Dairy Record-Keeping
Sponsored by USDA

A simple, low-cost plan for keeping dairy production records has been announced by the USDA. It is called the "Weigh-It-Down-a-Month Plan."

Dairy Extension specialists at the University of Kentucky say the plan will be an addition to the Dairy Herd Improvement Association production record-keeping plan and the "owner-sampler" plan.

Under the new plan, milk output of each cow in a herd is weighed and recorded for one day a month by the farmer himself. No milk samples or butterfat tests are required. The farmer records the weights on a special form and mails it to a central computing office. Cost will average about 50 cents a cow per year.

Monthly milk production, total production to date of each cow, and the yearly herd total to date are computed at the central office. If feed information is reported, the office will make calculation on value of product, total cost of feed, and income over feed cost for the herd.

Information will be furnished the farmer monthly. This will enable him to cull low producers, feed each cow according to her production, and select the best animals for herd replacements. A yearly summary also will be furnished the farmer.

Advantages of record keeping will be stressed with farmers running small herds, the specialists say.

Test Soils Prior To Fall Plantings

Supplying plant foods in which soils are deficient will help bring on successful establishment of fall seeding, say Harold Miller, Extension soils specialist at the University of Ky.

For that reason, soils should be tested. Such tests are available to every farmer in Kentucky and are the best guides to determine available and needed plant foods in particular soils.

Soil test charges are nominal but the tests bring good dividends; they will enable the farmer to purchase needed plant foods and get maximum returns on fertilizer investments.

Miller notes that proper seedling practices with recommended varieties on well-prepared seed beds will not necessarily establish a stand unless tests have been made to determine types and amounts of needed plant foods.

Watch Burley While Curing

Watch the current burley crop closely in curing season, it's posing problems, says Russell Hunt, Extension tobacco specialist at the University of Kentucky.

The current crops are big, the plants have lots of sap, barns are being over-crowded thereby, and weather so far has not been too favorable for curing. Hunt says, because of high humidity.

Hunt advised farmers to open barn ventilators during the day and close them at night. If this does not promote good curing, use heat, he said.

Doctor's Day-- To Honor Webb's Years Of Service

DR. R. C. WEBB
His Day is September 30

Months during his school's vacation. In order to get money to continue his medical education, Dr. Webb set up practice at Livingston for the first school year. He also began to receive the thanks of Rockcastle County and especially Livingston for his years of medical service to the county.

On Sept. 30, at 2 p. m., "Doctor Webb Day" will be observed at Livingston, at which time speakers will laud the doctor's service to the community and present him with a plaque. There will also be a band and a parade through town.

The young doctor was certain this was the place for him to live and work when he finished his medical education. He returned to college, and in 1906 he was graduated. But when he came back to his old practicing grounds, he found another doctor had taken his place.

He rested and looked around the area, but found nothing he felt would interest him. Then one afternoon, a friend called at his home and presented him with information:

"Doctor, I understand there's an opening for a general practitioner at Livingston. That's in Rockcastle County. It's a thriving little railroad town, and I think you could build up a good practice."

Thinking in terms of "keeping the wolf from the door," the new doctor packed his belongings and moved to Livingston.

The doctor found Livingston was indeed as it had been pictured in the past. There was a population of 1,100, a school, and a church. There were also a few stores, and a few homes. The doctor was indeed in a good place.

Limited in his finances, he continued to teach at every opportunity, particularly the five

According to police, Mrs. Poynter reported she topped a hill and saw a semi-truck passing another coming up the hill and she swerved her auto to the right. The auto hit a drainage incline. At the side of the road and overturned. The new auto was a total loss, it was reported.

LET'S BUILD MORE ROADS

LEGEND:
 Heavy Lines - Rural Primary Roads
 Light Lines - Rural Secondary Roads
 Dotted Lines - Urban roads are extension of the new road systems through towns. Small boxes show the 641 miles of Interstate de ferre roads.

...without increasing taxes!

The new Federal Aid Highway Act, passed by Congress, makes available to Kentucky over $137 million to build roads in the next three years, if Kentucky puts up its share. These are farm-to-market roads, secondary roads, main highways, interstate routes and streets connecting highways through the cities.

Shown on the map above are 18,672 road miles in all sections of Kentucky that could share this federal aid. However, to get these federal funds, Kentucky must put up more than $57 million in the next three years. Of this amount, $12 million is needed for the national, interstate routes. On this system of highways, the Federal government pays $9 for $1 paid by Kentucky.

But our big problem is to match the $45 million for the 18,672 road miles shown on the large map. These are the roads that serve all sections of the state. Here the Federal government pays $1 for each $1 paid by Kentucky.

BOND ISSUE
 Early this year the Legislature adopted a measure to submit a $100 million road bond issue to the people of Kentucky. This will be voted upon at the Nov. 6th election. If passed, the law requires that bond money will be used ONLY to match federal aid. The Highway Department plans to use $57 million of the bond money to match federal aid during the first three years of the program, as prescribed by the 1956 Federal Highway Act. The remainder of the bond money would be used for matching federal money in future years.

NO NEW TAXES NECESSARY
 The Legislature also adopted taxes chiefly on heavy trucks. These taxes are now being paid and are enough to retire the bonds. If Kentucky FAILS to match federal aid (which is your money, being paid day-by-day, mainly in federal gasoline taxes), then these funds would be kept by the government to be given to other states.

BENEFITS FOR ALL
 Kentucky has fallen behind in building its roads. By voting "YES" for the Highway Bond Issue we can start on a program for better roads which will benefit every county and community in the Commonwealth. And, this can be done without more taxes being necessary.

We are paying for BETTER ROADS...let's have them!

WE WELCOME FOUR GOOD MEN

When a good thing happens in Mt. Vernon we always like to take special note.

During the past two weeks we have added four people to our small professional world, and we believe we are lucky.

First to join was the Rev. Marion Parkey, new pastor of the Mt. Vernon Christian Church. Mr. Parkey is, by all reports, an able and articulate man. He has begun his duties at the church without fanfare. He comes well recommended to be an intelligent spokesman and spiritual leader for the community.

Second to join, was Jack Lincoln Adams as music instructor at Mt. Vernon Grade and High School. Jack Lincoln is no stranger in Mt. Vernon. He grew up here and graduated from the school in which he now teaches. He has a splendid musical education and has won countless medals for himself and his students at Oakland City, Ind., where he last taught. The importance of a formal music education has been proved countless times. Jack Lincoln will extend a strong cultural hand to the community.

Next to join was another native of Mt. Vernon, Johnny Johnson, a physical education instructor at Mt. Vernon Grade and High School. Mr. Johnson has had considerable training in his relatively new field, a field that is increasing in importance all over the nation. His job, though it sounds like play, is an important one—teaching children to be conscious of their physical well-being. Johnny is equipped to carry out his duties with energy and skill.

Last to join, was Irvin Sylvester as Chief of Police. In the important job of policing the town, Chief Sylvester brings with him a Master Sergeant's knowledge of Army police work—four and a half years of it. For a job which calls for both sternness and tact, Mr. Sylvester, by his record, and his first few days as chief, has proved to be the man for the job.

Mt. Vernon is indeed lucky not to have lost these four men to higher paying jobs in other communities. We are fortunate to have their services. Our duty to them will be to cooperate and assist them to do the best job of which they are capable.

TRANSY PRESIDENT HEADS DIMES DRIVE

A man long concerned with the youth of Kentucky has been chosen to lead the fight against polo as state chairman for the 1957 March of Dimes.

Dr. Frank A. Rose, president of Transylvania College in Lexington, has been appointed to the volunteer post by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It was announced here today.

"This is the year we hope to finish the job in the fight against polo and exceptional leadership is needed even more than in the past. We know that our youth will be helped by your generous contributions to our thousands of volunteers in Kentucky."

The new state chairman will coordinate the campaign efforts of county March of Dimes leaders throughout the state. He succeeds Dr. Frank Kruss, Bardonia, who led the anti-polo campaign to success for two years.

Dr. Rose, father of four children, became the youngest president in the history of Transylvania College in 1951. He was named one of the ten outstanding young men in the

Consumer Resistance to High Prices May Result in Higher Prices

Consumer resistance to high prices may result in higher prices, the economist says, despite wage increases in the past. We know that increased slowly this year, but probably will level off by late 1956. Here are a few notes on expected conditions: Broiler prices, may go somewhat above current levels by mid-October, the economist says. Chick starts have fallen off recently. Some seasonal price rise is anticipated in the months just ahead, especially for top grades of eggs. Prospects for the 1956 tobacco crop are good. In beef cattle, a wider spread than noted in the past several years is expected to occur between top grade slaughter cattle and the lower grades. Grass-fat calf producers with beef breeding should consider carrying their stock further up to next year, if a drop in prices of grass-fat cattle develops this fall. Feeder-calf raisers may want to consider selling their calves late this fall.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Vision of Victory

Lesson for September 23, 1956. AFTER the battle, as Homer's poem tells it, the Greeks and Trojans had been killed and left on the field. Whoever won the battle and won the ghost-war went on and would go on forever. But the same old, old religion, the old primitive Greek religion, but the same kind of religion is to be found in other religions.

Dr. Foreman

Desperate Battle

The ancient Persians were not invincible. They were not good and evil, and the rights of the good did not overrule the actions. The cause of God had defeated. As a modern writer puts it, "Victory has many wounds." The cause of God, who cannot be defeated. All things are good—some wish us to believe, but it is in the facts to see this "right" things, but nothing would argue them more than the Kingdom of God really came!

inspire a real life way, a new good and evil, and the rights of the good did not overrule the actions. The cause of God had defeated. As a modern writer puts it, "Victory has many wounds." The cause of God, who cannot be defeated. All things are good—some wish us to believe, but it is in the facts to see this "right" things, but nothing would argue them more than the Kingdom of God really came!

Personal Victory

To all the wars of this world, some on the winning side have never struck a blow or got into the fight at all. The forces do the fighting, the stay-at-homes celebrate the victory when it comes. It is different in the world—the age-long struggle between God and all that is anti-God. If the Bible teaches anything plainly it is that no one will share the victory. God who has not lost in the struggle on God's side. Many Christian hymns express this idea, such as "Am I a soldier of the cross" and "The Son of God goes forth to war." First the war, then the victory. Now there are many religions that teach something like this. Valhalla, Paradise, Nirvana, heaven, whatever it is called—most religions look forward to a time and place where everyone is, so to speak, a part of a successful war. But what do they do during their victory? Here the Christian religion stands alone. "His servants shall serve Him," the Bible says. So John Sutherland Bonnell says in his little book, "Heaven and Hell," (Abingdon Press, $1.00) "The rest which is promised us in heaven is not the rest of passivity or indolence. There will be constant opportunities for spiritual development and service."

Christ Will Reign

But we are sure that the Christian can look forward to final victory only because he is fighting in the cause and army of Christ. It is the Christian who stands alone. "His servants shall serve Him," the Bible says. So John Sutherland Bonnell says in his little book, "Heaven and Hell," (Abingdon Press, $1.00) "The rest which is promised us in heaven is not the rest of passivity or indolence. There will be constant opportunities for spiritual development and service."
