Meeting the Challenge with today's National Guard

What challenge? The challenge of protecting the peace! Army National Guardsmen in every State—not only in the Continental U.S., but in Alaska, Hawaii and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico—are part of the first-team effort.

Army Guardsmen train to be ready for rapid deployment because quick response, as we have learned, can spell the difference between success and failure where a country's national security is at stake. This year many Army Guard battalions and combat brigades will be airlifted thousands of miles from their normal field training areas in connection with Army-Air Force mobility training activities. And that's just part of the story.

One way the Guard doesn't change from year to year or even from generation to generation is in its responsibility to the community. The Guard is always on call to help out when local emergencies and disasters strike.

Make no mistake. He's meeting the challenge when he's in the Guard, not behind the scenes in "peacetime" or town.

UNITED STATES SAVINGS BONDS

25 YEARS OF
Star-Spangled Security
 FOR AMERICANS
 1941-1966

- ★ Twenty-five years ago on May 1, 1941, the U.S. Treasury issued the first Series E Savings Bond to Franklin D. Roosevelt.
- ★ That purchase, in the words of Lyndon Johnson, "set into motion the greatest thrift program the world has ever known."
- ★ Since 1941 Americans have bought more than $150,000,000,000 worth of Series E and H Savings Bonds.
- ★ From these savings have come new homes, college

- education, dream vacations, paid-up hospital bills, more satisfying retirements.
- ★ Americans still own almost $50 billion in Savings Bonds. $50 billion worth of personal security. Security from want. From fear. From loss of independence.
- ★ And security from loss of freedom in a troubled world.
- ★ Join the greatest thrift program in the world. For your future and your family's future. And your country's future.

GRILL OF MY DREAMS

Planning a cook-out? The mouth watering prospect of sizzling brown meat grilling slowly over an open fire can lure anyone into becoming an outdoor chef - as well as an outdoor eater. Beware of the pitfalls, however, that lie on the road to perfect barbecues. Here are some ways you can avoid the most common barbecue beefs.

1. Generally, smoke won't get in your eyes if you know what you're doing. If the barbecue equipment is movable, orient it so that smoke will blow away from both chef and guests. If it isn't movable, arrange tables, chairs and cooking paraphernalia on the windward side of the fire - and hope for a cooperative, one-way wind.

Start the fire an hour before you're ready to cook. It takes that long to lay a glowing bed of coals and eliminate most of the smoke. 2. It's no raw deal. Meat that's underdone, overdone or both can put a damper on your cookout. Be sure to make allowances for high humidity and cool air - both slow cooking. You can tell what kind of temperature you're dealing with by this rule of thumb: Hold your hand at cooking level and briskly count - "One-thousand, two-thousand, etc." If you get up to "five-thousand" before the heat forces your hand away, the fire's not ready.

3. "Smart" grills make the biggest hit. If several seasons of wear and tear show on your grill, don't fret; all may not be lost. A special new spray paint made by Plasti-Kote, Inc., withstands temperatures of more than 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit and can "smarten" up a tired grill again. Made with Allied Chemical's Genetron propellents, the unusual spray paint is used for coating boilers, manifolds, hot-

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length sheath gown of re-embroidered Alencon lace and crepe. The empire bodice of lace was fashioned with a scalloped neckline coming to a V in back and Kabuki sleeves. Enhancing the back was a detachable chapel train accented by appliqued Alencon lace motifs.

in back flowing from an empire waistline to floor. An olive green open crown attached to a filtration veil was worn as a headpiece. She carried a cascade of white pompons and ivy tied with olive green ribbons.

The bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Rhoney, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Linda Shull both of Hickory. They were attired in gowns identical to the Maid of Honor.

HOW TO TRAVEL IN FINE FASHION

For millions of Americans who are pondering the question "Where shall we spend our vacation this year?", one of the best answers is right under their very noses - in the U. S. A.

Traveling through the U.S. has become so "in" this year that one sports-wear manufacturer, Evan Picone, has designed a whole travel wardrobe for women who wish to enjoy more of America.

These fashions, made in fabrics with Eastman Kodak polyester, are designed to give the maximum performance with a minimum of care.

A trip to New York offers world-famous museums, theaters, concerts, the United Nations and historic landmarks such as the Statue of Liberty.

In Washington, D. C., the sight-seeing possibilities are endless. You may wish to see Congress in action, tour the National Gallery of Art or the Smithsonian Institution, or take a side trip to Mount Vernon via Washington's famed Potomac River.

Westward Ho, to the breathtaking Grand Canyon - a justly famous sight. For a little glamour, you might finish off your trip with a visit to Los Angeles, where you can tour the studios where both movies and some of your favorite TV films are produced.

Whatever your itinerary, with handsomely tailored versatile spectator and active sportswear fashions made with easy-care Kodak polyester, you're sure to look impeccably groomed at all times.

BASKETBALL QUEEN - Arlene Bales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bales of Livingston, was elected grade school basketball queen for 1966 and was crowned at the grade school basketball banquet Tuesday night at Livingston School. Albert Leach, captain of the grade school team, crowned the queen. At left, in last year's queen gown, the new queen is an eighth grader.

YOUR GARDEN - A GOLDMINE?

Mr. Burpee and Margolds. The story of the girl who spun straw into gold is only a fairy tale-but turning seeds into cash can be a reality if you have a "white thumb" when it comes to growing marigolds. Ten thousand dollars is being offered by the W. Atlee Burpee Co., Philadelphia, Pa., to the first person who sends them seed that will produce a pure white marigold, 2 1/2 inches or more across.

More than 4,000 people from all over the world have made the attempt. David Burpee, head of the 90-year-old seed house, began the search in 1955. "We're really made progress since then," he said. "People are coming closer every year and I wouldn't be at all surprised to find myself signing that $10,000 check pretty soon."
OUR HOSPITALS
 In hospital rooms and corridors, where keeping the bacteria count at a minimum is of vital importance, many designers are favoring floors of terrazzo, which has a smooth, jointless surface that cleans easily, and is therefore sanitary and aseptic.
