Police, Meters, Tax, Fire Truck Ousted In Livingston Shake-Up

Changes and more changes in the order of business at the regular meeting of the Livingston Board of Trustees Monday night.

It was the second meeting of the new Board which took over city affairs in January, and the Board apparently began making the changes it said it would make during the fall election campaign.

According to Chairman of the Board, Calvin Webb, the Board decided not to re-hire City Police Chief, Ben Peters, whose contract expired at midnight Monday. The Board asked Senters to consider hiring Soley Cromer to assist him in police duties. Senters declined, and the Board decided not to re-hire Peters.

In another vote, the Board repealed the city's Privilege Tax (Occupational) on merchants. For considerable time, the town has taxed merchants from $5 to $40 a year on their businesses, the amount depending on the type of business. The money was turned over to the town's general fund.

The next item on the Board's agenda were the town's parking meters, and the Board quickly proceeded to go out of the parking meters. The Board agreed to return the meters to the "owners," Mr. Webb reported.

A drunk driver from Chicago, Illinois, "hit it lucky" at the meeting.

Chairman Webb ordered the man released from the Fire Department's custody. The man had a "bad attitude" but the Department had never been officially charged.

Monday. Since Jailer Ponder was not re-hired by the Board, there would be no one to stay with the prisoners. He then ordered the Chicago man released.

The chairman also announced the Livingston Fire Department, which he said didn't exist in the first place, is now out of the fire extinguishing business.

Mister Webb explained the Fire Department had "a bad attitude" but the Department had never been officially charged.

Trains Kill 1, injure 2 In Rockcastle

CAR IN WHICH RABON THACKER DIED

Two accidents involving trains left one man dead, one paralyzed, and another with injuries Monday and Tuesday in Rockcastle County.

Killed Monday when an Louisville & Nashville train struck his car at Fairview Road crossing at Sinder, was Rabon Thacker, 19, of Route 1, Point Lick, an employee of Raymond Towsley's Service Station at Conway and a former resident of that area.

State Trooper Willis Martin said Thacker, who was alone, pulled onto the railroad crossing and apparently had not touched the crossing. Thacker's car was dragged 184 feet down the tracks, Martin said.

J. B. Shipps, Parks engineer, was quoted by Martin as saying Thacker's car pulled onto the track's second bed before the train touched the crossing. There are no electric warning signals at the crossing.

Thacker had borrowed the car from Mr. Towsey and was on his way to pick up Thacker's sister, Mrs. Conner Sinder, to take her to Berea.

In another wreck, Wayne Matlock, 23, of Sargoville, Tenn., suffered partial paralysis from a severe brain injury early Tuesday when a semi-truck, in which he was a passenger, was struck by a freight train at the US 23 crossing in downtown Mt. Vernon.

Thacker and taken to Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital, William Sherrard, 39, of Winchester, was injured in good condition at the hospital, Matlock was taken to Berea.

The truck was hit in the cab area by the westbound train. The truck was slung about 100 feet into a railroad siding and a railroad company employee who pulled people both were knocked down.

Mr. Thacker is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Thacker, five sisters, Mrs. Conner Sinder, Mrs. Marjorie Gadd, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Lorraine Powell, Route 2, Berea, and Miss Elaine and Debbie Thacker at home, four brothers George Thacker, Union City, Ind.; Kenneth Thacker, U.S. Army, Ft. Bragg, N. Car.; and Lowell and Michael Thacker, both in England.

Federal agencies were conducted Wednesday at the Seaford Care Baptist Church in Berea. One of the officers who was buried in Seaford Care Cemetery, Sparks Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

A meeting to discuss the advisability of setting up a craft center in Rockcastle County will be held at the radio station of Radio Valley at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

All persons interested in crafts, or in establishing a center in the county, are invited to attend the meeting. It is part of the state's Area Re-Development Program.

Fiscal Court Changes Insurance, Treasurer

A new county treasurer, a change in insurance companies, and voting machines, occupied the Rockcastle Fiscal Court during its meeting Tuesday at Mt. Vernon.

Mrs. Ann Ferris, of Mt. Vernon, resigned as county treasurer at the meeting. The county hired Carl Senters, net, of Mt. Vernon, to replace Mrs. Ferris.

Mrs. Ferris said there was more work involved in the county treasurer office than she felt she would be able to do since she holds a full-time position with the Bank of Mt. Vernon.

For Magistrates G. H. Griffin, Henry Cromer, Sherman Sargant, C. W. Phillips, J. S. Swinford, and County Judge C. C. Carter, it was the second day-long meeting of the court. Ordinarily, the court is in session about two hours.

The court also changed its county truck insurance company during the session. The court voted to insure five trucks with Farm Bureau Insurance Co. instead of with

Mrs. Lela Mae Woodall

Mrs. Lela Mae Woodall, 65, of Berea, died Feb. 7 at the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital.

Mrs. Woodall was born at Berea, the daughter of Levi and Malvina Denny Ross. She was a member of the Broadhead Baptist Church.

Man Killed In Auto Crash

A Pennsylvania man was killed and four others injured about 7:25 p. m. last Thursday in a head-on collision of two autos at Calloway.

It was the first auto fatality in Rockcastle in 1962, and the first since August 1961.

Dying about half an hour after admission to the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital was Norman C. Seidle, 54, of Jamestown, Pa., last driver of the car. Injured was his wife, Mrs. Betty Seidle, 45. She was taken to Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital.

Injured critically was the driver of the other auto, Brown, of East Bernstadt. He was taken to the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital. Also taken there was a passenger in the Hunt car, Louise H. Stewart, East Bernstadt. Taken to a Rockcastle hospital, a critical condition was a second passenger in the Hunt auto, Bill Mobley, of London.

French Taught At Livingston

In keeping with trends in curriculum development, foreign language is now a part of the educational program at Livingston High School, according to Carolyn Gregory, teacher.

French was introduced in the high school curriculum last year. Students who are now in their second year of French, are able to speak and understand the language very well.

This year an effort is being made to enrich the elementary curriculum with a French language. Due to the fact that the high school French students are eager to learn more about the language, a unique program has been offered in the grade school.

Under the supervision of the French teacher, the high school French students are teaching some French to grades seven and eight. These classes meet once a week for 30 minutes.

The chief purposes of this program are to stimulate an interest in foreign language on the part of the elementary students and to prepare students for better high school work. Miss Gregory said.

A poll was taken asking the students what they thought about their French classes. Almost unanimously they agreed that the classes would help them in high school language classes and that most of them find the language fascinating and interesting.

One student stated: "I feel that the classes are an opportunity to a new world of words."

Mayor Wants Lighting Check

A survey of the entire street-light system in Mt. Vernon was ordered by Mayor Carl Brown at a meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council Thursday.

Mayor Brown told the council he would like to have a general survey and evaluation of the lighting system looking toward general improvements, such as possible re-arrangements, deletion of lights.

The mayor said some areas of town are in need of more light. Additional light, he said, probably would help to cut down on theft, break-ins and vandalism in the town.

He stated he believes the job can be done without too much extra cost to the city.

He then appointed Councilmen William I. Norton and Dr. Rudolph Burdette to check the Kentucky Utility officials to make the survey and to report their findings as soon as possible.

Total fare and costs of Mt. Vernon Police Court during January came to $253.75. Police Judge Lorne Dushan reported.

A message from the Treasury of a free people

How to invest in freedom on the installment plan

You can't buy freedom. For cash or installments or any other way. It's not for sale.

You can make a sound investment in freedom, though, by investing in U.S. Savings Bonds. Just $4.33 a week on payroll savings where you work will buy a $25.00 Bond each month.

As your savings grow, built up by 3 1/2% interest, you get closer to financial freedom—a desirable state for each of us if America is to be financially strong.

At the same time, your dollars go to work for another kind of freedom... the kind you'll find fully described in a document conceived nearly two centuries ago at Independence Hall.

Start buying Bonds where you work now. When you do, you'll be joining 8 million Americans who have signed up for a regular share of freedom each month.

Keep freedom in your future with U.S. Savings Bonds

Lincoln's Birthday

Tuesday we pause to observe the birthday of one of America's great presidents—Abraham Lincoln. That this nation was fortunate to have him walk American soil is told in the many stories of his life and times. Today, the memory of his great mark on American history lingers with us all. Especially, is this memory alive in the person of Nell Wanda Mullins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Mullins, of Climax, an eighth grade student at Climax School. She sent us the following poem written on Lincoln, and we pass it along to our readers.

Abraham Lincoln

He came to us one day
From a little cabin down Kentucky Way.
He was just a little country boy,
But still he brought us all
He wanted to learn—to be wise someday,
So reading books was his favorite play.
He rested in the fields with a hoe in his hand
As he plowed or hoed this American land.
His help came from Heaven above,
He is the man we all love.
He had a great mind in setting the slaves free.
He was a great man—to you and me.

Burley Growers Must Strive For Quality

Burley tobacco growers must strive for quality and enlarge production to meet the demands of the future or else the usage of American burley will be stymied and other types and other Burleys will reap the benefits, a tobacco session of the Farm and Home Convention was told Friday at Livingston.

The speaker was W. L. Stator, executive secretary of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, who outlined the work of the Association in market, development work and promotion in the last decade and gave the reasons why the Burley Sales Promotion Fund was started.

Farm and Home Convention sessions were held at the University of Kentucky. The projections for usage and consumption of tobacco in the sixties and seventies is very encouraging," Stator said. "We must be alert and lose no opportunity at home or abroad to advertise, proclaim and promote the excellent flavor and taste found only in American burley."

Stator noted that for many years a service fee of 50 cents for each consignment to the Association was used:

- (1) To employ a blending expert, R. C. Travis.
- (2) To buy sample U. S. burley for blending work by Travis for foreign manufacturers.
- (3) To support the work of the Burley and Dark leaf Tobacco Export Association.
- (4) To make sizeable donations to the University of Kentucky Agriculture College for several special tobacco research projects.
- (5) To entertain delegations of tobacco men from many different countries invited here by the Foreign Agriculture Service, USDA, to see and inspect American methods of producing, marketing and manufacturing tobacco.
- (6) To participate in a market development program initiated some years ago by the Foreign Agricultural Service to increase trade abroad for agricultural commodities.

Stator said the officers and directors of the Burley Association "are proud of the past promotional record we save made. We shall continue to find more outlets for burley in every nook and corner of the world. We have spent more than one-half million dollars in this effort to date."

The membership of the Burley Association is composed of only tobacco growers. Its officers and directors are men of long experience in the tobacco business, Stator noted.

Explaining the background of the Burley Sales Promotion Fund started this year, he said: "For the last few seasons our receipts have been light and consignments few. It was therefore necessary at the beginning of this present sales season to devise a different method of collecting much needed funds."

"It was thought that every grower possessing an allotment card should have the opportunity to contribute the small sum of fifty cents to the 'Burley Sales Promotion Fund."

"Commodity Credit Corporation (USDA) approved the recommendation of the Burley Association that provided for a paragraph in the contract entered into between the Association and the warehouse requiring such a deduction for each allotment and for handing to the grower at the time of payroll a self-addressed, postage-paid card with an agreement thereon which the producer could sign if he was in favor of this plan. It was voluntary. If the farmer did not approve, he could write to the Association and ask for a refund."

The Association has received nearly 70,000 signed agreement cards and less than 350 requests for refunds. "We believe," Stator said, "that many more producers may have lost or forgotten to sign the card and send it in. We trust they may do so later."

USDA Team Now Taking Inventory Of Ky. Forest

In starting this work by assigning one of its members to the inventory headquarters at Lexington.

"For the first few months the inventory team will be composed of Thomas Jordan of the United States Forest Service and Ronald Singer of the Kentucky Division of Forestry. They will be setting up the operating plans of this work and also expect to complete several special study projects by July 1962.

At this time, seven women field crews will be assigned to their stations throughout the state and will begin the scientific sampling of the state's forests.

Mr. Jordan is in charge of the inventory and its statewide correlation. He will also be training the forestry crews, then making periodic visits to spot check them and work out any problems that might arise.

Mr. Singer will be interpreting and analyzing the aerial photographs for this inventory. He will be measuring forest acreage, logging the permanent sample points, and identifying tree types and growth on these aerial photographs. The photographing of the inventory and of the inventory work itself will also be done by Mr. Singer.

This information will then be sent to the field crews who will locate the sample areas on the ground. Using scientific timber sampling methods, the foresters will measure commercial timber volume and growth, quality and losses from fire, insects, and disease.

This field information will be analyzed with electronic computers and compared with the findings of the first inventory in 1949. In this way, the impact of fire, forest pests, logging, reforestation, land clearing and timber growth on forest resources during the past 12 years will be shown.

This new appraisal of the changing timber situation will provide statistics needed for analyzing timber markets and prospects for a larger wood-using industry in Kentucky, for planning forestry programs, and for developing future wood supplies.

Public School Funds Increased

Operating cost of Kentucky's public schools during the past fiscal year totaled $188 million, State Superintendent, State Instruction, Wendell P. Butler has reported to the 1962 General Assembly now in session. Making a biennial report to the legislators, Butler said salaries of classroom teachers, principals, supervisors and substitute teachers accounted for $100,071,353, or about half the total.

The state's 209 school superintendents were paid $1,848,280 for salaries and for their services as secretaries of the local boards of education.

School construction for the past two fiscal years (1959-61) reached an all-time high, with $9,037,023 being spent for new buildings, additions to buildings, new sites and improvements to sites and equipment.

Other school costs included in Butler's report showed $35,020,286 spent for debt service on bonds and notes; $14,542,016 for operation and maintenance of school plants; $10,170,942 for pupil transportation; $5,135,583 for capital outlay; $4,743,574 for administration of the school system; $4,638,871 for community services; $1,978,287 for fixed charges such as insurance and rentals; and $1,648,989 for attendance and health services.

Butler said State aid to local systems totaled $28,384,948 during the 1960-61 fiscal year; local tax revenues provided $71,941,000 and Federal aid, loans, sales of property and equipment and rentals provided the rest.

13,129 Farm Boys In Vocational Ag

There are 13,129 farm boys enrolled in Kentucky's high school vocational agriculture classes this year, according to M. M. Botto, Frankfort, state director of agricultural education. This number exceeds last year's enrollment by 515 and is the largest number ever enrolled in the high school vocational agriculture program. Broken down by counties, there are 4,343 in Boone, 3,488 in sophomore, and 4,298 in juniors and seniors. These students are enrolled in 193 vocational agriculture departments located in 118 Kentucky counties.

These students not only study vocational agriculture in the classroom, but carry out on their home farms farming programs under the supervision of their agriculture teachers. As these students earn as they learn is evident by the fact that last year their labor earnings exceeded $3,790,000.

Vocational agriculture provides training for young men going into farming or related occupations. The program also provides training for young farmers in the process of becoming established in farming and adult farmers. The FFA, an integral part of the program, provides training in leadership and citizenship.

Kentucky's Fire Towers

FOREST FIRE PROTECTION was extended to 21 additional Kentucky counties during 1961, bringing approximately nine million acres or 80 per cent of the state's 11 1/2 million acres of commercial forest land under protection. The additional protection was provided by 32 new lookout fire towers which brings the total number of towers to 144. Each county with a fire tower also has a county fire warden to direct volunteer fire fighting crews. During 1962, eight additional fire towers will be put in service to detect fires as well as to provide forest disease and insect control inspection services. Conservation Commissioners J. O. Matlock reports that during 1963 forest fire protection will be extended to all other Kentucky counties with a need for the service.

Rockcastle Farmers To Vote On Tobacco

While a person may qualify to vote for another person in the capacity of guardian, administrator, executor or trustee, the person for whom he is acting will not be eligible to vote.

A husband and wife who were actually engaged in the 1961 production of burley tobacco as joint owners of a farm are both eligible to vote. Each individual's right to vote, whether single or married, depends upon his or her own qualifications. A minor is not disqualified from voting solely because of his age if he is otherwise eligible.

No person (whether an individual, association, corporation or other legal entity) shall be entitled to more than one vote in a referendum, even though he may have been engaged in 1961 in the production of burley tobacco in two or more communities, counties or States.

In a burley referendum held February 24, 1959, quotas for the 1959, 1960 and 1961 crops were approved by 98.7 percent of the 190,453 growers voting.

If quotas are approved by growers in the Rockcastle referendum, farm acreage allotments will be in effect at levels designed to maintain supplies in line with demand. Prior to the referendum, County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Offices will mail to farm operators notices showing specific farm acreage allotments for 1962. Growers will then know how the program would be 75 percent of the average market price for the 1961 crop of burley tobacco.

Under marketing quotas, farmers must comply with their farm acreage allotments in order to be eligible for price support on their crop. If more than one-third of the growers voting in the referendum, no farm acreage allotments will be available on the 1962 crop of burley tobacco, as direct marketings of their excess will be available by law. The vote will not affect price supports on the 1961-1962 crop.

Under a marketing quota program, growers who do not comply with their farm acreage allotments are subject to quota penalties on direct marketings of their excess. The penalty on excess 1962 crop burley tobacco
