F. W. Rickard of Winchester, Ky., got sturdier tobacco plants using Agrinite Tobacco Bed Topdresser.

How Agrinite Helps Me Grow Sturdier Tobacco Plants

"I'VE BEEN producing tobacco seed for 25 years," says F. W. Rickard of Winchester (Clark Co.) Ky., one of the largest burley seed growers in the state. "And I've learned that the type of tobacco plants I set in the field has a lot to do with the seed I harvest."

"AGRINITE TOBACCO BED TOPDRESSER has been a big help in this respect. Last year, I top-dressed part of one of my beds with one-third pound of Agrinite per square yard. Before applying Agrinite, the plants were pale yellow and weren't growing well. But soon after, they were greener and healthier looking."

"I can't explain what happened, but Agrinite certainly did something for my plants that ordinary nitrogen wasn't doing." Agrinite is available wherever AGRICO fertilizers are sold.

"These conferences should allow us who have to make the final decisions as to what roads it will be spent for to hear from more persons about where they feel the money can best be spent," Marcum explained.

District 8 includes Adams, Casey, Cumberland, Lincoln, McCreary, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Russell and Wayne counties.

FARM AND HOME NEWS

TOBACCO PLANT BEDS

The continued drought calls for special care of tobacco plant beds. Beds should be watered every other day using from 12 to 15 barrels of water to 100 running feet of bed. This amount of water is best applied by putting on half the amount and then applying a short period and waiting the remainder. It is difficult for the soil to absorb the full amount at one time.

To prevent excess evaporation, during weeding, keep leaves on except where the work is being done. In hot dry weather with normal wind, water evaporates from the soil very rapidly.

Watering is more effective if done in the late afternoon rather than in the middle of day. Watering in the late afternoon permits most of the water to soak into the soil.

PREPARING TOBACCO PLANT FOR 1962

In working soils, each farmer must take into consideration his own type of soil, when it was plowed, his rotation and weeds present.

A good seedbed should be made by each grower before transplanting is done. By working the soil with a disc and drag, weeds can be controlled, moisture will be retained and a good firm seed bed can be made before transplanting. About once a week is sufficient to do the job.

Growers should not pulverize the soil. By continuously working the soil much damage can be done to the soil structure.

Once Over Lightly

IS YOUR WIFE a freak? Or is she normal and can't stand for you to read in bed after she decides that it is time to put the light out and go to sleep?

That's the greatest cure for insomnia known to womanhood: a husband reading in bed. All his wife has to do is take one look at him and she starts getting sleepy. And the more comfortable he is, the more exciting the book is, the sleepier she gets.

But like 999 wives out of 1,000, she can't sleep with the light in her eyes. And you can bet the light will be in her eyes. Scientists who have made a study of sleep say that the human body will assume as many as 457 different positions during a night's sleep. But a woman who doesn't want her husband to read in bed after she's ready to go to sleep can assume only one of those positions . . . that's on her side facing the light from the bedlam.

To help science further in this field, I polled a bunch of husbands who like to read in bed and found that their wives were of two main types.

First, there is the Real World Woman type. She is the wife who wants that light out and makes no bones about it. A bed is made for sleeping not reading . . . she says as she puts her own book down. If her husband wants to keep on reading he can go in the living room or the bathroom but she doesn't want to hear one word out of him the next day about how worn out he is.

Then there is the Real Now, Pay Later type. She says she doesn't mind a bit if you keep on reading but she's lying. If you keep on reading you're going to pay for it. Just how you will pay for it depends on what sub-type she is . . . and she's probably one of the following:

The Rotisserie Type: She doesn't say a word while you're reading, she just keeps turning over and over. And from the way she sighs there is no doubt about what's making her rotate that way. It's that light. You'd think she had moth blood in her way she reacts to it.

The Private Eye Type: This wife doesn't make a sound. But every time you look down at her this being in bed with a private detective. When you ask if the light is bothering her she insists it isn't. Why doesn't she go to sleep then? Why lie there staring at a man who's doing nothing but reading? For just one reason: to make him so nervous that he'll turn off that light.

The Elephant Ears Type: This wife is about the most friendly type of all. She says she doesn't mind you reading a bit if you just won't make any noise. Then she lies there all tensed up waiting for you to make it. And you never disappoint her. No matter how carefully you turn those pages it sounds like you're thumping your way through a bag of popcorn.

The Martyred Owl Type: This is the most unsuitable type of all. She swears that the light doesn't bother her in the slightest but when you look down at her she's got the light over her head. In short, when electricity replaced the kerosene lamp it made reading easier every place except in bed. It has brightened up things just too much there.

Profile Of An American

An American is defined in many ways by many people, and of late we have heard these expressions from almost every country and every source. Below is one of the most amusing we have ever heard. It comes to us from the Jackson County Sun.

PROFILE OF AN AMERICAN

What is an American? Many things, some of which are mentioned in the following which has been going the rounds.

He whips the enemy nations and gives them the shirt off his back. He yells for speed laws that will stop fast driving, and then won't buy a car if it doesn't go 100 miles an hour. He gripes about the high prices of things he has to buy but gripes still more about the low prices of things he has to sell. He knows the lineup of every baseball team in the American and National Leagues and does not know half the words in "The Star Spangled Banner."

An American will get mad at his wife for not running their home with the efficiency of a hotel and then he will get mad at the hotel for not operating like a home. He will fall out with his wife over her cooking and then go on an fishing trip and swallow half-fried potatoes, burnt fish, and gritty creek water coffee made in a rusty bucket and think it is good.

An American will work hard on a farm so he can move into town where he can make money so he can move back to the farm. He will spend half a day looking for vitamin pills to make him live longer—then drive 80 miles an hour on slick pavement to make up for lost time.

But we're still pretty nice folks. Calling a person "a real American" is the best compliment we can pay him. Most of the world is itching for what we have—but they won't have it until they starting scratching for it the way we did.

Milburn Serves

Timon Milburn, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Milburn of Route 2, Mt. Vernon, is serving aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain, operated by President John F. Kennedy during a two-day visit on April 13 and 14 to the Atlantic Fleet in Norfolk, Va.

Tobacco In Need Of Bluestone Lime

Tobacco growers—regardless of the type they are raising, burley, dark-fired—should get the first application of bluestone-lime on plant beds immediately.

This material, used to control angular leaf spot, a growing problem in Kentucky (plant beds now) and wildfire, is never more effective than when put on at the right time.

And, says Russell Hunt, U. K. Cooperative Extension Service tobacco specialist, now is the right time.

The mixture is composed of 3 pounds of bluestone and 4 pounds of hydrated (black) lime mixed in 50 gallons of water. This mixture should be sprinkled on plant beds through the canopy, and for at least 3 feet at the sides and ends of the beds.

Plant-beds plants now are in the two-leaf or even the four-leaf (in the square, this is called stage now. This is when the mixture is most effective.

Hunt recommends a second application of the material in 10 to 12 days, and immediately following weeding.

He said plant beds are "very weedy" this season, and that in many "white clover is present in such an even distribution it seems the seed was planted in the beds by mechanical means."

County Assistance $40,616 In March

Rockcastle County's public assistance recipients received $40,616 in aid last month through the State Department of Economic Security, Commissioner Earle V. Powell has announced.

The needs aid received a total of $20,928 in March; families receiving aid to dependent children were paid a total of $14,210, the needy blind $445 and the totally and permanently disabled $4,833.

A total of 1,633 persons in the county received public assistance payments during March.

Statewide payments totaled more than $5.3 million during the month, Commissioner Powell added, and went to 145,920 needy Kentuckians.

Warn Wheat Farmers On Excessive Acres

Farmers who have excess wheat acreage were reminded today that failure to dispose of the excess in accordance with program provisions could have a number of adverse effects—on the farmer's pocketbook and on his farm's acreage history.

Shaelle Mullins, chairman

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said that such a wheat grower not only would be ineligible for price support and any payments he might otherwise have earned under the 1962 wheat stabilization program, but he also would be subject to marketing quota, penalties which are imposed for 1962 than in former years, and his farm's future wheat allotments might be reduced.

Regarding marketing quota penalties on "excess" wheat, the Chairman pointed out that legislation enacted last year made material changes regarding excess wheat of the 1962 crop. The penalty has been raised to 65 percent of parity as of May 1, 1962 (instead of the previous 45 percent), and the amount of wheat subject to penalty will be twice the farm's normal yield on all of the acres in excess of the allotment. If the proved 1962 actual yield is less than this amount, a reduction in the amount of the excess, based on actual production, will be made if a request is filled before a set deadline.

Mr. Mullins explained that "excess" wheat results when the grower does not comply with the farm wheat allotment (or the marketing quota exemption acreage, if this is larger). The marketing quota exemption acreage is the smaller of (a) 13.5 acres or (b) the highest acreage of wheat on the farm in any of the crop years 1959, 1960, or 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nichols of Williams, Mrs. John Nichols, Mt. Vernon and Mrs. Nadine Creech visited John Nichols at Berea College Hospital Monday evening.

Starter Fertilizer Helps Corn Make Fast, Healthy Growth

STARTER fertilizer will get the corn crop off to a vigorous, healthy start. It's a fertilizer that goes to two inches to the side and slightly below the seed line. The Midwest division of the National Plant Food Institute, in filing statements by agricultural college agronomists.

Dr. A. J. Ohlrogge, Purdue University agronomist, says his band fertilizer placement method puts the plant food where it will be in the path of the young corn roots. The nutrients in this starter fertilizer speed growth from germination to the three-leaf stage and pave the way for high root yields at harvest time.

Dr. Henry Foth, Michigan State University soil scientist, points out the growth of corn roots is mostly outward and downward. The roots are about six weeks old. After that the roots begin to go down more than out.

Ohlrogge says the early growth period is perhaps the most important in the corn plant's life cycle. During the seedling stage there is a partial development of all the leaves, root system, auxiliary buds, nodes, internodes and primordial tassels the corn plant will ever have.

Dr. John Peck, Iowa State University agronomist, says that starter fertilizers containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash usually need to be applied before planting time. Extra nitrogen, when needed can be side-dressed up until the last cultivation of corn.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Owens and Mrs. T. J. Nottingham were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mrs. Bessie McCall, Mrs. Jane Hensley, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Payne and children at Brodhead.

Mr. and Mrs. Bentley Deen and son of Indianapolis, Ind., spent the week end with his mother—Mrs. Hettie Deen, and her mother, Mrs. Hattie Barrons.

Notes For The Homemaker

by Kizzie Owens

Take a look at the wood finishes in your home. Today, the trend is toward natural finishes, not only in furniture but also in wood accessories and wood paneling. You may want to finish or refinish some of the surfaces in your home.

Many people prefer a dull wood finish rather than a shiny one. Dull finishes give wood a hand-rubbed look. They also make it easier to combine the different furniture woods within a single room. Too many shiny finishes in a room give a glare which is hard on the eyes.

If you are planning to finish or refinish woods, do you know what finish to use? Here are some of the finishing materials on today's market and what you can expect from them.

Penetrating seals go into the wood and leave a durable finish. Some of these give a dull finish and some give a shiny one. The shiny finish can be rubbed down with pumice stone and oil to remove the shine.

Satin varnish gives a dull finish when used on wood. This is a surface finish and does not go into the wood. Spar finish gives woods a waterproof finish. This has shine too, but can be rubbed down with pumice stone and oil.

You can find both clear finishes and those which contain stain on the market today. Clear finishes help bring out the natural beauty of grain and color of the wood.

The Homemakers Clubs in Rockcastle County will meet the following dates in May: Their lesson will be "Putting in Zippers and Hems."
