Don't Send Your Money Away From Home. A Dollar Spent Away From Home Is Gone Forever! It Will Never Come Back To Support Your Schools, Churches, Public Institutions Or Town.

LANCE DILLINGHAM

Most of us have heard the saying, "Trade At Home". I have been a firm believer in trading at home for many years. In this way we help our friends, our town and our county by keeping our money in circulation at home.

Mr. Anderkin, the publisher of our home paper, The Signal, wishes to know why it is best to trade at home. I think it is an excellent idea to give the people a chance to comment on this great question through the columns of his paper.

I deal in furniture here in our good town. With the money I gain from this, I can buy groceries, clothing, gas and many other necessities here at home, thus keeping the money in circulation, here, and giving several people the advantages of the trade. Here are a few of the advantages: You are dealing with people you know, people with whom you work, people with whom you attend church, people with whom you are closely associated and can trust. Well, it's just following the "Golden Rule."

Working together, we have accomplished the building of a good Hospital, collected funds for our playgrounds and many other fine accomplishments.

Yours for a better Rockcastle County,

Lance Dillingham

To me Rockcastle County is the greatest place on earth. I love its hills and valleys, its fields and streams and most of all, its people - you people.

For half a century I have watched with pride the growth and development of Rockcastle. Its once poor, rough, undeveloped farms are the well kept, highly productive and strictly modern farms of today. Its somewhat crude and primitive homes and business places have been replaced by the modern.

We are proud of our busy highways, electric service, telephone system, schools, churches, civic organizations, etc. Our progress has been due, in large measure, to the cooperation we have had amongst ourselves. Much of the money we spend in Rockcastle stays here for Rockcastle's good; what we send to Chicago, Atlanta and Lexington is gone forever.

ANSWERS TO YOUR TAX QUESTIONS

BY WILLIAM E. SCENT
KENTUCKY'S COMMISSIONER OF REVENUE

In preparing this column for the next few issues of the Signal, we have used some of the questions most frequently asked of the department. In the future, we hope the readers of the Signal will send their questions to us at Frankfort to have them answered.

Q. What is the sales tax and when does it go into effect?
A. Effective July 1, the new sales and use tax, enacted by the 1960 legislature, goes into effect. To explain briefly the sales tax, it is a "vendor" type tax, which means the tax is paid by the person who makes the last sale before the property is used. This person may, however, pass the tax on to the final consumer. If he does, he will use the bracket prescribed by the Revenue Department.

Sales of	Tax Due

COOPERATION is a Kentucky tradition!

HOUSE WARMINGS... OR WARMING HOUSES!

A new house has always meant a house warming here in Kentucky. Old friends and new neighbors all turn out. All the new modern conveniences from electric heat to built-in ranges get demonstrated. Dinners get cooked and children get down. And everyone shows up with one of those small gifts that quickly turn a house into a home. Taking the work out of moving is another example of neighborly cooperation.

Rural electrification is neighborly cooperation, too. Kentucky's Rural Electric Co-ops... created by folks who got together to make a better life for themselves... are a good example of how neighborly cooperation serves our Commonwealth. As the countryside has brightened and prospered, so the townpeople have benefited too. The new rural prosperity made possible by electrification is spent in cities and towns.

Rural Electricity Benefits Everyone

Everyone Needs Milk, UK Specialist Notes

Milk is such a common food that it is often taken for granted. June Dairy Month is a good time to learn the facts about milk and milk products, according to Elizabeth Helton, UK Extension specialist in foods and nutrition.

Milk is nature's most nearly perfect food when it comes to providing the nutrients needed for good health. Miss Helton says. Milk supplies more calcium than any other food. Getting enough calcium is difficult if you don't drink milk. Milk also provides high quality protein, riboflavin, thiamine, and other vitamins and minerals which the body needs. Every one needs milk. Children should drink 3 or 4 cups of milk daily, while teenagers need at least 4 cups, and adults no less than 2 cups to meet their daily requirements.

Persons who don't drink milk are by-passing one of the keys to good health, she notes. "I just don't like milk" may be their excuse, yet they forget that drinking whole fluid milk is only one of the ways to fill the daily quota for milk products. Chocolate milk, milk shakes, and many other beverages made with milk; ice cream; cheese; or even some form of powdered milk used in cooking can help supply the daily needs.

Many women refuse milk because they think it's fattening. Some persons think the first thing to cross off the food list when reducing is milk. This is a common false idea about milk. You don't need to cut out milk while dieting; in fact, nutritionists or health specialists do not recommend leaving milk out of the diet.

You need a certain amount of nutrients, even when dieting; the protein, minerals and vitamins in milk are needed by everyone all the time she points out. In some cases, skim milk or buttermilk is recommended for dieters, but the vitamin A lost when the cream is removed is replaced in the suggested diet by green-leafy vegetables.

Simplified Insect Control Plugged for State Gardens
General-purpose dusts or wettable powders can give a simplified program of pest control in the garden, says J. G. Rodriguez, UK Experiment Station entomologist.

Usually, these commercially available combinations contain Malathion and Methoxychlor. Rodriguez thinks the Malathion-Methoxychlor mixtures are very useful to home gardeners because this mixture will control mites, whereas other mixtures will not.

For crops that lie along the ground, such as squash, cucumbers, melons and other vine types, a one percent Lindane dust is very effective as it is easier to dust undersides of plants. He recommends 1 lb of these vine crops be dusted as soon as they emerge as seedlings since the cucumber beetle carries bacterial wilt to the plants.

The Malathion-Methoxychlor mixture, or Sevin, are good on bean insects. For tomatoes, the Malathion-Methoxychlor mixture or Zineb is added for disease control. DDT still is good against flea beetles in the seedling stage of plants such as potatoes, tomatoes and the cabbage-family crops. Onion thrips also can be controlled by DDT. DDT should not be used on edible portions of plants.

Crabgrass
Are you raising crabgrass instead of bluegrass in your lawn? Here's what you can do about it.

Look at the labels on the commercially sold crabgrass killers to see if they contain such matter as potassium cyanate or disodium methyl arsenate. These are the two materials recommended by the Kentucky Experiment Station's weed control specialists.

Use those materials as directed on the label, and follow the precautions and directions closely.

Try to get the crabgrass in the immature stage, before it has become vigorous and deep-rooted; it is easier to kill then. Be sure to try to kill crabgrass before the plants produce seed. Since crabgrass seeds may germinate over a period of several weeks, more than one application of a chemical may be necessary during the growing season.

Remember: In dry weather, crabgrass control is more difficult. And it probably will take two or three seasons of work to really get the pest under control. One way to help control crabgrass is to stimulate the growth of desirable lawn plants such as bluegrass with fertilization, reseeding, and treatment with weed-killers.

When Should Hay Be Cut?
Cutting hay at the right time is mighty important. Hay cut at the wrong time can cut yields and quality, too. When should it be cut for the highest quality and yield?

ALFALFA - First cut should be made at the bud stage (before bloom). One of the remaining cuts should go to full bloom. The other cuts should be made at early bloom. The last cut should be made before September 10.

RED CLOVER - Cut at the early bloom stage.

STRAIGHT GRASS - Cut when the grass is in the late boot or early head stage.

MIXED GRASS AND LEGUME - Hay cutting time is best set by the condition of the legume.

ANNUAL LESPEDEZA - Cut at early bloom.

There is between one and one half and two tons of hay to feed a cow through the winter. Making high quality hay may mean the difference between some and a lot of profit.

To Your Good Health

June has been proclaimed Dairy Month according to a proclamation signed recently by Governor Bert Combs. In his statement Gov. Combs said, "milk is nature's most nearly perfect food and provides mankind with nutrients that help promote better health and greater happiness in people of all ages from infancy through the golden years".

Dairy month reminds us to drink our milk every day. No one outgrows their need for milk according to the slogan and the opinion of dietitians.

At least 21 dairy days have been arranged to promote June Dairy Month in Kentucky. The main object of these local days is to emphasize the importance of dairying in the economy of the community involved.

The dairy industry contributes to the economic welfare of large numbers of citizens in Kentucky through employment in production, processing and distribution of milk and its products and to additional thousands employed in related industries. Rockcastle County is perhaps more aware of this than some counties due to the operation of the newly milk plant in Mt. Vernon.
