Cattle Grub Treatment Is Needed In State Now

Treatment of dairy and beef cattle to control cattle grubs (developing from beef-flies) is needed now, says the UK Co-operative Extension Service-entomology department.

Richard Shurman, entomologist, says that when lumps are noticed on the animals' backs, the grubs are about to emerge. If they are not controlled on emergence they will drop and go through the life cycle on the ground; this includes developing into beef-flies, which eventually lay eggs on the legs of cattle; the larvae from these eggs burrow into the animal's body and emerge a few months later—generally late January, February or March—from the back.

For dairy cattle, he says, use Rotenone dust or a wettable powder spray. Incidentally, this is the only grub-insecticide cleared for use on dairy cattle. Rub about three ounces of the 5 per cent Rotenone dust into the animal's back where the lumps are noticed. For a spray, put 7 1/2 pounds of the Rotenone dust into 100 gallons of water and spray on at two to four quarts per animal.

The treatment should be given two or three times, 30 days apart.

For beef cattle, the treatment is the same, except that systemic insecticides (which get into the

Walleye Fish Offer More Thrilling Sport

Winter has some thrilling moments to offer fishermen in Kentucky, reports the State Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

You can fight the walleye, tussle with a trout in frigid waters or try to land a five-pound bass with a light cane pole and four feet of line, says the agency.

The jagged tooth walleye, adds department experts, offers the angler more fight than any of the other cold weather fish. They advise:

Next to the musky, the walleye is the biggest game fish in Kentucky. Because of the jagged teeth, sportsmen should use wire leaders and a line up to 25 pounds. Light rods won't provide much leverage in the tug for the turn. When hooked, the walleye will run for swift current and if you don't turn him, that's all.

The run usually starts in mid-February, near the Burnside area of Lake Cumberland. Gradually, the walleye works his way up the South Fork to Yamacraw and up the Cumberland River toward the falls. From the Cumberland, the run will sprout deep into the Laurel and Rockcastle Rivers.

When water temperatures reach 45 degrees, the hunkers start the run from Lake Cumberland and head up the tributaries to spawn. The fun begins when the fighter reaches the nesting grounds. Once the activity starts, the sportsman will have eight to 10 days of good fishing.

State Revenue Shows Increase

Kentucky general fund collections for the first five months of this fiscal year are about 12 percent ahead of collections for the same period last year.

A report by Commissioners William E. Scent, Revenue Department, and Robert R. Martin, Finance, said receipts from July through November this year totaled $55,088,234.

November receipts totaled $18,819,183, compared with $16,286,33 for the same month last year, the report said. It added:

Part of the increase in the individual income tax was caused by earlier processing of declaration payments this November. The losses in the general-property taxes are the result of earlier handling of the sheriff's payments last year. Heavy mutual tax receipts in November resulted from the later date for the meeting of the largest track.

Tax receipts for the Road Fund moved up to more than 20 percent over last year for the first five months. Motor vehicle usage tax slipped because of unavailability of new cars but was still 40 percent over last November. Motor fuels normal taxes are now 6.7 percent above last year. Federal grants are still more than double last year.

CHAINS

These hands might have painted the world's greatest masterpiece. These hands might have played faultlessly the most difficult concerto. These hands might have mixed a compound that would destroy disease. These hands might have been raised in blessing over a trusting mankind.

Instead they are chained. Somewhere, somehow, they failed. Perhaps they reached over a counter and stealthily snatched a jewel. Perhaps they searched a safe and took what other hands had worked for. Perhaps they held the gun that wiped out a life. Somewhere they went wrong. Somewhere they failed.

Hands do not act by themselves. Personalities control them—personalities swayed by impulses and convictions, good and bad. The Church, your Church, is waiting to guide hands, minds, hearts and lives. Here good impulses, right convictions are born and nurtured. Here, in God's House, hands learn to move aright to find life's work, unchained and triumphant.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest force on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a sphere of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

BACHELORS BEWARE!

It's Leap Year again . . . and you can blame the Scots for declaring it open season on bachelors. They probably saw the custom of letting a woman pop the question as a way to put money in the treasury and take spinsters off the welfare rolls.

According to the World Book Encyclopedia, Scotland is said to have decreed in 1288 that ladies "of bothe high and lowe estate" shall have the privilege of proposing during leap years.

If a man refused the offer, he was fined as much as one pound . . . unless he could show that another woman had a prior claim on his affections.

The ladies, however, had to give fair warning that they were out to catch a man. If the edge of a scarlet flannel petticoat wasn't clearly visible, a man was absolved from paying the forfeit.

France reportedly passed a similar law, and the ladies of Florence and Genoa are said to have been given the privilege before Columbus sailed to America.

The gallant English supposedly didn't need a law to make them give the fair but single sex a break. But they backed up the custom by depriving a man of benefit of clergy if he scoffed at a leap year proposal.

Even if he didn't hurt the lady's feelings, he was obliged to present her with a silk gown . . . as a consolation prize.

Telephone Timing Device

sent time in getting calls into rural areas. On one of the party lines, someone plays phonograph records from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. each afternoon. Some people deliberately tie up phones for hour-long conversations. Others leave the receiver off the cradle rather than allow a party line neighbor access to a phone. Such abuse of a telephone would bear forever on my conscience if a tragedy occurred during that time. Apparently, this chance of tragedy does not affect some subscribers.

"I am inclined to think," Mr. Bruner continued, "that much of the trouble that exists on party lines can be remedied if an effort is made by ALL subscribers to call attention to other subscribers the necessity of good manners and correct telephoning techniques."

"Again let me stress, we are not arbitrarily and forever setting a time limit on our subscribers. We are making an effort to call to the attention of party line subscribers through a conversational timer that a few children as well as a few adults are endangering their telephone service, and the telephone service of the entire county," Mr. Bruner declared.

"As soon as subscribers realize the current importance of timing, I feel sure they will bear with us during this period of trial. Meanwhile, we'll do everything to make sure our equipment is functioning properly, and we hope sincerely to hear all subscribers opinion on timing," he concluded.

miles south of Livingston on U. S. 25. A tractor-trailer driven by Arthur J. Tallent, 29, of Hickory, N. C., ran into the back of an auto driven by Florence Rains, 52, of Cumberland. Mrs. Rains had just sideswiped another car and was almost stopped in the middle of the road.

The truck gas tank exploded after the impact and Mrs. Rains was trapped in the burning auto. Truck driver Tallent kicked out the car window and pulled Mrs. Rains out.

Trooper Martin reported both vehicles burned completely. The furniture filled truck was about half unloaded before it burned he said.

Mrs. Preston Nunneley School Secretary

Mrs. Preston Nunneley has been employed as secretary for Mt. Vernon Grade and High School. This is the first time secretarial help has been used in the school, according to Principal Cleston Saylor.

Mrs. Nunneley began working two weeks ago. Her duties include: gathering the attendance record; period by period, counting and rolling all money that passes through the central fund such as: money from toll games and candy sales. She also attends the candy and book store, takes care of transcripts and does general office work. Saylor stated.

The Southern Association of High Schools and Colleges requires principals to have secretarial help, Saylor said. Schools can be dropped from the association for failure to comply with these regulations. Mt. Vernon School was warned of this deficiency last year, he added.
