COOPERATION Is a Kentucky tradition!

MENDING FENCES... OR POWER LINES!

Back in Kentucky's early days you could pretty well measure a man's wealth and community standing by his livestock holdings. That's why a broken fence was such a serious threat. In a matter of hours livestock could stray off, and their loss might ruin a well-to-do farmer. As a result it became traditional for neighbors to help one another to keep fences in constant good repair. It's a neighborly habit still observed in our state. Rural electrification is neighborly cooperation, too. Kentucky's Rural Electric Co-ops... created by folks who got together to make a better life for themselves... are a good example of how neighborly cooperation serves our Commonwealth. As the countryside has brightened and prospered, so the townspeople have benefited too. The new rural prosperity made possible by electrification is spent in cities and towns.

Rural Electrification Benefits Everyone

COOPERATION brings electricity to 15,409 rural families in Jackson, Rockcastle, Laurel, Clay, Owsley, Estill and Lee counties.

JACKSON RURAL ELECTRIC CO-OP

Keep a Tried & True Friend of the Farmer in the Senate

Kentucky farmer Elbow Senator Cooper's record—his farm votes, legislation he has successfully introduced for them, and his leadership to protect them and help them. Here is part of that record: Senator Cooper works for tobacco growers. Author in 1948 with Senator Barkley of the amendment which gives tobacco growers their fixed 90% of parity support prices. This law has added millions of dollars to Kentucky farm income—benefiting also hundreds of businesses in tobacco counties. Author in 1960 with North Carolina's Senator Jordan of the successful bill—introduced at the request of the Kentucky Farm Bureau and all tobacco organizations—to promote larger sales of burley and dark leaf at home and abroad. This law keeps tobacco supports at 90% of 1959 parity—a good year—with higher support prices when farmers' costs go up. Co-author of Public Law 480—under which 280 million pounds of tobacco have been sold abroad, and new markets created for Kentucky leaf. Senator Cooper has worked with the burley and dark leaf cooperatives to increase tobacco exports, and is fighting restrictive duties by foreign countries against our tobacco. Senator Cooper's work, and the willingness of tobacco growers to keep their program sound, have made our tobacco program the best farm program—and have raised the average price farmers receive for their burley from 50¢ a pound in 1952 to 61¢ last year.

Senator Cooper works for all the farmer's programs. Senator Cooper has secured needed funds for the ACP conservation program, Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Forest Service, small watersheds, agricultural research, brucellosis eradication, corn soil bank, bookmobile and other farm programs. He has successfully worked, spoken and voted for higher dairy price supports; the school lunch and school milk programs, protection of the small-farmer exemption from wheat quotas, the wool program with incentive payments, the new farmer's choice cotton program, and farm credit programs for small farmers. Senator Cooper works for REA & TVA. The Kentucky REA co-ops adopted a resolution at their last annual convention declaring: "Outstanding in his leadership in the Senate has been Senator John Sherman Cooper. They did so because Senator Cooper has fought for REA, stood by their 2% interest rate, helped secure loans to build their two power generating plants, and loans for local rural electric cooperatives. And Senator Cooper's initiation of the successful TVA self-financing bill has assured Kentucky REA co-ops adequate direct and exchange power. Senator Cooper has protected and helped farmers. Because of his leadership for farmers, Senator Cooper was made a member in 1960 of the Senate Committee on Agriculture—and its Subcommittee on REA and Farm Credit. All farm and REA legislation must come before this important committee for its decisions. That is why Senator Cooper says: "I am in the best and strongest position to protect our tobacco and REA programs—and to do more than ever to advance farmers' income!"

It's just good common sense. MONEY, FEDERAL FUNDS AND RELEASED FUNDS To July 1, 1960. ROAD SHOWS NOV. 15, 1957 JULY 1, 1960. to continue with Kentucky's Great Highway Construction Program. Already, every county in Kentucky... including yours... has benefitted from the Road Bond Issue you voted for in 1956. See map above. Very soon all of the 1956 Road Bond Money will be allocated and spent. Yet, there's much more to be done! Today there are 3,852 miles of Primary & Urban Roads, and 15,239 miles of Secondary Roads (farm-to-market) that criss-cross Kentucky and extend into every county and practically every town in our state. These roads are eligible to participate in the new Federal Aid Program. These are also the roads where the vastly greater portion of the new proposed Road and Park Bond issue will be spent! Remember, too, that no additional taxes are necessary if the majority of voters say "yes" on November 8th. For more facts about this program, write THE KENTUCKY BETTER ROADS COUNCIL P. O. CLEANING HOUSE GUTTERS
When it's raining you can't clean the gutters and when it isn't raining they don't need it. That's what the man says, but it isn't true. You'll save yourself a lot of grief if you'll clean out all the dirt and decaying leaves and trash to be found in house gutters and downspouts at this time of year. If you don't keep gutters clean they'll rust out much sooner. When box gutters do rust out you've got a real job on hand with considerable expense. So let's clean all house gutters and keep them clean. VENTILATION IN THE POULTRY HOUSE

Ventilation is a real problem in Poultry houses from now until March. 100 hens give off 5 gallons of water into the air each day. Many people keep this moisture in the poultry house by shutting of the circulation of air. This causes the air inside the house to be ramp and seem colder than the outside air. The thing to do is provide air circulation to take this moisture out of the house. By ventilating the house the litter will be drier, eggs will stay cleaner and hens will stay fewer colds. PULLETS? OR HENS???

This reminder is for those who keep pullets along with older hens. We need to keep pullets and older birds separated.

If only one house is available, we can separate the pullets from the hens with a wire partition. Keep separate records of feed consumed, eggs laid and mortality and you will find the pullets far ahead of the hens.

Next year you will most likely fill your house with well developed pullets because pullets lay 25 percent more eggs on considerably less feed than hens.

POULTRY LITTER
Be sure the laying house is good repair for another winter.

Have ready an extra load of litter while it is still dry. This additional litter may be piled in a corner of the house. This permits replacing caked litter around the water troughs and allows for new nesting material to be added during bad weather when it must be changed more often.

PLANT BULBS NOW
This is the month to plant spring-flowering bulbs. By planting bulbs now, your garden will have an array of color from early spring to late May next year.

Bulbs that should be planted between now and the last of November include crocus, grape hyacinth, tulips, daffodils, and scilla. It is best to plant bulbs as soon as you buy them. However, daffodils are among the first to be planted.

Bulbs will flourish in almost any type of soil, provided it is well drained. Soil should be well prepared by spading to a depth of 8 to 9 inches, and adding 4 or 5 pounds of bone meal or 20 percent superphosphate to each 100 square feet of bed area.

You will want to plant most bulbs 5 or 6 inches deep and 6 inches apart. Plant bulbs in groups or clumps, not in long, straight lines. Use one color in a clump in order to give the best effect. Mulching is not necessary.

Tulips are available in a wide range of colors and types. Some types, well worth growing, are the Darwin Hybrids, Darwins, Cottage, Breeder, and Fosteriana. The latter is a very early flowering tulip that does well in this area.

A NEW SPROUT INHIBITOR
Each year interest is shown in finding some chemical to prevent sprouting of potatoes in storage. Until recently there has been no satisfactory material to do the job. Now, however, a new sprout control material containing Chloro-IPC has been approved by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and it is now available to the public.

Because it can be applied as a gas or aerosol, Chloro-IPC has this important advantage:

It does not have to be applied until after the tubers are in storage. This delays any decision about storage duration until all facts about marketing and prices are available. Chloro-IPC is being marketed under the trade name of "Sproat Nip" by the Southern Chemical Corporation. If you use it, follow the directions on the container for best results.

INSECT CONTROL IN STORED GRAIN

Control of insects in stored grain—particularly in corn—is of vital importance this time of year, according to County Agent H. Lee Durham. About 20 percent of stored grain losses in Kentucky are from insects, particularly the one known as the Angoumois grain moth.

The Angoumois moth, says Durham, comes in from the field when harvested corn is moved to storage. But, says J. G. Rodrigues, Experiment Station entomologist, the way to control this pest is to start with clean storage bins and cribs. That's because the Angoumois moth breeds and develops in stored grain first and then moves to the field.

So, the first step is to clean up the storage places before the harvested corn (or other grains) is moved to storage. These places should be swept clean of all old grain and debris. Then the storage places should be sprayed. Treatments are as follows:

BINS: Use a 25 percent emulsion concentrate of Methoxychlor at the rate of one quart of the material for each 3 gallons of water. Or, use premium grade Malathion (57 percent emulsion concentrate) at the rate of one pint of the material for each 3 gallons of water. Apply the spray with force into all cracks and crevices and to all surfaces. Until the spray material runs off. Both these materials have "label registration" clearance by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for use on bins.

GRAINS: (Wheat, barley, shelled corn): Malathion, but not Methoxychlor, has label registration for use on grains. Use the premium grade Malathion (57 percent emulsion concentrate) at the rate of one pint of the material for each five gallons of water on each 1,000 bushels of wheat or shelled corn. Grain so treated will keep insect-free for a year.

EAR CORN: If in open cribs, there is a more difficult job in control. Populations can be reduced by spraying the surface and sides of the stored ear corn with Malathion at the same rate given for the above-listed grain treatment. Spray once in October and repeat once a month, starting in May, 1961.

can save Kentucky '20,200,000 on its new Interstate Highways in 20 years!

CONCRETE

A study of Highway Department records for the heaviest traveled roads built in Kentucky since 1936 proves concrete costs 75% less for upkeep than asphalt.

The same rate of savings can be applied to our state's new Interstate Highways. In 20 years concrete can save $31,600 per four-lane mile, or a grand total of $20,200,000 on the System's entire 640 miles.

Remember, too, while the Federal Government pays 90% of the original construction cost, it does not pay one single penny for upkeep. You pay it—along with all the other Kentucky drivers. The money comes from the state road fund that is financed by the tax on every gallon of gasoline you buy.

Constitutional Revision

When voters go to the polls this November 8 they will have opportunity to vote for a Kentucky constitutional revision, or against it.

In a democracy there are no unimportant elections. However, from time to time issues are presented which, in importance, transcend other issues. According to Thomas a Ballantine, an attorney, a business executive, a past president and director of both the Louisville and Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, there are two broad aspects to any constitution—one dealing with the preservation of human rights; the other providing the machinery of government. That portion which deals with the protection of human rights—the importance of the individual, the maintenance of freedom of choice—is as unchanging as the great moral truths. But that portion which deals with the mechanics of our complex government can become, and does become, obsolete with the passage of time.

The present constitution of Kentucky will be more than 70 years of age before it can be revised. There is no need to re-examine those portions of the instrument which protect the human values. On the other hand, logic would require that we at least examine methods of performing the services of government when such methods are nearly three quarters of a century old. This is all that a Limited Constitutional Convention proposes to do.

If we vote "Yes" on the ballot in November we are simply affirmatively stating that we would like to examine the adequacy of our government machinery in the same spirit that we would order a survey of modern logic would require that they were three quarters of a century old and had not been examined in the interim.

A "Yes" vote does not commit the voter to a specific revision nor to any revision of the constitution. Revision can be had only after the convention has assembled, considered, studied and argued the need for revision in a specific field, and then submitted its handiwork to the voters for acceptance. The convention cannot amend or revise the constitution in the slightest degree.

If the proposal is passed by the voters, the following steps must be taken before a revised Constitution could be adopted.

1 - The 1962 revision of the Constitution would be held in November, 1962. 2 - Election of delegates would be held in November, 1962. 3 - The convention would be held after election of the delegates. 4 - The revised Constitution would be submitted to the voters, after at least ninety days notice, and would have to be approved by majority vote.

No one alive today has actually seen our present Constitution. The original document was signed by William Randall Ramsey, a delegate to our 1890 Constitutional Convention which revised the 1849 Constitution. The missing 1890 Constitution was written in a beautiful script by William Randall Ramsey. What we use today as our Constitution is plainly labeled "Type-written copy" on the cover. No one knows where the original is, or even if it still exists.

Examples of outmoded laws in our Constitution are: the Governor's oath of office asks him to swear that he has not taken part in a duel; our 1890 Constitution says the legislature should have no more than two dozen members. When it was written there was only one entrance to the House and one to the Senate.

We now have a total of eight. Our legislators must ignore the law and hire eight people to make sure lobbyists and others keep off the floor House and just five years ago the Constitution said ladies could not vote despite the fact that the federal government had permitted it and the state had practiced it for a third of a century. Kentucky's constitution prohibits the Commission on Building Highways.

A vote for a convention November 8 is a decision to defend the constitution from its own weaknesses, rather than to scrap it.

Cassius M. Clay, president of the 1890 Convention said, "Times change, and we change. What is necessary in one era is not necessary in another. We must adjust our laws to the present, not to the past."
