Corn Yield is Boosted 64 Bushels by Modern Methods

Yield averaged 123 bushels per acre on "Corn Today" field where fertilizer was added and modern cultural methods used.

MODERN corn raising methods can boost yields by 64 bushels per acre and net returns by $55 per acre compared with methods used 30 years ago, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in summarizing results of a Minnesota demonstration.
The demonstration was conducted on the Walter and Paul Wenzel farm near Red Wing, Minn. It was under the direction of the Walter and Paul Wenzel farm near Red Wing, Minn. It was under the direction of the Walter and Paul Wenzel farm near Red Wing, Minn. It was under the direction of the Walter and Paul Wenzel farm near Red Wing, Minn.
Harold Jones and Edwin Jensen, of the Minnesota staff, estimated that it cost only 52 cents per bushel to grow corn on the "Corn Today" field, compared with 86 cents on the "Corn Yesterday" plot.
The "Corn Today" field was fertilized three times. Once before planting, at planting time and after the last cultivation. A modern hybrid strain, Mini-bred was planted on the contour, at the rate of 18,000 to 20,000 stalks per acre. Insecticides and herbicides were applied for insect and weed control. Cultivation was limited.
The "Corn Yesterday" field was not fertilized, although manure was added. An open-pollinated variety of corn was planted at the rate of 12,000 stalks per acre.

Report Funds Used In Local US Forest

Rockcastle County will receive $1,448.04 as payment from the Federal Treasury for the 11,011 acres in the county that are in the Cumberland National Forest area.

Robert F. Collins, supervisor of the Cumberland National Forest, announced today that a Federal Treasury warrant for $60,168 was being issued to the State of Kentucky for distribution to the counties within the Cumberland National Forest. This sum represents 25% of the Forest's receipts during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1957, and amounts to over 13 cents per acre for each of the 457,519 acres administered by the U. S. Forest Service in Kentucky.

Allocation will be made to the counties in proportion to the National Forest land within the county. This payment is in lieu of taxes, and compares favorably with the amount paid by private land owners for taxes on land of similar value.

For comparison purposes, in 1937 the total payment to the State for the counties was $346, in 1947 it was $23,308; in 1957, it is $60,168. This shows that during the past ten years the counties' share of the Cumberland National Forest's collections has almost tripled.

In the early days, shortly after the Government began purchasing the land that now makes up the National Forest, income from timber sales was insignificant. Then the foresters' (Continued on page 4)

Speed And Steel Will Get You, State Policeman Tells Meridians

"Speed and steel can get you," said Major William Sellers of the Division of Public Safety of the State Police in Frankfort when he addressed the Meridian Woman's Club, Monday night.

He outlined three projects that he considered worthy for the Woman's Club to promote:

1. Driver training—He pointed out the value of a driver training course for high school students carried on as a regular part of their school work under a teacher who holds a certificate in driver education. He said the teacher should be paid for the extra work. Each class should run for six months.

He said the Automobile Association at Lexington, would furnish enough literature for the course and make a dual apparatus available.

Major Sellers said in most towns where these projects were carried on, automobile dealers were glad to furnish driver training automobiles for the advertising involved.

He said civic clubs usually contributed money to defray expenses.

He emphasized the idea by quoting statistics the driver children who learn to drive were served.

'58 Farm Outlook Favorable

Farm income in 1958 "probably will be much the same as in 1957 unless the business recession is more severe than anticipated," says the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station economist department.

The economists made their 1958 forecasts this week, covering virtually every phase of farm life.

They foresee a downward trend the first half of 1958 in general business activity, and some increase in unemployment; "the decline probably will level off and be reversed in the latter half of 1958, due to high consumer spending levels, and government spending."

Net income per person on farms probably will continue a slight upward trend, they forecast, as the farmer's share of the food dollar—40 cents—probably will remain the same. Farm exports value probably will decline some. Farm costs may rise slightly, the economists say, particularly in fertilizer, taxes and interest categories.

Feed and roughage supplies are at an all-time high nationally, but Kentucky's curtailed production (down about 25 percent) of feed grains in 1957 may cause slightly higher prices; dairy product prices are expected to stay about the same as in 1957; egg prices and prices probably will be higher than 1957; broiler production is expected to expand but prices probably will stay close to 57 levels; fed-cattle prices may average slightly higher except in spring months; feeder-cattle prices probably will remain strong; hog prices appear likely to weaken in early 1958, recover in spring and summer, then decline again and prices may get a higher early season peak and average higher the whole of 1958; fresh fruit and vegetable prices may be depressed somewhat by processed stocks on hand; tobacco prospects appear relatively satisfactory for burley and dark air-cured types, but poor for dark fire-cured; and farm land values probably will climb some in 1958, but not as much as in 1957.

Rockcastle Needy Receive $31,618

Residents of Rockcastle County received $31,618 during December under Kentucky's program of public assistance to needy aged, dependent children, blind and disabled. The following payments were listed by State Economic Commissioner Vego E. Barnes:

Old age assistance, $16,662; aid to dependent children, $12,208; aid to needy blind, $690; and aid to the totally and permanently disabled, $2,060.

Total outlay for the month was $4,034,477 for four categories of aid, with old age grants accounting for $2,257,168; dependent children grants of $1,408,160; blind, $130,476; and aid to the disabled, $243,673.

KU Gets Rate Increase

Disabled Children Get Social Security

Disabled children over 18 years of age will have social security benefits soon if they are to receive all the back payments that may be due them, according to R. W. Towsley, District Manager of the Lexington social security office.

Under the old social security law a child of a retired worker or a child of a worker who had died stopped getting monthly benefits at age 18 even if he was unable to support himself because of a mental or physical handicap. A disabled child who was over 18 at the time that his father retired or died could not get benefits at all. The old law made no allowances for the heavy financial burden that such a child would be a care the rest of his life because of a severe disability.

The new law says that a qualified, dependent, disabled child of a deceased worker insured under social security may receive benefits no matter how old he is if he became totally disabled before his 18th birthday. The first month for which these benefits could be paid to these disabled children is the month of January 1957. These children or someone in their family must apply for these benefits by Jan. 31, 1958, to make sure they will get all the payments to which they are entitled back to January 1957.

By filing so late than January 1958, a disabled child may receive as many as 12 back payments. Since a large number of these disabled children are not able to take care of their own affairs, it will be up to some member of the family to contact their nearest social security office before Jan. 31, 1958, to make sure that all benefits due the child are paid to him.

March Of Dimes Drive Underway In Rockcastle

Over 500 March of Dimes fund appeals have been mailed to residents of Rockcastle County as the annual polo drive swings into high gear.

Mrs. Irene Bales is director for Lexington, and Mrs. Barbara Owens for Brodhead.

Mrs. Hammons said that funds are urgently needed not only to continue patient care but to give opportunity for rehabilitation to those already paralyzed.

"In our community and across the nation there are many thousands who have survived this dread disease," she explained. "Many of these are patients who at one time were considered hopeless invalids.

Now, we want to see what can be done for them because mere survival isn't enough. For thousands of people there is very real hope of improvement and of many there is a new chance of eventually living near normal lives. But the necessary is costly and takes time to produce results. That's why we hope Rockcastle County

A corporation of civic organization presidents and city officials for Rockcastle County was agreed on by more than 50 citizens at a meeting Monday night, at Mt. Vernon.

The group discussed the proposal for the title of "Miss County Fair of Kentucky—1958" at the annual banquet of the Kentucky Association of Fairs and Horse Shows.

At the mass meeting there was some discussion as to a possible site for the factory, and James Winstead offered the group an option on a building with 19,000 square feet of floor space, but the action can be taken until such time as the directors are elected by the proposed stock holders.

It was generally agreed by the group that the attraction of industry would be best served by distributing the stock among as many citizens of the County as possible.

Attending were: Mayor Carl Brown, representing the City and County; R. H. Hammons, Chamber of Commerce, R. H. Hamm, president of the Rockcastle Development Association, and J. H. Hammett, president of the Mt. Vernon Lions Club, John Houston, president of the Rockcastle County Junior Chamber of Commerce.

They were named by the group to act as incorporators of the company to be known as "The Rockcastle County Development Corporation."

At a later meeting of the incorporators, R. H. Hammett was elected to head toward stock subscriptions and to serve until the first Board of Directors elected, the officers of the corporation.

IT'S MARCH OF DIMES TIME

Once again, the March of Dimes fund drive is underway in Rockcastle, the state and the nation.

This year's drive is different from other years in that practically all the money contributed will be used to rehabilitate polio victims. In other years, the keynote of the drive has been to raise funds to "fight" polio. With the discovery of the Salk polio vaccine, the fight was almost over.

What will the money be used for? In hospitals and other institutions all over the nation there are literally thousands of polio victims with twisted legs, arms, and bent bodies, who were unfortunately enough to have contacted polio before the perfection of the Salk vaccine. Their rehabilitation and care is a long and arduous task. For many of them, there is no bank account or insurance policy to pay the bills. They have been on their own for a long, long time.

A trip through a polio ward in any hospital is a sad adventure. A dime, a dollar, or even more, will go a long way in helping some child back to health. GIVE.

OLE' MAN WINTER

Ah yes, its winter. Winter—the time of the year for coats, mufflers, overshoes, sleds, and a large coal supply.

Kentucky, for the past several winters has been blessed with mild, rainy winters. There have been few hard freezes and not enough snow to bother about. The thermometer seldom has been below 15 degrees, and then, not for very long.

This winter has been different as we all know. There's been plenty of bothersome snow, ice and low temperatures.

We have no remedies, other than a trip to California, or Florida, with Florida not too desirable this year. Perhaps our only optimism can come from the poet who wrote: "if winter comes, can spring be far behind?"

Also, the removal of unwanted trees in these sales has made room for and stimulated more and better growth on desirable young trees.

Fifth Quarter

BY LYLE UNDERWOOD

BEREA HIGH EDGES BRODHEAD ON BRODDUS' FIELD GOAL 34-53

Berea High's Himes, fouled out with 15 seconds showing on the clock and Brodhead ahead by 33-52. Broddus, who replaced Himes, made a 15-foot set shot that put Berea ahead by 54-53, with 3 seconds remaining. Brodhead called a time out after Byron Owens' fifth personal of the night, to work out a last second shot, but failed to score, giving Berea, the victory in a closely played contest.

Brodhead jumped out in front in the first quarter and had complete control of the game. Both teams were off on their shooting, having trouble finding the range against the tough defense being employed. Brodhead found the range in the last few minutes of the quarter, and led at the first intermission.

Berea began to use their height advantage in the second quarter and gained the lead at 29-19. Gabbard, playing his first varsity game of the year, pumped in his second field goal of the night, and it was 22-19. Singleton was fouled at the horn and made both charity tosses to narrow the score at half, 22-20 in favor of Berea.

In the third quarter, both teams fought on even bases. Brodhead managed to tie the score at the end of the quarter.

The favorable cash returns from the Cumberland National Forest in Kentucky is an indication of the healthy financial condition of all national forests.

For some years past the national forest operations have been "in the black," showing income in excess of the cost of operation and protection. Last year's income for all national forests was over 110 million dollars.

Each year this total income has been increasing, reflecting not only increased demand and greater prices for the nation's forest products, but also steadily increasing productivity as a result of protection, wise management and cutting controlled within the capacity of the forests to produce.

compliment. There is no human name so enshrined in humanities affection, like the name of Mother and she is every thing for the most of us, which is sweet, beautiful, lovely and Holy, clusters about that Name! Think of Mother and you think of home. Think of Home and you think of the Bible, which she loved so well, and she constantly had it in her lap, until she laid it down, to deposit me there.

Think of the Bible and you think of Christ. Think of Christ, and you think of His Father, our God. To many a youth and maiden a thousand miles away from Home, the name of Mother was the value of Religion. Pure and undefiled, and enshrined in a living personage. Mother, and Home are the tenderest notes on the key board of the human heart. And woe to the man who does not respond to the music of those two words.

One of the most important chapters of history, will be entitled: "A Mother's Influence." Who will write that wonderful story? The two brightest men in common history, are Lincoln and Cromwell. Lincoln affirms that, "All that I am or hope to be, I owe to my Angel Mother."

Of Cromwell, the historian says: "No other member of his family, neither his wife or his father, influenced him as did his mother. He followed her advice when he was young. He established her in the Royal Palace of White Hall, when he came to prominence and greatness. She died, he buried her in 'Westminster Abbey.' A plain, robust, substantial character, she must have been, for, 'the historian adds: "She cared nothing for her son's grandeur." Her only thought seemed to be for his welfare and comfort, and the honor of his name and reputation.

From the Mother of Augustine, to the Mother of John Wesley, and from the Mother of John Wesley to Victoria, the story of Christian motherhood has been, the brightest thing on the pages of history. Henry Ward Beecher, whose mother died when he was three years old, said: "No devout Roman Catholic ever saw so much in the Virgin Mary, as I beheld in the child-hood vision, and memories dream of my Sainted Mother." That Angel form is ever present, in the life of the great preacher. She haunted his thoughts in youth. She hovered over the study-hours of his maturity. She impinged near the Sacred desk, as her famous Son entered the Holy of Holies, in the house of prayer and petition. She stood by him in the moments of his fierce oratorical conflict, when he stood before angry crowds and opposing elements. I sometimes think that the sweetest Mother, is an Angel Mother, a mother, who has passed over the River of the shadow of death, from whence no traveler has ever returned, and for whom we wear the white flower, of the never failing memory." (Continued next week)

Ups Hog Profits

PASTURE can be one of the best farm money-makers when you have high yielding stands and you make full use of them. Reports of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee points out that good-pasture is the most economical source of feed for livestock. High quality pasture can produce up to 100 pounds of total digestible nutrients for about 75 cents, farm economists say.

Missouri livestock specialists report that savings on feed of $2 per hog can be made when hogs are fed on high quality pasture.

G. E. Smith, Missouri agronomist, reports that beef production has been boosted from less than 100 pounds to more than 500 pounds per acre by pasture improvement practices including the use of fertilizer some Midwestern demonstrations.

Whether the pasture stand is good or bad, says the committee, depends largely on three factors: 1—The soil's fertility level; 2—The use of well-adapted legume grass mixtures; 3—Good grazing management. "The presence of absence of plant nutrients is especially important," says the committee. "When the soil is well supplied with nitrogen, phosphate and potash, you not only get higher yields, but more protein as well."

Organized Church

Lesson for January 26, 1958

Doesn't it kill religion to organize it? Not at all if done right. "kill" water to our water system. All the pipes do is simply to make water available. Organize do the same as food, if it were not for the pipes and pumps and all that, the city would die of thirst. Good marriages are a blessing to love. And a well-organized church is a help to faith, not a hindrance.

The eighty-four church communions uniting in the study of these chapters are organized and organized in the same way. But the fact that our organizations differ does not keep us from uniting in the study of the same Word of God. It would be interesting to study the many ways in which churches are organized, but right here we are sticking to one thing—the organization of the Christian church in its earliest days.

Character Case First The word "deacon" means "one who serves." a servicable man. First is that it grew out of needs, of whom we read later, were also servicable men. Paul never left a church without officers. As he did to Timothy. "Titus, lay" down some remarkable provisions in designating various officers. Paul oddly enough (we might think) says not a word about the fact that they were to do. It's all about what they were to be, as men, as Christians. Paul knew that no organization is better than the people who operate it. Getting the right people is the important matter. Personal qualifications are more important than any of these. This does not mean that the framework of organization is of no importance. Other things being equal, it is better to have some framework or system which discourages one-man rule, or the development of a clique, than to have officers' character is the central factor. Paul did not want Timothy to ask, about a prospective officer, what kind of executive did he make? but rather: How well has he managed his marriage, his home? Has he a moral vital question.

The Church Case First No apostle known to us ever set up a skeleton organization, a cadre as they say in the army, and left it to collect a church around it. Paul's great figure of speech is to build the church. Further, if the church is always first, and every one reads this, then no man or woman can think it an indispensable. If I die or move away, I cannot be replaced." Every one in the church has some use to the church, something he or she can do perhaps better than any one else, whether an officer or not. Every one should try to make himself indispensable, yes; but he must remember that the one and only indispensable person in any church is—Christ.

IMPORTANT SCHOLARSHIP INFORMATION

The College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, is offering certain scholarships, most of which are in the range of $200 to $500, for the 1958-59 school year. These scholarships are available to assist outstanding graduating seniors in securing a college education.

For several years the University of Kentucky has given high school seniors an opportunity to qualify for scholarship by taking scholarship tests. These tests have usually been given around the first of April at various centers throughout the state. This procedure has been abandoned because of the extra demands it makes on the time of high school seniors and school officials, and because of the expense involved.

Beginning this year the list of scholarship eligibles will be made up from the seniors in those schools which participate in the State-Wide Cooperative Testing Program. A limited number of scholarship applications—perhaps one for each 15 or 20 students, or major fraction thereof will be supplied each school participating in the Cooperative Testing Program.

If you know of a boy or girl who should be considered for a scholarship, would you please discuss the matter with the high school principal. We are most anxious that all boys and girls, who want to attend the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, and who need financial assistance be informed of the procedure to be used in selecting scholarship winners.

At the present time there are 25 scholarships available to freshmen in agriculture and 18 for freshmen in home economics. The students do not apply for a specific scholarship. All applicants will be considered for the scholarships available.

LAWN IMPROVEMENT

Even though it is still winter, now is the time to start work on the lawn to insure a better one for next summer. If for any reason bluegrass seed was not sown on the lawn last September, sow it in February. Use only the best bluegrass seed obtainable, sowing from one-fourth to one-half pound on each 1,000 square feet of surface. Its best to sow the seed when there is no snow on the ground because when the snow melts the water carries the light seed into low spots, leaving certain areas without seed.

February is also the time for feeding the lawn. This should be done by scattering a good high-grade fertilizer, 8-8-8 or 10-10-10, using 15 pounds on each 1,000 square feet of area. Even though the lawn may have been fed in November as is recommended, the second feeding should be made now. Excesses should be avoided. The lawn is better when fed twice a year. Also, if the bluegrass seed is heavy and dense, it means fewer weeds because they are smothered in the sod.

March and early April are too late for fertilizer applications because so many of the weeds will have started germinating by that time and they will get the benefit of the food. If the fertilizer is applied in February, the bluegrass will benefit most.

If tobacco stalks or stems were used on the lawn, they may be removed in late February as all of the plant nutrients have had time to leach out of them.

Farm Folks Look At Years Work

A number of farm families in Rockcastle County are making a second look of their farm and home records, getting ready to analyze the past year's operations and work out plans for the coming year. Robert C. Winn, county supervisor of the Farmers' Home Administration, reported this week.

He explained the help with year-end analysis, as a basis for next year's planning. Part of the farm management work that goes with most Farmers' Home Administration loans, is the agency's credit decision on the time-farm and home plans when they apply for loans to improve their farms, or make crop adjustments and improvements. Then at the beginning of each year's operations, they check the plans based on what they intend to accomplish during the year.

HAS DEGREE

The county extension supplies each family with a simple farm and home record book as part of the farm management plan. When necessary, he shows the family how to keep track of income, costs, results of specific operations, investments, and other items that are parts of the business of farming.

At the end of the year, the farmer and his wife find out how their farming operations matched up with the plans they had made. To help do this, they get a definite date to meet with the Farmers' Home Administration county supervisor and go over their farm and home plans and their filled-in record book.

With the county supervisor's help, they analyze their progress, successes, and mistakes. For example, if their records show that a certain livestock or crop enterprise failed to work out satisfactorily, they look for reasons such as improper feeding or breeding practices, inadequate pasture or housing, seed selection, or fertilization. They are ready to correct their mistakes and continue good practices, so far as their next year's plans are concerned.

The first meetings were held during this month. Much of the county supervisor's time until April will be devoted to this part of the agency's farm management service.

State Mother Contest Opens Feb. 1

Nominations for the 1958 Kentucky State Mother contest will be in Feb. 1. Mrs. Harry Peters, chairman, of Trenton announced. Application blanks are still available as the search for the model mother continues.

State winner will compete with contestants from each of the 47 States, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico for the National title.

The 1958 American Mother will be given a trip to Europe, flying via Sabena Belgian World Airlines to Belgium in May. She will deliver a special message from America to all mothers at the World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium.

This is the first time, since the beginning of the organization in 1915, the National winner has been given a trip to Europe, said Mrs. Clifton Rogers, regional chairman of American Mothers of Southern States.

The winner will be announced at the opening day of the Annual Mothers Conference for Belgium, May 6, at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York. Mrs. Rogers continued state winners as well as the National winner will be especially honored at a luncheon to be given in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria, Friday, May 9.

It is customary for the winning contestant, Mrs. Rogers added, to be presented at the White House during the week immediately preceding National Mother's Day. The next week, she will leave Idlewild Airport for Belgium, accompanied by Mrs. George P. Abel Sr., Lincoln, Neb. (1957) American Mother.
