By Clay A. Colson, Soil Conservation Service

W. S. "Bill" Cass says grassland is the best way to conserve the soil that there is. Mr. Cass farms 130 acres of bottom and upland near Brodhead on the headwaters of the River. All the crop land on the farm is planted to corn, soybeans, alfalfa, clover and legumes. It isn't that Mr. Cass doesn't have suitable land for row crops but he says it doesn't pay to plow up good grass for corn.

Mr. and Mrs. Cass live in town about one mile from the farm. They have two sons, Jimmie, who is now in college and Billy, who is in the Air Force stationed in Japan. Since these boys have been away from home, Mr. Cass has had to cut all the hay and pasture in order to utilize what labor he has to best advantage.

About seven years ago when Bill began to experiment in improving his farm, he began to plow and turned over the soil and the middle row crop land through the middle row crop.

Not many years ago Bill says he didn't have enough grass to keep cattle. He depended on corn and tobacco for his income. He now uses such grasses and legumes as fescue, orchard grass, ladino clover, red clover, alfalfa, clover, lespedeza and alfalfa.

Bill completed construction of a pond a few weeks ago. The pond is for a part of the farm. This pond will hold one million gallons of water. The recent rain put about 1 1/2 ft. of water in the pond. In addition to grassland farming, Bill says he just likes to have his farm green. He says it saves labor, pays off, conserves the soil and just plain looks good.

Pasture Improvement

By H. Lee Durham, Assistant County Agent

Setting good pasture on land that should be in pasture and then making the best use of these pastures is the best way to increase farm income in Rockcastle County more than almost any other improvement. Rockcastle farmers might make. By the use of improved practices in pasture production, the average meat-equivalent yield of pasture in Rockcastle County may readily be increased by 150 pounds per acre. This increase in livestock production would more than double the cash farm receipts from the sale of livestock products. Pasture is Our Most Economical Feed.

Good pasture is our most economical feed. U. S. D. A. figures from sixteen states show that 100 pounds Total Digestible Nutrients from pasture cost only about half as much as from corn, and two-thirds as much as from alfalfa.

Good pasture is our most economical feed. U. S. D. A. figures from sixteen states show that 100 pounds Total Digestible Nutrients from pasture cost only about half as much as from corn, and two-thirds as much as from alfalfa.

What is Good Pasture? A pasture may be called "good" if it serves well the intended function. In general terms, a good pasture provides forage for livestock efficiently and economically. If pasture is the only crop on a piece of land through the year, it should produce a yield of pasture sufficient to make 200 pounds of meat-equivalent per acre.

1. Plants that are well adapted to the land and that require little or no special management. 2. About one-half grass and one-half legumes. 3. Sufficient growth, when being used to provide all the forage for livestock, to permit the animals to eat all they can hold. This means that a cow must eat enough hay or other roughage to keep her from overeating the pasture.

4. Most farmers should grow enough hay or other roughage to keep their livestock from overeating the pasture. 5. Where there is enough good corn land on the farm (usually class 1 or class 2 bottom land) many farmers should grow the grain to feed the livestock they should keep to use the pasture.

6. Free from weeds and brush. 7. Smooth and level enough to mow. 8. Adequately fenced to contain the livestock and have a convenient system of water.

What Land Should Be in Pasture? On matted upland farms pasture should be the basic feed crop. Where it is, a farmer should use all his crop land for pasture with the following exceptions: 1. Most farmers will want to, and perhaps should, grow their tobacco base.

On level farms where grain is the basic feed, one should have enough pasture to feed the stock to use the grain. Fertility Level Needed For Good Pasture Production. A reasonably high fertility level is needed to establish and maintain a good stand of pasture plants and to produce good pasture yield.

grazed so closely that the plants will be injured or the ground exposed. At present prices it requires from $30 to $40 per acre for seed, lime, phosphate, potash and nitrogen to establish a good pasture on low-fertility land. In addition, $15 to $25 is needed for labor and machinery if the land is reasonably free from brush, stones and gullies.

There are several acres of land in Rockcastle County on which it would be profitable to spend from $50 to $60 per acre to get good pasture. On these acres increased value of the land itself would more than offset the cost of making the improvement.

Brindle Ridge. The revival closed here Friday night with 3 additions. One by letter and two by baptism. The baptizing service took place at Clear Creek near Wildie. Those baptized were, Mr. J. W. Burdette, Mr. Tommy Burdette, and Mrs. Amos Burdette. Mrs. Kathie Mellargue of Newark, Ohio, has been visiting five inches in height but not other relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Pete Mink and children of Dayton, O., have been visiting relatives here. Mr. Jess Mink is able to be home from the Berea hospital. He is reported improving. Several from here attended the Farm Bureau "Picnic at Brodhead Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Luke McFarland spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. George York. Miss Edna Fay Abney has returned home after visiting her brothers in Indiana. Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Burdette and family visited relatives here last week.

County Agent Notes

The Trench Silo Filling Demonstration

There are now three trench silos in Rockcastle. These silos were constructed by Roy Turner, Gilbert Burton and Floyd Bingham. They will be filled this year with soybeans and sudan grass. Perhaps a 2 m.c. corn. There are 12 or 15 farmers who plan to construct trench silos next year and are watching Turner, Burton and Bingham build and fill their silos this year.

Since Mr. Turner is the first farmer in the county to construct a trench silo we have planned with him to put on a silo filling and silo filling demonstration. This demonstration will be held on Tuesday, August 2, miles from Broadhead on the Hiatt Road, at 9:00 A. M. All who are interested in seeing the first trench silo ever built in Rockcastle County and witness the filling of it should attend this meeting. Mr. Earl C. Welch, Agricultural Engineer from the State College of Agriculture, will be present to assist in demonstrating and give any information on construction of all types of silos and feeding silage.

Mr. Turner has 10 acres of alfalfa and sudan grass which will produce from 10 to 12 tons per acre. Let's all go and see such tonnage and learn how it's cut and put in trench silo for winter feed.

The farmers who can't go to Mr. Turner's farm to see the silo filling demonstration on Monday, August 2 at 9:00 A. M. may stop anytime on Tuesday and see the work going on. Of course Mr. Welch won't be there on Tuesday to furnish information on silo construction but you will see the work going on.

OUR NEEDY

This great country of ours was founded upon Christian principles by men who were striving toward better living conditions; yet the needy people of our country are facing untold hardships, and are sorely neglected by those more fortunate than they.

As a Kentucky Senator I introduced the following bills in the Senate of Kentucky with the intention of establishing and guaranteeing to the needy and unfortunate people of our state security which they justly deserve:

Senate Bill No. 161—Ed P. Warinner. To direct the Commissioner of Economic Security to withhold 50 cents from each payment to recipients of public assistance in order to pay the burial expenses of deceased persons.

Senate Bill No. 84—Ed P. Warinner. To repeal 1952 Act imposing lien on property of recipients of public assistance.

Warinner. To amend KRS 205.210 (7) to increase by fifty percent the amount of public assistance now being paid to each recipient.

Senate Bill No. 67—Ed P. Warinner. To amend Chapter 205 of KRS to provide for public assistance benefits to the permanently and totally disabled. Regardless of age.

Senate Bill No. 247—Ed P. Warinner. To pay at least $100 to the estate of any deceased recipient of public assistance who did not leave an estate sufficient to allow a decent Christian funeral.

Senate Bill No. 240—Ed P. Warinner. To amend KRS 205.260 and KRS 205.270 (1) to exempt the first $1,000 of a public assistance recipient's estate from claim by the Commonwealth.

The above Senate Bills were my efforts and my endeavor to help you. I am asking for your vote and your support in my campaign for Representative in the United States Congress.

Your support will enable me to be of further service to you, and when elected to the above important office your cause and your security will not be forgotten.

Some of my opponents have resorted to the oldest game in politics, and that is of telling falsehoods to try to mislead the people.

Some are trying to lie about my record in the Senate. I hope you good people will check the record books before you believe any of these tales. You people are intelligent people and you are not going to believe that I have at any time in the Kentucky Senate tried to cast any vote against the good people of Kentucky.

My great lead in this race is evident. That is the reason for some of my opponents telling lies about me.

I have stood in the halls of the Kentucky Senate and fought against high taxes that would put a hardship on you, and I will do the same in Washington. I am making this race to help develop this district and to bring fair representation
