Survey Of City Made For Use In Industry Brochure

Development Group Has $78,000 Total

Leonard Neff, a representative of the Department of Economic Development, was in Mt. Vernon Wednesday making a survey for use in preparing an informational brochure about the local situation.

R. H. Hamm, president of the Rockcastle County Development Corporation, helped out in the survey and said that Neff was very impressed with the assets Mt. Vernon offers.

Hamm said Neff was enthusiastic about the $78,000 which the development group has subscribed, and said that many small towns had no such subscriptions.

The survey included information on the local water supply, power supply, factory sites, schools, hospital, court-house, city hall, bank, radio station, newspaper, recreation facilities and other factors.

This information will be used to prepare a brochure which will provide industrialists with an index to Mt. Vernon's particular situation.

These brochures, which are expected to be completed in about six weeks, will be mailed immediately to such industrialists, Neff said.

The Signal will take pictures of local sites which will be used in the brochure.

Hamm said that a limited number of the brochures may be placed on sale locally to those persons interested in owning a copy.

In addition to the information and pictures, it will include maps of possible factory sites.

Four Held On Charge Of Liquor

Four Mt. Vernon youths were arrested about 9 a. m. Wednesday and charged with illegal possession of untaxed liquor in a dry territory. All are in county jail in default of $200 bond each.

Those held and the ages they gave are:

Billy F. Livesay, 18; David Tallant, 22; James Allen, 20; and a 17-year-old boy who, according to County Attorney James W. Lambert, has a record of previous convictions.

James Allen was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a license, in addition to the liquor charge.

Sheriff's Deputies Robert Abney and Sam Hopkins made the arrests and said they confiscated five half-pints of moonshine.

Out-Of-State Doctors Considering Mt. Vernon

R. H. Hamm, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital, said this week that two doctors have been located who will finish their internship, at out-of-state hospitals this week.

He said that he expects to have some word from them the first of next week on the possibility of their coming to Mt. Vernon to practice medicine.

Estill Caravan To Come Saturday

A caravan of "Brothers of the Brush and Sequoi-Belles" will visit Mt. Vernon Saturday as part of the Estill County sequoi-centennial celebration.

The celebration, marking the 150th birthday of Estill County, is scheduled to arrive here at 11:15 a. m. from Berea. It will leave at 12:30 p. m. The caravan directors are William D. Moore and Mrs. Mildred Hall.

Price Drop For Broilers Is Expected

A slight drop in broiler prices is expected in the next month or so and a sharper drop in late summer, says the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service's economics department in its bi-weekly outlook letter. Since January, the latter says, slaughter supplies have ranged from 11 to 15 per cent above the 1957 levels for the same period; despite this, prices have been very favorable.

But slaughter supplies may be, by late July, as much as 25 per cent higher than for the same period of 1957, the letter noted. Check placement in late May was up about 26 per cent—and many of these will be marketed as finished birds in late July. Competing meat supplies also are likely to exceed those of 1957 in the next few months; and it appears doubtful that consumer demand—though increasing some seasonally—will be higher than in the summer of 1957.

The big question facing the broiler industry, the letter continues, is whether consumers will again pay favorable prices for broilers when production (Continued on page 4)

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP—Reginald Laswell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony C. Laswell of Brodhead, has been awarded a $500 scholarship in architectural engineering at the University of Kentucky for the school year 1958-59. The scholarship was made possible by the Armoce Drainage and Metal Products agency of Lexington. Reginald graduated from Brodhead High School this year.

Thieves Take Small Change

The Sinclair distributing center on West Main Street was broken into sometime Tuesday night and some $10 or $12 in change was stolen, according to County Attorney James W. Lambert.

Entrance to the building was gained by breaking a glass in the front door and forcing a lock.

Lambert said early today that no arrests have been made in connection with the theft.

Veterans Representative

D. B. Cook, a contact representative of the Kentucky Disabled Ex-Service Men's Board, will be at the sheriff's office in Mt. Vernon June 25 to hear veterans and their dependents with claims for benefits due them as a result of their military service. Cook will be present from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. at Mt. Vernon. He will also be at the American Legion Hall in Crab Orchard on June 26.

Camping-Out Planned For Baptist GA Girls

The GA girls of the Rockcastle Baptist Association will camp out tomorrow (Friday) night at the Livingston Baptist Church, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, president of the Association's WMU and sponsor of the event, announced this week.

Mrs. Johnson said she and several other women chaperones will stay up all night at the camp. The meeting will begin at 7 p. m. and last until morning.

She asked all GA girls ages nine through 18 to attend the meeting. "Bring blankets and flashlights," she said. "The girls may wear blue jeans, but no shorts."

Loaded Coal Truck Crashes, Rips Large Hole In Wall Of Citizens Bank Building

Driver Pleads Guilty To Reckless Driving

A heavy truck carrying about 14 tons of coal went out of control and crashed into the side of the Citizens Bank building in Brodhead about 1 a. m. Wednesday, tearing a huge hole in the 16-inch brick wall.

Marvin Sizemore, 23, of London, driver of the vehicle, was placed in Brodhead city jail. He pleaded guilty to reckless driving in police court about 11 a. m. Wednesday and was released after paying a fine of $111.50 and costs.

Brodhead City Judge E. C. Watson said insurance would probably cover the damage.

The hole in the side of the building was about eight feet in diameter.

Sizemore, who was hauling the coal to the Kentucky State Hospital in Danville, said he was about halfway around the corner approaching the bank when he met two cars, one passing the other.

When he swerved to miss them, he said, he lost control of the truck and hit the bank building.

Sizemore said the truck was owned by his father, Casper Sizemore, and that he had taken on the load of coal at East Bernstadt.

R. C. Anderson, cashier and vice president at the bank, declined to estimate damage to the building, which was built in 1904.

He said that this was the first time the building had been crashed into, but that several years ago a vehicle had failed to make the same curve and had stopped within about six inches of the building.

DRIVE-IN BANK—This hole, about eight feet in diameter, was knocked in the wall of the Citizens Bank at Brodhead about 1 a. m. Wednesday by a truck loaded with coal. The truck's driver, 23-year-old Marvin Sizemore of London, said he lost control when he met two cars as he turned the corner near the bank. Officials declined to estimate damage to the bank.

William Daugherty, 63, died last Wednesday at his home at Red Hill, after several years' illness. He was a Rockcastle County farmer and lived here all his life. He was a member of the Christian Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mayfa Gilbert Daugherty; one son, William Russell Daugherty, Richmond, Ind.; one stepson, Ray Carpenter, Red Hill; four brothers, Joe Daugherty, and Leonard Daugherty, Red Hill; Boston Daugherty, Freedom; and Henry Daugherty, Livingston; three sisters, Mary Allen, Waco; Bythe Griffith, Dayton, Ohio; and Geneva Durham, Camero; and one grandchild.

Funeral services were conducted at his home last Friday by Bro. Huey Ponder. Burial was in the Daugherty family cemetery. Sparks' Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Rockcastle County recently has become the home of an honest-to-goodness "ham" radio station. Before you get the wrong idea, however, the word "ham" is not used in the usual sense, meaning "amateur."

The station is owned by R. H. Hamm and is operated in connection with his business, the distributing of Sinclair gasoline and oil products.

The "Hamm Radio" (spelled correctly, now) was installed several weeks ago and, according to its owner, is producing very satisfactory results.

There is a fixed station in his office which stays in radio contact with mobile units in three trucks which may be anywhere in the county.

Operating on a short-wave frequency of 30.62 Mcycles, the outfit has a range of 20 miles.

Mount Vernon School Story Begins Series Of Features

EDITOR'S NOTE: It seems that any mention of the schools in Rockcastle County brings forth an amount of discussion and comment somewhat out of proportion to that which is to be found in most comparable areas. Much of this discussion is doubtless owing to the recent controversy concerning a possible city-county school merger.

Since there is this interest in our schools, the Signal has attempted to investigate the school system and present an objective and somewhat comprehensive look at them. In doing so, we are guided by our sense of fairness and our belief that if we "give light, the people will find their own way."

We start this week with the Mt. Vernon Independent Schools and, in the coming weeks, will attempt to set forth the facts and figures about the county schools.

The Mt. Vernon, Ky., Independent School system has been in existence since 1910. During its lifetime, a great many changes have occurred in the natural course of events until, today, it is not greatly different from any elementary and high school to be found anywhere in Kentucky.

However, like all other comparable schools, it does possess individual characteristics which make it a separate entity. It is with these facts that we are concerned. Let us look first at the school.

In addition to an agricultural shop and an industrial arts shop. It is as modern and well-kept as one would expect to find in a similar town and county.

Both the elementary and the high school are accredited. The elementary division is a member of the Southern Association of Elementary Schools.

The high school is a member of the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges and the Kentucky Association of High Schools.

The school is set up in the ordinary manner with eight elementary grades and four years of high school. With the foregoing generalities out of the way, let's take a look at some specific aspects of the school.

A Look At Teachers

There is a total of 23 persons employed in an instructional capacity by the school. Thirteen of these are in the elementary school—one man and 12 women. The high school has a total of 10—a principal, four men and five women.

One fact stands out in regard to the teachers: When school begins this coming September, all these teachers will have bachelors' degrees and five of them will have masters' degrees. And in addition, all the teachers are teaching in their respective fields of knowledge.

Non-instructional personnel at the school number eight. There is the superintendent, the director of pupil personnel, a part-time bookkeeper, a janitor and four cafeteria workers.

The total number of personnel, then, engaged in operating the school, is 31.

A Look At The Students

What about the students? At the end of the school year just past, there was a total membership in the school of 554 students. Of these, 281 were boys and 273 were girls.

In the high school, there were 164 students. Twenty-eight of these were county students which were transported to the school by the county. The school carries these county children's share of state aid to help pay for their instruction.

All 29 members of the senior class were graduated this year. One student was retained in the eighth grade. In the entire school, 536 students were promoted and 18 retained.

The Curriculum

Let us look now at the high school alone. First, we come to the curriculum. For its informational value, it is printed in its entirety. ENGLISH: I, II, III, IV. MATHEMATICS: algebra I and II, geometry, general mathematics. SCIENCE: general science, physical science, biology, chemistry. HEALTH: one course. SOCIAL SCIENCES: civics, American history

AGRICULTURE: I, II, III, IV. HOME ECONOMICS: I, II, III, IV. TYPEWRITING: one course. GENERAL BUSINESS: one course. SHORT HAND: one course. INDUSTRIAL ARTS: I, II, III, IV. BAND AND GLEE CLUBS: each day may be taken at one-fourth credit each year. Boys may not take glee club for credit. All these courses are not offered every year.

That is the curriculum. It seems to be strong in science and practical courses, weak in social science. Clyde Linville, superintendent of the city school system, said that the state's Minimum Foundation Program, which, incidentally supplies most of the money required to operate the school, set up the procedure for adding to the curriculum as follows:

For every 27 students in ADA (average day's attendance) the state will provide its share of money for a course of instruction and also a teacher. Some of the courses offered, however, do not count under the regulation. 27 students per unit.

These courses are known as ASIS units, or Administrative Special Instructional Service courses. With the enrollment at the school where it is now, 19 units are allowed. Others are vocational or ASIS courses.

Farm And Home News

BY H. Lee Durham, Martha Owen and Paul Claiborne, Co. Extension Ags.

Black Shank In Tobacco

Black shank usually makes its first appearance in tobacco fields from mid-June to early July, soon after hot weather begins. The early infested fields need attention now. To have an effective control program, it is important that the farmer recognize the disease early and remove diseased plants as soon as found. Usually when the infested plants are very small, they collapse with or without yellowing and soon die. At this stage it is often necessary to cut into the underground base of the stalk to find the blackened, diseased area. Larger plants wilt slightly, with the lower leaves turning a bright yellow and hanging down the stalk, closely resembling "drowned" tobacco. If the stalk of larger plants is split, the pith will be dark, and will usually be separated disks.

Tobacco plants that wilt and yellow should be examined immediately. If the diagnosis is black shank, the plants should be removed from the field at once, to keep the soil from becoming heavily infested with spores of the fungus. If the diseased plants are not removed, rains may spread the black shank spores to other parts of the field, causing heavy plant losses. Where the diseased plants are removed promptly, plant losses in other parts of the field may be held to a minimum. When removing plants it is desirable to use a dirt-proof container, such as a multi-wall fertilizer sack. Pull the plants and drop them into the sack to keep the dirt from around the plants being scattered over the field, thereby spreading the fungus. Diseased plants should be burned.

The area where the plant was removed should be treated with a solution of Nabam, one to 400 (three tablespoons to 10 gallons of water). Thorough soaking of the area where the plant was removed with this solution helps to reduce the amount of fungus spores that may be carried over in the soil.

In all fields where black shank appears, either as scattered plants or in larger numbers, cultivation should be held to a minimum. Cultivation causes the disease to spread. Work in black shank-infected fields when the soil is dry.

June is the time to plow plant-bed sites and to sow soybeans, cowpeas, bunch beans, etc., in preparation for next year's tobacco plant beds. The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station strongly recommends the use of permanent plant beds in tobacco production, except on farms where black shank is present. Definitely a plant-bed site should not be used over and over on farms where black shank is present. A new site should be selected and seeded to some legume as indicated above.

Fresh Fruit Flavor:
An uncooked jam-made from berries or crushed peaches without heating the fruit has a delicious fresh-fruit flavor, a bright natural color and a jellied texture that enables it to hold its shape and spread well.

Stored in the refrigerator, it holds its appetizing flavor for several months, or in a freezer up to a year. But kept at room temperature, the jam will mold or ferment in a short time.

UKE Extension food specialists:
The ingredients required are three cups crushed strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, blueberries or peaches; five cups sugar, one package of powdered pectin and one cup of water.

TO MAKE: combine fruit and sugar and let stand about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Dissolve the pectin in the water bring to a boil, and boil for one minute. Add the pectin solution to the fruit-sugar mixture and stir for about two minutes.

Ladle the jam into jelly glasses or other suitable containers, leaving one-half inch space at the top. Cover with lids and let stand for 24 to 48 hours, or until jam has set. Then cover jam with one-eighth inch layer of hot paraffin. Makes about nine 6-ounce glasses.

The recipe was developed by USDA home economists.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

On page one of this week's Signal, we have begun a series of feature articles with a story on the Mt. Vernon Independent School. Throughout the summer, we shall attempt to present similar articles about the county schools.

It is simply because of our interest in education in general and in our local schools in particular that this series is planned. We are not trying to "kick up a fuss" or persuade anyone to believe anything they do not want to.

This week's article was written—as the others will be—from records and facts, and it sometimes bogs down with statistical information, then it is because we know of no other way to present such material.

Little attempt was made to interpret or draw conclusions. This we leave to the reader. We believe that if the facts are presented clearly, the intelligent citizen will be able to draw his own conclusions as well or better than we could do so for him.

In this story, as in all the other news stories and features in the Signal, we have tried to be fair and honest. If we have opinions, we shall try our utmost to reserve them for our editorial comment and to keep our news stories free of them.

The public has a right to expect a newspaper to present the news as it happens—clearly, accurately, and free from slanting, distortions, or personal prejudices.

We believe we have done this in the past and we humbly ask for the strength and the wisdom to continue to do so. If we fail, it will be through ignorance or an honest mistake, and not through any intention to beguile or belittle.

Shooting Reports Bring Official Warning

The Rockcastle County sheriff's office today issued a warning after reports had been received that someone had been shooting firearms in town.

The warning stated that further reports of a similar nature would result in a grand jury investigation into the matter.

RADIO SYSTEM

Department of Public Safety. Now, it would cost about $2,700, he said.

Each mobile unit is mounted in a large box attached to the side of the vehicle, and has a cable running into the cab where the speaker and microphone are. Each operator must be licensed by the Federal Communications Commission, as must the station itself.

Hamm said he had to erect a 60-foot antenna at the fixed station. Atop the antenna are several spurs or prongs reaching out in various directions. In order for signals to reach the mobile units, each of their antennas must be the exact length of the prongs at the fixed station.

At present, the radios are used largely to expedite the delivery of petroleum products such as fuel oil, Hamm said.

"For instance," he said, "if I send an order of fuel oil to Brodhead and get a call for fuel to be delivered to another station in the vicinity, I simply radio the order out. It works fine."

In the event of an emergency in the county, however, the radios would serve a more urgent purpose. Hamm is local Civil Defense Director, and he said that should a natural disaster or a loss of communications occur, the radios would be available for use.

As a matter of fact, anytime a radio wave would be of value to Rockcastle County, it is there waiting.

Bed Management For Tobacco Crops Should Start Now

Plant-bed management for the 1959 tobacco crop starts this month—despite the fact Kentucky farmers just have finished their 1958 transplanting operations.

Some of the practices farmers can use now to produce strong, healthy plants for the 1959 crop, according to Ira Massie, tobacco specialist, are: Select sites for the coming year; old sites are desirable unless black shank is a problem on the individual farm; plow and disk the sited site; seed it to soybeans, cowpeas or other recommended legumes at a heavy rate as soon as possible to eliminate grass and weed growth in the area; reduce wild-fire and angular leaf-spot organisms in the soil, and to make the site free of weeds next spring.

Turn under the soybeans or cowpeas in August before they go to seed; about two weeks later, sterilize the soil by steaming, burning or use of chemicals; in September or October, do the recommended fall plowing of the site; ditch the bed properly and thoroughly, to keep off surface water during the fall and winter.

Many farmers have found this "year-before" plant-bed management of great value in their next year's crop.

REVELRY SCHEDULED

The Chestnut Ridge Church of Christ will begin a revival Saturday night. It will last through June 29, with services beginning at 7 p. m., each night. Bro. Denver Hill of Foster, W. Va., will conduct the services.

Mt. Vernon School

There were 164 students enrolled in the high school. The state requires that a school must maintain an average day's attendance of 100 in order to receive aid under the Minimum Foundation Program. This is, of course, being done at Mt. Vernon now and will continue unless there should be a sudden drop in enrollment.

The All-Important Budget

The next aspect we shall attempt to discuss is perhaps the most important of all. Without it, no school could operate. It is the budget.

Rather than try to elaborate on the budget in its entirety, we shall simply point out some of the more significant details, using the proposed budget for the coming school year and assuming that attendance and enrollment remain about the same. These figures include both the high school and the elementary school.

An overall appropriation of $107,000 has been proposed for 1958-59. Of this total, by far the greatest amount, $73,000, will go for instruction alone. This includes teachers' salaries, library books, teaching aids, etc.

All other expenses, such as administration, plant operation, maintenance, community services, debt service, etc., brings us up to the total.

Where does this money come from? Most of it comes from the state.

Of this total estimate of $107,000, the state contributes $75,000. The next largest amount comes from local property tax, which produces $21,989 of the total. From these two sources alone, then, $96,989, or nearly all, of the revenue required to operate the school is derived.

At the risk of making a mistake, let us do a little pencil-work and see what some of these figures mean.

Divide the $73,000 which is spent for instruction by the 23 teachers in the entire school (without trying to account for library books, aids, etc.) and we get a figure of $3,173.91 (or thereabouts).

This would be about the average pay of the teachers. Slightly more, really, because the library and aid expenses have not been deducted.

Let's try another.

How much does it cost for each student's instruction for one day? By dividing the total budget appropriation of $107,000 by the total days membership in the entire school (which last year was 96,272), we arrive at an average expense of about $1.11 per day per student.

This means that it costs a little more than a dollar a day for each student every day he or she is enrolled in school.

This may serve to bring the budget down to a level where it can be understood, which, actually, is all we have been trying to do in writing this article—to bring a little more understanding into the school problem.

(Watch the Signal for similar stories on the county schools in the near future.)

Feather-Picking Presents Problem

Feather-picking is one of the most annoying problems of raising and housing chickens in these confinement. Numerous methods of controlling this habit have been tried at the Western Kentucky Experiment Station. A combination of several methods are frequently necessary for satisfactory results.

A well-balanced ration, with all excess energy should be used but feather picking may occur in chickens that are fed properly and supplemental control practices are often necessary. When practical, it is usually helpful to turn the chickens on a good pasture range.

The amount of salt in the ration may be increased by sprinkling a small amount of fine salt over mash each day with a salt shaker; alfalfa leaves or leafy hay may be fed; colored paper or cardboard may be placed in pens so that chickens may peck on it, debarking it sometimes done.

Commercial anti-picking preparations with distasteful flavor are available in the form of pastes, paints or sprays. The pastes or paints are applied to injured birds and to 10 to 25 per cent of flock to break the habit. The use of the pastes or paints requires catching, handling and frightening the birds and is not very practical for large flocks.

High energy feeds, such as corn, increase the tendency toward feather picking and cannibalism. The substitution of oats for part of the corn in the grain ration for pullets and hens has been helpful in reducing this trouble at this station. A grain ration of oats alone or half oats and half corn resulted in higher egg production, lower mortality and less cannibalism than a grain ration of corn alone for New-Hampshire hens.
