Phyllis Thomas Wins Award

Phyllis Ann Thomas, a member of the senior class of Broadhead High School, is the 1958 winner of the Bausch & Lomb Honorary Science Award for achieving the highest scholastic record in science subjects during her high school career. It has been announced by D. A. Robbins, Principal.

Only winners of this Award, presented annually in more than 6200 secondary schools throughout the country, are eligible to compete. For the Science Scholarships sponsored by the Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., at the University of Rochester.

The Rochester, N. Y., optical firm provides for three or more Scholarships annually, with flexible stipends based on financial need, and with a total combined value of $3,600.

The Science Award Medal is presented upon graduation. However, the winner must be selected at an early date because applications for the Scholarships must be filed with the University on or before March 1. The selection of the winner is based upon scholastic achievement in science, with incidental consideration of general academic standing, qualities of leadership and extra-curricular activities.

Both the Bausch & Lomb Award and Science Scholarship Programs have been officially approved by the National Association of Secondary-School Principals, and educators throughout the country. These awards are recognized as significant evidence of scientific aptitude, and have encouraged thousands of young people to the consideration of careers in science.

LHS Declared Class 'A' School

(This letter was sent to the Signal Editor, it expresses the sentiment of Charles Parsons, Livingston High School Principal.)

Livingston High School received its class "A" rating, May 16, 1958 from the State Department of Education, Frankfort, Ky., in the form of a document signed by Dr. Robert R. Martin, Supt. of Public Instruction.

Don C. Bate, Head, Bureau of Instruction and James L. Sublett, Sec. State Board of Education.

This document reads as follows: "Livingston High School is accredited for the school year 1957-58, and is entitled to all the privileges and recognition resulting from that action."

Livingston High School has held this class "A" rating for several years.

Because of recent misconceptions fostered by merger enthusiasts I would like to state that the high school enrollment exceeds that of the average high school in the state. Recent surveys made by me show that our curriculum is as broad or broader than that of other schools the size of Livingston. At the present time Livingston graduates can be found successful in pursuing their work in The University of Kentucky, Eastern State College, and other leading Colleges.

Livingston High School does not need to merge with any other school in order to render adequate educational service.

Quail Hunting Season Depends On Weather

Kentucky quail hunting prospects are still on the upswing, according to a special report issued this week by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

But, says the report, bad weather in June can throw a serious kink into an otherwise bright hunting picture.

The report was based upon findings of Gerald Wunz, Hopkinsville, leader of the quail research and development program for the Kentucky Division of Game, issued quarterly to wildlife biologists in an index of population trends.

Wunz's report shows the Kentucky quail population is still increasing, with a rapidity noted during the past two years. He anticipates good hunting for 1958 if the weatherman brings it with favorable conditions during June.

June weather is critical to quail population because the height of the nesting season occurs then. Last year's studies indicate 50 percent of the birds taken by hunters are hatched during June. A bad June could mean a bad quail hunting year. Good June weather probably will mean excellent hunting because the success of nesting depends on weather. Wunz says ideal conditions require normal day to day temperatures and normal or slightly above normal rainfall. "Hot, dry weather could be disastrous."

Weather played an important role last year's season. It didn't affect the birds, but it definitely affected the hunters. Surveys show the state's quail population is near its highest modern peak, but hunter success dropped off. This was due, says the experts, to an unusual early period during hunting season which served to keep many hunters out of the field and cut down on favorable hunting conditions.

Tips For Marketing Quality Strawberries

Soon, strawberries will be going to market. Growers should plan their marketing carefully so as to get the most money for their berries. First, berries should be picked in the cool of the day before the sun is high and to a certain extent. The reason is: first, to keep the berries in the best condition possible for marketing.

Second, pickers will pick better while it is cool; third, they will get into the market channels early enough to bring the top price, all city market terminals open at 2 a. m. in the morning in order to have their produce out to the retail stores by 8 or 9 a. m., for the day's sales. Then they buy their supplies for the next day by 1 or 2 p. m., in the afternoon. Then they have their day's work done; close up and leave. Try to sell them later than that and you never get the best price.

Fourth, being late to market means late to the grocers. Grocers close up and leave. Try to sell them later than that and you never get the best price. We should send all the best quality No. 1 berries to the fresh market so we can create and maintain a reputation for quality. Good, clean berries that are picked and packed properly should be kept as cool and fresh as possible. Never left in the sun. Never let road dust settle on them on the road to market. Never smother with too tight a cover. Never handle rough. Do not drop or bounce on the way to market. Federal-State inspection will be very closely supervised in the 1958 season. Don't nest berries. Keep in mind that junk always brings junk prices, regardless of label.

Packaging Materials Important For Satisfactory Freezing

Don't try to economize when it comes to buying packaging materials for the home freezer. Food that is not packaged correctly will lose nutritive value despite an efficient freezer, in emphasizing the need for good quality, moisture-vapor-proof packaging materials.

Even with vapor-proof packaging, some moisture will evaporate from the food and appear in the package as frost; the greater the air space in the package, the more frost there will be.

Good quality plastic or polyethylene bags are satisfactory, but it is advisable to insert them in boxes or cartons as a protection. Both bag and carton may be used many times if they are properly washed and stored.

For fruits that are to be frozen in a syrup, tin cans and glass jars have definite advantages. Containers of tin can be used over and over; they make a tight seal with a set-in cover, and they can be stacked in the freezer.

Glass jars are recommended particularly for fruits. The type of lid is not important, as the fruit is left in the jar until it is to be served. However, vegetables should be frozen in a straight jar for easy removal of the food for cooking.

When square plastic boxes are used for freezing, fill the corners carefully with the foam to avoid suction which would cause the corners of the lid to fly up. If the boxes are too full, the center will pop up.

Containers of parchment do not give the repeated service of some other containers. Paraffined milk containers, or those for cottage cheese or ice cream, are not recommended for re-use in the home freezer.

Poison Ivy Control
Poison ivy, the scourge of farmer and city dweller alike, is (unfortunately) plentiful in Kentucky.

But something can be done about the plant. Three materials are available that will kill poison ivy (if applied at the proper time) or control it to where it is not such a hazard.

1. Get the suspected plant positively identified by someone who knows that it is poison ivy. The best looks like some other harmless vines.

2. Decide on the treatment you'll use. They are: AMMATE: This material is applied as a foliage spray. Use at the rate of three-quarters of one pound dissolved in one gallon of water. Wet leaves and stems thoroughly. You can add a small quantity of a household detergent to get full coverage if you like.

AMINO TRIAZOLE: This is sometimes sold under the name Amizol. Apply as a spray to the vine creeps at the rate of 1 pound of 50 percent wettable powder in 25 gallons of water (3 tablespoons in one gallon of water). Double this rate if the poison ivy shrub is very large.

BRUSH KILLERS: Containing 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T. These are sold under various trade names and use-rates on labels should be followed. Incidentally, these sprays are harmful to tomatoes, tobacco, grapes and ornamentals; do not let material drift onto these crops when spraying poison ivy.

Extension Service Leaflet 207, "Controlling Poison Ivy," is available in the County Extension Office.

THANKS:
The Extension Agents wish to express their appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Roberts who gave up their time to go to District Rally last Saturday to help judge the different demonstrations. They also took some of the boys who participated in the District Rally Day events.

Leaders like these and many others, who support and carry on the 4-H Program, are helping build the boys and girls of today into the leaders and citizens of tomorrow.

Thanks again to the Roberts and to all the other 4-H Club leaders.

Why Mistreat The Tobacco Farmer?

In traveling around, I find that a great many good, industrious, hard-working tobacco farmers of Southeastern Kentucky are being fined and having their tobacco base reduced or taken away from them, just because they know how to raise tobacco, and make their land produce. I hear of instance after instance where farmers have had their base taken away from them and sometimes fined in addition, simply because their yield was greater than the average in the county or area. This yield becomes for some reason an "indicated violation," and without taking into consideration the type of land, use of fertilizer, method of farming, and amount of work expended, he becomes "GUILTY WITHOUT A HEARING." Then he can appeal after following some procedure set up. The burden is apparently upon him to prove his innocence, before he has been proven guilty. This reverses the American system of government and law. Other people in the United States are innocent, until proven guilty, why shouldn't the tobacco grower be too. Is he no longer a citizen? Why penalize him for working hard? Why should he be harassed by this man-Siler, and those under him, by having his crop measured time after time, why should one man be treated differently than another? Why reduce the income from the one money crop these hardworking people have? Can it be that someone somewhere wants another state to have some of our tobacco acreage.

This is all wrong. It's unAmerican. These people need their acreage, industry should be rewarded, not penalized. I propose to do everything that a member of Congress can do to protect the Tobacco Farmer from these abuses, and if these laws are being abused find out why and do something about it; or if the laws are being carried out then the laws should be changed. If you want a friend in Congress, who will watch your problems and fight for your protection then go to the polls May 27 and vote for,

PLYMOUTH SAVES YOU MONEY ON GAS... MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN VICTORY PROVES IT!

New "Fuel-Saver" Choke that helped clinch title is standard equipment on all Plymouth V-8s

Pound for pound, Plymouth uses less gasoline than either of the "other two" cars in the low-price "3". This was proved beyond doubt when a 1953 Plymouth V-8 was officially declared winner of the low-price car competition in the 1953 Mobilgas Economy Run. Plymouth's competitors also entered cars with 6-cylinder engines (supposedly more economical) but Plymouth beat every car in its class - V-8s and 6s alike!

This title-winning Plymouth is exactly the same Belvedere V-8 with TorqueFlite Automatic Transmission that you can buy right off your Plymouth dealer's floor.

These tests prove that every Plymouth has built-in economy features not found in the "other two". For instance - one of the most important factors in Plymouth's smashing win is the new "Fuel-Saver" Choke that you get at no extra cost on all Plymouth V-8s. This ingenious device is a triple-stage vacuum piston and a new thermostatic element to reduce the amount of fuel you use in warming up the engine. So it can save you even more on short-distance drives - the kind most people make.

Among the many other savings Plymouth gives you is the $140.000.000.000 standard equipment-Torsion-Air Ride. The "other two" charge up to that much extra for their best suspension systems.

So if you are dollar-conscious, better hustle over and talk terms and trade with your Plymouth dealer. He wants your business, and he'll go all out to get it!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Box 1569
Berea College
May 21, 1958
Dear Editor:

I have been reading your articles on the proposed merger of Mt. Vernon High School with the County school system. I think it is a very sound proposal and I sincerely hope it will soon become a reality.

I am a graduate of Mt. Vernon High Class of 1936, and I am a sophomore at Berea College. Since I came to Berea, I have realized that many students here have had many courses in high school that Mt. Vernon does not offer, and it has been a disadvantage to me.

With the increasing stress on more and better education, it becomes more and more important for high schools to offer more courses and better facilities for students. A bigger and better school could undoubtedly do this.

I think the merger should not be a question of who will get more business and what town more prestige, but it should be a question of what plan would be better for all students (and therefore everyone) concerned.

Of course, every town wants to maintain its own school, but when one school could offer so much more than two separate ones, I think people should forget their personal feelings and work together for the good of all. I believe that the merger would be for the good of all.
Very Truly Yours,
Darrell Renner
