Producers Wanted
Time was when Kentucky farmers were ready, willing and able to produce a variety of "income" farm products—but had marketing troubles. "No so many longer," says E. J. Nestus, University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service director. He says: "In general, it is harder now to get producers for 'special income' crops than markets."
He said that Kentucky's climate and soil are ideal for many kinds of farm products' production, and the state is "strategically located" so that finding a market is no particular problem for many products. This extends to within Kentucky itself, where there are excellent market possibilities for good eggs, Grade A and B milk, feeder pigs, small fruit, and various vegetables of some kinds, fat cattle, meat-type hogs, specialty crops such as nuts, etc. But acreages devoted to these enterprises are frequently too small. Second, producers often lack "know-how," such as best production practices and management, third, some producers do not put their products on the market to bring customer appeal, losing income to poor handling, poor grading, etc.

Nestus wants: 1—More education of producers; 2—more up-to-date business methods, with emphasis on management, record-keeping, and packaging where applicable; 3—incentive wages to labor in such crops as strawberries; and, 4—periodic training schools for farmers.

Broiler Prices in 1960
To Be Near 1959 Level
Farmers can expect broiler prices during the first half of 1960 to average about 16 or 17 cents a pound—near last year's level, the UK Cooperative Extension Service's economics department said this week in its bi-weekly outlook letter.

Broiler marketing during the first quarter of 1960 are about four per cent smaller than during the same period last year, because of lower replacements over the holiday season. However, second quarter marketings are expected to be five per cent over last year's, according to Everett Mackey, Extension specialist in poultry and egg marketing.
Flock replacements during spring probably will stay above those of a year ago. A price level during the first half of 1960 similar to that of last year may result in expansion, because production and marketing costs are lower, he reports. Enough hatching eggs will be on-hand to allow an increase.
The demand for broilers has been down about five per cent in recent months, because of a price usually rises during the spring and summer months. If the trend of the past few years holds, the demand for broilers will be higher through May, June, July and August.

In 1960, the broiler industry will probably have more competition from other meats than last year, he predicts. Another record turkey crop is expected this year; an increase of five to eight per cent over 1959's record 82 million turkeys is predicted. The spring pig crop is expected to be smaller but supplies on hand now are about the same as last year. Predictions are that beef slaughter for 1960 will be about six per cent above 1959.

Broiler prices during the last half of 1960 probably will not be higher than those of the same period in 1959, Mackey says. Prices through the spring and early summer months are expected to be smaller but supplies on hand now are about the same as last year. Predictions are that beef slaughter for 1960 will be about six per cent above 1959.

various phases of the Johnson grass control and eradication program.
They were in 14 Kentucky counties where the cost-sharing program was carried out in 1959. Sixteen counties are expected to participate in 1960.
There were 8,592 acres involved in the control program, Wachs says, of this number, 1,043 acres were "solidly infested" and 7,549 partially infested; the "summer fallow" method was used to treat 678 acres with $5,162 paid out in cost-shares; for the remaining acreage, $10,706 was paid out in cost-sharing for chemical treatment of the "summer fallow" method and chemicals combined. About 49,000 pounds of sodium chlorate, sodium dalapon and sodium TCA were used in the work.
J. F. Freeman, Experiment Station weed control specialist, said that farmers in participating counties who qualify for the practice with their local ASC offices are "thus encouraged by the program to destroy small infestations of Johnson grass before they become widely port 78, Johnson Grass Control and reduce productivity of fertile land, or to begin control on fields already solidly infested. Soil sterilization chemicals are useful for this kind of work—on small patches—and are inexpensive and easy to handle.
Once the pest has taken over whole fields, control operation is difficult, Freeman said. Johnson grass replenishes itself by new growth from underground rootstocks, or from seed borne at the top of the plant.
"The perennial rootstocks can be controlled in two or three years," he said, "but even after rootstocks have been destroyed, plants will rise from seed which has been present in the soil. This can quickly reinfest."

VERNON 2313 Louisville Orchestra Coming To Berea The famed Louisville Orchestra is being brought to the Berea College campus for a special afternoon program, Saturday, March 12. This program is designed by the conductor, Robert Whitney, to introduce good music to young people. There will be music by Smetana, Tchaikovski, Massenet, Mozart and Bizet. The instruments of the orchestra will be introduced individually so that the audience can hear the tone quality of each instrument. It has been eight years since the Louisville Orchestra has been to Berea. The concert in the past have been most successful in bringing the master works and some music novelties to the ears and eyes of youngsters in Southeastern Kentucky. Berea music department instructors reported. The concert will be in Phelps Stokes Chapel at 3 p.m., C.D.T. The charge per student is 25 cents. Ticket sales will be arranged with the individual schools. After the concert students are invited to go and examine the instruments more closely, and perhaps the musicians might favor them with a few choice notes. It is important for our young people to be exposed to many varied experiences as they can. Berea spokesman declared. A one-quarter horsepower motor can do the work of 210 men.

Lee Jacobs Returns Purse to California

James Lambert informed the Fiscal Court, Tuesday, of his intention to file a "declaration of judgment suit" against the Fiscal Court of Rockcastle County. The suit in no way casts aspersions upon the integrity of the Court, he said. It merely being done to clarify the law in a question of whether, James Lambert, county attorney; Clarence Carter, county clerk; Earl W. Watkins, sheriff; and Walter Souders, county recorder; would be sued regardless of individual members. It is the duty of the Fiscal Court to collect money from county officials, where it is due. Atty. Lambert stated.

Since no action has been taken, my desire is that the law be clarified now, he said. He did not wish this issue to be long in the air. He said that he and my fellow county officials have kept our payments within what we are allowed by our legal limit, if the court decides we are not allowed the $7,200 we want to pay, and if we don't—we want to know, now.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
 ALL FOR THE CHURCH
 The Church is the greatest factor in youth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither discipline nor confidence can be given. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. These are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plans to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Major	Views
Sunday	Matthew	12	14
Monday	Psalm	141	13
Tuesday	Isaiah	5	11
Wednesday	1 Corinthians	5	14
Thursday	Psalm	61	14
Friday	Psalm	61	14
Saturday	Isaiah	6	13

A child's faith is beautiful in its simplicity and in the little things it encompasses. Like, for instance, the nightly ritual that comes at the end of prayer. "God bless Mommy and Daddy and Cousin Peter and Kitty Kat and my blue teddy bear."
 To a child, there is no reason why God should not bless also a crumpled and slightly soiled teddy bear, and a pet kitty. For God is goodness and love and kindness and tolerance . . . not perhaps in those words, but in the feeling this child has as she says her prayers.
 Prayer, to the child who has been taught to pray, is a natural thing. It should be as much a part of everyday life as eating and sleeping and playing. To pray for what is good . . . to give thanks for what one has is an all-important step in that all-important right direction on the road of life.

March Blew In - -

The first day of March was sunny but there was a definite nip in the air. Some were afraid that March was going to come in like the proverbial lamb and go out like a lion.

For once the weather is in keeping with the season. This is winter—as if anyone needed to be informed. Unless some drastic change occurs fast there won't be premature fruit blossoms to be frost bitten and killed, this year.

The most important thing about this weather is an admonition for youngsters. Be sure you remember the depth of the snows we are having in 1960 for they will most likely be the ones which will enable you, in years to come, to tell your grandchildren "Oh children, this snow is bad but, you should have seen this winter we had in good old '60, Oh, those were the days, children."

This weather has its sunny side. Consider what a fine vegetable garden you can produce while sitting by the window and dreaming with the snow protecting you from any actual expenditure of labor.

Some good Southern hospitality has been in evidence during our sojourn of some three weeks. Churches have opened their doors to stranded tourists, many a push has been given to distressed motorists and many guests have been invited to spend the long, lonely evenings.

Winter is certainly here but March 20 is the first day of Spring.

File 1040A If Income Is $10,000 Or Less

Taxpayers having incomes up to $10,000 may again use the simple card Form 1040A in filing their 1959 Federal income tax returns. G. C. Hooks, Director of Internal Revenue for Kentucky District, said today.

Mr. Hooks added: "In using form 1040A, taxpayers must take the standard 10 per cent deduction allowed for contributions, interest payments, medical expenses, and the like."

"As in past years, taxpayers with income under $5,000 may figure their own tax or have Internal Revenue do it for them."

Mr. Hooks said taxpayers cannot use Form 1040A if they have a dependent.

Senators Invite Students To Program

Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton today extended an invitation to Kentucky high school students visiting Washington between April 21 and May 23 to attend one in a series of "Music in Young America" concerts, given by the National Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Howard Mitchell.

Senators Cooper and Morton also announced an opportunity for high school violinists, cellists and pianists in Kentucky and throughout the United States to enter the Fifth Annual Merriweather Post Contest. Applications and contestants are available upon request through the offices of the Kentucky senators and must be completed and returned to the Merriweather Post Award—$2,000 and solo appearances with the National Symphony.

Park Expansion Planned By Combs

Extensive plans for expansion of Kentucky's state parks are being made by Gov. Bert Combs. He has expressed hope that a proposal to finance the expansion plans with a bond issue of several million dollars will be found valid by the Court of Appeals in a special case set for last year.

Legislation that has the governor's support is to be introduced to make the Commonwealth's park agency an independent department instead of a division of the Department of Conservation. With all this in mind, Combs recently visited a three-member State Parks Commission. He also has given Mrs. Paul Westpheling, Fulton radio station executive and newspaper co-publisher, a special assignment to survey and study the state parks.

New Kentucky Lakes Mean More Fishing

The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is looking for a half million fishermen to try their luck in Kentucky waters this year.

Never before has Kentucky had so many acres of water and so many fish for catching, say biologists of the agency.

Two new impoundments—Rough River Reservoir and Buckhorn Lake—are adding this year about 6,000 acres of new water for fishermen. More farm ponds are being built and stocked and state-owned lakes are being completed and opened—the latest in Owen County. Thousands of acres of new waters will be added when the new high dams on the Ohio River are completed.

The Rough River impoundment in Breckinridge County will have 4,860 acres of fishable water. Buckhorn, in Perry County, offers 1,230 acres.

Fishing usually doesn't reach its peak in new lakes the first year or so, but definitely some fish will be caught in these lakes this year, says the agency.
