MARKET

three nights a week...

Rural Electricity keeps this store's lights on!

This supermarket is located in a fairly large town in one of Kentucky's southwestern counties. In this town most of the housewives do their shopping in the daytime. But still the supermarket stays open three nights every week. Why?

Because farmers from the near and not-so-near rural areas like to shop at night... and the supermarket wants their business. And what makes the farmer such a "good" customer that supermarkets stay open extra hours just to get his business? There are many reasons... but one of the most important is low cost rural electricity.

When Kentucky's farms were first electrified a complete change in the farm's operation came about. Rural electricity lightened the farmer's work load... made his farm more efficient and profitable to operate... gave him more money to spend. And he spends it for goods and services sold in Kentucky's cities and towns.

Kentucky's farmers originally built their rural cooperatives for one purpose only... to get the electric power they could not buy elsewhere! Out of their cooperation has grown a force powerful enough to keep Kentucky's prosperity growing.

161 MGDEN-MAILED TRAFFIC TICKETS -- Bothers County Judge Carter

A total of 161 traffic tickets have been pigeon-holed in Rockcastle County Court in the last two months because of a lack of action to bring the ticket-holders into court, Judge C. C. Carter reported today.

The tickets are part of those issued by State Police during October and November, Judge Carter said. An undetermined number of other tickets were issued but disposition was made. Some traffic charges were dismissed.

According to Judge Carter, disposition on the 161 tickets has not been made because no warrants have been issued.

"People receiving traffic tickets are requested to appear at a certain time, but they don't come in on their own accord," Judge Carter said. "I'm ready to hear the cases anytime, but to date little action has been taken on the tickets by the county attorney. It is his job to issue warrants," Judge Carter said. "Everyone stands to lose if those tickets go without some disposition," the judge stated. "At a time when the county is trying to lighten-up on various phases of court expenses and activities, this represents a considerable loss of revenue for the county."

Price Conviction Reversed

The Kentucky Court of Appeals this week reversed the "wildful murder" conviction of Carl Price of Sand Springs.

Price was tried in Pulaski Circuit Court at the last term and was sentenced to 10 years. He was convicted of the murder of Mary Rose Vance, of Sand Springs in 1941.

The court reversed the conviction on the grounds the statute was not followed in reference to the selection of a jury. The court indicated the jury was selected in the office of the Circuit Court Clerk when it should have been selected in the courtroom.

The court also said the jury was not drawn in a regular term of court.

Commonwealth Attorney Russell Jones disagreed with the court and said the jury was "drawn in the regular term of court and a petition would be filed for a re-hearing."

Attorney Jones also reported the re-trial will be held in Pulaski Circuit Court, probably on Jan. 14. Bond for Price was set at $10,000 and was filed.

Price's attorney, John Y. Brown, of Lexington, presented an oral argument before the Court of Appeals, one of the first granted by the court in a criminal case in a considerable time.

Policeman Jess Baker to do the policing job. Mr. Baker has been a part-time policeman.

Mr. Kelley said he has no personal feelings against anyone on the council but he did not feel he should continue to work for the council and at the same time operate its water-sewer policy.

Mr. Kelley, also owner of a self-service laundry, said due to the amount of the recently enacted water rate increase, his bill increased $90 to $25 percent, more than he felt justified.

He reported he planned to take an active part in any legal or other effort to reverse the water rate increase.

Under these circumstances I do not feel it should continue in the employment of the city," he said.

Build F-75 Survey Towers

The long process involved in the construction of Interstate 75 from Richmond to the Rockcastle-Laurel county line was apparently begun quietly about a week ago.

An unidentified survey company has contracted for the construction of towers at various heights, locations in Rockcastle and Madison in preparation for surveys for the proposed interstate highway.

To date, one such tower has been constructed on Chestnut Ridge on property near the Old Chestnut Ridge School.

The towers are used for survey purposes, and are located at the highest points along a proposed route in that way, a survey can be made in rough terrain, from point to point, without obstructions such as hills and timber.

The Chestnut Ridge tower would indicate State Highway Department officials believe the route now under consideration by the Federal Bureau of Roads in Washington will be acceptable.

This route would bypass Mt. Vernon generally to the east with interchanges at Burr and Renfro Valley and with a new entrance and exit in the area of Port Sequoyah.

To date, the route has not been officially approved by the Federal Bureau of Roads, but approval is expected shortly.

Whether the finally approved route will follow exactly the route as presented at a public hearing earlier remains to be seen.

The delay of approval is believed to stem from a final check of the route from Rockcastle-Laurel line to where it joins the newly completed highway near Williamsburg. This stretch was included in the Richmond to Rockcastle River section.

Brodhead Lion's Entertainment Moore
The Brodhead Lion's Club was host to District President Moore of District President Moore's of Harrisonville, Mo., at a meeting Monday night. One hundred percent attendance was reported.

Brodhead Lion's President, Brodhead Moore, related his experiences at the recent district meeting, while past president, Harold Vanhook, related his experiences at a meeting at Cumberland Falls.

District President Moore's talk concerned Lions At The National Level. Lion Moore stated that there were over 600,000 Lion's members in 119 different countries, this representing 18,671 Clubs. The United States has 75 percent of the total membership.

The outstanding feature of the night was Mr. Moore's explanation of the Lion's Eye Bank.

There are over 7,000 blind people in Kentucky and Southern Indiana whose sight could be restored by the transplanting of an eye from one individual to another.

This, of course, is done with permission prior to the death of the donor. Of the 103 such operations in the past few years, 101 have been successful. A drive is now on in Kentucky to obtain more donors.

Report Feed Grain Program

The 1963 voluntary feed grain program will generally follow program provisions for 1961 and 1962 crops by giving feed grain producers an opportunity to participate in the program by reducing acreage and to receive payments. R. O. Wilson, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, has announced.

As in 1962, the program will apply to corn, grain sorghum, and barley.

By participating, farmers will receive diversion payments for shifting acreage from production to a conservation use and in addition they will receive price-support payments on the normal production of the 1963 feed grain acreage. They will also be eligible to obtain price-support loans and purchase agreements for the actual 1963 feed grain production. Rates for diversion payments are somewhat smaller than in previous years, but this decrease will be more than offset for most farmers by the price-support payments.

A major change from previous programs, Mr. Wilson emphasized, is that to be eligible for any payments or price support on any of the three feed grains included in the program, the farmer must divert the total acreage for which he signs up.

Tobacco Allotment Applications

Applications for 1969 new grower tobacco allotments are being accepted in the Rockcastle County ASCS office, according to an announcement made by Mr. Sheltis Mullins, Chairman of the County ASC Committee.

The Chairman pointed out that in order to qualify for a new grower tobacco allotment, all of the following requirements must be met: The applicant must: (1) Have had at least two years experience within the last 5 years (1958-1962 in growing the type of tobacco requested in the application as owner, operator, shareholder or cash renter. (Tobacco produced on a farm that had no acreage allotment will not be considered for experience.) (2) Own the farm.

(3) Operate the farm.

(4) The farm must not have a 1963 allotment established for any kind of tobacco at the time the application is filed.

(5) Obtain, during 1968, more than 90 percent of his income from the production of agricultural commodities or products from the farm, for which the new farm allotment is filed. In order to meet this requirement, the value of the crops and gardens produced on the farm, as well as the value of livestock and livestock products sold from or consumed on the farm must be greater than the income from all sources away from the farm for which the application is being filed. No credit will be allowed for the value of livestock kept on the farm. Any crops produced on other farms as well as livestock and livestock products sold from these farms will be considered as outside income. Wages, salaries, pensions, social security benefits and all other forms of income must be considered as outside income.

(6) The operator shall own, or otherwise have readily available, adequate equipment and other facilities necessary for the successful production of the kind of tobacco requested on the farm. Any person who can meet all of these requirements should request an application from the Rockcastle County ASCS office, if he wishes to apply for an allotment. Applications must be filed with the ASC County Committee by not later than February 15, 1969.

The class is to be graduated, Dec. 21. The 14-week course covers basic electricity, mathematics review and the operation and wiring diagrams in their electrical equipment used on naval vessels. Students learn to use electrical blueprints and wiring diagrams in their work.

Once Over Lightly

B. M. ATKINSON

I DID QUITE a bit of traveling around the state this spring and saw a lot of fine looking horses, cats and sheep but the sight that stirred me most was a big flock of goats. The farm they were on seemed prosperous and the house and the out-buildings were electrically equipped but having had a goat once myself I couldn't help but wonder if maybe the owner still wasn't leading a pretty hard life.

The way I got my goat was that my father was a small town druggist and took the animal in part payment of a bad debt. The animal was delivered late on a Christmas Eve and evidently had been drugged because he was very well behaved and allowed my father, over my mother's protest, to tie him to the living room door.

Not knowing that we had a goat waiting for us, my youngest brother woke me at 5 o'clock Christmas morning and said that Santa Claus had come and Daddy was down in the living room playing with the reindeer. Well, it did sound like there were reindeer because we could hear this clatter of hooves but it didn't sound like Daddy was playing with them, it sounded more like he was trying to escape from them.

What had happened was that the goat had returned to normal during the night and had chewed his rope in two and proceeded to wreck the living room. That was bad enough but when my father went down to check on what he thought was a gang of drunken burglars the goat had started in eating toys. And every time my father tried to approach him, he would make a run at him and send him racing back up the stairs, cursing the farmer for ever telling him it was a "pet" goat.

But with the arrival of the cook and the milkman, they finally rounded up the goat and got him hitched to a little green goat wagon for us to ride in. That's when we discovered another of his charms: he wouldn't pull the wagon unless there was a dog around and then he would pull it at about 20 miles an hour. That's the truth, so help me. He hated dogs as much as he hated people and would chase them on sight.

To make matters worse, he was a town goat. Every time he would get loose, he would head up town. He would chase a few dogs, clean out the lawns on the town square and the court house steps, and then head for a store. His finest hour came in a hardware store where he put three clerks, two customers and a salesman on top of the counters.

He finally got so mean that even gypsies wouldn't steal him. My father told the former owner that he would cancel everything he owed him, if he would just take the beast back. The man said he was hard up but not that hard up.

Finally, one night he berked some planks loose from the garages where he had been kept and took off. What happened to him nobody ever knew and nobody was dumb enough to make any inquiries. Maybe he just mean'd away.

Open until 8 p. m. every night from now until Christmas.

on a ruling pertaining to a ruling pertaining to magistrates made recently by the Court of Appeals. Since the ruling of the Appeals Court came, Judge Carter has not collected the $5 fee. He said he collected it prior to the ruling, for about 10 months, months.
He mentioned he also does not think it is the county judge's responsibility to search out the county attorney to get him to appear at a trial.
"It would be very desirable if the county attorney had his office in the courthouse. That would help solve the problem of location," Judge Carter declared.
The one-room office space allocated for the county attorney at the courthouse is now being used by the Child Welfare officer.
Judge Carter noted that any future action taken on the 161 traffic tickets would have to come from the county attorney.

DESPITE recent rains in the state, Kentucky's Division of Forestry is anticipating fall forest fires by checking all fire-fighting and repairing equipment. Inspecting radio equipment at the division's communications center near Frankfort are (left), H. W. Beckman, the division's forest fire control chief, and Nelson Hawkins, radio maintenance supervisor.

Forest Fire Season Here

"Kentucky's fire season is here," Gene L. Butcher, director of the State Department of Conservation's Division of Forestry has warned.
He pointed out that windy cloudless days and dry grass, weeds and leaves respond to the smallest flame or fire, and urged Kentuckians to be careful when burning trash. During 1961,

There are now 154 fire lookout towers in operation in the 23 Kentucky counties which have organized fire protection, Beckman said, and pointed out that the limited number of full-time workers are backed up by 450 volunteer fire wardens who are registered with the division. All forestry workers are equipped with hand tools such as rakes, swatters, back-packs pumps and shovels.
To supplement this limited manpower the division has 29 specially designed fire plows, 381 two-way radio sets and two planes for spotting fires from the air.
The aircraft, both Cessna Skylines, were put into service by the division last February and cover 13 counties in Central Kentucky. Fire reports are radioed by the pilots to district headquarters where fire crews are dispatched to the conflagration.
"We are able to keep ahead of fire problems through a weather recording station called a fire danger station," Beckman explained. "There are 12 of these stations located throughout the state where weather conditions are recorded and interpreted by an observer," he said and pointed out that the readings taken make it possible to foresee periods of fire danger.

he said, 59 percent of the fires were started by burning debris.
"In the spring of this year," commented H. W. Beckman, the division's fire control chief, "we suffered a loss of 65,487 acres of woodland to fires." In explaining the state's fire problem, Beckman pointed out that "although spring brings our heaviest fires, several recent autumns caused the division to call in emergency labor and equipment."
State forestry officials and workers spent the summer months repairing and improving fire equipment and storing supplies, including Rockcastle County.

Feed-Grain Program
In the program by reducing the total of their 1963 feed grain acreage, (Corn, grain sorghum and barley) by at least 20 percent. The maximum diversion is the higher of 40 percent of the base acreage or 25 acres, provided this is not more than the acreage of the three crops (1959-60 average acreage, as adjusted will be combined into one total feed grain base for each farm, and the farmer may choose to divert one or more of the feed grains, with the diversion payment being made at the per-acre rate applicable to the particular grain or grains diverted.

Farmers who have planted their 1963 barley crop this fall will be able to take part in the 1963 program by reducing their total feed grain acreage by at least 20 percent.
Price support to participating farmers will be available partly through loans and purchase agreements and partly through the price-support payment. Loans and purchase agreements will require a national average price of $1.02 per bushel on corn, $1.63 per Cwt. on grain sorghum, and 79 cents per bushel on barley. In addition, price-support payments will be made on the normal production of the 1963 feed grain acreage at the rate of 18 cents per bushel on corn, 39 cents per Cwt. (16 cents per bushel) on grain sorghum, and 14 cents per bushel on barley.
Oats and rye are not included in the 1963 feed grain program; no payment is provided and no reduction in acreage is required for price-support eligibility. As in 1962, the national average supports for these two crops for 1963 will be 62 cents per bushel for oats and $1.02 per bushel for rye.
Participating farmers will be able to put all of their 1963 - crop corn, grain sorghum, and barley under price-support loans and purchase agreements. This is a change from earlier programs, which limited support to the normal production of the 1962 crop.
Under the 1963 program, acres taken out of feed grains may be planted to guar, sesame, safflower, sunflower, and castor beans, but at a lower diversion rate—with no payment on acres planted to safflower. Making barley in 1963 will be treated like all other barley.
Farmers may receive part of their acreage diversion payment at the time they sign up to participate in the program. The sign-up period of the 1963 Feed Grain Program will be early next year and it will be announced later.

Questions Answered On Sabin Vaccine

The Rockcastle Health Department offers the following answers to some important questions on polio.

(Q) When and where may we get Type I Oral Polio Vaccine?

(A) During the next few days as announced it will be given throughout the County on a schedule patterned somewhat after the one used for Type II vaccine. There will be some additional Saturday and Sunday clinics this time.

(Q) Who should take it? (A) Everyone young and old should take the vaccine in order to completely and permanently eliminate the transmission of Polio virus in our community.

(Q) Has anyone gotten sick from taking the vaccine? (A) No. Hundreds of millions of people have taken Type I Oral polio vaccine with no ill effects whatsoever to any of them.

(Q) Are all the doctors and nurses and families taking the vaccine? (A) Yes! And they are urging that all of their patients follow suit.

(Q) What should I do if I did not receive Type II vaccine previously?

(A) Take the Type I now while it is being offered and you will have an opportunity next spring to take the type which you have missed.

(Q) If I have had all the shots, should I still take the oral vaccine? (A) Yes. The oral vaccine gives more effective and longer lasting protection against polio and also eliminates the possibility of future passage of the virus through the community.

(Q) What will it cost me?

(A) There is no charge. Your participation is far more important to the community than money. If you can contribute a quarter, this will cover the cost of the vaccine and this will be handled in the same manner as before.

(Q) Must school children take it? (A) According to Kentucky Law, children must be immunized against polio in order to attend school. The signing of a parent is required on the registration form.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

Let us not bar a man from higher learning by the color of his skin, wisdom, to know that man's principals should be enforced. But it takes real courage, wisdom and headwork to do what Mr. Albert Hiatt, of Berea, Kentucky, has done for our little City of Brodhead, Rockcastle County. By his own good will and courage, he has built and furnished the people of our little city, county, and other surroundings, a real Citizen's Drive-In Bank, for business transactions by a warm tribute to Mr. Hiatt. He did about everything that was required to solve particular problems in building this bank. He has a way in presenting his views to workmen. An even more importantly, he always left one with a feeling that he could rely upon.

I am writing this letter in a direct appeal, especially to businessmen and women of our city and county. I am only a citizen of the little town. Just a walk-in and walk-out customer. I am in no way connected with banking business and by no means am considered an authority on banking matters. But this I do know, my partner, Mrs. DeVault, is the assistant cashier of this bank, but I must be generous and agree to arise and pay tribute to a worthy gentleman, Mr. Hiatt, for the building of this drive-in bank.

State To Audit School Districts

The State Committee on School District Audits has approved audits for 49 more districts including Rockcastle County school district.

The audit will be made by Orr & Horton, a Lexington auditing firm. It will cost approximately $700.

The committee has authorized audits of 94 districts since it was created by the 1952 General Assembly.

Robert Matthews, committee chairman, said the State has funds to finance its share of the cost of audits of all of Kentucky's 206 districts. Under the plan the local district and the State each pay half the cost of the audit.

Included in the 49 additional audits approved are four districts which have had changes in superintendents, a situation which normally calls for an audit of school books. These are Boone County and the independent districts of Irvine, Corbin and Williamson.

Of the remainder which were submitted for routine figures. Nearly audits, an additional three were returned to the local boards. Matthews said the committee decided the audit cost estimates submitted by Wayne, Bell and Knott counties should be re-examined in light of comparable districts costs.

Estimates submitted by the four districts asking for audits because of changes in superintendents came to a total cost of $2,400. The 45 routine audits, which have been performed in the past under the supervision of the Kentucky Department of Education, totaled $33,410, not including cost submitted by the three which were returned.

Audits for five school districts, Jessamine and Harlan counties, and Hazard, Letcher and Bartow, independent districts, were approved after local boards submitted revised audit cost figures. Mrs. Floyd Owens and Mrs. Hazel Owens were in Lexington, shopping, last Friday. Dr. and Mrs. Joe Henderson and family have moved to Renton Valley with her parents. Mr. adn Mrs. dohn Lair, while their home is being enlarged.
