It is not in things, it is in us. We read daily in our newspapers of wives who sue notorious husbands for divorce and generally the grounds for divorce are based upon mental cruelty and incompatibility. Occasionally I have discussed this matter with feminine relatives of mine and invariably their reactions to this perplexing indeed. The general observation is "how can any woman with everything to live for, luxurious homes, fortunes in furs and diamonds and expensive automobiles be unhappy with a man who makes these luxuries possible."

Naturally they approach these matters from an outsiders viewpoint. Were they directly concerned with the same issue at hand they probably would have followed in the steps of the woman who brought suit. Outwardly our womenfolk are swayed by the luxuries and materially things that go with femininity but inwardly, it is my belief that each and every woman, regardless of social or financial position, desires a single word called "happiness."

Happiness is not only a man called Joe, but is also a full life surrounded by those we love.

Injured When Two Cars Collide on U.S. 25 near Calloway

Miss Marie Kreuger knocked unconscious and Mr. Henry Cox breaks finger in collision Saturday night

Miss Marie Kreuger is in the Berea College hospital as a result of a two-car collision that happened on U. S. 25 last Saturday night about 10:30 o'clock near Calloway, with Miss Kreuger in the other car going south, and driven by Earl Payne of Pine Hill got into the wrong lane. ## DOINGS AT FRANKFORT

BY TOM SMITH

Even with the Governor's obvious strength in the 1954 Assembly, the marshaled forces of lobbyists aligned primarily against railroad interests. The tickler seek increased weight limits and conceivably may agree to accept the Revenue Department's proposal for out-of-state trucks on hauls through Kentucky.

Discussions among individuals and organizations interested in the so-called dog bill, which would provide for anti-rabies vaccinations, are continuing with no definite message announced. These seem agreed that there should be some law and they are trying to get together on a definite message.

The time in Kentucky is certain to again come up for heated debate with the Governor committed to seek legislation to ask for the half the state's Eastern Standard Time and East of Central Standard Time. He told the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation convention some weeks ago he would propose a time line due south from the Jefferson edge of Jefferson County.

Eastern Kentucky legislators introduced companion measures in the House and Senate calling for repeal of a 1952 law which imposes a lien on the property of recipients of public aid. This was a campaign issue in a number of primary election and election contests. Senators Doug Hays, Floyd county, and Archie Craft, Letcher county, Grace of McCracken in sponsoring the Senate measure. The Bill was signed by E. H. Stumbo and Lon C. Hill, both of Floyd county.

The early sessions found the usual opening days with mostly routine except a few sharp exchanges over adoption of rules.

Moves To Louisville

Mr. C. F. McAdams, driver for the Kroger Company, is moving to Louisville this week with his family where Mr. McAdams will continue his contracting with the Kroger Company. The family will live at 2909 Conestoga, Louisville. Mr. McAdams' many voluntary services to the church and the community will be greatly missed here.

In Rowan County, home-makers have recently had 150 chairs and stools weighing seats of Hong Kong grass.

Protest to Greyhound Lines

The following resolution was drafted by the local Lions Club and sent to the Southeastern Greyhound Lines, Lexington, Kentucky:

Dear Sir:

It was by unanimous decision of the Mt. Vernon Lions Club that this letter be written to you in protest to your removal of the buses from your schedule, which are the south bound that arrives in Mt. Vernon at 7:32 A. M. and the north bound that arrives in Mt. Vernon at 7:18 A. M.

Our thirty-two Lions protest the discontinuance of these two buses from your schedule, because many of our local people working in other towns depend on this means of transportation to and from work. It was also brought up at 241 meetings that some of our merchants receive freight on these buses.

We feel that the removal of these buses will affect our citizens, your consideration will be greatly appreciated by our club and community.

This was also voted that a copy of this letter be sent to the Motor Transportation at Frankfort and a copy to the Mt. Vernon Signal for publication.

Very truly yours,
Win McHargue, President
Floyd L. Owens, Secretary

Transportation will come up as important among the 1954 session of the General Assembly, the marshaled forces of lobbyists aligned primarily against railroad interests.

Rain and heavy snowfall visit this community Sat. and Sun.

Madison county is hardest hit with 8 to 10 inches of snow. Travel on highways hazardous.

This community was visited with a steady, though light rain Saturday that fell intermittently all through Saturday and well into the night. At about three o'clock on Sunday morning the rain ceased for a moment and then the snow fell so thick and fast that it obscured the vision of travelers. By Sunday morning at least four inches of snow had fallen and then all Sunday there was a fine snow that did not cease falling until late in the evening. At places the snow measured 8 inches and some places 10 inches on the level. A report stated that Madison county had the heaviest snow in the state. Drivers of the Greyhound bus line stated that the road was perfectly clear all the way south from Detroit and that no bad roads were encountered until they reached the hart of Kentucky.

The worst traveling was between Georgetown and London. The consolidated school at Kirksville in Madison county was closed all day Monday because the roads were too dangerous. Monday there was considerable thawing and many of the roads were cleared except in spots. By evening it began to freeze and all day Tuesday there was little thawing. The main street in Mt. Vernon is icy and many sidewalks are dangerous.

The weatherman stated that Tuesday night will be near zero weather. LATER: The sub-zero weather reached us Tuesday morning. Some reported 12 below others 4 below. The total rainfall was .96 of an inch. The cold weather will continue until Friday.

A Centenarian

The Reverend Isaac Clause celebrated his 100th birthday on May 9th of 1953. Mr. O. E. Kirby was taken to the Berea hospital where he was taken on the 100th birthday anniversary, celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. Kirby is the daughter of Reverend Clause. In his letter to this office Mr. Kirby states that many members of the Signal will remember Reverend Clause when he was living near Calloway as a Baptist preacher. Reverend Clause is now living in the home at Athens, and still takes his daily walks. For many years he stayed with his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Kirby.

Reverend Clause failed to arrive in time for this issue. J. S. Swinford of Disputanta was taken to the Berea hospital last week is improving. He has been recovering to the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. C. Williams.

Joe Dickerson of Livingston who is at the Berea College hospital is reported making progress. Spreading ammonium nitrate helped to produce 60 bushels of corn on an acre on Woodrow Penney's farm in Clinton county. Farmers in Fulton County in 1953 used enough lime and phosphate to treat about 10 percent of the crop land.

The importance of vitamins and minerals in the diet is being studied by homemakers in Campbell county. Gallatin county families enrolled in the Farm and Home Development program fertilized land and sowed alfalfa, despite drought.

Dr. Forrest H. Heeren, Dean of the School of Music, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, will direct the music at all sessions. Special musical numbers will be given by students from Campbellsville College, Georgetown, Col. Legg and Cumberland College at Williamsburg, State B. S. U. Choir, and School of Church Music of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

An attendance exceeding the 2,500 of last year is anticipated. Ohio county homemakers started 147 braided rugs in one month. The Chevrolet driven by Earl Payne of Pine Hill which collided with the station wagon driven by Henry Cox, last Saturday night at Calloway.

CONFERENCE SET

The increasingly vexatious problem of truck reciprocity is to be the topic of a Governor's Conference in Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 23 which Governor Wetherby will attend if his duties in connection with the General Assembly here permit. A reciprocal agreement was terminated between Ohio and Kentucky on trucks due to passage by the Ohio General Assembly of a law denying reciprocity to Kentucky trucks operating in that state. This resulted in cancellation of a similar agreement affecting Jan. 1, of Ohio truck operating here.

The Governor's Conference was called to consider the very pressing problem which has risen among the states relative to motor-transport taxation.

CAPITOL ROUNDUP - 1

Flames Destroy Roy Owens' Residence

Fire destroyed the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Owens on West Main Street some time after midnight last night. Mr. Owens was the first one to notice that there was something wrong. When he woke up he saw the smoke and flames eating away at the ceiling. When he rushed into the living room he found that the room was enveloped by fire around the ceiling. The alarm was sounded and the fire department came and almost had the flames under control, but lack of sufficient water at hand handicapped the fire fighters. There is no water plug at that end of the city and for that reason no large water hose could be used.

Only a few pieces of the contents were saved. The building and contents are a complete loss. Mr. Owens carried some insurance. In the house at the time were Mrs. Roy Owens and Mrs. Owens' little daughter, Shelly Jean Sutherland. No one was injured. Farm and Home Convention
One of the sectional meetings at the Farm and Home Convention at the University of Kentucky Feb. 2-5 will deal with the making and use of silage. Due in part to the drought of the past season, many farmers are said to be interested in this type of feed.

Two Kentucky stock men, John Moser of Louisville and Richard Starks of Versailles will relate some of their experiences with silage. Other speakers will be Dr. C. F. Rogers, Ohio Experiment Station, Dr. Lane Moore, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Dr. E. N. Fergus and Dr. W. P. Garrigus of the University.

Other sectional meetings of Wednesday, the second day of the convention, will deal with hog raising, dairying, poultry keeping, farm management, seed improvement, and the rural community and Church.

On Thursday, there will be sections on dairying, sheep raising, soils and crops, horticulture, the rural community and Church, beef cattle production, irrigation, and 4-H and Utopia clubs.

After two days of sectional meetings, farmers will attend a tobacco session on Friday. The control of disease, including black shank, use of fertilizers, and irrigation of tobacco will be discussed in the morning.

Speakers will be Dr. W. D. Vallou, C. E. Bortner and Earl G. Welch of the University. The afternoon program will be devoted to questions and answers on all phases of tobacco growing.

Nine local implement companies, two national building equipment associations and three irrigation equipment companies will join in the educational exhibits and demonstrations.

Exhibits will include irrigation equipment, tractor hitches and machinery, model of farmstead showing 50 years of progress in agriculture in Kentucky, model pole of a barn and milking parlor, silos and other farm structures, care of bees, and production of honey, and what farmers should know about soils, fertilizers, crops, feeds, insects, fruits, vegetables, live stock, poultry, meats and marketing.

Eight companies will take part in special demonstrations in tractor hitches. Irrigation grass, hay and other crops will be discussed at a special session on irrigation. A large number of farmers are said to be interested in irrigating tobacco.

Government programs will also receive attention in one of the sectional meetings. One of the speakers will be D. Howard Doane of the Doane Agricultural Service, St. Louis. Other speakers will tell about price supports and parity prices. This session will be Wednesday morning Feb. 3.

Start making plans now to attend the convention!

Educational Gains Shown in Report
Kentucky made many educational advances during the last two years chief of which the amendment to the Constitution permitting the General Assembly greater latitude in distributing public school funds.

The gains are summarized in a report just issued by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell P. Butler. "These achievements constitute tangible and obvious evidences of advancement in public education in Kentucky," observed Butler. "Educational progress is in evolutionary process rather than a revolutionary one." Butler declared that as a result of the vote on the recent amendment a foundation program of education has been formulated, carrying out the wishes of many citizens' groups, for submission to the new General Assembly.

He listed as other advances: The merger of five independent school districts into the county systems. The expenditure of more than $32,000,000 for new building sites, additions and improvements to existing plants of which $23,500,000 was spent by county school systems and $8,500,000 by independent systems.

Reduction of one-teacher schools from 2,999 to 2,600 and reduction of high schools in the state, public and private, from 613 to 594 largely the result of consolidations.

Assistance of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation in the rehabilitation of more than 1,380 disabled Kentuckians into gainful employment. Improvements in school attendance showed a marked improvement. During a 10-year period, schools showed an enrollment gain of 42,957 persons, while average daily attendance increased 78,373.

Increased transportation facilities at the local level for an increasing number of pupils. The Superintendent also noted the number of "emergencies" or substandard teachers having been reduced in a five-year period from 5,300 to 2,800 indicating a "gradual improvement in professional preparation."

UK County Agent Thomas L. Pirtle says Bang's disease vaccination could save Livingston county farmers $25,000 a year.

RAMBLINGS

The weather made news this week. For some reason or other forecasts a few weeks ago did not materialize, and the cold wave that was supposed to reach us at that time swerved to the north. It might therefore be that weather prophets were reluctant to tell us what was coming. So they missed it, at least for central Kentucky last Saturday and Sunday.

The rain fell so plentifully all day Saturday and went into the night, giving us a rainfall of .98 inches. Then on Sunday night and Sunday the snow fell to a depth of 10 inches in places. This will make another inch of water. That means the drought is definitely broken for the winter time being but there was not enough water to make the branches run or to feed the underground springs. The top soil has been so devoid of moisture that it absorbed all the rainfall.

Government business is getting to be big business. In fact it is so big that few can grasp the immensity and the vastness of it. What used to be only in the millions now reaches into the billions. How much is a billion dollars? It's a thousand millions.

The governor of a state has a big job, but the job of a president of the United States is infinitely larger and more complex. The cross currents, the multitudinous minds, the infinitely complex problems of every nature, must weigh heavily on the mind responsible for their solution. One got the feeling of a sincerity of attitude, a mood of willingness and readiness to grapple with these problems as one listened to the message on the State of the Union by our president. It stands to reason that an address of this nature has to deal in generalities, and leave to Congress the discussion, deliberation, and signing of specific questions and make necessary laws to govern us.

I heard Governor Wetherby give his message to the legislature and one also got the impression of his earnestness and desire to make Kentucky go forward.

When photographers made pictures of the governor they noticed a lot of sweat beads on his face caused by the momentary intense excitement and seriousness of the speaker.

Home Agents Notes

Homemakers Council Postponed

The winter meeting of Homemakers Advisory Council was postponed until Monday Jan. 18. Because of unfavorable weather it was not held on January 11, as scheduled.

Farm and Home Week delegates are to be appointed, a financial report and district activities discussion are items of business.

Each club president will represent her club at the meeting.

Training Lesson on Braided Rugs To Be Held

The fourth lesson on braided rugs will be given to members on Wednesday, January 20, at Mt. Vernon, at the County School Administration Bldg. Miss Marion Bartlett, UK Specialist, will present the lesson. Leaders will present the information at their February meetings.

Two other lessons in home furnishings are scheduled for the next two months. They are "Decorative Combinations and Styling" and "Decorative Accessories." Miss Bartlett will teach them also.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor: I'm sending you $2.50 for the renewal of the Signal. We enjoy it very much. It helps us to keep in touch with our dear friends and good neighbors. We are both from Rockcastle County. When we read the Signal it is like reading a letter from home. Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Rucker Rt. 1, Trenton, Ohio.

FINANCE BOOKLET MAILED OFFICIALLY
A booklet entitled "County Financial Management" has been distributed to county officials by the Kentucky Department of Revenue. Prepared by Dave Magill, State Local Finance Officer, the booklet describes the more important fiscal duties of the various county officials and outlines the proper methods of managing county business. The complexity of laws covering county finances and the fact that many new officials are taking office for the first time prompted the department to issue the publication.

POWER NOT THERE
The fiscal court of a county does not have the power to abolish a post created by the General Assembly, Assistant Attorney General M. B. Hoifield declared in holding that the Grant Fiscal Court erred when it voted to abolish the post of secretary to the county judge. The post, he said, had been created by legislative authority and could not be abolished. He held the fiscal court could fix the pay of such an employee within the limits set by the General Assembly, but that only the county judge could employ or discharge the employee.

FEES TOTAL $807,000
The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board collected for the State Treasury more than $807,000 in fees during the past fiscal year in which it issued more than 7,000 licenses both beer and whiskey.

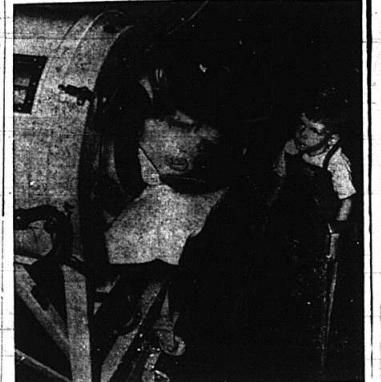

In addition, it revoked 94 licenses, ordered suspensions totaling 2,0058 days and collected $13,200 in fines in lieu of suspensions. The board also claimed it had revoked or suspended 206 licenses on charge of permitting gambling on premises and 1948 compounded with only two such convictions in the period from 1934 through 1948.

SUBJECT TO CONTROL
Franklin Circuit Judge William B. Ardery ruled that an individual who hauls his fellow workers for hire is subject to control and regulation by the State Department of Motor Transportation as a "for hire" operator.

He dismissed a suit brought by E. L. Chauncey, Lexington, employee of the Lexington Signal Depot against the department, seeking to enjoin it from interfering with his operations. It was contended that such practices did not bring Chauncey within the purview of the state motor vehicle laws.

Homemakers clubs in Owen county observed National Book Week with special programs.

THE STORY OF NITROGEN

Fifty-six years ago Sir William Crookes, noted chemical scientist, foresaw the possibility of the end of life on earth. He wasn't forecasting a plague, another great Deluge, the development of the H-bomb or nuclear biological warfare. He was merely calling attention to the dwindling supply of usable nitrogen in the earth's farmlands. Unless a way could be found to replenish the nitrogen being drawn from the soil crops, the soil gradually would become unproductive—and wholesale starvation would face the human race.

The pitifully small earth deposit of usable nitrogen in Chile's nitrate mines wouldn't fill a hollow tooth in the earth's hunger for this chemical element which sustains all plant and animal life. Chemical warfare was being challenged. And echoing in this challenge was God's own admonition to Adam and Eve: "Be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it." Mankind had multiplied all right; and had scattered, in the millions, over all the globe. But mankind had not replenished the earth, as they took from it.

MUST BE "FIXED"
When Crookes made his important observation, the world's population was swiftly growing, as it is now; while the productivity of the land, on the whole, was diminishing. These two related facts were what the chemical scientists forecast not a land of plenty, but a land of growing food scarcity.

Long before Crookes lived, pure scientists had discovered the pace of nitrogen in the scheme of life. And strangely enough, they had found that there was more nitrogen on earth than any other element. The air we breathe is 80 per cent nitrogen, and thus the air column over each acre of land on earth there are approximately 70,000,000 pounds of nitrogen. But before the soil, or man, or animals can use this air-nitrogen, it must be extracted and made into a different kind of chemical called "fixed" nitrogen.

The chemists found that a bolt of lightning converted the air nitrogen into "fixed" nitrogen, and rain brought it down into the ground, and it renewed the soil's productivity. This occurrence was not widespread enough to be of any consequence, but it gave them a clue. The job was far too big, however, for test tube chemistry. In time small chemical plants of Europe developed a cumbersome process for "fixing" air nitrogen so that it could be put into the soil and used by the plants.

It is doubtful that the European production ever would have been of any substantial commercial value. It took the genius of American industry to get the big job done. In 1904 some of our bigger chemical industries began experimenting with "fixing" nitrogen. DuPont and others acquired European formulas and then plowed vast resources in men and money into developing mass production of "synthetic" nitrogen fertilizer. By 1940 the fertilizer business had been revolutionized, and Sir William Crookes' spectre of a starving civilization was erased.

REPLENISHING THE EARTH
One of the big new nitrogen plants was built at El Dorado, Arkansas, by Lion Oil Company. It reaches up into the atmosphere and pulls in the air we breathe; it reaches down into the South Arkansas earthen reservoirs and pulls in petroleum gas. Then, this monstrous and intricate plant, covering 600 acres, pressurizes, mixes, and heats the gases, and out of it comes vast quantities of "fixed" nitrogen for converting into fertilizer. Lion is building a second big plant. Other big plants are going up throughout the South throughout America. American farmers meantime have learned how to use the life-giving, stimulating nitrogen in every agricultural production job. It is performing amazing feats in increased production of crops and livestock. Man gets his nitrogen from the meat, vegetables and grains he eats, and it keeps him alive. Thus, American industry, with its freedom to grow, with its powerful incentive inherent in our competitive, profit system, and with its great capacity for research, is helping mankind to be "fruitful and multiply, and subdue the earth, and INSECT HORDES."
