oneself a true Christian. One is humility and the other is forgiveness. How easy they sound! But try them. You will test your spiritual muscle.

Can This Be Right?

There is another paradox about these two indispensable qualities of Christian living. They are not only much harder to practice than they sound, but they sound worse than they are. What is the quality which all Americans are proud to use, imitate and practice with all their might? Isn't it aggressiveness, the go-getting spirit? Humility sounds like the opposite of that, and so we seldom hear it praised, at Rotary luncheons, in political speeches or in school textbooks. Even in church we don't hear much about it. Advising people to be humble sounds like advising them to aim for the bottom of the ladder, not the top.

As for forgiveness, it too goes against the natural grain. We can forgive people for mistakes, we can forgive them with good grace when they haven't hurt us particularly. But when other people have actually done wrong, serious wrong, and done it to me, or to someone I love, how then can I forgive them? Won't I be lowering myself to their level if I forgive? Won't it be the same as saying that what they did was not as right as mine? Isn't calling wrong, right? Isn't forgiveness turning right and wrong upside down?

Humble Like a Child

Let us look into these matters a moment. Take humility first. Jesus' illustration of humility is not some down-and-out lazy person without dreams, desires or ambitions. His model is the child. What is the humility of a child? It is the quality of teachableness. The child is not set in his ways. He is trustful. Even the liveliest child, even the most stubborn, will believe what he is told, and has a never-satisfied curiosity about everything. You can't trust a child, a sophisticated much, he thinks he knows enough as it is. But no child thinks he knows everything. He is not suspicious, cynical, sophisticated, superior. He can grow.

Call the roll of the world's truly great men; they all have this quality of childlikeness, whether a greatly daring person like Scott, the explorer of the Antarctic, or a greatly wise person like Abraham Lincoln, or a greatly imaginative person like John Bunyan. All forms of greatness have in them the quality of the childlike. And the special humbleness that is essential for Christians is not only this, but humility before God. For the one sin that keeps one farthest away from God is the very opposite of childlikeness, namely pride.

Seventy Times Seven

Consider that other quality, the forgiving spirit. Does this really mean calling wrong, right? We should remember that forgiving is not the same thing as condoning. You condone a wrong when you act as if it were not a wrong at all, really. When God forgives us he does not pretend that we have done no wrong, and when we forgive others we should not condone wrong with right. Condoning means approving; forgiving does not. You can condone without love; it takes love to forgive.

And nowhere in the Bible is it said that God forgives, or that we are expected to forgive, apart from repentance. The hard and unrepenting spirit makes forgiveness impossible. Forgiveness is not a one-sided affair. It calls for humility on both sides, for forgiveness is a restoring of fellowship, and that cannot be done in pride. But is forgiveness a sign of weakness? Wait till you have been insulted, injured or wronged, and you will learn the truth about it.

Eisenhower Becomes 34th President Of U.S.

Enthusiastic crowd greets the new President as he is sworn into office. Address begins with prayer.

Never in the long history of this country has there been a parade equal to that last Tuesday when Dwight D. Eisenhower became the 34th President of the United States. There was an enthusiastic multitude that greeted the President and the cheers were more than just on the surface. There seem to be a lifting of a great burden from the shoulders of many when they heard the inaugural address and noticed the confidence and radiant personality of the new President take the helm of this nation for the next four years. Washington was blessed with fair weather for the ceremony and just as the President took the oath the sun appeared from behind the clouds for a few minutes as if it were smiling.

The President began his inaugural address with a prayer. It was almost spontaneous. He wrote it out after he had attended the church service that day. Few knew that he had the prayer prepared. But it was appropriate. It lent a reverent note to the ceremony and at the same time created hope and confidence in a man whose aim and faith have always been one of his strong characteristics. Indeed the entire address emphasized the spiritual mood so necessary for leadership.

Eisenhower had in his inaugural thoughts as that of peace-peace in this country and peace-peace in the world. Without that peace, there can be no progress in the world. He believes in the reduction of armaments in due time. He believes in the conservation of our resources and in the protection from the soil and industry in tolerance of religious faith and in the dignity of man everywhere. There was also the slightest reflection of bitterness or criticism of his predecessors in any part of the inaugural speech. He treated the outgoing President with honor and all the respect due him. Even Hoover was there. He was happy to come into his office and it was really heartwarming to realize that here is a man who was trodden into the dirt, as it were, only to rise to new heights.

Now that the inaugural ceremony is over, the problems that were forgotten from the moment, will appear again and wait for a solution at the hands of new men. They won't all be solved, but they will be decided and grappled with as never before. The tasks that wait President Eisenhower will be stupendous, but the preliminary work has already been done and a statesman will no doubt help master them.

If you have not listed your property drop in when you come to town.

By law we are subject to 10 percent penalty if we fail to do this.

Yours very truly,
S. E. Chandler, Tax Commissioner.

Hilton Dam Reinforced

The recently constructed dam on the Hilton Lake near Pine Hill was first filled to test two weeks ago during the heavy rain. It was the first time that the lake was filled to top and when water ran over the spillway. In the center of the dam was an area of dry dirt through which the water seeped and in a short time became perilously near breaking a big hole in the dam. But by prompt action of the bulldozer operated by Mr. Parsons of Wildie, the hole in the dam was closed just in time to avert a disaster. Considerable soil had been washed away but when the heavy-bulldozer crept over the earth to such an extent that the leak was stopped. More dirt was piled on the dam and tons of rock was pushed into the crevice. It took a lot of courage as well as careful manipulation to move that cumbersome and heavy machine on the edge of the deep water and on top of a soft dirt dam, but Mr. Parsons did the work with marvelous precision.

A few smaller leaks have been discovered on the banks but these could be stopped up. Mr. Hilton says the water now is beautiful to look at.

HAROLD NORTON IN SIDI

Harold Norton son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Norton of Mount Vernon arrived at Sidi Silomne in Africa on December 22 in the French Morocco. He writes home about the new country and says that farming in that distant region is very slow. The Arabs try to plow with camels and steers. The land is really rich but the people have no way to farm it. Harold has been in Tucson, Arizona for some time before he was sent to Africa. Norton is a graduate of the Mt. Vernon high school and while here was honored by winning the state farmer degree by the FFA in 1947.

Two Places Broken In by Thieves Last Night

Clyde Barnett's Grocery and Bob Gentry's Garage are broken into Early this morning, Money is taken.

Two business places of Mount Vernon were broken into by thieves early this morning between the hours of 12 and one o'clock, and got away with some cash and perhaps some merchandise, although a preliminary examination would indicate that the thieves were after cash only. At Bob Gentry's Garage on Richmond, the thieves broke the front window pane and then reached inside to turn the lever to open it. The thieves two of them, were seen by a neighbor, entered through the window and by means of a screw driver were able to open the steel cabinet in which Mr. Gentry sometimes carries cash. About $20.00 was taken out. The thieves also attempted to carry away a nozzle sprayer, but left it laying near the cabinet. Mr. Gentry was unable to say this morning whether any other merchandise was stolen.

The other place broken into was Clyde Barnett's Grocery on Main Street. The breaking was made through a rear window and in exactly the same manner as the garage. They first broke the window pane and then reached through the opening to turn the lever to open the window. At Barnett's place the thieves had to make quite a leap to get to the rig they were after.

In doing so they stepped on an empty egg crate. They broke into two cash registers and noted it to all cash amounting to approximately $60.00. The large National cash register located on the first counter was broken with a meat cleaver. Both drawers were demolished. The other cash register which was on the second counter was carried to the back of the store where it was demolished and emptied of its cash. It is not known whether any merchandise was taken.

A neighbor of Gentry's saw two young men in front of the garage a little after midnight. The two thieves are believed to be local persons and are apparently known. Police officers are working on clues and it is believed that the thieves will be caught in due time.

The Bank of Mt. Vernon was also broken into last night but no cash was taken.

How Highways Are Marked

U. S. numbers on highways serve a definite purpose and are marked in a definite manner to be met before they are assigned.

Also, the process by which federal designation is obtained for a highway is a very hard one and a strict numbering committee must be satisfied as to the merits of the highway in the best interest of the motorist.

The numbering system is explained by William P. Curlin, State Commissioner of Highways who says that a lot of misunderstanding had arisen as to the reason for the federal numbers and how and by whom they are assigned.

In the first place, Curlin says, the U. S. federal number does not mean that it is assigned by the Federal government. Many persons think this is the duty of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads just as the highway departments of individual states designate a highway.

The numbering agency is the American Association of Highway Builders, which is made up of representatives of the highway departments and the Bureau of Public Roads. This is because the Federal government has no more voice in the marking of U. S. highway numbers than any one of the states and the number has no connection with federal funds used for construction.

In assigning numbers the association works closely with the states and a federal number is not given within a state without approval of its highway department.

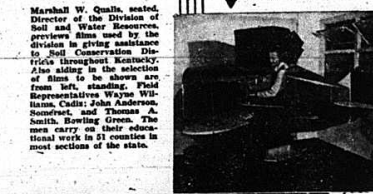

Pfc. George H. Berry Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Berry of overseas duty in Germany, was promoted to sergeant. Pfc. Berry entered the army Feb. 9, 1951 and recently re-enlisted for 6 years.

Plant Food Cut Back Poor Economy When Farm Prices Decline

CUTTING down fertilizer use when prices of farm products drop is the worst type of economy a farmer can make, says P. E. McNall, University of Wisconsin agricultural economist.

Even though farm prices should drop 50 per cent and the price of fertilizer should stay the same, McNall says, the average farmer would get back $1.50 in increased crop value for each $1 he spent for plant food.

Tests at state agricultural colleges and experience on Midwestern farms have shown that at present prices, farmers can expect to get a return of $3 for each $1 invested in fertilizer.

Actually, agronomists at Midwestern agricultural colleges and experiment stations are advising farmers to increase rather than cut down their use of fertilizer. These soil men report that heavy fertilizer applications are the most profitable a farmer can make.

University of Missouri agronomists report that on one test, 25-bushel corn land produced 124 bushels per acre, when 1,100 pounds of nitrogen, phosphate and potash fertilizer was plowed down before planting and a complete starter fertilizer was added at planting time.

Kentucky State Medical Association

Live broadcasts of medical seminars by long distance telephone this year will again be featured in the post graduate education program of the Kentucky State Medical Association.

Robert Lich, Jr., M. D., Louisville, the Association's Chairman on Medical Education announced yesterday.

The hour-long broadcasts will begin Tuesday, January 27, at 7:30 P. M. and will continue at the same time on the last Tuesday of each month through April. The seminars are available to every member of the Association whose county medical society subscribes to them.

Dr. Lich said the University of Louisville School of Medicine is developing the program of post graduate training. The broadcasts and panel discussions which originate in the offices of the Dean of the School of Medicine at the Louisville General Hospital and are piped out to all subscribing county medical societies.

The age-old problem of post graduate training that has plagued the physicians is that either the doctor presenting the training has to leave his work and travel widely through the state or the practicing physicians have to leave and inconvenience their patients and journey to the medical centers for instructions. The telephone seminar answers this problem in that it permits both to stay at home and yet enables the local physicians to hear the latest and best in medical knowledge yet been set.

Hunting Season Closed Jan. 18

The hunting season in Kentucky will come to a close Sunday January 18, after which it will be illegal to kill rabbits or quail. The season opened on November 20 and reports from throughout the State indicate a generally good season for the hunters of both rabbit and quail. In many sections, reports show, the rabbit population has been at an all-time high, while quail populations have been spotty, says the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. There will be no open season for hunting in Kentucky until the squirrel season opens, and the date for that season has not and best in medical knowledge yet been set. The duck season ended on January 10.

Kentucky may have a second archery deer hunt during this 1952-1953 season, if the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission reacts favorably to a recent proposal by officials of Bernheim Forest Park. Forest plantings at Bernheim have been damaged extensively by the herd of European Red Deer on the area, and the archery hunt has been proposed as a solution to the problem. Guns, of course, are illegal on the Park, which is under contract as a State Refuge.

The hunt has been requested from February 2 through February 7, 1953. All hunters will be required to check in and put big at least 45 pounds, are required to pursue such a magnificent game animal as the Red Deer. Strong bows, pulled at the main entrance of the Forest.

The community is very much enthused over a much needed road being surveyed from highway 25 at a point near Rockcastle river bridge down Rockcastle river to Beech Grove school house on mouth of Skoggs Creek. This road will open valuable coal and timber lands to say nothing of the good fishing waters. This is a very sparsely populated area of Rockcastle. In Memory In memory of our dear Lois Vernell Sowder who passed away a year ago today. Louis we miss you so since you went away. It is not true here every day Everything we look at reminds you of you, but I know you are happy up there in the blue. We taught you love, hope and faith. No one else can take your place. You lit up the home with your smiling face. You made us happy with your gentle gaze. Our hearts are broken as we think of you. For you were always so kind and true. Some day our journey here too will cease. And then our souls will rest in peace. Sadly missed by the family Mother, Father.

Auto Licenses Violators Subject to $100 Fines Violators of Kentucky automobile license laws were warned by State Police today that they face fines of up to $100 if caught. The violators have been especially noted in border areas of the state where many residents often buy their autos in neighboring states to avoid paying Kentucky's usage and property taxes. State Police and Department of Revenue officials said that Kentuckians who use out-of-state tags are subject to fines of up to $100 for each violation. According to Kentucky statute all residents must purchase their auto licenses in the state. The law also applies to out-of-state persons who move to Kentucky and to Kentuckians who buy out-of-state cars. Departments of Police and Revenue also noted that it is illegal in Kentucky to use dealer tags on cars owned or used personally either by auto dealers or their employees.

Good Soil Management, More Plant Food Helps Boost U. S. Crop Yields 45 Per Cent

High Income Farms Use More Plant Food; Get Bigger Grain, Meat and Milk Yields. Well fed pastures produce more dairy profits per acre. IT'S NOT how much money a farmer spends on crop production but how he spends it that counts on the profit side, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. In summarizing a survey by A. B. Cunningham, University of Illinois farm economist, Cunningham found that low-income farms spent about as much as high-income farms on crop production, yet there was a difference of as much as $9.37 in net income for each acre. He based his conclusions on an accounting study of grain, beef, pork and dairy production on 100 farms in central and northern Illinois. The farms were of medium size on soils of medium productivity. Production costs for high-income farms specialized on grain and livestock were only $977 more than those on low-income farms, yet the high-income farms had a net return of $8,730, whereas the low-income farms went into the red by $406.

RECIPES OF THE WEEK When carrots lack in flavor or you have become tired of them, try a carrot loaf. Miss Florence Lay of the University of Kentucky says that for variety you might add three-fourth cup of shredded cheese to the carrot loaf. Chop up the carrots in a food chopper until you might lay strips of bacon over the loaf when baking it. 3 c shredded carrots

Yield boosting fertilizer gives extra bushels of corn per acre. SCIENCE and industry have teamed up with the farmer to greatly expand use of fertilizer and lime. Fertilizer use nationally reached an all-time high in 1951, totaling 20,808,740 tons. That was a 16 per cent advance of the previous year and nearly three times as much as before World War II. "Boosting yields per acre through the use of fertilizer has meant more money for farmers. Higher production means lower cost per bushel and greater profit per acre."

 The Mt. Vernon 4H Club for the year 1952 had thirty-four members completing forty-two projects.
 We held twelve monthly meetings and four call meetings during the year. Our girls carrying Foods and Clothing projects held ten project meetings of supervised work under qualified teachers.
 During each winter month we had a party in the High School gymnasium. During the summer we had picnics.
 The club chose as their community project the care of our school grounds, besides this project we made three sign boards, to be erected at the 3 county lines, giving publicity to our county and its clubs. The cost of materials and lettering was $47.2. The labor was free.
 National 4H week was observed by our club. We held a special meeting and made a window exhibit on Main Street. During the polo drive we donated five dollars to the March of Dimes, which we do annually.
 On Rally Day, our club won twenty-one blue ribbons, thirteen red and one white ribbon. Five members gave demonstrations, four of them earning blue ribbons, the other a red ribbon. Nine members took part in the judging contests, five of them receiving blue ribbons and four red ribbons and two members delivered speeches, each receiving a blue ribbon.
 One of our members had projects of leadership and each won a blue ribbon.
 We sent four members to the District Meeting. There they won two blue ribbons, one red and two white ones.
 Two members attended 4H Club week at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky in June.
 Four of our members went to camp at Levi-Jackson Park. Two of these members had all expenses paid by the Homemakers Club and the business women.
 We sent six exhibits, which were clothing, foods and secretary's book, to the State Fair, and won one blue, three red, one white, and one tenth place ribbon. The cash prizes amounted to $5.25.
 In the School and agriculture fair six of our members did efficient work in being in charge of entries. Our club served refreshments to the Fair Superintendents and workers.
 Our members made fifty exhibits in the fair, out of these they received thirty-four blue and seven red ribbons. They also received $32.75 in prizes.
