Special Dairy Day Issue During Dairy Month

VALON CHEESE PLANT at London has been in operation a few months. Pictured is the back side of the new cheese plant which is now in full swing. Roy Scott of London is plant manager.

High Quality Forage Produces More Milk

High quality forages produce more milk cheaper than any other feed. To make land produce the maximum yields of high quality forages without abusing it should be the goal of every dairy farmer.

A forage program should consist of hay, silage, and a lot of top quality pasture. Pasture is the backbone of a good dairy program. Pasture mixtures should be fitted to the soils found on your farm. Information found on a Soil Conservation Silt and Water Capability map can be of great value in getting this job done.

Pasture rotation from field to field, having regular periods of grazing and planned regrowth is a must in getting the most milk from pastures. Mowing three or more times per year, helps to control weeds and maintains a high quality of succulent pasture grasses and legumes.

A strict program of pasture renovation is a must. Here is the way to do it: 1. Use a soil test to determine fertilizer and lime needs. Apply the recommended amounts of both. 2. Disc or bush-hog thoroughly to prepare a good seed bed. More than half of the old sod should be destroyed. 3. Seed a mixture of grasses and or legumes of a variety suited to the soil and pasture needs. 4. Cultipack

Double Production

Since the end of World War II, we have had many changes in our ways of farming, which has effected most everyone in some way or other. At the end of the war there were only a few farms mechanized, but today, most every farm is mechanized, maybe some few more than they can justify.

One of the advances, if not the largest, advances has been in the dairy industry. Today dairying is second only to tobacco in farm income. The dairy industry, today, provides jobs for hundreds of persons in many different ways and there is still room for expansion. We can double our milk production in the next few years with the proper planning. The first thing to be considered is feed production increase. That is the first place we can work to reduce the cost of producing milk and also expand our carrying capacity of dairy cows.

Rockcastle County is in a very favorable climate to produce feed economically in the way of forage crops. Some of the things we need to do in reducing the cost of feed for our present herd and to increase its size is establish good pastures. There are lots of idle acres that need to be working for us and lots of pastures have become non-productive. They need to be renovated and more than double their productivity and feed value.

Our hay crops could be greatly increased to produce more and better feed and the tim of cutting hay needs to be watched carefully to get the most food value.

One of the cheapest and best feeds we can produce and also get the most feed per acre is silage. Our acreage of silage needs to be increased many times. The need of silage upright, bunker or trench needs to be installed. The first step in any of these crops is a soil capability or land use map and soil test. Then follow up with lime and fertilizer according to their need. After our feed program is established, we need to improve and increase the number of dairy cows for highest profitable production.

With this program and wise use of sound farm practices we can more than double our income from milk in Rockcastle County. You can be glad any time to help you in any way to reach their goal.

What Happens To Your Milk?

Editor's Note—Last week we published an article on buying or procurement of milk from farmers by dairy manufacturing concerns. This was described as one of the four important stages in the journey between the milking line on the farm and the consumer's table.

The next important stage is manufacturing. Only a fraction of our dairy production ever gets into the bottle; people simply don't want to drink that much milk. But they'll consume the milk if it's converted into some other kind of dairy product. There's where the manufacturer plays an important role.

From there on, both can and bulk milk are handled the same. The milk may go through an evaporator to a dryer, or it may go up through a pasteurizer and directly into vats for manufacture of cheese, either domestic or cottage.

Butter-Making

Cream that has been separated for Butter is cooled and put into a tank. When needed, it is piped into two big cast aluminum churns.

Each churn turns out 2,500 pounds per batch. Each batch takes about two hours, if you include the time for loading up with cream before churning and for cleaning afterward. These churns cost about $10,000 apiece.

Dairy Manufacturing

Processing milk into something that the consumer will buy has become increasingly important over the years. Since 1945, per capita consumption of whole and skimmed milk has dropped about 14 and 22 percent, respectively. On the other hand, more is being consumed as American cheese, cottage cheese, yogurt, dry milk and ice cream.

To start things off, let's run over for a chat with Jimmie Robinson, manager at Armour Creameries in Mt. Vernon. He tells you that the "big changes" in building, churning and separators—just to name a few of the big changes—have been made in the last few years.

From the farm, milk comes to the plant either in cans or in tank trucks. Each can of milk is weighed and sampled for butterfat. And at various times the incoming milk is sampled for bacteria by a methylene blue test and checked for the presence of water. In addition, each can is inspected for any indications of odors or off-flavors.

Sediment tests are taken twice a month on each producer's milk and frequently tests are made for antibiotics. If present, would interfere later with some of the manufacturing processes.

The milk cans go down the track to a point where they are weighed and dumped. The milk then goes into stainless steel holding tanks, built right into the wall. They hold a total of 300,000 gallons for 20 hours of plant operation. Bulk milk, until ready for use, also goes into the holding tanks, being pumped there through hoses from the tank trucks. The milk is then held at 38 degrees.

Cheese Manufacture

The steps in cheese-making are too numerous for detailed discussion but they line up like this: Pasteurize; stand—time for butterfat so as to have more uniform finished product; cool to 86 degrees; add starter; add rennet to coagulate the milk; separate the curds and whey; cook to 100 degrees and drain off the whey; cut into slabs and turn frequently to drain away the water; mill; salt; and put into round hoops for forming.

After overnight pressing, the cheeses are ready for aging. Much of the cheese made at Springfield is aged for 15 to 30 days. There are some variations to meet the requirements of special customers.

Condensed and Spray-Dried Milk

Another major operation is the manufacture of condensed milk into the evaporating room, you are startled by a maze of pipes and tanks that reach 30 feet into the air. There are pressure gauges and other dials instruments all over the place.

The two separators, shiny upright machines, handle 42,000 pounds of milk an hour. The large, tank-like receptacles that reach from nearly floor level to beyond the upper floor are evaporators, which remove moisture from skimmed milk.

In the same room is the spray dryer which converts the condensed milk coming from the evaporating department. This is done by turning the condensed milk through nozzles at 4,000 pounds pressure into a huge chamber where the air temperature is 450 degrees. The atomized milk

DAIRY DAY in Rockcastle several years ago included a farm tour. The above scene is on the farm of John Houston and shows the silos and good attendance. The field day has now been made a separate day from the Dairy Day.

Tests to the floor as a powder!

This spray-dryer turns out 1,200 pounds an hour.

Many Checks On Sanitation

A run of Creameries at Springfield, like many other processors in Kentucky, has five kinds of inspection—all aimed at maintaining high standards of wholesomeness and quality.

To start with, there's the U. S. Department of Agriculture inspection. The USDA inspectors, coming singly or in pairs, drop in without warning and they check practically everything you can name—milk cans for rust, milkstems and open seams, also the floors and walls for cracks or other hard-to-clean imperfections.

State inspectors likewise make unannounced visits to the plant. They usually check on the way the butterfat tests are being run. The inspectors do this by picking a full-cupful of milk samples that have already been run by the plant technician. They then compare their tests against the plant readings.

Every now and then the Federal Food and Drug inspectors come in. Their job differs from that of the USDA or state inspectors in that they often have some problem specifically in mind. For example, they may be looking for traces of a pesticide or herbicide in some of the finished dairy products. Before coming, they may have picked up and tested a sample of hay or feed from a farm and quite likely could lead to their visit to the plant to test dairy products.

When dairy products are sold in the state, they're checked out by another kind of check-up—army inspection. In most respects this is quite similar to the USDA inspection.

On top of all this, there is the regular intra-plant (within the plant) inspection. This kind of inspection is carried on by Armour Creameries personnel.

At times, inspection at the plant may be annoying, just as it may be on the farm. However, it is important in this age of increasingly stiffer quality standards and higher-quality products. We have to hold our own dairy products to hold our markets in the face of competitive foods. That concerns the producer as much as it does the consumer.

MILK

Milk can be homogenized, pasteurized and fortified with vitamin D.

Homogenized whole milk which has been processed mechanically to break up the milk fat globules into smaller particles. This disperses them throughout the milk so the cream does not rise to the top. Each serving is of uniform composition.

and draining. The curd is then pressed in de-aired forms and ripened under controlled temperature conditions. Some favorite American types of natural cheese are Cheddar, Blue, Swiss, Brick, Cream, Gouda and Provologne. Cottage cheese is a soft, mild-flavored, unacid cheese made from cream.

Cottage cheese is the drained, washed, salted curd of skim milk. It is available in two varieties: creamed or dry.

BUTTER

Salted Butter... made from pasteurized cream with 1 to 2% salt added at churning time.

Unsalted Butter... made from pasteurized cream. May have culture or culture flavor added.

U. S. D. A. Grade... Grade Labeling is now carried by approximately 500 brands of butter for consumer guidance.

U. S. Grade AA—Pine pleasing aroma with a delicate sweet flavor, made from sweet cream.

U. S. Grade A—Sweet, clean flavor but slightly less than the AA grade in delicacy of flavor.

U. S. Grade B—Acceptable flavor, usually more than the AA grade in cream and lacking the fresh flavor of the above grades.

ICE CREAM

Ice Cream contains a minimum of 10 percent milk fat in plain ice cream and 20 percent total milk solids. It is made from milk and cream products with sweetening and flavorings added. The amount of air whipped into ice cream is controlled by government standards.

The Story of Milk

By H. Lee Durham, County Agent. Credit for most of this information goes to the American Dairy Association.

The story of milk goes back to the beginnings of civilization itself. Pre-historic drawings, unearthed in the Sahara Desert and dating back 8,000 years or more, feature picture-stories of cattle. A 5,000-year-old mosaic frieze, found in an ancient temple at Ur, near Babylon, depicts a dairy scene showing milk containers and strainers.

Even mankind's earliest known writings, in now-extinct Sanskrit, mention milk as one of the most essential of all foods. In fact, the word "milk" is derived from the Sanskrit word "mṛpati," which was used to describe the action of milking an animal.

Down through the years, milk has continued to be a food of primary importance in the diet. The Bible makes many references to milk and even describes the promised land as one for "milk and honey." Writings from the early Egyptian, Greek, and Roman civilizations also describe the importance of milk. And Marco Polo noted that the Tartars owed much of their strength and endurance to milk.

The history of dairying in America is older than the history of the United States as a nation. The first dairy cows came to Jamestown in 1611 and helped bring an end to a terrifying period of starvation. Other cattle had been brought into this country by Spanish explorers.

As the pioneers moved westward opening up the country, nearly every covered wagon was accompanied by a cow, the family's "food factory" on the move.

Nowadays, the milk industry is as modern and highly technical as any other American industry. Sleek dairy herds barely resemble the pioneers' cattle and are, in fact, much more productive and more scientifically cared for than the herds of only a few decades ago.

Great changes, too, have taken place in processing and distributing the product itself. Milk today is pasteurized, often homogenized, often fortified with Vitamin D, sealed in sanitary containers and, in general, improved beyond the fondest dreams of the earliest American dairy farmers. It is a food which provides about 30 per cent of our daily nutritional needs for only 15 to 20 per cent of our food dollar.

Great changes, too, have taken place in the dairy industry in Rockcastle County. When Rockcastle County was established in 1810, there were 4,064 cattle in the county. This figure included beef cattle as well as dairy cattle. At the present time, there is an estimated 11,000 dairy animals in the county with an estimated income of $900,000 from dairying according to the latest census.

Some people in the county believe that dairying will surpass income from tobacco in the near future if it hasn't done so already. So you see dairying has grown a great deal over the years in Rockcastle County and is one of our most important farm enterprises. Let's give the dairy industry our support.

Dairy Industry Second Only To Tobacco Income

The dairy industry continues to do a good job in Rockcastle County. It contributes to the economy of the county next to tobacco, as well as supplies the most wholesome food that can be obtained.

Dairying to a great extent, is also responsible for our beautiful green pastures that were once bare and in briars and bushes.

Dairymen have gone a long way in improving dairy herds by better selection, better care and artificial breeding.

clean and free from off flavors that we might have a product consumers will like and want to use.

I think the businessmen in the county are going all out to promote June dairy month and for this we are very grateful. I hope we, as farmers, will show our appreciation by our presence in Mt. Vernon on June 26th.

Special City Council Meeting Called To Alter Commercial Water Rate

At a called meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council, Tuesday, the councilmen made a change in the breaking point of the decreased rate for a greater amount of water.

The new ordinance will read: For water delivered in addition to the first 2,000 gallons per month, there shall be charged the following additional charges: After the first 2,000 gallons per month for the next 8,000 gallons .35 per 1,000 gallons or part thereof; for the next 40,000 gallons .45 per 1,000 gallons or part thereof; for the next 50,000 gallons .55 per 1,000 gallons or part thereof; all over 100,000 gallons .45 per 1,000 gallons or part thereof.

Councilman Lance Dillingham said, "It looks like there is the good ol' boys on commercial water users."

Councilman Floyd Owens said the rate should be raised in proportion for the same otherwise there will be discrimination against the minimum.

"My water rate has increased $8 to $10 since the rate changed," said Councilman James Fugazzi in opposition to a laundromat. He expressed an opinion that commercial users should have the 55c per 1,000 gallons after the first 100,000 gallons.

City Water superintendent Jack Craig, said he felt that the city could not process and pump water at 55c per 1,000 gallons without losing money. A rate that the city could operate on and make a reasonable profit would be difficult to determine, he said.

Perhaps it would require a cost analyst. Their rates are extremely high but might prove worth the cost. The only alternative would be to operate at a certain rate for a while and see whether you were making a profit or losing money.

Drug Store Contest Sponsors Trip To Fair

Local drug store proprietor Gordon Graham of Maggard's Rexall Drug Store at Mt. Vernon, announced today that a leading vitamin-mineral product has been selected by the Olympic Committee for use by the U. S. Olympic Team.

Mr. Graham stated that super-plenamins, America's largest selling vitamin-mineral product, will be made available to the U. S. Olympic Team during their training period and while actually competing in Tokyo this fall. They are sold only in Rexall drug stores, and Mr. Graham is particularly pleased, as this product has long been a favorite of his customers.

"To add excitement to the news, Maggard's will feature a major sweepstakes this summer which anyone can enter. A 21-day trip for two to the Olympic Games will be the grand prize. The winners will fly to the Orient via TWA star stream jet and connecting airlines. The prize includes accommodations, meals, luggage, a camera outfit and spending money... plus the opportunity to win a 1964 Rambler automobile. He added that no purchase is necessary to win any of the more than 2,000 prizes awarded.

"To me, this selection by the Olympic Committee is the ultimate honor that can be given a product. I'm proud to say that super-plenamins will be available on training tables for the hundreds of American taking part in the '64 Games." So stated Mr. Graham as he invited one and all to enter his or her name for the free trip to Tokyo and the Olympic Games.

Bids Being Accepted On County Roads

Sealed bids will be received by the Department of Highways at Frankfort until 10 a. m. Eastern Standard time July 10, 1964, according to an announcement from Henry Ward, Highways Commissioner.

Bids will then be publicly opened and read for the improvement of the Sand Springs road, from 2.5 miles south of S. C. L. of Mt. Vernon extending southerly, a distance of 2,100 miles.

Also included will be the Mareburg-Wald road from Ky. 1280 extending southerly, 2,200 miles.

The Wald-Jones Creek road from Ky. 481 at Wald extending westerly, 0,350 miles is one of the projects. Bituminous surface will be used on all three projects.

Lee Roy Mason, 32, Livingston was jailed at Mt. Vernon Tuesday on a charge of violating his parole in Ohio where he was convicted for a break-in.

Mason was apprehended as he left the residence of Richard Overbay at Livingston, Tuesday. He was wearing new shoes, socks, new shirt, new pants and new hat, all reported from Poynter's.

He offered no resistance when State Trooper Johnny Sims, Deputies Wayne VanHook and "Tip" Reppert and Livingston Policeman Eugene Fields met him.

CAP Giving Scooter On Dairy Day

A bright red, new motor scooter will be given away Dairy Day, June 28 at 4 o'clock. For each contribution of $1.00, a ticket will be given on the scooter, valued at $150. Tickets are available from the CAP carry-all on Main Street from now until Dairy Day.

Plans are complete for the dairy day events. The big day will be ushered in at 10 a. m. by performance of the Hootennanny group. They will appear in front of the Bank at Mt. Vernon.

During the day contests will be held, cheese and crackers served and drawings held.

The main attraction is the parade which is to form at the High School at 1 p. m. The parade promises to be bigger and better than ever before.

Sometimes that day about 200 balloons will be released with cards attached which tell the finder to return the card to Armour Creamery at Mt. Vernon and help a boy or girl win a coveted prize.

Mr. John Lair, parade chairman; Rex Cox, parade marshal; Bill Norton and Kenneth Stewart, over-all chairman are keeping an anxious eye to the weather.

Down town temperatures in Mt. Vernon have registered at high at 80 degrees in the past week. The rain Tuesday afternoon brought some relief. Wednesday was somewhat cooler. Thursday is expected to be cool and cloudy and we believe everyone is hoping for a beautiful day for the dairy day events.

The stage program will open with a welcome by Mt. Vernon Mayor Carl Brown and Rockcastle County Judge Charles C. Carter. A local farmer will read a resolution. Miriam Snider, state alternate dairy princess, will make a brief talk. Dairy princess candidates will be introduced. Lake
Clyde Layville reported to the group that the state has approved the construction of a lake at Mount Vernon. Such a project would save the state some $25,000 in the construction of Interstate 75.
For the smaller lake project on Town Branch, a corporation must be formed, land purchased and turned over to the County. A 99 year lease would then be given the Corporation. The smaller lake would cover 68 acres of land and require the purchase of 100 acres. Before the lake will be built the land must be purchased by a corporation. The land could be bought for $300 an acre, then shares could be sold for the $20,000 required to make the purchase and the lake would be assured.
4-H Club Camp
The Lions also voted to furnish transportation for the 4-H club members to camp at Levi Jackson State Park at London.

What do these houses have in common?

Plenty! Although there is 40 years difference in their ages, each has the very finest modern heating system... Electric Heat! Proves a point, doesn't it? Regardless of how old or small a house may be, everybody can enjoy the same comfort and convenience. Electric Heat is an inexpensive system; it actually costs less to install than most of the old-fashion heating systems. The big difference is in safety and comfort. Electric Heat is flameless; as safe as a light bulb. It provides clean, dry heat. Temperature is controlled for each individual room. Remember how uncomfortable you were last winter? And those high heating bills? It's time you installed Electric Heat in your home. Probably costs less than you think!
