Set Sunday To Collect Heart Fund

The local 1958 Heart Fund campaign will reach a climax Sunday, when 25 residents of Mt. Vernon, will move from door-to-door in every residential area here collecting contributions to fight the heart diseases. The army is led by Mrs. Alma Jean Robbins and Mrs. Hazel Owens, chairmen of the collection which will be carried on from 12 to 4 p. m.

Similar Heart Sunday collections will be made by more than a million volunteers in thousands of communities throughout the nation at approximately the same time.

"With public understanding of the heart and blood vessel diseases more widespread than in any previous year and with growing recognition of the need for research to provide vital answers to the heart problem, we expect to reach our goal," said Mrs. Owens, Heart Sunday chairman.

All of the proceeds of the concerted door-to-door collection will go to augment Rockcastle's 1958 Heart Fund.

Heart Fund proceeds are used to support the crusade against the heart disease vessel diseases conducted by the American Heart Association. A major portion of the money received by the United Heart Associations and chapters remains in the area and state in which it is collected, and is used for the support of local research, education and community service programs.

Beilin tablets, costing $5 daily are distributed to persons in Rockcastle County. This amounts to $50 per day. These pills prevent further attacks of rheumatic fever which causes heart damage.

A total of 50 people from Rockcastle have gone to London, Lexington or Louisville where they received heart examination, diagnosis and recommendations as to treatment.

Two Rockcastle children are now in the St. Joseph Hospital at Lexington. One will have heart surgery. The other is receiving treatment for a heart correct factor.

More than 50 percent of the funds automatically are used to support research. A total of more than 25 million dollars already has been channeled into research in the nine years since the American Heart Association has been organized as the only voluntary public health agency devoted exclusively to the cardiovascular disease research.

Rat Program Gets Underway

Mt. Vernon Chapter of the Future Farmers of America has declared war on the rat population in the county, William F. Norton, advisor, announced this week.

The rat killing campaign will start Feb. 24, and continue through March 10. All 37 of the FFA members will be selling rat poison and trying to put across the points of the rat eradication program.

Mr. Norton reported that rat and mice damage and destroy many thousands of dollars' worth of farm and home property in this area annually. Each rat is capable of doing about $20 worth of damage in one year, he said.

All FFA members have received instructions about how to rid the Mt. Vernon area of rodents.

Factory Shows Interest

Factory stock sales had reached $10,000 when Mayor Carl Brown and R. H. Hamm went to Barboursville, last week to interview the manager of a correct factory.

The factory is to be moved soon, and the manager expressed pleasure at the idea of coming to Mt. Vernon, instead of going to Tennessee as was tentatively scheduled.

The headquarters of this factory is in Bridgeport, Conn. The manager of the Barboursville branch could not speak officially, but he indicated that the company might move here if there were a suitable building.

The reason they are moving from the present location is that they are unable to provide another building. Some operations are carried on in the up-stairs part of the building at Barboursville, and Mr. Hamm is unsatisfied to the company.

The factory, if moved to Mt. Vernon, would employ 260, the manager advised. Mr. Brown and Mr. Hamm.

A deadline has been set to reach the $15,000 goal of subscribed stock. The deadline is 9 p. m. Feb. 24. It will immediately follow the next meeting of the Rockcastle County Development Association, a group interested in having a factory locate in Rockcastle.

Mr. Hamm stressed the importance of everyone showing interest in getting a factory to locate here.

Wool Incentive Program Pays 62 Cents A Pound

The 1958 wool incentive program recently announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be similar to the program in effect during the current marketing year, according to Shellee Mullins, chairman, Rockcastle Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

As announced earlier, the sheep wool incentive program in 1958 will be 62 cents per pound, as during the past three years. The payment rate for shorn wool will be the percentage required to bring the national average price received by all producers for sales during the 1958 marketing year up to the 62-cent incentive level. The payment rate for the 1958 marketing year was 40 percent.

Producers who market wool during the 1958 marketing year will be eligible for a payment rate which will be an amount equal to the percentage rate minus the percentage rate of sale of their wool. Payments will be made on the 1958 wool in the summer of 1959, when the individual producer's returns is completed.

Mr. Mullins urges wool producers to get the best possible price for selling their wool. This is important to the grower because, under the percentage method of payment, the higher the price the individual producer gets for his wool in the market, the larger his incentive payment is. This method is designed to encourage producers to do the best possible job of marketing their wool.

The payment method on lambs under the 1958 program will also be the same as under the current 1957 program. Each producer who owns lambs for 30 days or more and sells the lambs unborn will be eligible for a payment rate. The payment will be made on the weight increase of the lambs during the period of each producer's ownership.

Payments to producers who bear unborn lambs and then shear them will be subject to the wool growers' to keep all sales records in a safe place." The accounts of sale must have the information needed to support higher the price the individual producer gets for his wool in

School Honor Fund Voted By Meridian's

A student honor fund is being made available by the Meridian Woman's Club. The club set $50 for the fund at a meeting Monday, at Reno-Lodge.

The Club has set aside some of the profits from the 1957 County Capers in the special fund. It will be available to the high school students of the Mt. Vernon High School, for personal loans.

The student may need a loan for a deposit for his schooling; a down payment on a lawn mower, or perhaps a dress could be purchased for a very special event. The few examples show how the fund can be used.

Miss Christine Krueger, eighth grade teacher, will supervise the program.

The loans will be made on an honor plan. No interest will be charged, but when the loan is repaid, if the student wishes to make a gift of appreciation to the fund, it will be accepted. This way the fund will grow. Only Miss Krueger will know who has applied for loans.

According to Mrs. Lillian Brown, president, the club is making this fund available as it realizes that at this age there are pressing personal needs which, at the time, a teen-ager might feel are dire necessities. It is felt that by having this money obtainable the best interests of the student will be served.

The program will be explained to the students at an assembly, Friday.

At the meeting, Mrs. Rudolph Burdette sold two shares of factory stock to the club.

A turquoise, faille, dress length material was won by Mrs. Shannon Franklin. This material was given by the Celene Corporation. The club saw slides of foreign countries and fabrics created from some inspirations in the various Refreshments were served. Hostesses were, Mrs. Wanda Franklin, Mrs. Audrey Hamm and Mrs. Mary Virginia Ferguson. Only Miss Krueger will know

BOGE SHelters, a new design whose cost and easy construction would adapt it to mass production, were tested at the Operation Plumbbob atomic tests in Nevada at pressures from 20 to 70 times those which a house is normally built to withstand. The 50-foot-diameter shelters may be seen before the blast in the upper photo. The lever photo shows one of the domes which was deliberately tested at a pressure so great that it would fall, so its weaker points could be studied. (NYO Lookout Mountain Lab Photo)

Odd Shapes Rise In Nevada Desert

The Nevada desert, site of many an abandoned settlement, has sited a 20th century "ghost town."
No one lives there. And yet it is a town of the present and future—complete with modern underground parking garages without cars, huge doors leading to nowhere, and futuristic domes emerging from a landscape almost as barren as the moon.
This is "Survival Town"—a community dedicated to its own destruction as a test site for atomic blast effects on various shell-type structures.
Constructed by the Federal Civil Defense Administration in cooperation with the Atomic Energy Commission and other private and public agencies, "Survival Town" includes underground home shelters and large urban shelters, new dome-type shelters being considered because they are easily built and cost relatively little, a small, blast-resistant "school" building, various types of doors and valves to close shelter openings against a nuclear blast wave, and even a complete bank vault.

Soft Pedal
The Gas Pedal

"Take it easy"

That's the key to safe winter driving, according to Charles B. Jones, director of accident control in the Department, of Safety.

Jones said that when driving on ice and snow, it's important to soft pedal the gas pedal.

Increase the engine speed only enough to handle the load because too much gas will spin the wheels and lose traction, he advised.

Jones reminded motorists who have cars with manual gear shift not to engage the clutch with a jerk. When traction is poor, smooth starts are easier in second. Cars with automatic transmissions start smoothly on ice when not over accelerated.

Jones said the skillful driver does not change speed or direction abruptly and takes it easy on slippery roads. Sudden spurts of speed or a heavy foot on the brake may send a car into a dangerous skid, he added.

"If you should get caught in a skid, turn the wheels of the car in the direction of the skid," Jones said. "Stay off the brakes and don't accelerate. Winter driving also demands more following distance, so it is important to drive well back of the car ahead in order to have ample room to come to an easy stop, Jones said."

Pigs appealed to drivers to give other drivers a chance in the traffic lines and to make allowance for the added difficulties all drivers encounter in dark, rainy, snowy weather.

More Meat And Less Lard, Is Goal

Putting more meat and less lard on the hog is the aim of a swine evaluation program to be launched this spring, at the University's Agricultural Experiment Station under a $5,000 contract with the Kentucky Department of Economic Development.

The program will be designed to aid breeders of purebred hogs in identification and multiplication of superior meat-producing stock.

Pigs used in the experiment will be the "cream of the crop," selected by a committee from the Kentucky Swine Growers Council from purebred weanlings consigned by Kentucky breeders from spring litters.

From this and other data, experiment station officials hope to be in a position to identify strains which should be bred by purebred breeders in order to improve quality and quantity of meat in conjunction with rate of grain and feed consumed for each pound of gain.

The pigs in the test will be donated by the breeders to partially defray the cost of feed and labor.

The university has under consideration a proposal for establishment of two larger, public swine evaluation stations, one at its new Coldstream Farm at Lexington, and the

Corn King and Prince Tell Secret of Top Yields, Profits

CHARLES N. FISCHER, 50, America's new Corn King, congratulates 13-year old Michael Lux, the new Corn Prince. Both were crowned at the recent International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago.

The prize winning corn samples of each are shown in the foreground. The variety was Indiana hybrid 844-D. Both champions hail from Shelbyville, Indiana.

Fischer, who has won grand championship for corn four times at the International show, grows seed corn on his 240-acre farm. The Lux farm is "rock throwing distance" across the road from Fischer's.

Fischer's three sons, Thomas, Leonard and James have each been crowned Corn Prince at previous shows. And this year, Leonard, now 21, won reserve honors in shelled corn.

Michael Lux's father, Victor, was Corn Prince back in 1923. Mike's brother Jerry won the title in 1953 and another brother, Teddy, was a regional champion in 1956. A cousin, David, was last year's Corn Prince. The Lux family's championship record began back in the early 1920's when Michael's grand uncle Peter won the Corn King title four times.

Fischer attributes his victory this year to four factors: 1—High quality hybrid seed; 2—A soil well supplied with nitrogen, phosphate and potash fertilizer; 3—A rotation that includes plowed-under alfalfa one year out of three; 4—Returning manure from dairy cattle and hogs and putting crop residues back into the soil.

Michael Lux's father is a firm believer in fertilizer. He follows a three-year rotation of corn, soybeans and wheat with a legume crop and fertilizes all crops in the rotation. Michael's championship corn came from a 48-acre field in hybrid seed corn.

Michael was responsible for helping work 15 acres of this field—a job in which he was aided by his brothers Jerry and Teddy.

Each station would test 40 pigs twice a year, or a total of 160 litter pairs per year for the two stations.

Use Disease Resistant Varieties Of Burley

In-so-far-as possible, use disease - resistant varieties. Choose a burley variety resistant to black root rot. The varieties are KY 16, KY 26, KY 35, KY 41A, KY 57, and KY 58. KY 57, or KY 58, are highly resistant to black root rot. KY 26 is more resistant than the moderately resistant KY 16 and KY 41A. On land infested with fusarium wilt use KY 35. If fusarium wilt injures KY 35, try Burley 11A or 11B. Where mosaic is a problem, use KY 57, KY 58, or KY 35. Burley 21 and KY 61 are resistant to black root rot, mosaic and wild-fire.

Lawn Improvement

Even though it is still winter, now is the time to start work on the lawn to insure a better one for next summer. If for any reason bluegrass seed was not sown on the lawn last September, now is the time to make the seeding. Use only the best bluegrass seed obtainable, sowing from one-fourth to one-half pound on each 1,000 square feet of surface. It is best to sow the seed when there is no snow on the ground because when the snow melts the water carries the light seed into the low spots, leaving certain areas without any.

February is also the time for feeding the lawn. This should be done by scattering a good, high-grade fertilizer, 6-8-3 or better, using 15 pounds on each 1,000 square feet of area. Even though the lawn may have been fed in November as we recommended, the second feeding should be made now. Experiments show that the lawn is better when fed twice a year. Also, if the bluegrass seed is heavy and dense, it means fewer weeds because they are smothered in the sod.

Their accomplishments: Plastic Mulch (Vegetable growing)

E. M. Emmert, horticulturist, found that when black plastic mulch was used, yields were half again as much as where no plastic mulch material was used. Spraying the black plastic with aluminum paint (to reflect hot summer sun rays) also improved yields over the no-mulch plots.

He used black plastic on cabbage, potato, sweet corn, lima beans, squash, tomatoes and bush bean crops. In each case the plastics increased yields over the no-mulch plots.

Forage Crops

William Stroube, agronomist, found that the four alfalfa varieties recommended for Kentucky use—Atlantic, Buffalo, Ranger and Narragansett—maintained yield superiority in variety tests last year. A French variety, did well but is being checked further because of tendency to cold susceptibility and because it is somewhat stemmer than others.

Strawberries

Virus-free strawberry plants tested by C. S. Waltman, horticulturist, yielded as much as 108 24-quat crates per acre higher than the non-virus-free type in 1957 tests. Virus-free plants are available in Kentucky; the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association can furnish information on sources.

Corn

Hybrid corn types outyielded open-pollinated types in an Eastern Kentucky test in 1957, according to Frank Loeffel, specialist. Two stalk-populations per acre were used, 8,000 and 16,000. At the 8,000-plant per acre, the yield was 79.3 bushels for hybrids, 63.6 for the open-pollinated; at the 16,000-level the hybrids averaged 87.3 bushels, the open, 67.7 bushels.

Best Bull Performance

In beef bull performance testing, says A. R. Parsons, the highest-daily-gaining bulls averaged 3.63 pounds, the lowest, 1.83 1/2 pounds. In one test, the average daily gain was 2.51 pounds per head, highest rate of gain was 3.31 pounds, and the lowest, 1.83 pounds. In the second test, average daily gain was also 2.51 pounds, highest individual, 2.75 pounds daily gain, and the lowest, 1.83 pounds. Amount of feed per hundred pounds of gain ranged from 704 for the most efficient bull to 839 for the least efficient, in one test and 703 to 802 pounds, respectively, in the second.

Kentland Red Clover

This Kentucky variety, says William Stroube, agronomist, again was the best tested. It lasted three years, giving 1.85 tons forage per acre that year where others died out after the second year. Certified seed of this variety is recommended.

Weed Control

James Herron, botanist, found several 'promising' materials in checking for weed control in vegetables last year. Simaxin, Premere, Sinox, CIPC, Alanap, Vexedex, Natrin and Randox were some of these. Herron checked them on sweet corn, beans, potatoes, onions, cucumbers and cole crops; he varied the materials used according to the crop. He noted no really satisfactory material was found, however, for weed control in tomatoes.

Dairy Calves

Young calves (some of them only four months old) can make satisfactory growth on good clean bluegrass pasture, the dairy group says. Last year, eight such calves got pasture pasture-plus-grain calves, the pasture group had less total gains and lower daily gains—in the test period—but ate more pasture in proportion to their body weights and were not too far behind the pasture-plus-grain group at the end of the test. Attention 4-H'ers!

Better clean and oiled your sewing machine before you start your spring, sewing. Pretty, even stitching, which every good seamstress admires, is difficult to achieve if accumulated lint and old oil have gummed up the works.

If you have one of the new automatic machines, Miss Dorothy Threlkeld, clothing specialist at the UK Extension Service, recommends that you follow carefully the directions in your instruction book on the care and oiling of your machine.

On the non-automatic electric and treadle machines, lift the head of the machine and study the mechanism before you start the cleaning job. If possible, refer to your instruction book which came with the machine as you follow these steps:

Use a small brush for the removal of lint and dust around the feed dog and other mechanical parts. A pair of tweezers is often handy in this task, but be careful not to remove the red felt which holds the drop of oil for the shuttle. Dust all parts of the machine head, but do not attempt to clean the motor.

If the mechanical parts of the machine seem to be gummy and work hard, you may need to run a small amount of kerosene through all the oil holes and working parts. Turn the machine gently for a few minutes to flush the bearings thoroughly. Miss Threlkeld cautions against the use of kerosene in or near the motor. Wipe all surfaces and let dry for a half-hour or longer.

To re-oil the machine, use a good grade of sewing machine oil, not a general purpose lubricant. Place a drop or two of oil in each oil hole, or wherever two metal surfaces rub together. Don't forget the treadle, if yours is that type. Wipe off excess oil, and sew for a few minutes on a piece of scrap material.

If the use of kerosene was necessary, it is advisable to re-oil again after a few days.

Mrs. Lula Taylor spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Mink and Ruth.
