LOOK AT IT this WAY It is strange how you hear folks say time and time again that trucks don't pay enough highway use taxes. When you press them and ask how much they think the trucks do pay in comparison with the passenger car, you get answers like "maybe twice, perhaps three times as much". Nothing could be further from the truth! In Kentucky it takes the total road taxes paid by 23 automobiles to equal those paid by just one large transport truck! Just think of the revenue Kentucky gets from Public Servant No. 1, the TRUCK!

PROCESSING
Cutting, grinding, boning, and trimming of meat can best be done by the locker plant which has the equipment, the experienced help, and the "know-how" to do the work economically, and expertly—without waste.
WRAPPING
Proper packaging of foods for freezing is all-important. The locker plant uses the correct moisture-vaporproof wrappings and applies them with the latest methods.
SHARP-FREEZING
It is essential that foods for storage in a locker or home freezer be quick-frozen at sub-zero temperatures. We have refrigeration equipment capable of freezing huge quantities of foods.
ZERO STORAGE
All frozen foods should be kept at a constant zero temperature. The zero service we offer is the cheapest refrigeration in the world. We freeze your food locker at the cost of a daily newspaper!

No Liquor Defense

Lesson for October 25, 1953

ON THE SOUTH side of a large sign in front of a Methodist church on a main highway are the words: LIQUOR HAS NO DEFENSE. The church did not invent that expression; it is a quotation from Abraham Lincoln. One of the postive side of the sign, drivers coming the other way see this:

Death

Even the companies that make money out of drinkmaking like more liquor. They know that the north side of the sign is true, and will say so in large paid advertisements. Liquor has no defense as a drink for drivers. But some of the other defenses put up for alcoholic liquor as a beverage that "belongs" to that part of the social scene, do not sound so good when they are taken down and looked at with a cold and sober eye.

Alcohol is A Drug

The one thing that defenders of alcoholic beverages invariably keep quiet about, is the simple fact that alcohol is a drug, a harmful drug, a habit-forming drug. No amount of advertising can talk that fact out of existence.

That it is a fact, can be witnessed to by anybody—he does not have to be a preacher—who has had to deal with the wretched people at the bottom of the slide that was lubricated with liquor. Alcoholic are sick people; that is a recognized fact; but alcoholism differs from all the other diseases in the book in this one vital thing: No one can say to himself: I refuse to have tuberculosis, I will never have cancer. He may come down with those diseases in spite of his best intentions. But any one may say to himself: I will never be an alcoholic. And he can make that resolution stick, simply by staying away from alcohol. On the other hand, no man or woman who mixes alcohol in his system can ever be quite sure he will not be an alcoholic. No alcoholic ever meant to be one.

Drugs Have No Brakes

Now the trade in alcoholic liquor is legal, trade in other drugs such as heroin, cocaine and similar drugs, is strictly illegal except for medicinal purposes through regular pharmacists, and on doctors' prescriptions. Still there are a great many people who in spite of the difficulties do manage to buy and use these forbidden drugs, and of course there are always the conscientious people who sell the stuff to the addicts.

But let us suppose we listened to the defenses of ordinary liquor, if applied to other drug habits. How ridiculous they would sound! We are told that the habit of drinking liquor is a long-established American way of life. Well, the taking of cocaine is long-established too. People will buy liquor—legally or illegally; they will buy heroin too in spite of all the laws. People will steal cars, and forge checks—it's been done a long time. But that doesn't make it right.

Or again, consider the pleasure people get out of liquor. Why, of course. They get an even keeter pleasure out of shots of other drugs than alcohol. Every time you put a drug addict into a sanitarium you deprive him of his greatest pleasure in life. But that does not make his habit any better. But, it will be said, self-control is the answer; a drug used in moderation is not so harmful as when used to excess. True; but the trouble is, no drug has brakes, and drugs of the kind that alcohol and heroin are, actually weaken self-control instead of making it stronger.

Stuff And Nonsense

The reader can amuse (or horrify) himself by thinking of other antique arguments used to bolster the cause of those who use who profit by other men's use of alcoholic liquors. How do they sound when used in defense of other drug habits? "The illegal drug business gives employment to thousands." "To interfere with this traffic is to interfere with free enterprise, the right of every man to make his living as he sees fit." "To interfere with this traffic is to interfere with men's personal liberty." "Even if a man ruins himself with cocaine, it's his own business." (Rebased on another expression by the National Commission on Narcotics, National Commission on Crime, National Commission on the U. S. A. Released by Community Press Service.)

UNIVERSITY AIDS IN RUBBERIZED ROAD EXPERIMENT—Installation of asphalt pavement containing a newly developed synthetic latex compound, has been completed at Shively, Ky., on a three-mile section of the Dixie Highway. The work was done by the Kentucky Department of Highways. Combined with ordinary asphalt was a rubber latex compound developed by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company through a research program being carried on for the company by the University of Kentucky Research Foundation. The installation on the heavily traveled route is expected to show to what extent the rubberized material is more durable and flexible than ordinary asphalt surfaces. Above at the left are Carl Shaffer, Firestone executive from Akron, Ohio; D. V. Terrell, dean of the University's College of Engineering and director of research laboratories for the Kentucky Department of Highways; and L. E. Gregg, assistant director of research for the Department of Highways. A Kentucky Research Laboratory technician and a Firestone engineer are shown testing the thickness of the surfacing.

4-H BEEF SHOW AND SALE AT LONDON
Linda Powell of Conway and Abney Stephenson of Berea took two calves each to the Beef Show and Sale, held at the London Stockyards, Oct. 7th. To be eligible to enter a calf in the Show and Sale, a 4-H member must live on the farm where the calf or calves are fed and must personally feed and take care of them. One calf belonging to Linda placed in the blue ribbon group and one in the red ribbon group. Linda's calves weighed 675 pounds and 825 pounds and brought $21.00 per hundred and $26.00 per hundred pounds respectively. Both of Johnny's calves were placed in the blue ribbon group. One calf weighed 940 pounds and one in the red ribbon group. Linda's calves weighed 675 pounds and 825 pounds and brought $27.00 per hundred pounds. The other calf weighed 935 pounds and sold for $25.50 per hundred pounds. The Grand Champion 4-H calf was shown by Eddy Sexton of Knox County and was sold for $42.50 per hundred pounds.

KENTUCKY SERVED IN VARIOUS WAYS BY STATE SCHOOLS
More than 26,000 persons received instructions last year from Kentucky's state institutions of higher learning, the University of Kentucky, Western Murray, Morehead, and Kentucky State College, a printed report just released to the public reveals. During the past school year 16,878 young men and women were enrolled in the 6 schools. In addition, 3,643 advisers were employed in special extension courses conducted throughout the state, and 5,460 Kentuckians were taught by means of home study courses. The new bulletin, copies of which may be obtained by writing to the president of any of the institutions cooperating in its publication, also points out that the state university and colleges: Graduated in the one year 906 teachers and school administrators, 162 engineers, 42 lawyers, 236 employees of business and industry, 47 pharmacists, 238 agriculturists and home economists, and 705 persons trained for many fields of arts and sciences. Carried on experimental work adding millions of dollars to Kentucky incomes. Aided hundreds of thousands of farmers, homemakers, 4-H Club members, and other individuals through extension workers located in every Co. Made important studies for Kentucky school systems, local governmental units, state and federal agencies, communities in every part of the state and organizations requiring expert research or advice. Acted as service centers for the people of Kentucky, conducting hundreds of conferences, short courses and workshops. Assisted in developing Kentucky's natural resources and cooperated in the movement to bring agriculture and industry of the state into better balance.

BILLBOARDS TO CARRY SAFETY MESSAGE
During the months of December, January February and March, 150 special highway billboards will carry safety messages to motorists all over Kentucky under a plan announced here by Charles Jones executive secretary of the Governor's Committee for Highway Safety. Jones said the billboards will be sponsored by advertisers through the Outdoor Advertising Association messages. Each safety message will carry the name of Governor Lawrence W. Wetherby as endorser. There will be three types of billboards and they will be erected at strategic locations of heavy traffic.

RAMBLINGS

The drought in Kentucky is not of such serious proportion that the Federal Government is placing parts of the state on the emergency list. The western part of the state has been particularly hard hit. Farmers are scared so bad that it is believed much of the grass will not re-juvinate next year. Specialists at the University of Kentucky are warning the farmers of the possibility of pasture shortage next summer.

Cover crops that have been sown this past month are not growing. Some of the seed is lying dormant in the ground. If rains do come, the seed will rot. The cover crops could be saved. But if the rains come too late and there should be a hard winter, all cover crops will be suffering.

Due to the light winter last year, most of the cover crops grew for the entire winter. This year it might just be different. Many farmers are finding it difficult to supply sufficient water for the stock. The water has to be hauled long distances or brought up from springs far down the valleys. The weatherman says that it is the most serious drought in 39 years.

The long drought is making tinder out of the forest. Every day without rain the chances of fires increases. Leaves and grasses that have dried up make perfect material for fires.

Every precaution should be taken against forest fires. Do not burn any leaves or trash near dry grasses or timber. The leaves rot on the ground and add just so much humus to the soil. When the leaves are burned up and the litter is ruined, then the rains wash down the good top soil. Rocks will appear, yellow dirt will show. The little rivulets will make deep grooves into the soil. Then you will see the barren hillsides, robbed not only of trees but barren of grasses. All the steep hillsides should be verdant with green trees or growing timber, instead of the ghastly sight of dead timber or complete voidness of all vegetation.

When the fire destroyed the barn of Hugh Tyson's Bullock last Sunday, Mr. Bullock lost not only his barn and harvested crops, but he lost his farming tools. He has to begin over almost from scratch. Of course he has his acres and his house, but he has to build his barn. He has to buy his farming tools. All of them are expensive. Hard as it may seem to start building a home when young, it is more difficult when the courage and will wanes with the accumulation of one's life work is lost so suddenly in flames.

What is happening to our road No. 461? Wasn't it supposed to have been paved this year, yet I see no signs that it will. Perhaps many of you would like to know why such an important inter-county road is neglected? It is one of the very important arteries feeding traffic towards the Cumberland Lake region and other south eastern points.

Rockcastle County will vote on several important issues. An amendment to Section 186 is one item. This pertains to a more modern and efficient way of the distribution of school funds. Another item is the extra Bond issue for a hospital. Both items are important and I believe should receive favorable consideration by its voters.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sirs:
Please find enclosed a money order for $2.50 for the renewal of my subscription to the Signal. The Signal is a paper I couldn't do without. I wish I was registered there so I could vote for the hospital bond issue. I sure hope every voter does vote for it as it would be a great help to the people in Mt. Vernon as well as every one in the County. I own property there and expect to come back there to live some day, and would feel better about coming back with a hospital there. I noticed in the Signal where they are giving driving lessons at school and also think that is a good idea. I enjoy all the things you put in the paper. Mt. Vernon is my old home.

Mr. and Mrs. Noe, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Such candidates will be assigned to work which will prepare them for promotion to high level management or operating positions.

SUIT FILED

The Franklin Circuit Court was asked by retired Methodist Minister, J. C. Rawlings, Bradfordsville, to declare illegal the teaching in the public school systems of nuns of the Roman Catholic faith. The suit seeks to enjoin payment of funds to boards of education of Casey, Washington, Nelson, Meade, and Grayson Counties where it is claimed, nuns are employed in violation of law.

The suit was filed by Eugene Slier, Williamsburg attorney, former Judge of the Court of Appeals. In addition, he sought to enjoin payment of educational tax funds to pay, or help pay, transportation expenses of children attending parochial school. Governor Wetherby has joined with leading educators of the state in urging passage of an amendment to Section 186 of the Constitution, dealing with distribution of common school funds because of the graceful inequities resulting from the present method of distributing school funds.

will allow the Legislature, guided by skilled advice from laymen and educators, to devise another method of allocating school funds. Here is Wetherby's complete statement:
"When I became Governor in 1950, the common school fund amounted to an all-time high of $24,500,000. The per capita fund amounted to $20, 212,500. In 1951, I called a special session of the Legislature which approved my request that the per capita fund be increased by $6,000,000. The 1952 Legislature granted my request to raise the common school fund to $31,785, 500 for the year 1952-53. The per capita fund amounted to $26,212,500 for each of the years of the 1952-53 biennium. The appropriations have been made even though it was necessary to reduce other governmental expenditures by $5, 000,000.

These actions reflect my sincere interest in the welfare of our schools, children and teachers. However, despite the large increase in the common school fund from $19,501,250 in 1947 to $31,785,500 in 1953-54, sentiment exists among most of us who are wholeheartedly interested in education that there are disgraceful inequities

The Governor declared that the state in urging passage of the act to be by the voters, Nov. 3, would when adopted remove constitutional specifications for distribution of state money and resulting from the present method of distributing school funds as now provided by the State Constitution, and our school system remains sick. This belief is borne out in a Legislative Research Commission study of the 1950-51 fund distribution.

Therefore, I endorse the amendment to Section 186 of the Constitutional and urge its passage on November 3. This amendment will remove the constitutional specifications for the distribution of state money and will allow the Legislature, guided by skilled advice from laymen and educators, to devise another method of allocating school funds.

These actions reflect my sincere interest in the welfare of our schools, children and teachers. However, despite the large increase in the common school fund from $19,501,250 in 1947 to $31,785,500 in 1953-54, sentiment exists among most of us who are wholeheartedly interested in education that there are disgraceful inequities concerned. They have never liked paying taxes; they will never like to do so.

President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson are not as far apart on foreign policy as most Republican and Democrat politicians would like to believe.
For instance, Stevenson recently suggested that a nonaggression pact with Russia might be a good thing for the world to have. Later, after a call at the White House, Stevenson reported that the President is "very interested" in the plan.
Stevenson said of the plan: "If Russia was unwilling to accept the proposal it would be rather apparent that her peaceful professions aren't as sincere as they might seem." He added it would cost Russians on the spot with respect to their intentions.
The fact that the American people are more religious than at any time in their history is substantiated by a recent report of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.
The council reports the latest revision of the Bible has sold more copies in its first year than any other book ever published. The revised version of the Bible is the book of 15 years by 32 scholars and was authorized by 40 Protestant denominations. It has been received by waves of praise, as well as bitter criticism. However, it has been approved by most major church bodies, including many that did not participate in the project.

IT IS reported in Washington that the retailer-aided sales tax, which the administration entertained for several weeks received such vicious rebuff because of its actual effect on the consumer, is actually feared by its proponents. It is for this reason that President Eisenhower promised that the government would not seek to put a sales tax on articles when the retailer sells them.

The Treasury Department is now studying a plan to put a sales tax on the manufacturer's level. It has been pointed out that such a tax would be passed on to the consumer at a higher price. At the moment it is predicted that the reaction to such a tax will be as great as against the retail tax and the administration will drop the idea.

Of all its problems, taxation is the biggest headache facing the administration. The G.O.P. campaign for the coming year is a balanced budget, and free enterprise. As yet the administration has been unable to meet the lower taxes promise.

It finds itself unable to balance the budget because of rising costs of government operation, foreign commitments, and national security. It can not reduce taxes without a balanced budget and it can not balance the budget with reduced taxes.

As a result the administration has been searching for a way to eliminate unpopular taxes and substitute other measures not so unpopular. Here again it faces an impossible task. The seed has been planted that, taxes should be reduced. The natural result has been that all taxes are unpopular. That is not a new thought as far as the American people are concerned.
