How to be smarter than your wife (on the subject of Savings Bonds)

Of course, there's no question about who's smarter at your house on most subjects. But to remove any doubt as to who knows more about U. S. Savings Bonds, the Treasury Department presents this little quiz. You take it first so you'll know all the answers and then pop it on your spouse. Great for the morale.

1. A Series E Savings Bond reaches maturity in:
 5 years 7 1/2 years 10 years

2. The money you earn from Savings Bonds is exempt from state and local income taxes.
 true false

3. You have to be an American to buy U. S. Savings Bonds.
 true false

4. Americans owned more Savings Bonds in:
 1943 1958 1963

5. Uncle Sam will give you a new Bond free if:
 You accidentally toss it in the washing machine
 The neighbor's dog swallows it whole
 A thief steals it

6. It's hard to redeem a Savings Bond.
 true false

7. A Bond that costs $18.75 will:
 Grow to $20 and stop
 Keep on growing if you don't cash it in

8. You can have somebody else buy your Bonds for you.
 true false

ANSWERS

1. 7 1/2 years is correct.
2. True. What's more, federal tax on E Bond interest may be deferred until the Bond is redeemed.
3. Generally speaking, true. You must be either a resident; a citizen living abroad; or an employee of the U.S., military or civilian.
4. In spite of the fact that Bond-buying was nearly universal during the war years, the correct answer is 1963.
5. You're right no matter which answer you checked.
6. False. Any bank will redeem your Bond at any time after the two-month holding period.
7. A Series E Bond will keep growing 10 years past maturity. Extension is automatic.
8. True. A perfect example is the Federal Savings Plan. You can buy Bonds for other people, too. In fact, they make excellent gifts.

Keep freedom in your future with
U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

Catalogue Depicts Renfro Hand Craft

The Division of Arts and Crafts, Kentucky Department of Commerce, is receiving daily orders for copies of its new catalogue depicting hand craft products in 21 such producing centers in 19 counties of the Commonwealth, according to a report today from Division Director Susan Black.

The catalogue bears the title "Kentucky Gifts from the Hands of True Craftsmen" and contains 32 pages and shows, in pictures and descriptions, 357 articles and the price of each.

One of the many distinctive gift items, such as the arrangement made by the artist above, is the unique creation of the Cabin Crafts Handicraft Center at Renfro Valley, Rockcastle County.

The tote bag comes in attractive mixed color patterns, which according to John Lair, Director of the center, goes with any color. Size of the bags is 12 x 12 inches.

Each producer's wares are shown in one spot. This arrangement makes it easier for a customer to place his order, because he will be ordering each producer's products from that particular center and not from a central distribution point.

Fifty-thousand copies were printed and publicity on the book has been and is still being dispatched to all points of the United States, carrying the story of Kentucky's arts and crafts far beyond the borders of the Commonwealth and building up business for the state's craftsmen.

Copies of the catalogue are still available and may be obtained upon request by writing to: Division of Arts and Crafts, 304 Wilkinson Street, Frankfort, Kentucky.

In Our Time

AMERICANS USE ABOUT 65 BILLION GALLONS OF GASOLINE A YEAR TO MEET THIS CONSTANTLY GROWING DEMAND. THE SCIENTISTS HAVE LEARNED TO "SQUEEZE" MORE AND MORE GASOLINE FROM CRUDE OIL.

FOR EXAMPLE, IN 1930 WHEN A BARREL OF OIL WENT INTO A REFINERY, ONLY 26 PERCENT OF IT CAME OUT AS GASOLINE.

TODAY THE AVERAGE GASOLINE YIELD IS UP TO NEARLY 45 PERCENT, WITH ONE MODERN REFINERY REPORTING A YIELD OF 50 PERCENT.

WITHOUT THESE TECHNOLOGICAL ADVANCES, THE NATION WOULD NEED 2.5 BILLION MORE BARRELS OF OIL PER YEAR TO MEET TODAY'S DEMAND FOR GASOLINE.

Senate Weighs, House Votes Fallout Shelters

The Nation's military leaders gave strong support to an expanded fallout shelter program in recent testimony before a special subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Speaking for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Earle G. Wheeler, Army Chief of Staff, backed a House-passed bill authorizing Federal support for 11 million more fallout shelter spaces. He told the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington:

"A FALLOUT PROTECTION-oriented civil defense is clearly a necessary element of the total United States national security effort. Our potential enemies have a clear capability for nuclear warfare, and we cannot discount the possibility that such a war may occur. An adequate program of civil defense should give our population a reasonable degree of protection as well as increasing the credibility of our military deterrent posture."

General Thomas B. Power, Commander-in-Chief of the Air Force's Strategic Air Command, sent a statement to the subcommittee describing civil defense as "one of the most important aspects of our overall deterrent posture."

The Senate subcommittee's hearing on the pros and cons of the fallout shelter bill was completed in December, 1963. If committee and Senate action to authorize the program is favorable, as it was in the House, Stuart L. Pittman, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Civil Defense, has indicated that he will seek a supplemental appropriation from Congress to get the program underway.

THE BILL would amend the Federal Civil Defense Act of 1950 to:

1. Enable the Federal Government to contribute up to $25 per individual shelter space to incorporate public fallout shelters for about 10 million persons in buildings owned by nonprofit institutions, such as schools, hospitals, and state and local government facilities. It authorizes, but does not appropriate, $175 million in this fiscal year toward the program.

2. Require incorporation of public fallout shelters in most new and existing Federal structures. The bill authorizes $15.6 million in this fiscal year to shelter about a million persons.
3. Remove Federal restrictions on the use of state and local civil defense personnel and equipment, established with Federal funds in aid, in meeting natural disasters.

The bill was passed by a vote of 173 to 47. Its passage after the House Armed Services Committee had approved the bill by a 21-4 vote, with nearly all members reverting their stand on fallout shelters after comprehensive testimony last summer from 188 witnesses.

In floor debate, the bill was widely backed, including speeches by Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and Rep. Carl Vinson of Georgia, Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

FIRST CIVIL DEFENSE FALLOUT SHELTER SUPPLIES FOR PUERTO RICO

FIRST SUPPLIES for fallout shelter areas in Puerto Rico are loaded aboard a van at Brooklyn, N. Y., Army Terminal for shipment to San Juan. The civil defense food, water, medical and sanitation supplies, and radiation detection kits, when over 200 vehicles are placed in shelter areas, will be enough for about 350,000 persons for 14 days in fallout shelters. Courthouse-Jail - A Reality

The new Courthouse-Jail project is under way, at last. We wish to commend Judge Charles C. Coffer and all Fiscal Court members for their courage in going ahead with the construction of a new Courthouse in the face of a let-down in the election.

A considerable amount of personal stamina is required to continue a project when at every turn you meet discouragement.

It is very difficult to affect any extensive change. Many people "drag their feet" when it comes to progress. They may even feel that a proposed program is necessary for the improvement of the community and will eventually become a reality but they still say, "Well! Let's wait and see, or they don't say anything - they just wait and see what someone else will do.

The $400,000 Courthouse-Jail project is under way and Rockcastle County was fortunate to receive $232,000 from the federal government. Some argue that this is no gift since we pay for it. We agree. We, the people, are the government. We have paid this money in taxes. Government funds are available for worthwhile projects to communities such as Mt. Vernon. Should we not have taken advantage of this money and built a new Courthouse-Jail, the money would have been spent in some other town. Where could it have been put to better use than here?

"We are proud that Rockcastle County is getting a new Courthouse-Jail and feel sure that when the beautiful new building is completed it will be hard to find anyone who was against the construction of a new Courthouse.

We are eager for the move and confusion, which necessarily accompanies the process of construction, to get in full swing.

County Agent Notes

Emergencies

Every emergency is different. Are you ready? If an emergency catches you unprepared, what you don't know about protecting your home and family could be costly—even fatal—to them and to you," says County Agent H. Lee Durham.

In early America, every family had a survival plan. When a fire, flood, or Indian attack threatened, each person had a job to do. Natural disasters—tornadoes, floods, blizzards, fires, hurricanes, ice storms—still happen. Now, the possibility of nuclear war poses an additional threat to all Americans.

To survive modern Americans must be just as alert, just as prepared as their forefathers. If you plan for an emergency before it occurs, your chance of being alive and healthy afterward will be greatly increased.

Mr. Durham suggests picking the safest place in your home or on your farm. Add shielding to make it better. A shelter needn't be elegant, only safe. Be ready to take

Leaves That Light On

There are times when turning off a fluorescent light can cost more than leaving it on. Studies show that each time a fluorescent lamp is turned off and on again, more than 12 hour of useful lamp life are expended. Turning off the light when you leave for lunch, for example, probably costs you more than it would to leave it on.

CAP Collecting Items For February Auction

Rockcastle Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol met Jan. 16 at the Mt. Vernon High School Gym. The Rev. Howard Ray was chairman for the squadron.

Classes were taught to some 15 cadets. There were 12 senior members present. Pictures were taken for application forms. PFO officer Addie Rush, emphasized that the CAP is not a military organization.

It is strictly a civilian organization, made up of civilians who can learn flying if they wish. They also learn first aid, aviation, navigation, weather, search and rescue, disaster aid, fund raising for community projects.

Anyone is welcome to visit the CAP meetings at any time, to see what his or her child is doing.

Mrs. Rush emphasized that no cadet is allowed in an airplane without the written consent of their parents.

Items are being collected by cadets and senior members for sale at public auctions. Auctions will be held during the month of February. Proceeds are to be used for cadet uniforms, supplies and equipment.

Anyone having items or cash to contribute may call Lt. Harvey Rush or Lt. Addie Rush.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 23 at 7 p. m. in the Mt. Vernon High School gym.

Juror Pay

Rep. William Harold Demaris introduced a bill in the General Assembly to increase the pay of circuit court jurors from $5 to $8 per day.

Shaker Village To Be Restored

An assurance of a $2 million Federal loan from the Area Redevelopment Administration for restoration of the Shaker village of Pleasant Hill near Harrodsburg has given the project an over-all green light. The village is a tourist complex and a center for educational and cultural pursuits.

The project is designed to create 289 new jobs and attract 150,000 visitors each year by 1970. Shakerstown, Inc., a non-profit group of Central Kentucky people, has title to 21 Shaker buildings situated on 110 acres of land. The village is located on U. S. 68, seven miles from Harrodsburg in Mercer County.

James G. Cogar, executive director of the restoration effort, said the project will not be approached in piecemeal fashion. "The whole village must be taken into consideration. This will not be accomplished in a short time," he said. Cogar is a native of Midway, Ky., and a veteran of 18 years' experience as historian and curator of Colonial Williamsburg, Va.

The village restoration site was not opened to the public for three or four years after the project was undertaken. The A. R. A. loan funds are earmarked for actual construction and other restoration expenditures, Cogar said. The educational and cultural activities will be supported by private memberships.

Tentative plans call for using the West Family House as a surrounding smaller structures as the cultural and educational hub. These buildings would house seminars, forums and other events of various groups. Overnight accommodations will also be provided, along with recreational and dining facilities, Cogar said.

The East Family House and Center Family House, along with several shops, have been open to the public periodically during the past few years. Shaker furniture and other items turned out by the practical cabinet sect have been displayed. These collections will be enlarged and incorporated into the restoration scheme, Cogar said.

Practically all the buildings, most of which are brick and limestone, are in sound condition but need minor repairs and renovation, Cogar said. In time, the two or three buildings destroyed some years ago by fire may be reconstructed on their old foundations, Cogar added.

Shakerstown, Inc. has title to all major buildings in the village except on their old meeting house, now used as a Baptist church. Property called the United Society of Believers in Christ's Second Appearance, the Shakers founded several communities in other United States during the last century. In 1805 a small band of Mercer County pioneers, headed by Shaker deities, and became the nucleus of a new settlement.

The village grew to a community of 500 believers and was considered the sect's most successful communal experiment. It gradually declined after the Civil War which deprived the Shakers of Southern markets for their products. The sect's members sold their land and an assortment of other items sold by boat and wagon over a side area. The last dozen members died away their remaining lands in 1910 in return for care during their lifetimes.

have at least twice as much floor space as the present office which will probably move into the completed courthouse. The second floor entrance at the rear of the new courthouse will be on the street level at US 25.

Difficulty was encountered when Jailer Sam Hoskins was asked to move his family out of part of his four room apartment in the residential part of the jail.

The Fiscal Court minutes show a motion was made by Hubert Thacker and seconded by Henry Cromer Shaker, the County Attorney James W. Lambert, and is hereby ordered by this court to notify Jailer Sam Hoskins to move his family immediately the building located behind the jail and known as the kitchen or boiler building or that part of the said building that has to be vacated for the construction of the new jail building and the County Attorney James W. Lambert file a forcible detainer against the said building or that part of the building.

The new building provides for a kitchen, a sleeping room and a bath for the jailer.

The jailer has now agreed to move his family into the cramped quarters in the front of the building.

Time To Order Tree Seedlings

The time for ordering tree seedlings for spring planting is here once again, and, as usual, the deadline for receiving orders will soon be upon us. It is best to place your orders at the ASCS office as early as possible in order to help the nurseries get the trees to you, according to Perry Antill, Service Forester at McKee.

The seedling nurseries receive orders from all of the 120 counties of the state and must have enough time to process all of the orders, get the seedlings lifted from the nurseries, pack them, and ship them to you in time for spring planting.

The Kentucky Division of Forestry will furnish assistance to the landowner in picking the species for the site and in correct planting procedures.

Travel Colonels To Visit North

A concentrated campaign to sell Kentucky to select out-of-staters will lift off the first two weeks in January according to the Kentucky Travel Council, a division of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, Louisville.

The mission of this volunteer group of travel-minded Kentuckians will be to make personal contact with travel editors, automobile club travel counselors, public media, public carriers, petroleum travel counselors and local officials in the vast travel market where millions of travelers to Kentucky originate each year.

This exclusive group is called the "Travel-in" Colonels," according to Travel Council Director, Paul Gabbie, Louisville.

Each region of the Kentucky Travel Council will be responsible for visiting a certain area in the vast travel market where millions of travelers to Kentucky originate each year.

The first group of "Travel-in" Colonels" headed by Malcolm Massey, Vice Chairman of the Kentucky Travel Council, Lexington, will originate from the North.

They will contact travel agents in the "Kentucky Vacation Trails - Central Region" of the Bluegrass State. They will contact travel agents in Cincinnati, Middletown, Hamilton, Columbus, Washington Court House, Chillicothe, Dayton, Toledo, Ohio; Detroit, Michigan; and other intermediate stops.

"Travel-in" Colonels" be decked in Kentucky Colonel uniforms, are pledged to extend the fame and fortune of Kentucky's travel opportunities to Mid-America's potential travelers, G. R. B. added.

Use Mouse Traps And Anticoagulants

Those tiny, pesky mice that drive the wife to frantic new methods aren't as hard to get rid of as house-owners suppose.

Even though this is the chemical-atomic age, the old mouse trap is still as good a way as any.

Bobby Trammel, U. S. Fish and Wildlife rodent control specialist with the UK Ag Extension Service, says:

"Bait traps with a dab of peanut butter that has been mixed with a little rancid bacon grease."

If rapping doesn't control the invaders, use anticoagulant type poison. Be sure, however, to cover these bait stations so that pets and children can't get to them.

Remember: The anticoagulants kill mice and rats with no pain, but the rodents must eat the bait three to 14 days before it kills them.

Population Increase, Increases Food Needs

If you've ever wondered why scientists and farmers seem absorbed in better food-production methods—look at the world's population figures. From 1960 to 1983, the world's population increased 183 million persons. During the 1950's, the increase was 20 percent (about 500,000 persons). That percentage increase was about equal to the estimated population of the entire world in the year 1950.

SMALL SCHOOLS USE MINIMUM OF EQUIPMENT—Hotplates like the one shown here are being used at small rural schools in many areas of eastern Kentucky to provide hot meals for students under an expanded school lunch special assistance program. The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the state of Kentucky are working together to help expand the lunch program into remote areas where one and two room schools previously had no means of serving hot lunches. Teachers use the hotplates to heat cans of food, in providing well-rounded meals for the children. Basic food items are provided by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. Counties provide groceries to supplement the basic items. USDA reimburses the counties up to 15 cents for each lunch served. (USDA Photo)

Right now world population is 3 billion, 180 million persons. Asia has nearly 2 billion (1,800,000,000), 56 percent; the Americas have 441 million; Europe has 437 million; Africa has 272 million and the USSR 225 million.

Asia has most of the population. China has an estimated 781 million; India has 461 million. The United States now has about 190 million.

No wonder food and fiber production methods in the next 23 years are being so carefully planned now. We'll need all the arable land we can get to feed and clothe these people.
