Better Pastures Cut Costs of Feed, Boost Dairy Income

Low cost, profit-building feed comes from well fertilized pasture.

PASTURE improvement can help dairymen cut costs of production and boost their income, by providing more high quality roughage to replace some of the grain and concentrates fed to milking herds.

That was the statement of the Midwest division of the National Plant Food Institute in reviewing reports by Midwestern dairy specialists.

G. A. Williams, Purdue University extension dairyman points out that roughages are the cheapest sources of nutrients for dairy herds, "the statement says.

"Herds can consume 70 to 80 per cent of their dairy needs from pasture," according to Williams. "Good quality hay and silage produce milk at the lowest cost per gallon."

Michigan studies indicate that feed costs can be reduced by 20 to 25 per cent on the average dairy farm by improving the quality of the roughage and then feeding more roughage and less protein concentrates.

That was the opinion of Ohio State University animal scientist reports that high quality hay can eliminate the need for purchasing expensive vitamins, mineral and protein supplements.

Wisconsin agronomists say good pasture can be produced for about one-third to one-half the cost of corn and other grains.

"High yielding, high quality pastures are the result of good soil fertility practices and sound pasture management," says the Institute's statement.

"Good soil fertility practices mean adding needed lime and fertilizer to build up the soil's fertility level and then dressing regularly with fertilizer to keep pasture production high. Good pasture management means avoiding overgrazing, changing pastures frequently and harvesting surplus forage for hay and silage."

Stain Removal Can Present Problems

Summer time brings its special problems of stain removal from cotton garments, particularly if there are children in the family.

An important rule is to recognize the stain and remove it promptly, says Miss Catherine Knaar, extension specialist at the University of Kentucky. Stains that become old may require a remover so strong that it will injure the fabric, she warns, or if the wrong treatment is used, such as hot soap-suds, the stain may be set. Pressing a stained garment with a hot iron may set the stain so it is difficult to remove, said Miss Knaar.

Along with prompt attention goes careful, patient workmanship, she says. Here are suggested methods for removal of some common stains:

Canned- or fresh- berry and fruit stains should be treated before they dry, if possible.

Warm or boiling water is usually effective. For peach, pear, cherry, or plum stains, sponge stain with cool water, then pour glycerine or a soapsless shampoo into it. Let stand several hours, then apply a few drops of vinegar for a minute or so and rinse thoroughly in water.

Soft-drinks can cause tannin stains, which should be removed while still warm. Sponge the stain with water, then rub in glycerine, let stand a half hour, and rinse with water.

Chewing gum on fabrics that don't water-proof may be removed easily after the area is rubbed from the wrong side with a piece of ice.

Grass and fresh garden foliage stains on washable materials usually may be removed with water and soap if you rub the stain well. A weak bleach may be used to remove any remaining stains on white materials.

Grass spots on fine materials may be absorbed by dusting cornstarch or white talcum powder on the spot, letting it stand until the grease is absorbed before brushing it off.

Or place the greased spot between clean blotting papers and press lightly with a warm iron.

Rubber Bands Not Recommended For Burley Priming

Use of rubber bands in tying primed leaves of burley tobacco during the crop-handling process is NOT recommended.

That's the statement of the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service this week.

Russell Hunt, tobacco specialist, said rubber bands in processed tobacco causes "extremely distasteful odors and tastes" if the bands accidentally get through the manufacturing process.

Most major companies refuse tobacco tied, he added, and at least one major manufacturing firm has stated its latest department "will exercise vigilance to avoid any tobaccos with which rubber (bands) has (have) been incorporated."

Use of "metallized rubber bands" or any other type rubber band is not acceptable under any circumstances. Hunt added, from the tobacco companies' standpoint. Presumably all the metallized bands are removed during processing but actually this is not true.

He said one major firm, testing tobacco tied with metallized rubber bands, and under "ideal conditions" at least zero, or preferably 10 to 15 degrees below zero.

(8) Store at zero or lower. At a higher temperature, frozen food loses both quality and vitamins.

(7) Have the quick-freeze temperature at least zero, or preferably 10 to 15 degrees below zero.

(6) Wipe all sealing edges clear for a tight seal. Fasten lid on tight, and label with name of fruit and date placed in freezer.

(5) Leave enough space at the top of the container for fruit to expand during freezing. In containers with straight sides and wide tops, leave one-half inch head space for pints, 1-inch for quarts.

(4) To hold the slices under the syrup, put crumpled parchment or locker paper on top of the fruit.

Percentage of removal would be much lower under actual working conditions, the testers said, "because the greater pressure of tobacco (being sucked through the machine) pushes a goodly many, if not all, of the bands attracted to magnets on the machine."

Freezing Is Used To Preserve Peaches

Peaches are among the most successfully frozen foods for both flavor and texture. Though ripe peaches with no green or hard spots may be frozen in slices or in halves in syrup or sugar, while very ripe fruit may be crushed or made into a puree for freezing.

Here are suggestions from the U. S. Department of Agriculture:

(1) Make a syrup in advance so that it will be cold, by dissolving 3 cups of sugar in 4 cups of water. To a quart of the syrup, add 1/2 teaspoon of crystalline ascorbic acid (vitamin C) dissolved in one-fourth cup of cold water. This prevents darkening of the fruit.

(2) Dip ripe peaches into boiling water for one-half to 1 minute, then cool in cold or ice water.

(3) Remove skins and slice directly into two-thirds cup of syrup in a pint freezer container. (Allow about 1 to 1 and one-half pounds of peaches for each

Postal Rates Change Soon, Postmaster Explains Setup

Aug. 1 Is Date For Hike In Rate

James O. Smith, postmaster of the Mt. Vernon postoffice, this week called attention to the new postal rates which will go into effect Aug. 1.

Most local persons will probably be most affected by the 1-cent increase on letters and cards mailed first class, he said.

Letters which have required a 3-cent stamp in the past will now require 4 cents postage under the new rate system, and post cards will sell for 3 instead of 2 cents each.

Air mail stamps will be raised from 6 to 7 cents and air mail post cards will go from 4 to 5 cents.

Postmaster Smith said the coils of stamps which have been $3 will go to $4 a coil with the Aug. 1 increase.

He emphasized that the new stamps cannot be bought until the new rates go into effect.

Smith said persons who have a supply of regular 3-cent post cards on hand can use them after Aug. 1 by simply sticking a 1-cent stamp on them.

A postal regulation which in effect provides that when mail is sent with insufficient postage, the receiver must pay the amount due plus a 5-cent penalty before he may claim the mail.

Smith said this regulation will be suspended from Aug. 1 until Nov. 1, to allow the public to become accustomed to the new rates.

Safety Drive Is Sponsored By Local Men

A group of Mt. Vernon businessmen this week joined in an effort to promote safety for children by sponsoring a program in cooperation with the Child Safety Council, Inc.

Sponsoring the local program are the Bank of Mt. Vernon, Kentucky Utilities, Cox Funeral Home, Sparks Funeral Home, L. D. Bryant, Carl Brown and Bob Henry.

One phase of the safety campaign will be the purchasing of 350 safety manuals in the form of coloring books. These will be distributed to all children in the first six grades at the city elementary school.

Kenneth Wingham, state safety director for the Child Safety Council, said the manuals would be received by the school sometime after September.

The Child Safety Council, Inc., formerly the Police Safety Service, Inc., is a non-profit organization which is "dedicated to the safety of our children."

Foster Music Camp Draws Response From Mt. Vernon

The Stephen Foster Music Camp at Eastern Kentucky State College this summer has drawn its share of participation from Mt. Vernon.

James H. Cox is attending the camp and has played in two band concerts, Jack L. Adams is a counselor at the camp, and several persons from the area have attended concerts.

Among those who attended Sunday night were: Dr. and Mrs. Jack Henderson and John, Dr. and Mrs. Joe Henderson and Lydia, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adams and Billy, and Dr. and Mrs. John Cox. Jack Adams played in Sunday night's concert.

The camp will last until Aug. 9 with concerts on Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday nights each week. Band and orchestra concerts will be featured on alternate nights.

The concerts, which are open to the public at no admission charge, begins at 7 p. m. (CST) each night and are held in the college amphitheater.

Students from 12 states are attending the camp.

Swimming Pool Organization Plans Meeting

A group of local citizens met informally Tuesday night at the home of Dr. Jack Henderson and began preliminary discussion of plans to build a swimming pool in Mt. Vernon.

A public meeting was scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, July 29, at Renfro-Lodge to further explore the feasibility of such an undertaking.

Everyone who is interested in discussing a corporation to finance a swimming pool has been asked to attend the meeting at Renfro.

A committee will be appointed to investigate possible sites for the pool and to estimate building costs.

The tentative plan for financing the pool calls for as much public participation as possible, so anyone who is interested has been urged to attend Tuesday's meeting, according to a spokesman for the group.

TWO COPPERHEADS KILLED

Two Copperhead snakes, one measuring 40 inches and the other 36 inches, were killed Tuesday near Crooked Creek by Ballard Rader of Orlando, Fla. Rader said he and his family were picking blackberries when they discovered the snakes.

Frankly Speaking

By Frank C. Strunk

From the likes of the weather during the past several days, it is an even bet that not a soul in Rockcastle County would admit that he lives in the area of the earth known as the "temperate zone."

There has been so much humidity lately that it's a small wonder that you can see through the haze to read it—much less want to read it.

A short stroll up the street will leave you in a rather of perspiration—known more commonly to most of us as sweat. Your glasses, if you wear them, will be even more steamed-up than you will be, and it will take constant mopping with handkerchiefs to keep a man from drowning himself.

Then, too, all this dampness causes a person to feel more like sifting very, very still sand to go running around trying to make a living. One look up and down the street verifies this.

Everyone just moves as easily as possible to keep from breathing heavily and raising a sweat.

B. M. Atkinson, a newspaper columnist of no small renown in the area of science and critique of discomfort recently let loose a volley of verbiage in the Louisville Times that was aimed at this excess of rain and dampness that is making itself felt here in our area. He wrote in terrifying tones of a green mold or fungus, that was beginning to take hold in places around Louisville. It seems that the mold had grown all over everything. Mr. Atkinson's house, including—no, might I suspect from his gloomy forecast—Mr. Atkinson.

Now all that this really boils down to is this: How much rain, is enough?

If we could stop the rain anytime we wanted to—which naturally, we can't at all—when would we yell "enough"?

Of course, we know that it is necessary for a goodly amount of rain to fall on the crops for our crops to grow. But, at the same time, we know that if too much falls, these same crops will rot in the ground. Where is the stopping point? The point when we could say, "This is just enough—not too much and not too little!"

Well, now, since some people may not raise crops and would, therefore, not be inclined to think of rain in that way, others may live on a hill—so steep that it is hard to keep water on it and would perhaps never get too much rain in it.

Eight Indictments Returned By Grand Jury This Week

Judge Tartar Lauds County

In his charge to the Grand Jury Monday morning, Rockcastle Circuit Judge B. G. Tartar said that "Rockcastle County has made greater progress than any other county I know of."

The sitting Grand Jury is expected to serve on juries also drew praise from Judge Tartar as he addressed the public and the jurors on the first day of the July term of Circuit Court.

Speaking of suits over high way rights-of-way in other areas, Judge Tartar said, "I have never tried a condemnation suit in Rockcastle County."

"One of the first things I inquire about when I come here," he told the jurors, "is the black berry crop."

The fact that a "great highway" has run through this county for many years, he said, made Rockcastle Counties a "cosmopolitan people," the judge said.

"I believe that the great mass of crime that afflicts our land stems from the liquor business," he went on.

"The great percentage of all wrecks and accidents are caused by liquor."

"What can we do about it?" he asked.

He gave as one possible solution the suggestion that legislators consider making the offense of drunken driving a felony.

To the grand jurors he said, "You should exact the full penalty of the law for drunken driving."

"You stand as the eternal symbol of law enforcement," he told the grand jury. "And I know you'll do your duty without compromise and without hesitation."

Local Soldier Is Assigned To MP's

Army Pvt. David L. Rose, whose wife, Ruby, lives in Fats, recently was assigned to the 793d Military Police Battalion in Germany.

Rose, a military policeman in the battalion's Company A, entered the Army last October and received basic training at Fort Knox. He arrived in Europe last month.

The 22-year-old soldier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Rose, Route 2, Broodhead, Ky. He was formerly employed by Philip Carey Manufacturing Co., Lockland, Ohio.

Court Will Hear Felony Trials

The Rockcastle County Grand Jury made its first report Tuesday and returned eight indictments.

Those indicted were: Orbie Allen, of the Red Hill section, indicted for rape; Denzil Singleton, Orbie Allen and Paul Orbie, of the Red Hill section, indicted for luring a female.

Glen Abrams, of the Climax section, indicted for uttering a forgery.

Walter Vaughn and Wm. D. Hoskins, of the Broodhead vicinity, indicted for storehouse breaking.

Woodrow Williams, Jimmy Burton and Ed Carpenter, of the Broodhead vicinity, indicted for grand larceny, of the Boone area, indicted for child desertion.

David Talent Jr., Mt. Vernon, indicted for child desertion.

Ezra Elder, Mt. Vernon, indicted for neglect of children.

John D. Taylor reported again early today and returned several other true bills. These indictments are not printed in this week's paper, however, pending the serving of warrants on those accused.

Veterans' Adviser Plans Trip July 30

D. B. Cook, a contact representative of the Kentucky Disabled Ex-Servicemen's Board, will be present July 30 at the sheriff's office in the courthouse in Mt. Vernon to help veterans and their dependents with claims for benefits due them as a result of their military service.

Cook will be here from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

He will also be at the American Legion Hall in Crab Orchard on July 31.

4-H Club Attends "Wilderness Road"

A recent trip to Berea by the Mt. Vernon 4-H Club was highlighted by the group's attending a tour of Berea College farms, the College Bakery, a mountain hike and a picnic supper at Indian Fort.

The group, accompanied by Mrs. Lucille Hysinger, Miss Alma Pike, Paul Claiborne and George Prewitt.

Southern States Co-Op Elects Local Men In Annual Meeting

Some 220 members of Southern States Cooperative, their families and friends in the Mt. Vernon area heard reports of their Cooperative's services for the 1957-58 fiscal year during June 30, at their local annual membership meeting recently at Renfro Valley.

In addition to the report given by District Manager R. M. Sandefur, members were elected to the local Southern States Mt. Vernon Advisory Board and the local Farm Home Advisory Committee representing members of this area.

According to Sandefur, the more than 362,000 members of Southern States and local member cooperatives in a 6-state operating territory put $200,000,000 worth of purchasing and marketing volume during the 1957-58 fiscal year.

The report, which was a picture presentation, also pointed out that Southern States net worth was over $38,000,000.

Wayne Stewart, manager of Rockcastle Farm Service, the local service agency, gave the report of local operations and services.

Robert Snodgrass of Broodhead was chairman of the meeting.

A feature of the meeting was an educational contest, "It Pays To Know."

Those participating in the contest were Mrs. John Huston, Mrs. Roy L. Singleton, Mrs. Roy Brown, Mrs. Gilbert Mink, Mrs. Earl Phillips, Robert Lear, William Coffey, Oliver Dowell, Lendon Powell and Robert L. Whitaker.

Mr. Vernon gave the invocation at the meeting.

Elected to the local advisory board of the local members of the coming year were Sherman Hansel and Willie Bullens, and as chairman and secretary of the FFA Chapter were J. P. Parsons and Mrs. Jack Fugate.

"THE DONKEY MAN"—Mt. Vernonites gathered last week to stare in open wonder at the "donkey man" and his menagerie. When we went out to a picture, the man told us he was Orville Ewing, of Greenscote, Ind., and that he had traveled from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts and from Canada to Mexico. He had been to two world's fairs, he said, and spends most of his time travelling. Behind the first donkey, next to Ewing, stand John Lair of Renfro Valley and E. Abney of Mt. Vernon.

Farmers Federal Gasoline Tax Refund:

A refund of Federal tax on gasoline used for farming purposes is available to farmers under the same conditions as last year. This refund for gasoline used on farms after June 30, 1957 and before July 1, 1958, "International Revenue Form 2240" must be used. These forms have been mailed to all farmers who filed for an application last year. Copies of these forms are also available from the county agr'l. agent's office or the District Director of Internal Revenue.

The rate of tax refund is 3c per gallon. Claims for refund must be made on or before September 30, 1958.

Refund of Kentucky Tax Paid On Gasoline For Gpr'l.

Purpose: Kentucky Revenue Form 53 should be used to file for a refund of the tax on all future purchases of gasoline used for agricultural purposes. A supply of Revenue Form 53 has been ordered and the county agent's office expects to make them available to farmers within the near future. These forms are also carried by some gasoline companies and are made available to customers who purchase gasoline from them.

Refunds can be granted only on gasoline bought after the farmer has an agr'l. refund permit from the Kentucky Department of Revenue. Refund gasoline must be delivered in containers plainly marked "refund gasoline" at the time it is delivered.

The 1956 Kentucky General Assembly amended the Kentucky gas tax refund law in order to allow farmers using gasoline for agr'l. purposes to apply for a refund on this gasoline tax paid immediately after purchase or at any time during the calendar year, but not later than 90 days after the close of the calendar year in which such purchases were made. Heretofore, claim for refund was required to be filed with the Department of Revenue within 180 days from the date of purchase.

Anthrax Disease Found In The County

Anthrax, a fungus disease, has been discovered in two or three tobacco fields in Rockcastle County. The disease has been found and confirmed to be anthrax by the Agr'l. Experiment Station on the farm of Crit McDaniel, Gum Sulphur and also on Mrs. Alice Herron's farm on the Quail-Level Green Road.

The tobacco on Mrs. Herron's farm is being produced by Lloyd Reynolds. Reports from other parts of the county indicate that the disease is also present in various areas.

On affected plants most of the leaves are covered with circular dead spots, one-fourth to one-half inch diameter, which might on casual examination be confused with the symptoms of wildfire. The conspicuous yellow halos, typical of wildfire, are not present around the anthrax spots. On the under side of the leaf mid-ribs and sometimes on the stalks, small, lens-shaped, depressed dead areas are present. The growing points of the plants are yellowed and the plants are dwarfed. Several spots on a small leaf often merge into a single dead area killing the entire leaf. The disease may be unusually severe in wet weather, killing large, as well as small plants.

Anthrax can be controlled in the tobacco plantbed if treated with Ferbam, Zineb, or Maneb when the plants are the size of a dime.

The antibiotics, such as Streptomycin, used for wildfire control are of no value for anthrax control. No spray or dust treatment is recommended for control on field plants. It is not known whether anthrax will become an important disease of tobacco in the field. Certainly tobacco growers and workers should be on the alert for the disease.

Manganese Toxicity: Manganese toxicity in tobacco plants is present in many parts of the state. Usually this disease, caused by the up-take of abnormal amounts of manganese, occurs on acid soils.

In several cases where manganese toxicity occurred the soils had a pH of 4.6-4.8. Affected plants had 6,000 parts per million of manganese which is many times the amount in normal plants.

Sucker Control on Tobacco: The use of oils and maleic hydrazide (MH-30) for sucker control on tobacco is expected to be increased in the state this year. An extension circular giving experimental results and suggestions for the proper use of these materials should be ready for distribution by about July 14.

MH-30 has given good sucker control on both burley and dark tobaccos when properly used. The emulsifiable oils have given less effective control than MH-30 and in some instances have resulted in rather severe loss of leaf.

Most of the major cigarette manufacturing companies have been treated with MH-30, both from a physical and a chemical viewpoint. Their attitude, at this time, is that they prefer burley tobacco that has not been treated with MH-30. These companies have not stated their attitude concerning the use of MH-30 on dark tobacco or the use of oil on dark burley.

Therefore, we do not recommend the use of any sucker control material on burley or dark tobaccos. The material which has been prepared is for the express purpose of making available to interested persons the results of experimental work conducted by the Kentucky Agr'l. Experiment Station and to present information concerning the use of these materials to those growers who are planning to use them.

District 4-H Camp:

District 4-H Camp for Rockcastle County is scheduled for August 4th to 8th. It will be held at Levi Jackson State Park, London, Kentucky.

The new swimming pool in the park this year will be available to 4-H members who want to swim.

4-H members from Laurel, Jackson and McCreary Counties will also camp with Rockcastle County. The charge for 4-H Camp this year is $7.75. This fee includes meals, lodging, swimming and insurance.

Transportation will be furnished to and from camp by the Mt. Vernon Lions Club.

4-H members planning to attend camp should notify the County Agent's Office immediately in order that some further plans can be made.

Check Garden Produce For Freshness and Color:

It pays to be choosy when you buy so-called garden-fresh vegetables at the market. Once gathered, time is the enemy of garden produce, and vitamins, flavor and attractiveness may be reduced within a few hours.

Green beans should be free from rust spots or other blemishes, clean, firm and crisp. The term "snap beans" describes them well, for when fresh and crisp they snap when broken. In color, fresh beans have a characteristic bright green color. Pods in which the seeds are very small are most desirable.

Examples of good quality are firm, fresh, bright and well shaped in contrast to those that are withered and shriveled. Garden-fresh is of particular importance, as bitterness soon develops after they are pulled from the vine.

Examples of good quality are heavy and firm, and have a uniformly dark, rich color. Avoid taking those that are light in color, or have a wilted appearance, as they often are bitter.

Non-selecting leafy vegetables, such as head and leaf lettuce, cabbage and broccoli, choose those which have the most color, as it is an indication of vitamin content. Vegetables which have been trimmed have probably been in the market for some time.

Cabbage heads should be fresh, crisp and undamaged. Broccoli has tight, dark-green heads composed of tight buds; not flowers. The entire stalk, stem, leaves and buds should have a fresh appearance.

WHERE IS OUR INDUSTRY?

The recent lull in this area about plans for a factory to ease our unemployment situation causes us to sit down and try to analyze the reasons for this lack of local industry.

First, what do we have to offer a prospective industry? We offer a plentiful water supply, a plentiful labor supply, plenty of land for building, plenty of power—electricity and coal—a good community with good schools, churches, hospitals—in short, just about anything an industrialist seeking a location might want.

What, then, is the matter? We are told, and it seems like a reasonable explanation, that the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Kentucky contains sections which prevent our offering a favorable rate to corporations which might come into our area to locate.

In order for a small, struggling industry to get on its feet, it is sometimes necessary for the state and local governments to help it along for the first few years by making it relatively immune to high taxes. Then, when the firm is on its financial feet, it can begin to carry its share of the tax burden.

If this is true, how can we, as citizens of this state, help to do something about it? How can we help remove this obstacle to incoming industry?

One way we can help is to understand our state Constitution and be prepared to act wisely when constitutional amendments are offered for our approval after recommendation by groups of interested citizens who have made a thorough study of the matter.

Our present state Constitution is the fourth one we have lived under since the creation of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. It was adopted in the 1890's by a constitutional convention. The men who drew up this constitution thought—as many of us perhaps today do—that they could predict the economic and social situation of the state for then and all time to come. They set up provisions in the constitution which makes it extremely difficult to amend, and virtually impossible to call a constitutional convention. They thought they were looking out for the welfare of the state.

Kentucky has changed a great deal since 1900. It is no longer a state which supports itself largely through agriculture. There are no longer enough farms to employ us all. Some of us must look elsewhere for work. We must look to industry.

If our agrarian forefathers could see Kentucky today—crying for industry to give work to her unemployed thousands—they might see corporations not as something evil and monstrous, but as the only way the people of this state can ever realize their potential. They might not place the restrictions on corporations that they did in the 1890's.

But what can we do, you ask? We can be prepared to act the next time the questions of constitutional revision arises and in the meantime, we can discuss our problems with our state legislators and ask them to do all they can to help make Kentucky a place to which industry will turn when seeking a location.

Until the industrial climate in Kentucky is made more favorable, there is little hope that all our citizens can find employment without crossing the borders which lead to the north.

Small Percentage Of Those Who Drink Become Alcoholic

Executive Director Kentucky By J. Collis Ring.

Commission on Alcoholism. Ninety percent of every 100 who drink alcoholic beverages do not experience any difficulty with drinking. They are unable to understand why anybody should be a problem drinker. The facts are that 1 of 9 who indulge become "problem drinkers." The problem drinker has unfortunate experiences in life but does not become a true alcoholic. One of 16 becomes a true alcoholic. Some students of the facts are that the true alcoholic is one group.

While every alcoholic is a problem drinker, not every problem drinker is an alcoholic. The line of demarcation between the two is thin, so thin that many authorities refuse the distinction. The pre-alcoholic symptoms; viz: gross drinking behavior, blacking out, sneaking and gulping, hangovers, and symptoms shared by both, but the problem drinker does not reach the stage of compulsion. The problem drinker retains some choice as to whether he will or will not drink. The true alcoholic has no choice. He MUST drink. Regardless of family, friends, business associates or church affiliation he drinks, but he may not want to. This compulsion is the mark of the true alcoholic.

When past the pre-alcoholic stage he (or she) completely loses control. He cannot picture life without alcoholic beverages. Alcoholism is a disease which becomes a basic necessity. He cannot face any situation without the fortification of alcohol. Alcoholism is a disease. Whether it is a mental illness or a physical, metabolic illness, or a combination of both, is a subject for debate.

The fundamental fact is, the alcoholic is a desperately ill person who does not realize the seriousness of his condition. He must drink. Regardless of the alternative of an early death, commitment to a mental hospital or incarceration in a penal institution.

Today there is hope for the alcoholic. Successful rehabilitation programs are in operation. Research projects seeking further knowledge are being carried on in many colleges and universities. Industries are establishing programs within their organizations to help the alcoholic employee. The medical profession is re-examining methods of treatment, seeking new therapies.

Alcoholics Anonymous has been successful in helping 200,000 men and women achieve sobriety from varying degrees of alcoholism. When the public at large accepts the concept that the alcoholic is a sick person, not a moral degenerate, the stigma will be removed. This changed thinking will create an atmosphere more conducive to the alcoholic seeking help.

The alcoholic can be helped and is worth helping. A major objective of the Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism is to help create this understanding.

Ex-Gov. Morehead Spent Short Period In Union Prison

By Charles F. Hinds Secretary-Treasurer, Kentucky Historical Society

At Louisville in the dead of the night on September 19, 1861, ex-Governor Charles S. Morehead was arrested in his home and carried quickly by United States soldiers across the Ohio River into Union territory before a habeas corpus could be served. There he was placed on a special train for a long trip to Lafayette prison located in the harbor of New York City.

By his own account, 38 prisoners were assigned a large, damp room and issued some half-rotten straw to put between themselves and the brick floor. There was just one drinking vessel for all the men, a dirty tin cup, into which water

Timber Resources Book Available

A new booklet, "Kentucky Directory of Timber Buyers," is now available to persons interested in Kentucky's wood resources.

George W. Hubley Jr., commissioner of Economic Development said the booklet is designed for farmers and other woodland owners who need information on timber markets and for buyers and manufacturers of semi-wood products who may be able to locate additional sources of supply from timber lands.

Hubley said it should also prove helpful to conservation workers, extension personnel, chambers of commerce and other service organizations in giving advice on available markets to timber owners and buyers as well as those who wish to establish new wood-using industries.

The booklet lists approximately 750 regular buyers of primary timber products according to counties. It also lists buyers in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, and West Virginia. Hubley said copies may be obtained by writing his department in Frankfort.

Friendly NOTE

By: Alfred Sparks, Jr.

THE ONLY WAY TO HAVE A FRIEND IS TO BE ONE

It's an everyday occurrence for us to expect others to prove their loyalty and friendship for us. Generally speaking, most people wait for others to take the first step before in proof of friendship before they in turn will do likewise for them. One might question that approach to friendship for it would appear that if we take the initiative by first doing a friendly turn we open the door to a better understanding and belief and thereby are deserving of the confidences and trust of others.

Lasting friendships are not purchased with money or material things. The giving of material things is generally measured by a person's financial ability, whereas the giving of expressions and indications of giving from the heart are more deeply absorbed by the receiver and remembered for years and years to come.

Your Health

Dr. Walker Owens, Director, County Health Office

Sore throat is a common complaint of children, winter and summer. And every sore throat should be carefully watched by parents. A sore throat can indicate a streptococcal infection.

"Strep throat" is especially serious, as it is followed three to ten times out of a hundred by rheumatic fever. Rheumatic fever may affect many parts of the body and often leaves lasting heart damage. Therefore it is especially important to find out if your child's sore throat is a "strep throat." If it is a strep throat, usually a strep infection brings on a fever between 101 and 104 degrees. Do not give an aspirin to reduce the fever as the physician will need information on the temperature in order to diagnose.

Does your child complain of headache?

Is he nauseated? Has he vomited?

Has he been in contact with anyone who has had scarlet fever or a sore throat? (Any child who has been exposed to scarlet fever should see a physician for preventive treatment, even if he doesn't have a sore throat.)

Does your youngster complain that his throat hurts most when he swallows?

Does it hurt him under the angle of the jaw when you tend gently with your fingers? Are his glands swollen there?

Does he have fever? How much? Usually a strep infection brings on a fever between 101 and 104 degrees. Do not give an aspirin to reduce the fever as the physician will need information on the temperature in order to diagnose.

Does your child complain of headache?

Is he nauseated? Has he vomited?

Has he been in contact with anyone who has had scarlet fever or a sore throat? (Any child who has been exposed to scarlet fever should see a physician for preventive treatment, even if he doesn't have a sore throat.)

Th above signs help your doctor decide if he should examine your child for a strep infection. Your youngster isn't likely to have all the above symptoms, however, and only the physician can determine if the sore throat is a strep throat. Your job is to report any of these symptoms to the doctor. This is how you help the doctor protect your child against rheumatic fever.

Topping, Suckering Important To Burley

Proper topping and suckering of burley tobacco is an important part of production, says Russell Hunt, Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service tobacco specialist.

Too-early topping, and keeping the plants suckered too closely, tends to increase the weight of the crop but will lower its quality and raise its nicotine content, he says.

Here are some tips on topping and suckering:

Fields should be topped when the crop is from two-thirds to three-quarters in bloom. Farmers should top the plants about two leaves higher than usual. Most growers will suck one day prior to cutting; however, others prefer to suck once or twice before cutting, making sure each time to leave the top two suckers.

Other growers prefer to let the plants bloom out fully and then top just before cutting; this eliminates the need for suckering, but is destructive of weight.

Credit Group Business Is Up By 40 Per Cent

The Cumberland Production Credit Association's volume of business has increased by 40 per cent during the past 12 months, Roy Brown, field representative for the organization, said this week.

Brown said that a report to be made at the 25th annual meeting of the association will show that farmers are now borrowing more than $2000,000 annually from their own organization. He said that capital stock and reserves are in excess of $350,000.

W. E. Netherland, area supervisor for the Carnation Co., will speak to members who attended the "meeting, which is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Aug. 7 at Somerset.

A fish fry will be open to everyone attending the meeting, Brown said.

Good-Natured Driver Contributes Flowers

A good-natured motorist not only paid his fine for improper passing this week, but volunteered a contribution for flowers for a dead child which he heard the judge discussing.

Jack C. Burslem, 55-year-old traveler, with Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus, was hailed into the court of County Judge Money Ed Cummins where he pleaded guilty to crossing a yellow line to pass another vehicle on U. S. 25 about three miles north of town Monday morning.

When Burslem was brought in, the judge and some other men were discussing a funeral which was to take place. When Burslem paid his fine, he threw in a dollar extra and told the judge to buy flowers for the funeral. He went along his way and promise to stop in for a chat the next time he comes through.

spending the summer vacation at a part-time job. W. M. Gray, District Director of Internal Revenue, at Louisville has announced.

Children who will still be under 19 at the end of the year, and children who are full-time students, regardless of age, come under this special exemption rule of the federal income tax law, he said.

Gray explained that parents who contribute more than half the support of a child in one of these categories may claim a dependency exemption regardless of the amount earned by the child.

He also had a good word for the working children. They are entitled to a $600 personal exemption and may be due a refund of part or all the federal income tax withheld from their wages. They will have to file an income tax return, Gray said, claiming refund of any amount withheld in excess of the actual tax liability.

Any questions concerning individual cases can be answered at local Internal Revenue offices, Gray said.
