an electric clothes dryer stretches family wardrobes

It's winter again, and every mother knows what that means. Rain and snow. Kids coming in from play dripping wet and wanting to go right back out again. The solution? It used to be a second snow-suit. But no more.

Now a modern flameless electric dryer will make that soggy suit fluffy dry in less time than it takes Johnny to eat a peanut-butter sandwich. And that's only part of the story: the fact is told every washer. Out of your electric dryer come the cleanest... freshest... fluffiest clothes you ever held against your face. See your dealer soon. Plenty Of Christmas At Renfro Kids Party

They were there from Lenoex. They were there from Squibb. They were there from Oum Sulphur.

They were there from Boone, and Climax, and Burr, and Mt. Vernon, Livingston, and Brodhead.

Everywhere you looked in the Renfro Valley Barn Sunday morning there was a little tyke. They were "packed to the rafters" in what could be termed in theatrical language, the biggest and best Renfro Valley Mountain Children's Christmas Party.

There were others there: Renfro Valley personal and performers, Rockcastle County Chamber of Commerce members, members of the press, and tourists.

John of course, was Santa Claus in the person of Paul Griffin, welcoming each youngster and giving him or her a gift according to age. And as usual, there was John Lutz at the microphone.

As noted, all these are the usual sights and sounds of John Lutz's party for the county's underprivileged children. And they were, also, as usual, underprivileged—least some of them.

Many were ragged. Some were dirty. Some were shivering in the cold with sandals and no socks. Some had runny noses, some coughed, some cried.

And there was a few of the donors there—Paul Griffin, representative of the Caravan Club of Michigan.

Everyone there, in this Christmas season, took part in the annual rehearsal for Christmas in the big barn.

Money Could Get Scarce, Davis Reports

There is less money than expected, and money will be harder to get.

This was the gist of a discussion of the Appalachian Program in Kentucky by the program's director, Bill Davis, at a meeting of the Cumberland Valley Area Development Council Thursday night at Barbourville.

Mr. Davis joined with John Whisman, assistant to Gov. Edward Breathitt, to talk about the program. Rockcastle County is part of the Cumberland Valley Area Council.

The director reported that he is uncertain just how much money will be available from now on and for what projects, but said he would most probably be applied for will still receive money and be the first to receive money.

He said it was possible that the escalation of the war in Vietnam could affect the amount of money available for the Appalachian program in the future.

Wool Payments Up For 1968

As in previous years, shorn wool payments will be equal to a percentage of each producer's cash returns from sales.

Incentive price for shorn wool for the 1968 marketing year will be 85 cents a pound, up three cents a pound from the present level.

That's the report this week from the Kentucky Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), says the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service.

As in previous years, shorn wool payments will be equal to a percentage of each producer's cash returns from sales. The percentage will be that required to raise the national average price received by all producers for shorn wool up to the announced 85-cent-a-pound incentive price.

The ASCS said the support price for wool for 1968 is fixed by a formula in the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965. This legislation amended the National Wool Act of 1964 and extended the wool (and mohair) payment program through 1969.

Under the new incentive-price formula, the present support price of 85 cents is multiplied by the ratio of the average parity index (index of prices paid to farmers) for the most recent three years to the average parity index for 1966, 1967, and 1968.

GRANDPA WENT FISHING

yet others were busy spreading table cloths on a long ledge of rocks near by. Finally dinner was announced; then it was that we gave our silent "praise the Lord" and a sigh for Auntie and the babies. Corn bread and biscuits by the basket; cookies by the dozen; pies and cranberry, mince, relishes, mulling ham, fish and clogs, world without end, with coffee all along the line. We (being company) were given a place at one end of the spread, near a skillet of fish and frogs, where no one dared "molest" or make us afraid.

Oh, well, you may guess the result. Suffice to say the "Daniel Tucker" after supper wasn't a circumstantial. The feast over and the 12 baskets full of fragments gathered up, all hands went merrily to the stream again, where until 4:50 p. m., the busy tribe was heavily drawn upon, as also were the bull-frogs. Of course all who have and methodical taste know that frog hams are some of the delicacies of the season.

Finally the parting hour came and good-byes were said, many of us feeling that perhaps never again would we be permitted to meet on "molest" or make us afraid.

Just here let me remark for the benefit of some of our Standard bearers and belles that if you want to catch fish, you must fish for fish, unless perchance it be that some are like one young lady in the crowd, who was heard to say in an undertone just loud enough to be heard above the overpour at the mill dam, "I believe I had rather angle my cash (Cash) than all the fish in Roundstone."

Capt. Jim Moore was the crack rifle shot of the frog brigade, while Col. Allen Hays was commander of the fishing department. Me.

meeting that they should not be discouraged, but should continue to work on their projects.

He also told the group that it was still undecided in Washington under which agency water and sewer projects will be placed.

Both Davis and Whisman said after the meeting that the Remro Valley and Woods Creek projects are at the head of the list in Washington, and will come under money already appropriated by Congress.

Letter To Editor

To the Editor:
 A dangerous and annoying situation exists at the intersection of Richmond and Main Streets in Mt. Vernon. Whose suggestion removing the stop sign and replacing it with an all too obscure warning should have to do and wait (preferably on the railroad tracks on West Main) and await their turn to dodge into or through the gap in the ever increasing traffic from North Of The Border—hoping not to be met with a transfer truck plummeting down the north bound lane.

We must urge a re-orientation of a stop sign installation of a stop sign at J. D. Lewis, M. D. Mt. Vernon
