There Is No Crab Grass Growing In Kentucky
That is true now, as it is every winter, because the cold weather kills all the crab grass every fall. There is no living crabgrass any winter in Kentucky except possibly in someone's greenhouse. But there are millions of crab grass seed in the soil, ready to come up in the spring or in future years. By summer, egg even spring, we will have plenty of crab grass and it will be very difficult if not impossible to kill it at that time. Now is the best time to kill crab grass in established lawns in Kentucky. That's because the plants kill rather easily just as the seeds sprout and before they come up. So the thing to do is put a chemical on the ground that will kill the crabgrass plants when the seeds germinate.

Crab grass seed germinate in Kentucky during the latter part of April and during May. This is the best time to use the emergency treatments are the crab grass plants when the seeds are the active ingredients in several products sold under various trade names. Used according to directions on the container, they are quite effective in killing crab grass as it sprouts in established lawns but should not be used on newly seeded lawns. The crab grass killer should be used now or in any event before the middle of April.

Preventing Off-Flavors In Milk

Most people like onions on their hamburgers, but they don't like onion or other off-flavors in their milk. Modern equipment which will reduce off-flavors in milk from certain weeds and feed is now being used in many dairy units. This equipment is helpful to the plant in maintaining uniform flavor the year round, but it is not a cure-all. Recent experiments at the University of Kentucky Dairy Science Department show that vacuum treatment of milk by the plant will in some samples reduce off-flavors enough for the milk to meet the consumer acceptance. However, the flavor was so strong in other samples that the milk could not be improved to this point.

Onion flavor (wild garlic) which has been one of the worst offenders can be controlled. The wild garlic plant can be eliminated from pastures by treating with a 2, 4-D weed killer. Treat pastures twice a year for three straight years in late March and November.

Recommended application is 2 to 3 quarts of the ester form of 2,4-D in at least 10 gallons of water sprayed on one acre. Other undesirable off-flavors in milk include high acidity and rancid flavors. These flavors cannot be removed by vacuum heat treatment and therefore should be prevented at the farm. High acid and rancid flavors can be prevented by the use of good sanitation and proper cooling of milk.

The rancid flavor in milk can be caused by risers in pipelines, air leaks in pipelines, milking machines or pumps or by excessive agitation of milk. Very slow cooling or warming to 85° F and cooling again is likely to produce the rancid flavor. Close observation of milk cows in lactation is necessary if this flavor is to be prevented as stripper cows often produce rancid milk.

Hay-Grinding Not Always Useful Or Profitable

Grinding hay or other roughage does not always add to their digestibility or feeding value, says Garland Bastin, UK Cooperative Extension Service dairyman.

Grinding of hay is very expensive, he says. Research shows that better long hay or other coarse-chopped hay.

Adding ground hay or other roughage to grain mixtures is NOT recommended. This tends to lower the total feeding value of a grain mixture by making it more bulky, higher in fiber and lower in TDN (total digestible nutrients).

It's Forest Fire Season Again

The greatest danger from forest fires is not in the hot dry summer but in spring and fall. During spring and fall the sun can dry out the fallen leaves and a fire can easily spread. During summer time the green leaves on the trees protect the ground cover from getting so dry. So there is less danger in summer from forest fires than there is during spring and fall.

Also many fires get out of hand in the spring when we are purposely burning brush or other materials. The State Division of Forestry provides organized fire protection in 70 Kentucky Counties. The owner of the forest must be the first line of defense in a successful forest fire control program. He should know the local fire protection officer and how and where to reach him. The owner should post fire warning signs around his woods and have a supply of fire fighting tools on hand. Above all, the land owner should use fire safely if it must be used at all.

In Case of Fire, Notify C. G. Stewart, County Fire Guard, Wildlife, Phone 256-2335. Fertilizing And Seeding The Lawn

Just a reminder. Fertilizing and seeding the lawn should be done now before the end of March.

Jig Fishing Furnishes Thrills, Good Returns

Jig fishing, contrary to common belief, is not necessarily a method used by "meat hunters". Jigging furnishes thrills by the dozen, as does any type of sport fishing, and while these thrills may come in an entirely different manner, they are as evident to the jig fisherman as to the caster or fly fisherman. According to Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources personnel who check the lakes and docks, the reactions to questions concerning time fished, number caught and money spent on this type fishing are about the same as those who do other types of sport fishing.

Those who think there is little skill involved in jig fishing are mistaken since even the smallest detail must be properly executed to qualify as an accomplished jig fisherman.

There is little doubt that almost anyone can catch a night-crawler—a requisite for jig fishing—but everyone cannot do it with skill and finesse. The veteran crawler hunter would rather not have any damaged or broken worms in the storage box since this could cause the other worms to die. It can be prevented if the "catcher" knows where to grab the worm and how much pressure to exert when pulling him from the hole. So even skill is needed in gathering this jig fishing bait. Proper storage will result in having worms when needed, since crawlers can be caught only when weather conditions are just right.

Contrary to the belief of some, there's more to jig fishing than just dabbing a gob of worms, or whatever bait used, in a body of water. They say fish are where you find them, but it requires a lot of know-how to find them. This is a skill that very few fishermen seem to have, otherwise more people would come to the docks with their stringers filled. It is a foregone conclusion that bass prefer some kind of cover. The difference in selecting the right or wrong type will show at the end of a day's fishing.

Even if a fisherman is skilled in all the things mentioned above he can still turn out to be just an average fisherman if he has not mastered one of the pieces of equipment in his boat—the sculling paddle. This little piece of wood can either be the noisiest or quietest thing a man has to handle while jig fishing. One thing is for sure, if fish are to be caught the paddle must be kept quiet. Big bass just don't linger around where there is a lot of commotion and so great skill is needed to quietly scull the boat.

With practice a man can become a skilled jig fisherman. As in anything else, the reward received from practice will be gratifying.

Need Market Details On Wool, Lamb Sales

Wool and lamb producers must complete all details of marketing not later than Mar. 31 in order for the sale to qualify for payment under the 1960 wool program. Shallice Mullins, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office, pointed out today.

Later marketings of wool and lambs would be eligible for payments under the 1961 program.

The chairman explained that under program regulations, wool which is "marketed" means that title has passed to the buyer, the wool has been delivered to the buyer either physically or through documents which transfer control to the buyer, and the last of the factors needed to determine the total purchase price payable by the buyer (price per pound, weight, yield, etc.) is available.

Thus, wool will not be considered as "marketed" and so eligible for 1960-program payments unless all details of the sales are settled and all the information needed on the sales documents—including the net sales proceeds—is completed by March 31.

Payments under the 1960 program will be made this summer when the payment rates can be determined, based on the average prices received by producers for shorn wool during the 1960 Marketing Year. The 1960 wool program years runs from April 1, 1960 through March 31, 1961.

Producers have 30 days after the close of the marketing year—that is, until April 30, 1961 under the 1960 wool program—in which to file applications for wool and lamb payments with the County ASC Office.

More Funds Needed To Aid Bookmobile Work

A class in civil defense is being taught some 20 local people, with the $60 paid by the state to teacher, Clyde Linville, to be contributed by Mr. Linville to the Bookmobile Library.

The first civil defense class was held Monday night in the attractive library, located in the Rockcastle Hotel basement.

In the past, state aid to rural libraries has been permitted to be used for the salary of the Bookmobile Librarian. But as of July, this will no longer be permitted. As of that month, state aid funds must be used to make the library a "better library". All maintenance costs of the library must come from local sources.

Without state aid the library has the following income: County Board of Education, $1,000; Rockcastle Fiscal Court, $720; City of Mt. Vernon, $365; Mt. Vernon Lion's Club, $70; and Param Bureau, $100, making a total of $2,255.

The library's fixed expenses are as follows: Salary of Bookmobile Librarian, $1,107; salary of librarian in county library, $546; salary of librarian's helper, $39; operation of Bookmobile truck, $350; rent of library, $360, making a total of $2,602, leaving $347 to be found to continue present operations. Reductions in services would have to be made if the money is not made available.

Mail Easter Seal Letters To Give Bonuses

The Jackson County Rural Electric Co-op will give a $50 incentive bonus to members who install an electric heat system before July 31, 1961, it was announced by Luther Farmer, manager.

He expects about 33 members to participate in the program. There were 14 who took advantage of a similar bonus last year, Mr. Farmer noted.

Mr. Farmer stated that installation costs of electric heat are generally less than other central heating systems. "One of the chief advantages of electric heat, however, is its flexibility," he noted. "Each room has its own thermostat, therefore, temperature levels in bedrooms can be reduced in the daytime and raised at night; the living areas may be heated during waking hours and held at low temperatures when the family is asleep."

Cost of heating by electricity is comparable to most other fuels, according to Mr. Farmer. It is predicted by many experts, however, that the cost of electricity will continue to reduce while that of other fuels continues to rise.

Hot piston test reveals the ash-free secret of Shell X-100 Premium. A simulated piston is heated and a few drops of conventional multi-grade motor oil dropped on it. As the picture on left shows, this oil leaves a deposit of additive ash. When the test is repeated, as at right, with Shell X-100 Premium, all the oil vaporizes. It leaves no additive ash.

BREAKTHROUGH:

Suddenly Shell makes every other motor oil obsolete —with a revolutionary new formula which fights the five internal troubles that can shorten engine life

Shell's research reveals five common internal troubles that can shorten the life of your car. All five work silently and unseen.

These troubles are additive ash, crankcase dirt, temperature changes, engine acid and cooling system leaks.

Read how new Shell X-100, Premium fights all five internal troubles.

TODAY, every Shell dealer in America has new Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil ready for your Spring oil change.

New Shell X-100 Premium is a genuine breakthrough because it is the only motor oil available that protects your car simultaneously against these five internal troubles that can shorten engine life.

- Trouble #1—additive ash
Up to now, even the best premium motor oils were powerless to guard against additive ash—because they actually created it. While endeavoring to keep your crankcase shipshape, some of the ingredients in these oils contributed to the hard crust of ash inside your combustion chamber. All other premium motor oils still have the same snag. The trouble stems from the metallic additives used to prevent scuffing, dirt deposits, oxidation and so forth. These additives do what's expected of them, but with each stroke of the piston, they can leave a tiny amount of metallic salts in the combustion chamber where they burn and form additive ash. This crusty ash, when allowed
- Trouble #2—crankcase dirt
All engines accumulate crankcase dirt no matter how tight they are protected by filters. The problem is to stop this dirt from getting together and forming sticky sludge which can clog your engine. Most premium oils use a detergent additive to do the job. And they perform well. But like other additives, most detergents are metallic and cause that old devil—ash. Shell's solution is to replace detergent with a remarkable new ingredient known as a dispersant, called Alkaldine.* The Alkaldine in new Shell X-100 Premium helps keep your engine clean by holding dirt particles apart. Thus they don't form sticky sludge. Some particles can be trapped by the oil filter, most are drained out when you change your oil.

New Shell X-100 Premium.

Oddly enough, nobody yet knows exactly how Alkaldine works. But the proof of the pudding is in the testing. After 1,200,000 miles of city driving, engines of test cars lubricated with Shell X-100 Premium showed so little sludge that it could hardly be measured.

Trouble #3 —temperature changes
Many motor oils tend to become too thick when cold and too thin when hot.

New Shell X-100 Premium is an all-year oil. Here's how it works. Alkaldine has a molecular structure that resembles a basket of eels. When the oil is cold, Alkaldine's eel-like molecules curl up as if for comfort. In effect, they take up less space in the oil and the oil flows freely through the tightest bearing, even on cold nights. Conversely, when the Alkaldine in new Shell X-100 Premium is hot, its molecules uncurl. They take up more room. And the oil resists thinning. Thus, new Shell X-100 Premium eliminates trouble from sudden temperature changes. It lubricates just as efficiently in June as it does in January.

Trouble #4—engine acid
All automobile engines manufacture acid. This acid can do far more damage than friction. It can eat away at engine parts in much the way stomach acid can cause ulcers. Then you're really in trouble.

One way to combat engine acid is to make the oil alkaline. Many oils use this method. But here's what happens. The neutralizing effect of alkaline oil inevitably gets weaker and weaker as engine acid eats up the alkalinity—till it eventually stops working completely. Then your oil no longer gives you anti-acid protection. Shell tackles this troublesome acid problem in a new way.

Shell X-100 Premium actually plates all engine surfaces with a thin chemical film. The metal literally adsorbs some of Shell X-100 Premium's protective qualities. Chemists call this phenomenon "chemisorption." "Chemisorption" offers a longer-lasting protection against acid attack than any other method yet invented.

Trouble #5 —cooling system leaks
Tiny leaks of permanent antifreeze can play nasty tricks with many motor oils. These oils can react chemically with permanent anti-freeze and form a horrible sludge which can actually bring an otherwise healthy engine to a standstill.

Then you're on the way to a major repair bill.

New Shell X-100 Premium sets all such fears at rest. It resists reaction with any sort of anti-freeze. It slugs it off. The additives in Shell X-100 Premium resist washing out with water, too. In some oils, additives can be lost to water leaks. In Shell X-100 Premium, they stay.

How much does Shell X-100 Premium cost?

If you drive the national average of 10,000 miles per year, the switch to Shell X-100 Premium (with regular oil changes) will cost you only $3.60 more than ordinary oil—give or take a nickel. And probably nothing extra if you already use a premium grade. Drive to your Shell service station and ask the dealer to change your oil while the engine is still hot. Be sure to ask for Shell X-100 Premium in the white can. It protects your engine from all five internal troubles listed above.

Easter

Sunday, the world pauses in remembrance of the Resurrection of Christ, the event that did more to alter history and uplift the spirit of mankind than any other event in recorded time.

Sunday, the churches will be filled with people all over the world. Many of them will be dressed in new spring outfits, many will choose to "go as usual", but all should go with the feeling of hope and encouragement that was instilled in His followers when He arose on the first Easter.

Go to church, Sunday, in remembrance of Him.

Bookmobile Needs Help

The state has made a change in the financial allocation method of the Bookmobile that could change the status of the local Bookmobile and associated library.

The state has notified all Bookmobile personnel and interested persons, beginning in July state aid to rural libraries cannot be used to pay the salary of the Bookmobile librarian, which amounts to $1,107. This money, or the part that was used for this purpose, is to go instead to make the library "better library" by an increasing books, films, records, or other materials.

When all the income and expenses have been added and subtracted, it shows $347 must be found to make up the difference.

A good start has been made. Clyde Linville, principal at Roundstone School, is teaching a class in civil defense and will unselfishly contribute the $60 he will receive to the Bookmobile. The hope is that other individuals, groups, or organizations will follow suit and give financial aid.

It is unnecessary to tell anyone of the importance of the library and how much it is used by children in out-of-the-way areas of the county.

If you have ideas on how to help the library out of its financial predicament, library personnel will be happy to hear the ideas.

Registration Note

A total of 934 Republicans and 66 Democrats have registered in Rockcastle since Nov. 1, according to records at the County Court Clerk's office. In adjoining Madison County, a report shows a complete reversal of Rockcastle. In that county, 783 democrats registered as compared to 136 Republicans. The most one-sided county in Central Kentucky was Montgomery where 779 Democrats registered as compared to 6 Republicans.

Some sources reported county elections were responsible for some of the interest in registration.
