gown of ivory velvet. The long sleeves were accented by a two-tiered flared ruffe of Venice lace at the cuff and hem of the skirt. A satin band defined the Empire waist and formed a bow over the satin train. Her cathedral length veil was attached to a pearl encrusted Juliet cap of Alencon lace and a satin bow. She carried a French colonial bouquet of white pomegranates, carnations, stephanotis and lilies of the valley showered with white satin streamers.

Dorothy Backus of Arlington, Va., was Maid of Honor. Bridesmaids were Joan Kiaz and Gloria Keeney of Arlington, Va., Carol Beal of Republic, sister of the bride, and Debra Davis of Republic. The bride's cousin Tim were attired in gowns of apple green with ivory lace, identical to that of the bride. They wore ivory satin bows with apple green veils and carried French colonial bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums with apple green streamers.

Dan Mire of Detroit, Mich., served as best man. Ushers were Vincent Della Mae of Republic, Alan and David Ragan of Mt. Pleasant, Pennsylvania, cousins of the bride, and Lonald Sammons of Arlington, Va. The selections of Mrs. Saza Marany, organist, included "All ways," "Whither Thou Goest," and "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Judy Bucar, soloist, sang "Oh, Promise Me" and "Because."

Following the ceremony, a reception for 150 guests was held in the social room of the church. The couple left immediately for a honeymoon in New Jersey. The bride graduated from Redstone Two High School and is employed by the Department of the Air Force, Pentagon, Washington, D.C. The groom, a 1964 graduate of Lafayette High School, attended the University of Southwestern Louisiana and is now serving with the U.S. Naval Security Group headquartered at Arlington, Va.

"We can dial comfort range temperatures all year round in our electrically weather-conditioned home"

SAY MR. AND MRS. CHARLES BRANTLEY OF MARION

What a difference when you have an electric heat pump! says Mr. Brantley. "Come winter or summer, we set the temperature we want in our home, any time, and there it stays Warm or cool, it's just perfect — and all taken care of automatically from one season to another. "Makes a big difference in my house-keeping, too," adds Mrs. Brantley. "Every- thing stays so much cleaner — especially in winter, because we use electricity instead of sooty fuel." Ask our local office about weather-conditioning, your present home or one you may build — with a modern electric heat pump. Electric living is the way of today!

Celebrating Our 10th ANNIVERSARY

Growing With Rockcastle

As Rockcastle County grows, so grows ANDERKIN AND MARTIN Bulldozing Company. We are indeed proud of our community's development as we are proud, too, of our company's growth and expansion. Through the years, Rockcastle County business people and farmers have looked to ANDERKIN AND MARTIN for the best in bulldozing work. We've seen our company grow and our facilities expand. For this acceptance and loyalty, which has permitted our progress, we say "thank you".... and we pledge ourselves to continue to bring you the best work possible in the years ahead.

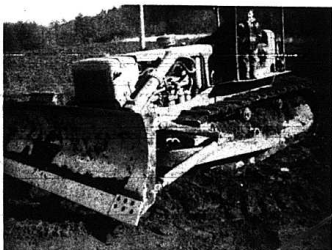

Elmo Anderkin - co-owner and manager - is very proud to have good, experienced operators that he can depend on to see that the job is well done. Call him day or night. If no answer, call the Mt. Vernon Signal during the day and they will see that we get the message.

Anderkin & Martin

This International tractor with tandem low-boy trailer is especially equipped to haul a heavy bulldozer anywhere in Rockcastle County. If you need bulldozer work done, just call ANDERKIN and MARTIN. "Have Truck, Will Travel."

THREE LATE MODEL CATERPILLAR TRACTORS TO SERVE THE FARMERS, BUILDERS and CONTRACTORS

This late model D-6 Catipilar tractor with special built cab to give the operator more protection while clearing land, has proven to be a No. 1 tractor in working steep hill-sides or pond slopes.

Another D-6 tractor with hydraulic angle blade is just the right size dozer for farm ponds, waterways, roads, and any other type of work that you need a dozer on.

This D-6 B Catipilar tractor with improved hydraulic fast drop blade to speed up work while clearing land or grade work, has proven a good work horse for any type bulldozer work that comes along.

Guy Martin - co-owner and operator - has proven his ability to operate a dozer through the hundreds of satisfied customers in Rockcastle and surrounding counties. If you need a dozer, call Guy. "You'll be glad you did."

Monroe Hansel has done construction work ever since he was big enough to get a job, and is called a real Digger when it comes to operating a bulldozer. "If you want to see a real Digger Dig, get Monroe to do the job."

James Neal started running a dozer while in the service in 1942 and has continued at this same job ever since. He is now called an operator, and is well-known in Lincoln County for his good work on farm ponds and waterways. Customers in the Negro Creek area see James.

WORK Mch. 21-28-32

There is much work to be done in the vineyard of the Lord today. The harvest is ripe; the laborers are few; the need is great.

The Father calls his sons (children) and sends them into his field. The field is the world, (Matt. 13:24) and the harvest is the souls of people. The laborers are to go after the souls.

Some are like the first son, they are slow to get started; but after considering the need, they go. Some are like the second son; they make big promises then do not do them. I wonder what the father said at the end of the day.

There will be a reckoning some day at the end of the work, (Matt. 25:19, Rev. 22:12). We are oh going to stand before the Lord at the end of our life and give an account unto him for how we have labored in his vineyard, (1 Cor. 3:13-14). And what will my record be?

ate a flattering panel effect; a hip-riding tie belt is just the right accent note.

From Jacques Tiffaut, known for marvellously wearable young styles, comes a slim sleeveless dress that could go on almost forever.

Against its sleek, pared-down shape, every detail shows up: the V-neck with concealed zipper closing, the jaunty high patch pockets, the back belt. In plaids or Tater-sall checks, it's sporty; in a clear pastel fabric, it could take you wining and dining.

The Tiffaut dress is pattern #8565 from the New York Designer's Collection Plus 1, available wherever McCall's Patterns are sold.

Endlessly versatile is Londoner Digby Morton's dress and jacket costume, a masterpiece of understated British tailoring. The gently cut away jacket of pattern #8460 has curved front seaming; curved seams also shape the matching A-line dress. Good show, Digby!

With such a wealth of high fashion at your fingertips, who needs money?

National FFA Week is scheduled in February at the University of Washington, who was not only a great leader, but was also an outstanding farmer.

No matter what her bank-roll, every woman needs at least one dress that makes her look and feel like a goddess.

Any number can do it, if it was designed by an "in" stylist: say, Donald Brooks, or Jacques Tiffaut. Many such blue-clip fashion names are featured in the New York Designer's Collection Plus 1 of high fashion patterns. That "rich girl" look is as accessible to you as your nearest pattern counter.

Donald Brooks, who has especially designed for the theater as well as for the large audience of smart women, is the man to put drama in your clothes. This he does with Pattern #8540, a simple little shift that makes big fashion point of long cuffed sleeves flowing gracefully from a yoke. The bateau neckline and the front cut skirt are closed by demure rows of buttons—more drama. In a crepe or challis fabric, this dress could well be the life of the next party you attend.

Geoffrey Beene, twice winner of the coveted City American Fashion Critics Award, contributes another dream of a party dress. The sleeveless, long-waisted top skirts the body lightly; the dancy, deep-plated skirt flares out below a ribbon tie belt. Devastating to the audience of understated British #8408 also works well in colorful jerseys or silks.

In a different mood is Bireme's daytime skimmer, #2004 (not shown) artfully constructed along vertical lines that slim the wearer with the greatest of ease. Front seams and pleats join to create

An Editorial

(Reprinted from the Citizen-Advertiser of Paris, Ky.)

Tobacco is a funny business. Not funny ha-ha. Funny un-usual. It's a business that is unique in today's complex economy. It absolutely depends for its very life on the benign provision of a friendly Congress. Without a government price support, coupled with voluntary production controls by the farmer himself, that golden burley we prize so highly wouldn't be worth pulling off the stalk. The prices you'd get at the warehouses just wouldn't justify all the work and the expense.

So it is that for some 26 years now, Congress has extended a helping hand to the burley growers, aiding them to maintain a decent price by providing them with what we have learned to call "the tobacco program." It's a kind of two-way agreement whereby Congress keeps the price up if the tobacco farmer, in return, will keep his production down -- that is, in line with demand.

This worked real well for a long time. But several years ago, trouble -- with a capital T -- started popping up in the tobacco business. First of all, the grower started getting too skillful for his own good. The old acreage allotment plan, set up to control production, was not working any longer because the grower had learned how to produce more and more tobacco on any given acreage.

The result: skyrocketing overproduction. Too much supply for not enough demand. The price support program began to get out of balance. And to make matters even worse, a lot of people started raising serious questions about the propriety of Congress giving financial support to a product which is increasingly under attack from many quarters.

Every tobacco grower will this month to vote either for or against acreage-poundage. If he votes no, most of the experts are agreed the tobacco program--all of it--will go down the drain in about a year. If he votes yes, he can give a strong shot in the arm to what is already an ailing industry. The choice is his.

If a registered voter is going to be away from his county on primary day, he may vote by absentee ballot. To get this absentee ballot, he must make notarized application to his county clerk not later than May 4. The voter's ballot, also notarized, must be returned to the same county clerk so that he will receive it before the polls close at 6 p.m. on primary day.

A first-year member of the Future Farmers of America is called a "Green Hand."

Babson's Authentic Report

By: Roger W. Babson of Babson Park, Mass.

THE MOBILE HOMES EXPLOSION

Expositions displaying the latest in mobile homes and recreational vehicles of all types have been popping up all over the country. And never before has the general public shown such an interest in this specialized form of transportation. Well over a million families now depend on such vehicles, sometimes just for week ends and vacations, sometimes for full-time portable homes.

WANDER-BUG IS BITING HARD

The trend toward more mobility in living has long been on the increase, but in the past few years the epidemic of the wander-bug has been spreading more rapidly. The big switch is in full swing from the simple convenience of auto travel to the more complicated comforts of trailers, tent-camping units, pick-up coach campers, and mobile homes. So far, trailers are still the most popular, since the auto can be un hitched and used separately. But motorized homes, with the compact conveniences of a small dwelling, are gaining steadily.

MORE INNOVATIONS IN MOBILE HOMES

Both trailers and self-contained motorized homes are now building in a great many features that were once optional, -- and extra. People who formerly would prefer generally, to have them already installed when they buy the vehicle instead of having to go through a dickered deal. More firms are including lavatories, pressure pumps, hot water heaters, carpeting, thermostats, complete insulation, -- and some, even bathtubs. Also, developments permitting more room for luxury equipment and storage.

Prices are not exorbitant, everything considered. Some mobile homes on truck chassis are being offered for prices somewhat less than $4,000. The average cost of this kind of transport-home now, after many years ago was $12,000. At present, there is evolving a demand that allows greater production, a situation which has always led to more reasonable prices. Even with labor and materials costs at very high levels, stepped-up output can be expected to reduce retail prices. For mobile homes, -- at least keep them at attractive levels. This will certainly add to the growing popular desire for "a home on wheels."

Sales of recreational vehicles during 1966 smashed all previous records, moving ahead almost 50,000 over 1965 to reach a grand total of more than 314,500 units. There is every reason to expect continuing advances over the years immediately ahead. Better highways, rising incomes, desire to see new parts of the country, increasing availability of suitable camping facilities, and the economical aspects of such modes of travel, all mean more interest in portable homes.

COUNTRYSIDE ADAPTING TO THESE VEHICLES

The trailer rash brought quick emergence of overnight and longer-term parks and camping sites equipped with water, electricity, and other necessities. Many were privately operated, established to capitalize on the swelling migration of trailers. Recently, arrangements for re-

RENOVATING GRASS
FIELDS

Keeping legumes in a grass-legume mixture is a major grassland problem in Kentucky. Grassland renovation is rapidly becoming an established practice among many Kentucky farmers. Why? It is much cheaper to convert a "part-time" grass field into a grass and legume crop than to make a "new" seeding. The cost range is $14 to $20 per acre for renovation and $20 to $55 per acre for a new seeding.

Production increases are quicker with renovation than with new seedings. When renovating, you can expect to get increases of 50% plus in production the year of renovation over normal past year production. With new seedings, little production is expected and attained the first year.

The proven techniques have been applied under farm conditions with remarkable success. The key factors are:

- (A) Grass heavy grass growth in late fall and early winter by large numbers of animals. This allows penetration of disk harrow, field tiller or field cultivator. It also reduces grass vigor so that tillage is made easier.
- (B) Test soil and apply needed lime, phosphate and potash prior to tillage. No nitrogen is needed. Nitrogen stimulates the established grass and discourages the legumes from becoming competitive in early stages of growth.
- (C) Fill the sod so that 40% to 60% of the soil is exposed to receive the legume seed. Because of weather conditions (excessive rainfall) in early spring months, it is most desirable that this tillage be done in late fall and early winter. In this case, leave the ground rough and on hill land, contour tillage.

(D) In mid-February to mid-March, smooth the seedbed and seed the legumes. Clover and the seedling rates are as follows:

1. White clover.....1/2 - 2 lb.
2. Red Clover.....7 - 9 lb.
3. Alfalfa.....12 - 15 lb.
4. White clover.....1 - 2 lb.
- and Red clover.....1 - 2 lb.
5. A. Alfalfa.....8 - 10-lb. and Ladino white clover..1/2 - 1 lb.

FHA NEWS

By: Genevieve Neal
Brodhead FHA Reporter

The Kentucky Future Homemakers of America Chapters are attempting to raise funds to aid eighteen outstanding FHA members to seek further education in the field of Home Economics in Kentucky colleges.

The scholarships will be for $300 each. To be eligible for a scholarship, an FHA member must: (1) Plan to study Home Economics in a Kentucky college or university with a four-year Home Economics curriculum. (2) Be an active member in FHA.

(3) Have a "B" average in all subjects. (4) Hold a State Homemaker Degree. (5) Be well-groomed, have positive, high moral standards, good manners, and be attractive.

February 16 has been set as Kentucky FHA Scholarship Day, and over 16,000 chapter members throughout the state will be working toward their goal of 18 scholarships. Chapters helping to reach this goal are also helping themselves become State Honor Roll Chapters.

The members of the Brodhead Chapter of Future Homemakers of America will be carrying out activities which will contribute toward these scholarships. Some of the activities include: election of FHA Sweetheart; no gripie Jays, and election of teacher of the year. Contributions to this cause will also help us reach our goal which is to be an Honor Roll Chapter for the year 1966-67. This achievement was attained last year, an accomplishment of which we were very proud.

SAVE YOUR POPLAR TREES

Your small six to ten inch Poplar trees will grow one inch per year in good soil. In just five years a nine inch Poplar pole will be a fourteen inch log. A nine inch log 12 feet long has a 18 foot log measure. This same tree five years later will measure 75 feet. A small tree containing three 9 inch logs at todays pulpwood prices will bring you $192. This same tree will bring you $1800 in just five years. Take an acre of young Poplars which normally will have a hundred trees. Cut them into pulpwood today and you will receive $19200. Let these young Poplars grow five years and they will bring you $180000. We recommend that you cut your fourteen inch and up Poplars and let the small trees make you money at the rate of over 300% interest each five years. We need good logs now and suggest that you cut your larger trees which are mature, this enables small trees to grow faster. We need good Oak, Maple, Blackwood, Ash, as well as Poplar. We do not want low grade logs.

GIVE ANIMALS AN EASY RIDE

Carcass bruises, crippling, and deaths cost livestock producers and the packing industry $38 million annually. This staggering figure covers the losses that occur as slaughter animals are loaded and sent to market.

Bruised and damaged carcasses are traced to rough handling of animals during loading and transit. An overloaded truck, plus a careless roughdriver, is a costly combination; animals get down and may be trampled.

You don't help yourself or the meat industry when you use sticks or sharp rods to force animals into trucks. It costs less to install a well designed loading chute with gates that can be used to move animals up loading ramps than to use clubs and sticks. Livestock Conservation, Inc., reports, "Half of all bruises in cattle carcasses are in the hip and loin regions. Only about one-third of bruise losses are on the forequarters." Most of the high-priced retail cuts of beef are from the loin and hips of cattle.

Nearly two-thirds of all bruises in hog carcasses are on hams. But many occur on shoulders, another valuable pork cut.

It's you, Mr. Producer, who really pays for most of the bruise damage. Packers know that bruises lower carcass value of most loads of cattle they buy. It's only natural that they buy cattle low enough to cover these losses.

Generally, death losses caused in transit are covered by insurance if animals are moved by common carriers. But here again, the industry loses the difference between the value of a carcass at the retail meat counter and at the rendering plant.

Here's how you can put more livestock dollars in your pocket and help save the livestock and meat industry $38 million annually.

1. Do not rush animals during loading or unloading. Most bruises occur when animals bump each other or run into objects in pens or chutes.
2. Use canvas slappers instead of sticks when driving or loading cattle.
3. Use hurdles to drive and load hogs. Never punch hogs in the rear with sharp sticks.
4. Repair broken boards in fences and chutes before moving animals in for shipment.
5. Remove or drive in all nails that have worked loose in fences and panels.
6. Don't overload your truck. Crowding increases chances of bruising.
7. Bed trucks with 3 to 4 inches of sand, sawdust, or chopped straw. Sand gives animals the best footing. Use wet sand to bed trucks when hauling hogs during hot summer weather.
8. Don't overfill animals the day or night before loading.
9. Use partitions in trucks and rail cars to separate animals by size and type.
10. If hauling a few animals in a large truck, use panels to pen them in a reasonable area.
11. Arrange for animals to be unloaded for rest, feed, and water when on the road more than 20 to 36 hours.
12. If using your own truck to transport animals to market, avoid starting and stopping suddenly, and take it easy going around corners or sharp curves.
13. When using a commercial trucker, get a reliable driver and deal only with individuals who you know will give your cattle and hogs a safe, easy ride to market.

Library Notes

By: Mrs. Phillip Davis
Rockcastle Co. Librarian

A shipment of new books have just been received from the Department of Libraries in Frankfort. Among them are:

MY APPALACHIA, by Rebecca Caudill. Miss Caudill tells the story of how it was when she grew up, before the mines came, before bitterness and bloodshed began. Poverty is a book word when the poor don't know they are poor. From such details comes a sense of what has died in Appalachia, and what it was to return, years later, to find desolation.

THE DECEIVERS, by Egon Larsen. From time immemorial, man has fallen prey to every type of swindle imaginable and Mr. Larsen's latest book substitutes P. T. Barnum's famous words, "There's a sucker born every minute."

THE GREAT ADVENTURE, by Janet Holt Giles. This is another in Mrs. Giles' excellent pioneer frontier novels. This one is about Joe Fowler, grandson of Hannah Fowler, and a mountain man and fur trapper.

DO GOOD, by William Sayres. From his station in a dusty South American village, a Harvard anthropologist unfolds the story of a Peace Corps project coming of age in the bush. Peter slowly comes of age and does, in fact, do good.

THE JEWEL IN THE CROWN, by Paul Scott. A novel which gives a colorful picture of India before independence. Rarely in modern fiction have there been so many and even bizarre characters being brought to more intense life.

MOM! by David of the Queen, by David Duff. The Queen mother's story, as told in these pages, abounds in humor, charm and dignity, in challenge and personal victory.

SABRES ON THE SAND, by Geoffrey Household. A delightfully cosmopolitan collection of short stories. An English governess, a Spanish spy, a Basque farmer, a Serbian peasant courageously sketched in uncommon situations.

VESSEL OF WRATH, Robert Lewis Taylor. This is the story of a man and his times of Carry Nation. At the turn of the century, this extraordinary human phenomenon was the most discussed woman in the world.

New-books for children which have also just arrived from Frankfort.

FAIR PLAY, by Maura Leaf. The elementary factors in living decently and pleasant.

Many nice gifts were received and refreshments were served.

ly with each other, and the ways of rules, law and government for the common good and happiness are simply stated.

IF YOU LIVED IN COLONIAL TIMES, by Ann McGovern. This informative book gives young readers a vivid picture of life in Colonial New England from 1650 to 1730. The amusing line drawings help children imagine what it was really like to be a boy or girl in Colonial days.

THE LITTLE FOX IN THE MIDDLE, by Pearl Buck. The story of a little boy who lived near the edge of the forest. The little fox and the boy discovered that friendship does not depend on spoken words when they played the magical game of suppose. All they had to do was to think.

Library hours are 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. each day except Thursday from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.
