MOUNT VERNON, KENTUCKY

Mayor Applies For Swimming Pool; Courthouse Funds Asked By Carter

NEEDS $400,000 FOR COURTHOUSE

An application for $400,000 to construct a new courthouse-jail at Mt. Vernon was made by County Judge Charles C. Carter during a meeting with federal officials at Corbin Saturday.

If approved, $200,000 will go to the county as an outright grant under the newly enacted federal works program.

The county will have to raise the remaining $100,000, and with that in mind, Judge Carter applied for a $100,000 loan from the federal government to be repaid through revenue bonds bearing a three and three-eighths percent interest rate.

The revenue is expected to come from rent saved from various county and state offices scattered over the town that will move into the new courthouse, as well as from other items that can be saved by the county.

Although the government officials did not directly promise a courthouse and jail, indications were they saw no particular stumbling blocks for the project.

Currently, Bayless, Clotfelter & Johnson, architects, of Lexington, are drawing up plans and specifications for the new building. The plans are expected to be complete in about two weeks.

Friday, Judge Carter, Mr. Clotfelter, Clarence Carter, and Magistrates Wally Phillips, Sherman Sargent and G. E. Griffin, went to Galiburg, Tenn., to get a municipal building. They found the building too large for Mt. Vernon.

Wildie Man's Body Found

The body of William Henry Brannaman, 45, of Wildie, who had been reported missing since Sept. 8, was recovered from the Caney Fork river at the old Caney Fork near Jamestown, Oct. 4.

The body was discovered by two fishermen who saw an object afloat in the water. A float from which Brannaman was fishing on Sept. 8 was found abandoned and search for the body has been under way since. Death was attributed to accidental drowning.

Brannaman lived at Wildie. He was a native of Rockcastle County. He served with the Second Marine Division during World War II and was awarded the Purple Heart.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. Beulah Brannaman; Wildie; two brothers, James Brannaman, Berne, and John Brannaman, Wildie, and a sister, Mrs. Ruth Parsons, of Wildie.

Services were conducted Saturday at the Britton-Wray Funeral Home, Berea, by the Rev. Larry Johnson. Burial was in the Brannaman Cemetery.

Banks Closed

Columbus Day is a legal holiday, and both the Bank of Mt. Vernon and the Citizens Bank of Brodhead, will be closed on Oct. 12.

Judge Ford Resigns

Federal Judge H. Church Ford, announced his retirement as chief judge of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky effective January 1. Judge Ford has spent 27 years on the bench. He will be succeeded by Federal Judge Mac Swinford, of Cynthiana. In this area, Judge Ford held court at London.

DEVIL'S JUMP

AN EDITORIAL
By: RAY MCCLURE

A story has been prominent in news from Washington this week that could possibly affect the water conservation program in Rockcastle, Jackson, Laurel, Clay, Madison and Pulaski counties, and for that matter, all of Eastern Kentucky for years to come.

The story concerns a vote in the House of Representatives on the proposed $151 million dollar Devil's Jump Dam in McCreary County.

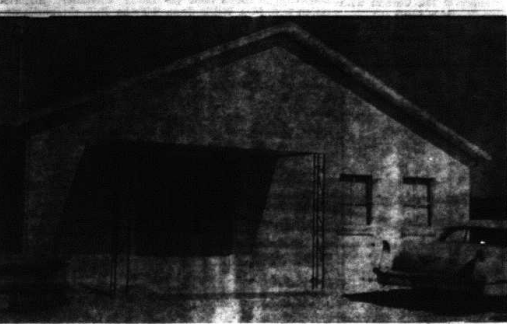

Ordinarily, we are happy for dams to be constructed in Kentucky, since they generally boost the economy of an area by making the area attractive to tourists as well as other benefits. However, this tremendously expensive adventure at Devil's Jump causes us to scratch our head as to its advisability and practicality, and to ask: Is Devil's Jump Dam worth the cost? Will it result in the loss of future water conservation projects in Eastern Kentucky, including the Rockcastle River Dam?

Here are the events that have transpired during the past three years, or longer.

The Army Corps of Engineers made a study of Devil's Jump and came up with figures that proved the $151 million dollar project was a practical and desirable expenditure.

Plans were then submitted to Congress, but Congress apparently shelved the project for one reason or another, but generally because most Congressmen felt the project too controversial.

This week the House of Representatives took the project off the shelf for a vote. The measure failed mainly because, said Senator John Sherman Cooper, Rep. Frank Burke was opposed. Burke called the project too controversial. He said there was doubt whether the project's benefits would outweigh the costs, and that no witnesses

MAYOR BROWN REPRESENTS CITY

An application for a loan to construct a municipal swimming pool, expected to cost about $60,000, has been made under the federal government's public works program by Mt. Vernon Mayor Carl Brown.

Mayor Brown reported he made the application as a first move at the suggestion of federal officials at a meeting at Corbin Saturday.

The mayor reported the federal officials suggested the city make application for various projects. If the projects are not approved, then the city would lose no money.

The pool would be constructed with 75 percent of the cost, be it more or less than $60,000, coming from a no-strings-attached grant from the government under the recently enacted public works program. The city would have to find 25 percent, but there is a strong possibility the 25 percent can be loaned the city also by the government at a three and three-eighths percent interest rate to be paid back from revenue from the pool.

In short, financing would add up this way: On a $60,000 pool, the government would give the city $45,000. The city would put up $15,000 through revenue bonds that bear three and three-eighths percent interest rate.

Indications are that swimming pools are one of the easiest projects to get approved. The public works program. The federal officials felt there was no reason why Mt. Vernon could not get the swimming pool.

The mayor also inquired about the possibility of an additional grant for Mt. Vernon's proposed $419,000 sewer system, but a decision on this will have to await further clarification of the new works program. Since the sewer system is under another federal program, it is doubtful if a 75 percent grant would be made.

State Warns Foxhunters

Foxhunters, beware! If they don't beware, then they'd better have a license to hunt.

Such was the advice this week from Chester Elkins and Freddie Noe, conservation officers.

Mr. Elkins produced a letter from Assistant Attorney General John B. Browning, which stated foxhunters, who are hunting red fox with dogs for sport and not to kill, must have a license.

Atty. Browning also stated if there is a group or party in such a hunt, all members of the group must have a license.

The opinion from the Assistant Attorney General came after numerous letters of inquiry from area foxhunters. The letters were written by hunters after a group was challenged by conservation officers during a hunt.

The conservation officers passed the letter along to County Judge C. C. Carter for action when violations occur again, Mr. Elkins said.

Could End Hopes For Rockcastle River Dam

He was given an opportunity to testify.

In his views, Representative Burke was with opponents of the dam who have insisted the dam will provide no navigation or flood control benefits, that it will produce extremely high-cost power - about 12 mills per kilowatt-hour, and that by the most generous estimates the public benefit will barely equal the cost of the project.

When these points were raised by Robert Watkins, vice president of Associated Industries of Kentucky, and Clay Stewart, vice president of Kentucky Utilities, before the Senate Public Works Committee, Senator Cooper didn't agree at all. The Army Corps of Engineers had made the study and found it feasible, the Senator stated. Meanwhile, Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt and Sen. Thruston Morton gave their blessing to the project, even though most of the benefits would go to Tennessee, other than the TVA power supply produced by the dam.

How could this affect Rockcastle County and Eastern Kentucky?

Over a year ago a public hearing on a Rockcastle River Dam was held by the Army Corps of Engineers at Renfro Valley attended by delegations from seven counties affected by the Rockcastle dam. The delegations went on record favoring a dam at any site on the Rockcastle River, but hoping the Corps would choose a site about a mile north of Livingston.

This general agreement on the dam came about three days before the hearing. Nat Caldwell, a highly respected staff member of the Nashville Tennessean, came to the area to help plug for a Rockcastle dam. He visited in the seven counties and talked at length with business and civic leaders. Go to the meeting, he advised, and approve a dam at any site on the river. Don't quibble over a site, he said. If there is quibbling, he intimated, the Army Corps of Engineers, rather than become involved in a seven-county fight, might shelve the Rockcastle River dam project and press for Devil's Jump Dam. If the Devil's Jump Dam becomes a reality, Caldwell noted, and the 151 million dollars is spent on Devil's Jump, it would be many, many years before enough money would be available for other projects in the Cumberland River basin.

Tuesday, with Senator Cooper leading the way, the House Rules Committee was asked to authorize a House-made conference for reconsideration of Devil's Jump. The committee approved.

At this point we belatedly became alarmed. Devil's Jump seems virtually assured. Where does that leave Rockcastle, Jackson, Laurel, Madison and Clay counties? It leaves them at a disadvantage. Is the project in Eastern Kentucky, if the respected Mr. Caldwell is correct?

These are questions that should be answered for the residents of Eastern Kentucky. The answers should come from Senator Cooper, or Governor Bert Combs.

If the answer to these questions is: There will be no money left for other projects in Eastern Kentucky. After 151 million dollars is spent for a dam just over the Kentucky line from Tennessee, then we hope Congress will make no appropriation for Devil's Jump.

A total of 151 million dollars for this one project totals more than the entire money needed to construct all water conservation projects planned in Eastern Kentucky. For Eastern Kentucky, this itself would outweigh all benefits derived from Devil's Jump, and would be a vote directly against the financial interests of the area.

But add to this the pressing need for a flood control through all these Eastern Kentucky counties and the evidence becomes overwhelming for the defeat of this appropriation.

At this point, all we can see in this project is: It's nose is in Kentucky; it's torso is in Tennessee, and its hand is in our pocket.

"I can't understand why you think rural electricity should mean as much to me as it does to you." And here's how the country mouse answered: Low cost rural electricity, supplied by Rural Electric Co-op, has completely changed the Kentucky farmer's life. It has improved his operations, increased his profits and given him more money to spend. And he spends it for the goods and supplies sold in the towns and cities of Kentucky. There's more: With his increased prosperity the Kentucky farmer has become a more important citizen and a bigger taxpayer. Not only does he pay more taxes directly, but Kentucky's Rural Electric Co-op, individually and as a group, are among the largest taxpayers in the state. And these rural electric tax dollars are used for all Kentucky.

Kentucky's farmers originally build their rural cooperatives for one purpose only... to get the electric power they could not buy elsewhere! Out of their cooperation has grown a force powerful enough to keep Kentucky's prosperity growing.

Kentucky taxpayers can afford the best on their new Interstate highways—modern CONCRETE

1. Concrete's first cost runs virtually the same as asphalt. Proof of this can be seen below in the comparison of costs for the two types of pavement on Kentucky's Interstate 64. Remember, on each mile of Interstate System highways, the Federal Government pays 90% of the first cost, the state pays 10%. ASPHALT: Clark Co. project 144-37 sq. ft. 2,380 sq. ft. concrete cost per mile $216,300. Clark Co. project 144-37 sq. ft. 1,710 sq. ft. concrete cost per mile $214,300. Average cost per mile $215,300. Kentucky's 10% share per mile based on a $1 million total cost per mile $21,530. CONCRETE: Shelby Co. project 144-37 sq. ft. 1,110 sq. ft. concrete cost per mile $218,300. Jefferson-Shelby Co. project 144-37 sq. ft. 1,710 sq. ft. concrete cost per mile $208,700. Average cost per mile $213,500. Kentucky's 10% share per mile based on a $1 million total cost per mile $21,350. Concrete section on Indiana Test Road built as part of U.S. 31. After 8 years it is still in fine shape. Asphalt sections have now been removed. "WOODLOTS CAN BE GOODLOTS!"

Property Assessment
Kentucky law now requires that the County Tax Commissioner revalue each piece of real estate in the county during the second year of each term of office. By the end of 1963 I must check on the value of your property and assess it at about one-third of its actual value.

At present the property assessment in Rockcastle County averages about one-third of its value. However, some property is assessed too high and some too low. You know and I know that no Tax Commissioner can ever set the exact value on all property. But it could be much more equal than it is now.

During the next assessments you will be asked to list your property at approximately one-third of its present day value. If this means a raise on your property remember that other people in the county are paying on one-third assessments too.

The Tax Commissioner will not intentionally assess any piece of property above the average county assessment. But if any person thinks his assessment is too high he can always appeal to the Board of Supervisors. In Kentucky tax assessments should be based on present day values and not on what the property cost years ago. If cost values were used some people would pay no taxes because their property was inherited and cost them nothing.

It is always better when the tax commissioner and the taxpayer can agree on assessments. Since this is not always possible the Board of Supervisors is set up for the protection of the taxpayer.

A large part of the property tax is used to maintain the schools and the county roads. Part of it is used for public health services, hospital service, agricultural extension service and soil conservation.

If each taxpayer will be fair and honest, Rockcastle County can have the tax load distributed equally in proportion to what each person owns. Please look over the assessment on your own property. If your assessment is about one-third of the actual value of your property you are carrying your fair share of the tax load. If the assessment on your property is too low or too high, come into the office and talk it over.
