Using Money

Lesson for September 6, 1953

"CAN you use $500?" is the way a loan company begins its circular inviting you to borrow from them at a ruinous rate of interest. Yes, indeed, I can use money, everybody thinks. What a man meant by that is: I can think of ways to spend it. Give me a hundred dollars and I can guarantee to get rid of it before night. Give me a million and it may take me longer but I can use it, I can make it vanish, I can swap it in for something else.

But that is not using money. That may be using it, but maybe not. Money can be spent in wise ways or foolishly; it can be exchanged for something good or something bad or for really nothing at all. Using Dr. Foreman money is something more than merely passing it from your pocket into someone else's.

Root of All Evil

Money is not a thing in itself as some have thought. But it can be the root of many bad things. It can speak more correctly, not money but the love of money, is the root of all evils. (Paul does not in the original Greek say "THE root"; he does say "A root") For example, when a murderer is committed and the police are trying to solve the mystery, one of the first questions asked is: Who stands to benefit by this murder?—meaning, who is going to strike it rich by this crime? Love of money can be a root of murder, theft, adultery, all the sins on the calendar. We could not abolish crime by abolishing money, to be sure, but we could not abolish crime by seeing that every man, woman and child had exactly the same amount of money. The selfish heart has many outlets. But love of money, or in other words greed, selfishness, is one of the easiest and most frequent ways by which man's inner meanness comes out in the open.

Rich Toward God

On the other hand, money makes much good possible. If a man is going to be a "good father," he can't be that if he is a pauper. He doesn't have to be rich, but he does have to have money for groceries and education and all that it takes to bring up children. If a man is going to be a good citizen he will pay his taxes, and if the state is a good state those taxes will be wisely used for the benefit of all. A poverty-stricken state is not a good state to live in. A poverty-stricken home is not the kind of home you want your children to grow up in. Or consider all the good done by the church. Much of it is made possible by the contributions of the members. An orphanage, a hospital, an old folks' home, an evangelistic campaign—every part of the church's activity is something that uses money and transforms it into service and happiness. In Jesus' parable of the rich farmer whom God called a fool, no doubt the neighbors (some of them) admired the man for his wealth and his thrift. "He takes good care of what he's got," they would say. But Jesus did not think well of the man. His trouble was not that he was well-to-do. Jesus never condemned a man simply for owning property, money or anything else. The rich fool's trouble was that he thought of God but himself, built his barn for no one but himself. To be "rich toward God" he would have to think about using his wealth for the benefit of some one besides himself.

Bull's Eye

Everybody aims at something in life—everybody, that is, but the aimless, who don't count. We all take aim—but at what? When you pull back the bowstring or cock the trigger, and look toward the target, what do you see in the bull's eye? What is the very center, the principal aim of living? Some see nothing but the dollar mark. It is a mark that can be hit, and a man's aim can be absolutely accurate. But the trouble with money as a central aim in life, is that the more successful a man is in hitting it, the less satisfied he is likely to be. There are rich people who are happy; but it is not true that a man grows happier with every dollar he adds to his pile; it is not true that the happiest persons in town are the wealthiest. It is generally a fact that if a person is both rich and happy, his happiness comes from other sources than his bank account.

Friendly NOTE

By Alfred Sparks, Jr.

"The difficult can be done if you try. The impossible is a little longer..."

The longer we live the more examples we see of people doing the impossible... overcoming great hardships, hardships and personal tragedies to rise triumphantly over what normally would be considered an insurmountable barrier... We can fortell the strain an iron bar will tolerate, or anticipate the force of water pressure, but there is no mechanical device for measuring a person's endurance, or an individual's will to live... hence nobody is over in a position to predict a human being's capacity in any given situation. And for this very reason alone we must approach the impossible knowing full well that it can be accomplished. There is no reason why we can't do anything... if we set our minds to the task at hand. There is a deep tendency in human nature to become like that which we imagine ourselves to be. Believe we are successful and we will be. The very things we fear most are true to ourselves. It is true "Where there's a will there's a way." Sparks Fossil Home West Main Street Mt. Vernon, Ky.

Schools To Open This Week And Next

County schools register today and Mt. Vernon schools on Tuesday, Sept. 8th.

The Broadhead high school and graded school will register for the new year today (Thursday) and will open for class work on Monday, September 7th. The Mount Vernon Independent school will open on Tuesday, September 8th. The Broadhead school will lose three of her teachers who will teach next year in other places. Jack Wright will teach at the southern high school at Louisville, Jean Banks will teach at West Middletown and Richard Taylor will teach in Danville. Principal D. A. Robinson is finding it difficult to replace the teachers and so far he has been able to fill only two of the positions. Higher salaries seem to have been the reason for the change.

All the pupils of the Mount Vernon Independent School is to register on Tuesday and to begin their regular class work on Wednesday, the next day after registration. Because of alterations now in progress on the building there will be no opening exercises and the pupils will go directly to their home rooms for registration. Eighth grade Mrs. Myrtle Bryant, ninth grade William Landrum, tenth grade Mrs. Wayne Stowers, ninth grade girls, Mrs. Wilfiam Landrum, tenth grade girls, Mrs. Audra Smith, eleventh grade Mrs. Ruth Blazier, twelfth grade boys Mr. Jack Lawwell, twelfth grade girls, Bettye J. Four additional cloak rooms also have been added. The chalk boards are green in color and six windows on one side give plenty of ventilation and light. The heating system will be expanded.

There will be a revival at Sand Hill beginning September 6th. The Rev. James Green of Middsboro will do the preaching. Rev. Green broadcasts over station WKIM 560 K. C. on Sundays at 4:30 P. M. day light saving time. The hour of praise. Everyone is welcome at this revival. Please come. 4613p

Farmer Fatally Injured While Mowing Weeds

Edwin Herald, 77, of the Copper Creek section was fatally injured when the team of horses hitched to a mowing machine became frightened and ran away. The horses ran for several hundred yards before they came to a standstill when the machine struck a tree. Herald was caught in the machine. Just what scared the horses is not known since there were no witnesses to the accident. Nor is it known how Mr. Herald got caught in the machine, but it appeared as though he was caught in the open gears in the machine and had his legs were crushed so badly that some of the bones were found in the field near by. He was still conscious when found but lost consciousness when arrived at the hospital. The loss of blood was the cause of his death. The tragedy happened about nine o'clock in the morning last Tuesday. When Mr. Herald did not come home, his wife became worried and went to the field where her husband was mowing the grass in the small field. It was there she found him at about 11:30. Mrs. Herald hurried to the nearest farm home to get help. Mr. Herald was immediately taken to the Berea College Hospital where he passed away at about five o'clock that same day.

With the Prisoner of War Command, Korea

Army Lt. Col. Stephen N. Proctor, of Mrs. Shirley, lives at 2628 Eighteenth St., S. St. Petersburg, Fla., is serving with the Prisoner of War Command in Korea. The POW Command is charged with the safe transfer of all prisoners from the island compounds in the south to the port city of Inchon where they are taken by truck to the exchange site at Panmunjom.

The task being accomplished by the POW Command could be compared to that of moving all the inhabitants of a 100,000 population American city near 500 miles by ship, truck and rail. The job is further complicated by the need of full time security guards and the adherence to a tight schedule.

Of the 98,000 prisoners, 76,000 will be returned to Communist hands while 22,000 Communists will be placed in the UN Neutral Nations Commission for disposition.

Drought Threatens Kentucky Season

Unless hunters are more careful of fires in the fields, and woods there is a possibility of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources closing the squirrel season until the threat of forest fires is passed. Earl Wallace, Commissioner of the Department, declared Tuesday, August 26, and since that time reports of several forest fires, due to carelessness of hunters, have been received. Mr. Wallace said in issuing the warning the Commissioner pointed out that much of the state is suffering from a prolonged drought, and danger of forest fires, such as were experienced last fall, is increasing day by day. The fields and woods especially in the western section of the state, are a tinder box, Mr. Wallace declared and unless extreme care is used, hundreds of thousands of dollars in damage may be caused. He urged hunters to refrain from smoking while hunting and to set camp fires unless extreme care is used.

The Commissioner declared that if the Commission is forced to close the season until rains come, the number of days that it is closed will be in direct relation to the severity of the drought. That is, should the season be closed for 10 days, those 10 days would be added onto the end of the season, thereby giving the hunters the number of days of hunting as originally set.

Governor Lawrence Wetherby this afternoon, in a radio recording, urged extreme care by hunters and warned of the tremendous timber loss which may be caused by forest fires. He also pointed out the danger forest fires present to human lives as well as to the lives of wild animals and birds.

Good Showing At Horse Show In Spite Of Heat

Renfro Valley horse show has excellent entries. Shorty Teague wins 5-Gaited championship.

The Horse Show held at Renfro Valley, Ky., on the afternoon of August 30th, was a success in spite of the extremely hot weather, and a nice sum was turned over to the Children's Christmas-Fund. Many horsemen who had made entries and had planned on showing changed their mind at the last minute because they would not work their horses such hot weather. The weather also had its effect on attendance—especially local attendance. Those who were there were very cooperative of the state and from other states were already on their way before the heat wave struck, so the big majority of the audience came from a considerable distance.

This show was notable for having given the nicest ribbons among the most valuable trophies of any fair parts of the state. Keeps its value better than any other car!

Used car dealers report that Fords return more of their original cost than any other car—and there are 41 reasons why:

Take POWER Ford's two high-compression engines are real leaders in their class. Ford's the only car in the low-price field to offer you the smooth power of a V-8 engine. And no other car in any field has so modern a Six.

Take BUILD Ford's Crestmark body gives you style-setting beauty with rugged "build" underneath. Where many cars are bolted Ford's are welded hull-tight to keep out rust-causing weather and dirt.

Take VISIBILITY Ford gives you the "all-around" view you need in today's fast-moving traffic. A curved one-piece windshield, car-wide rear window and large "picture windows" all around make sure you have Full-Circle visibility. F.D.A.P.

Take RIDE Ford's wonderful, new ride reduces front end road shock up to 80%. And Ford's new spring and shock absorber action gives you the comfortable easy ride you want without gas-eating extra weight.

Take DRIVES Only Ford in its field gives you a choice of a completely automatic drive, Fordomatic, the finest, most versatile automatic you can buy... fuel-saving Overdrive... or easy-shifting Conventional Drive.

Take SAVINGS Ford's Automatic Power Pilot saves you money on every gallon of gas. It automatically adjusts carburetion, ignition and combustion to make every drop of gas ("regular" at that) work its heart out.

RAMBLINGS

It was with sincere regret that we were unable to print all the news last week. At the last minute it was physically impossible to print the ten pages as we had originally planned. The financial report of the county school system used up more space than anticipated and in consequence much valuable material had to be omitted. We hope to insert all the news items we missed. If you therefore see it in print this week, you will have to remember that some of it is a week late.

No good newspaper loves to omit news article. But sometimes it happens and we understand that the readers will understand. The Fiscal Court in its regular monthly session this week agreed to place on the ballot this fall a notice of an additional bond issue of $75,000.00 for the building of a hospital. The voters of the county will have to vote on this matter and tell the Fiscal Court whether they are in favor of this extra bond issue or not. The voters have already been informed that the bond issue of 150,000 voted at the last election did not nearly cover the cost of the construction of a hospital such as the Federal Government would approve or help finance.

The improvements to the city schools here in Mount Vernon will add much to the appearance of the building as well as give additional rooms for class-work. The new gymnasium floor will also add much to the appearance and betterment of the entire gym. When completed Mt. Vernon will have a very well equipped school of which the community should be proud.

From all indications, the attendance at the public schools everywhere will be enormous. There are not enough buildings to adequately house the pupils. There will not be enough teachers.

In the survey made this past year, the census of opinion was overwhelmingly in favor of making our schools better. Most believed that a sales tax on the wholesale level would be the best method to make more revenue. Parents want the best they can get for their children and they are willing to pay for it. The big cut is finished. The machinery has been moved away and the grade is ready for the laying of the concrete and blacktop. At present the road remains closed on account of the heavy dust that would be dangerous to traffic. According to the plans, the road here should be completed this fall. The new road at Livingston will not be completed until next year.

Fall Pasture Fertilization Pays In More Grazing, Extra Forage and Higher Profits

Well-fertilized pasture gives extra milk and meat per acre.

TOP - DRESSING pastures will pay off in an earlier grazing bite next spring, lower feeding costs and a bigger return per acre in high quality forage for dairy cows and beef cattle, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Blue grass or white clover permanent pastures that are top-dressed with a high nitrogen fertilizer this fall will get off to a quicker start next spring," says a statement made public by the committee. "That means fewer days of barn feeding and more days of pasturing."

Legume-grass meadows fed with a high potash fertilizer will return extra tons of hay next year. Moreover, the life of the stand will be considerably lengthened. Midwestern agronomists recommend adding from 300 to 500 pounds per acre of a fertilizer such as 0-20-20, 0-10-20, or 0-10-30, depending on the

Agricultural Fair
Let not forget that the School and Agricultural Fair will be held at Mt. Vernon on October 2 and 3. The first day will be entry day for all exhibits, except livestock and poultry. Livestock and poultry are to be entered October 3, up until 11:00 A. M. Now is the time to be selecting and preparing all exhibits. It is also the time to be training and fitting the livestock. All exhibits will be exhibited with halter. It takes time to break an animal and show well. It also adds to the general appearance of the animal to be brushed and fitted days before the Fair and then too, just before leading into the ring. Poultry pointers

These poultry pointers for August, Specialist J. J. Begin, at College of Agriculture, applies to many of our poultry raisers. If more farmers has large laying houses and bigger flocks it would apply to them. The general idea is to put into any poultry program. Try it.

"At this time of the year, when our pullets are beginning to lay, we should remember that the best place for that pullet when she comes into production is in the laying pen. If we wait until the flock is in for five or 10 percent production before we put them into the laying pen, a lot of trouble may be encountered later on this winter. The wise poultryman houses his pullets at about the time the first eggs begin to appear on range and when the birds' heads reddens up and their bodies take on that 'henry' look

The most important step in preparing to house flocks is to have the laying house ready. It should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. It is a good idea to clean the house in such a manner that the change from range to laying house is not too great a shock to these naturally high strung nervous pullets. This can be accomplished by opening up the house as much as possible; open up every possible exit to give them all the fresh air which they have been accustomed. Spread about 3 or 4 inches of clean litter on the floor. This can be built later on this winter. For plenty of nesting material in the nests provide plenty of water and place extra buckets or pans in the house where they can readily be found. Have feed in the hoppers and put in new more hoppers than are needed. It might be a good idea to put a few feeders up on the roosts so that some of the more timid individuals can find feed. Don't overcrowd the house. Allow at least three square feet for the light breeds and 4 square feet for the heavies. Make sure there is at least one nest for every five hens. To prevent the Louise Howard and children's new pullets from laying in ren visited Mr. and Mrs. Chas. the floor, try hanging off dark Vernon Sunday.

When you move the birds in from range, do it as carefully and quietly as possible to avoid frightening them. At the time of this move, it is a good idea to do anything that is necessary for the well being of the flock. If they haven't been vaccinated for fowl pox or Newcastle, now is the time to do it. Don't wait until they have gotten too far into production. If you suspect worm infestation, now is the time to worm them. Wash any pullet that is an out-and-out cull. Inferior birds should not be put in the laying house."

Good Soil Tillage Helps Corn Plants Build Strong Roots for Higher Yields Per Acre

GOOD soil tillage makes a big difference in the yields of corn you get. The better the tillage the more bushels you will get. This is illustrated by the two hills in the above picture.

The corn shows in the left taken from nearby plots in the same field. In both cases enough well-balanced fertilizer was added so that the corn could and should have made top yields under other growing conditions were favorable.

The corn plants with the big root systems with five big ears were grown on a plot that had received good management that had maintained soil structure. The soil was loose, well-aerated and well drained. Its organic matter content was steadily replenished.

Good tillage gave the big plants chance to develop strong, deep-reaching root systems. Thus they were able to get all the nutrients and moisture from the soil needed for high-yielding growth.

In the case of the corn plants with the small root systems and three small ears, the soil was compacted and tight due to poor management previously that had matted and broken down the structure. The root systems could not deeply penetrate the closely packed soil. Thus they could not forage for the nutrients that were in the soil. This cut down the plants' growth and reduced the number and size of roots.

"If you expect to get the most efficient use out of the fertilizer you use," says the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, "then you must maintain the structure of the soil so that roots can grow and the root system develop to make full use of the soil's nutrient supply."
