TEACHER LOANS

Kentucky school teachers may qualify for loans from the State's student loan fund to attend summer school but under less flexible conditions allowed full-time students, says Billy F. Hunt, executive secretary of the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority.

One condition is that teachers who attend only the summer term must begin repayment of the loan at the end of the term rather than after the 10-month period allowed full-time students. Hunt said the loans will still qualify for the usual six per cent interest rate—half of which the student will pay.

He said a maximum loan of $500 will be allowed for summer school which is considered one semester, or one-third of the school year, and the student must carry at least one-half of the normal semester hours.

He noted that teachers may qualify for loans if named as any student for extended study on campus but will be restricted in most instances to their professional field.

SOUTH AFRICA, by John C. Dealing with a situation which he knows from long years of first-hand experience, the author traces the racial strife of apartheid to its origins and predicts the racial future of South Africa.

THE TECHNIQUE OF WEAVING, by John Tovey. For both the beginning and experienced weaver, this illustrated book provides a guide to types of looms and techniques of weaving.

VETERINARY GUIDE FOR FARMERS, by J. W. Stamm. An outline of up-to-date treatment and prevention of farm animal disease, based upon the most recent information available, this book is of value to all farmers.

PROMOTED Boyd E. Eversole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eversole of Route 1, Livingston, has been promoted to Airman First Class in the U.S. Air Force.

Airman Eversole is a vehicle operator at Travis AFB, Calif. He is a member of the Military Airlift Command which provides strategic airlift for deployment of U.S. forces worldwide.

RAY HARM SCHEDULES NATURE WALKS Ray Harm, Kentucky artist and naturalist, will lecture and conduct nature walks on eight State Parks during July and August.

The State Parks Department lists these dates and parks for appearances by Harm: July 10, Cumberland Falls near Corbin; July 11, Pine Mountain at Pineville; July 24, Pennyrile Forest at Dawson Springs; July 25, Kentucky Dam Village at Gilbertsville; July 31, General Butler at Carrollton; Aug. 14, Carter Caves at Olive Hill; Aug. 21, Natural Bridge at Slade; and Aug. 28, Lake Cumberland at Jamestown. Harm's schedule also calls for an appearance July 17 at Breaks Interstate Park near Breaks, Va.

All lectures are slated for 8 p.m. with exact times for nature walks to be

The humble salad, usually thought of as a "go-with" during winter menu planning, really comes into its own now that warm weather's here. What could be more refreshing to drooping appetites than a cool, deliciously light tossing of crisp greens and meat, or an attractive fruit or vegetable mold. Make them hearty, make them dainty... season mildly or zestily, whatever suits your family's taste. But do let salads solve your menu problems often.

The glamorous Ring-Around Chicken Salad shown here, combines two favorite types in one—a molded ring of lime-flavored gelatin, seasoned with dill, and crunchy with cucumber and radishes... and a center mixture of luscious chicken salad. A real work-saver, thanks to the convenience and versatility of canned bonded chicken with broth. Tender, tasty pieces of light and dark meat chicken come ready to mix with chopped cucumber and a sour cream dressing. Heap the chicken in the center of the gelatin ring and add an extra touch of color with a sunny lemon garnish.

WILSON-TURNER VOWS EXCHANGED Diane Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pen F. Wilson of Wilde, and Ronnie Turner of Fabank, were married May 12 at the home of Bro. Orville Casey in Berea.

Mrs. Turner is a 1967 graduate of Mt. Vernon High School. Mr. Turner is presently employed in Richmond. The couple will make their home on Elm Street in Berea.

Those attending the wedding were: Tommy Wilson, June Wilson, Mary Turner, Charlotte Burdette, and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Burdette.

Second Look at Alimony

Divorce ends the marriage. But divorce may not end the fighting, particularly over alimony. All too often the parties return to the court to fight over alimony one or the other seeks to change the amount of the alimony payments.

What rules apply? To start with, a court will not reopen the question all unless there is something really new in the situation. So, suppose a divorce comes in and says: "I'm just not satisfied with the alimony I'm getting. It was set too low at the original hearing."

That alone is not enough grounds for a change. All the arguments of both husband and wife should have been set forth fully at the time of the divorce, when the amount of alimony was first established. The court's time should not be wasted in ploughing the same ground over and over again.

If the court likely to amend the alimony award was because of minor financial difficulties—caused, for instance, by a brief layoff from work or moderate fluctuations in the stock market. Such fluctuations in a person's financial health are so common that they were presumably allowed for in the original decree.

Still, there are some circumstances important enough to justify a modification of alimony. The law recognizes that conditions can change in significant and unforeseen ways after the divorce. Thus:

In one case, the ex-husband suffered a disabling heart attack. In another case, the ex-wife inherited a large sum of money from a relative. Both of these events were held to be a sufficient change of conditions to call for a lowering of alimony payments.

Frank, too, may provide a reason for alimony revision. For example, a husband may have fraudulently concealed his assets at the time of the divorce, thus tricking the court into setting alimony too low.

Should a man's alimony burden be lightened because he has remarried? That many carry some weight with the court, at least if he has new children to support in the second marriage.

Nonetheless, as a rule, his primary duty continues to be to his first wife. As one court put it: "A man may not shift marital obligations assumed in one relationship by contracting others."

Salads Star in Warm Weather Menus

RING-AROUND CHICKEN SALAD
1 package (3 ounces) lime-flavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups water
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon dried all leaves, crushed
1 cup chopped cucumber
1 cup thinly sliced radishes
2 cups (5 ounces each) bonded chicken with broth, cut up
1 tablespoon sour cream
Salt and pepper
Lemon wedges

Prepare gelatin with water, lemon juice, and dill as directed on package. Chill until partially set; fold in 1/2 cup cucumber and radishes. Pour into 8-cup ring mold; chill 4 hours or until firm. Lightly toss chicken, remaining cucumber, sour cream, and seasonings. Serve in center of ring using lemon wedges as garnish. Makes 4 servings.

Walnut
 Walnut timber is a crop, and a valuable one. As such, the mature trees should be harvested in an orderly workmanlike manner to insure that:
 • the smaller trees (the crop of tomorrow) are not damaged, and
 • selective cutting gives trees every opportunity of reaching maturity in the shortest possible time, and
 • a forest management plan be drawn up which would include the planting of seedlings.

FRANKFORT
 The Kentucky Commission on Human Rights has recommended to school districts #4 Kentucky the adoption of "pairing plans" to eliminate segregation in schools.

The recommendation, contained in a Commission report, was made on the basis of a study of six school districts in Glasgow and Paducah and in Hopkins, Nelson, Todd and Trigg counties.

According to the report, pairing plans have proven an effective means of eliminating continuing segregation and are relatively easy to put into operation.

The Commission says a recent court opinions affirms the constitutionality of pairing plans. The Commission says the six school systems reported: students have adjusted well to desegregation; all Negro teachers and administrators were retained in the newly desegregated schools; initiating pairing plans has met no resistance, and existing school buildings were utilized in the plans.

Cromer Wins Tax Commissioner Race; Nunn, Ward, DeMarcus, Bishop, Also Win

Robert Cromer, in his first venture into politics, won the office of Rockcastle County Tax Commissioner by a 323 vote majority. The race was one of the heaviest voted in the primary with a total of 2,451 votes cast.

Harold DeMarcus, incumbent State Representative, won re-election easily with a 592 vote majority in Rockcastle and a 613 majority in Lincoln County. Fred Bishop D Minister was successful in his bid for State Senator from the 19th Senatorial District when he won over former Rockcastle County Judge Charles Carter and Dexter McCowan of London, his closest opponents. Democratic gubernatorial Candidate Henry Ward carried every precinct in Rockcastle County, followed by former Governor A.B. Chandler. Ward defeated Chandler across the state by about 2 to 1.

In the Nunn-Cook Republican race, Cook took a tremendous early lead out of Jefferson County of about 30,000 votes but after results from Nunn strongholds began to filter in the lead slowly faded away. Wednesday afternoon, the associated press said that Nunn was the apparent winner but that Judge Cook had not given up and that Cook would call for a recount in certain counties.

Rockcastle County gave Nunn a 961 vote majority over Cook. However, Nunn's slate was not so fortunate. Pleas-Mobley, candidate for the Lieutenant Governor's nomination, carried Rock-castle over Nunn's running mate, Hazelrigg, by 46 votes. Cook's ticket carried Rockcastle County in several races such as: Begley, Secretary of State; Burns, Attorney General; Jenkins, Treasurer; and Dick Vermillion for Clerk of the Court of appeals.

Money Edd Cummins, Mt. Vernon, Republican candidate for Railroad Commissioner, carried Rockcastle over his seven opponents garnering 454 of the 528 votes cast. Turnout for the primary was heavy with a total of 3,522 people voting out of a possible 5,567 voters registered.

In the state-wide returns, Thomas Ratliff, Republican Governor who was a member of the Cook team, won nomination over Hazelrigg, Nunn's running mate. W. Howard Clay, Republican candidate for Attorney General won nomination over Lester Burns, Jr.

Robert Matthews, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, took a commanding lead early but Wendell Ford slowly gained on Matthews until at last court it was anybody's race. Complete election returns from Rockcastle precincts will be in next week's issue of the Signal.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

Contracts for grade and drain on Interstate 75 in Rockcastle County have been awarded by the Highway Department, Governor Edward T. Breathitt and Highway Commissioner Mitchell W. Tinder announced recently.

Greer Bros. and Young, Inc., London, submitted the low bids for the work to be done in two sections, as per the following:

From 0.5 mile south of Sand Hill School extending northerly to near the north boundary of Cumberland (Daniel Boone) National Forest, a distance of 2.556 miles, $1,925,679.26; running mate. W. Howard Clay, Republican candidate for Attorney General won nomination over Lester Burns, Jr.

Mrs. Harris has been chosen to present her paper at the National Council on Houston, Texas in June of 1968.

SCENE OF TRAGEDY

The above photo shows the jail cell in which Harold Thomas, 19, died early Sunday morning. The picture shows the burned bed and also a small window in the rear of the cell from where, it is believed, Thomas obtained matches or cigarettes from "friends."

Brodhead Youth Perishes In Smoke Filled Jail At Brodhead

Harold Thomas of the Old Brodhead Road, died about 4 a.m. Sunday morning in the Brodhead City Jail. According to Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell, Thomas apparently died from smoke inhalation about 4 a.m. when the mattress in his cell caught fire and burned.

Another prisoner, Charles Marvin Ross, also of Brodhead, was taken to the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital where he was also treated for smoke inhalation. Ross was the only other occupant of the jail.

Thomas was found about 7:30 a.m. by Brodhead city policeman Lloyd Albright and police judge Joseph Hamm. They stated that when they entered the jail, it was completely filled with dense smoke and Thomas was lying on the floor of his cell. The mattress on the bed was almost completely burned.

The jail is used only as a holdover from the time a prisoner is arrested until he appears before Judge Hamm. If they are sentenced to a jail term, they are brought to the county jail at Mt. Vernon to serve the sentence.

The youths were arrested by Officer Albright Saturday night at the Brodhead dance hall. They were charged with public drunkenness and creating a disturbance in a public place. Albright said. According to Albright, the boys were locked in separate cells and both were occupying bottom bunk. The top bunk in Thomas' cell was not damaged.

Albright further said that after putting the youths in jail at about 11 p.m. he returned about 1:45 a.m. Sunday and at that time they were in their bunks apparently sleeping.

Albright said no matches or cigarettes had been found when the youths were searched before being jailed. He theorized that Thomas may have gotten matches or cigarettes from friends through a small hole in the rear window of the cell. He also said that a car with about six young people in it was in a parking lot near the jail about 1:45 a.m. at which time he, told them they should "leave town."

Albright later saw the same group at the entrance to the Brodhead Cemetery and once again warned them to "drive on."

The police officer found a partial box of matches in a trunk beneath the mattress in the jail window where Thomas was lodged later Sunday morning, he said.

Thomas is survived by his parents, Albert and Nannie Sowder Thomas, and four sisters, Mrs. Alice Fay Northern and Misses Vivian L. Postline, and Fronie Mae Thomas, all of Brodhead.

Services were conducted Tuesday at Union Chapel Church by Bro. Virgil Brock, Curial, who is in Piney Grove Cemetery.

Watson Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

County Residents Receive $82,565 In Social Security Payments Monthly

Social Security checks totaling $82,565 dollars came into Rockcastle County every month, according to Don Carden, Field Representative of the Social Security Administration.

1,739 men, women, and children in Rockcastle County receive social security checks each month.

During their working days, people pay into a social security trust fund held by the Federal government. Then, when they reach retirement age and retire, or become disabled to work or die before retirement age, this fund pays off to them and/or their families in the form of social security checks every month. But these checks don't come automatically - you must file for them. Some people have lost benefits because they have failed to file a claim.

Mr. Carden gave this word of caution: When you reach one of these points in life - retirement age, disability, or death - you or a member of your family should contact your nearest social security office to claim the benefits due. An application for social security cash benefits is retroactive for only 12 months. So, if one waits more than 12 months after one of these points in life is reached some benefits are lost. To obtain a health insurance card, it is recommended that you file in one of the three months before you are 65.

For further information to avoid loss of benefits, contact your social security office at 950 Winchester Road, Lexington, Kentucky. Telephone 252-2312, extension 2676. Office hours 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. on Fridays.

MRS. McCOWAN RECEIVES EKU LITERARY AWARD

Mrs. Grace Ann McCowan of Livingston was guest of honor at the Appalachian Club banquet held at Richmond recently.

After dinner, Mrs. McCowan was presented the coveted Roy B. Clark award and check.

This award is given annually to the student who writes the best prose fiction appearing in BELLIE LETTERS.

After different works were carefully considered, the panel chose Mrs. McCowan's short story, "REMEMBRANCE."

HEARING POSTPONED

A hearing, scheduled for Monday, May 22, to decide on a "Motion To Intervene" filed by Murphy Martin, Jr., of Livingston, was postponed.

The motion was filed by Martin to try to halt the condemnation suit by the Rockcastle County School Board over property in Livingston belonging to Cheli Pike, et al.

According to County Judge Wayne Van Hook, a definite date had not been set for another hearing.

REVIVAL SCHEDULED

Revival services will begin June 11 and continue through June 17 at the Macedonia Baptist Church, located on the Scaffold Cane Road.

Evangelist Bob Martin of Martin, Ky. will conduct the services which will begin each evening at 7:30 p.m.

Bro. Johnny Robinson is Pastor of the Church.

RECITAL SCHEDULED

The piano pupils of Mrs. E. E. Adams will be presented in two recitals, on Thursday night, May 26, at the First Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

AGRI-BUSINESS NEEDS MEN

The job giant of agribusiness employs 40% of the U. S. working force in 500 different types of jobs. In a recent survey of 800 employers in farm-related industries, 90% said they want to hire young men with a general background in agriculture. But they can't find enough good men. Some jobs can be landed with a high school degree, but higher-paying positions require more schooling. Here are the new needs of businesses related to agriculture:

(1) Research: The man who takes a crack at this intriguing field will search for answers to the question "Why?" more than ever before. To apply a basic idea, we need to know more about why it works, in addition to how. These are challenging jobs—researching everything from breeding a better corn to building a better machine.

Farm youth is in demand. For example, the feed industry prefers ag college graduates for two-thirds of its research positions involving chemistry and nutrition.

(2) Technical Services: A whole new concept of service jobs is opening—getting technical know-how across to farmers and organizations.

Examples: servicemen directing "prescription" mixing of fertilizers for individual farms; feed company nutrition men helping farmers; farm representatives from city banks loaning to rural banks.

(3) Production and Engineering: Typical jobs emphasize quality control; production and processing; engineering design of products, equipment, and plants; and economic planning. Many of these men now must know the business from beginning to end. Example: quality control specialists who understand the entire process from growing a crop to consumption.

(4) Buying and Selling: The salesman of the future won't be a door-to-door, order-taking type. He'll know needs of farmers and other customers and interpret these to his employer. Buyers of meat and vegetable crops will know contracting as well as technical production. Over half the recent college graduates who went into field took jobs with wholesale and retail trade firms; another one-third went with manufacturing and processing firms.

(5) Education and Communications: Future county agents will have to communicate with authority to help communities reach their goals. Some extension specialists will be experts in a particular subject. Vo-ag teachers will teach more farm management. They'll also stress subjects geared toward non-farm agriculture and teach post-high school technical programs.

Farm editors and broadcasters face the challenging job of interpreting complex research.

Babson's Authentic Report An Editorial

SHARING FEDERAL TAX REVENUES

Babson Park, Mass., May 25: A number of states are already struggling to cope with annual budgets in excess of $1 billion...and the trend of state government expenditures continues sharply up. Even the mighty flow of federal grants to states — estimated at $15 billion in the current fiscal year — does not suffice to meet growing needs which are in most cases considerably beyond normal state revenues.

PLIGHT OF THE STATES

The need of the states for new sources of revenue to help maintain traditional government services and to keep abreast of the expanding need for educational and health facilities is serious. In certain instances it is acute. There is some evidence that the states themselves have failed to answer the new demands placed upon them because of inept administration and/or recklessness in the use of public funds.

Yet the lion's share of the blame rests not with state governments as such but with the widespread trend toward paternalism in government which has spawned a vast and costly Washington bureaucracy. To support all this, Uncle Sam now grabs for his own needs a large part of the total tax dollar, leaving states and local government the short end of the stick.

TO SHARE OR NOT TO SHARE

The idea of Washington's sharing its tax take with the states is attractive. It is looked upon as an easy way out, even by many who are not connected with state governments. The specific proposal of Rep. William E. Brock of Tennessee would direct the Federal Government to share up to 5% of its tax revenues with the states, with the provision that the funds be earmarked for education. Its wide appeal and has received strong support. But there are those who see in outright tax sharing new opportunities for the federal bureaucracy to extend its influence in the states. Some of these opponents advocate, instead, a type of indirect federal subsidy by permitting individual income taxpayers to use 40% of their state income tax payments as an offset against their federal income tax liabilities. This would permit the states to spend more and to tax without increasing — at least initially — the individual's total tax liability.

HELPING THE CITIES

Officials of some of the nation's larger cities are among the most articulate opponents of the idea of federal tax sharing. Mayor John F. Collins of Boston described the plan as the most dangerous idea in America today, the implication being that the states will not play fair with their large cities when they get a tax-sharing windfall from Uncle Sam.

This points up a serious inequity which has handicapped larger cities for some time. Until the recent Supreme Court decision decreeing reapportionment of state legislatures, city populations had not had adequate representation. This inequity has been a big factor in the deterioration of central cities and in the resulting outgrowth of social problems.

IMPACT ON PEOPLES' RIGHTS AND STATES' RIGHTS

There can, of course, be no program of tax sharing until the Vietnam drain on federal resources is stopped...we simply can't afford it before then. It is claimed, however, that outright tax sharing would cut red tape, prune federal government payrolls, and curb Uncle Sam's participation in local affairs...and that it would help restore the prestige and power of the states. But chances are slim that it would also lead to a higher total tax bite in a nation where families are already paying a greater percentage of income for taxes than they are for food.

Kentuckians have the opportunity—through good driving, including obeying the laws, courtesy and restraint—to make the coming Memorial Day holiday week-end a memorable occasion.

Let's do all we can to make that Memorial Day when we pause to pay tribute to our military dead—a memorable day traffic-wise.

Motorists can achieve the goal—keeping down traffic deaths—by driving when well-rested, driving defensively (looking out for the other fellow), and by having respect for others. But, unless all try, it can so easily be a day or weekend of highway horror. Last year, 16 persons lost their lives in Kentucky traffic accidents during the Memorial Day weekend, seven more than in 1965.

And this year it will more difficult to hold down the toll. For one thing there is an ever-increasing volume of traffic. Then in 1966, the holiday period on which the death count was based, extended from 6 p.m. Friday, May 27, through midnight Tuesday, May 30, an extra full day, or a total of 102 hours.

Traffic experts say many factors—ranging from the driver to the car and the condition of the road, among others—are involved in highway accidents. Most recognize that the driver is the most important element—that most depends upon him.

DeMarcus Thanks The Voters

I can find no words to express my appreciation to the people of Rockcastle County for the wonderful victory they gave me in last Tuesday's election. I will be forever in your debt, but you may rest assured that my every effort will be to repay you.

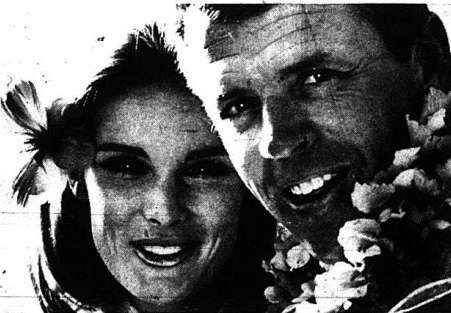

William Harold DeMarcus
(State Representative)

Our Sincere Thanks

On behalf of Mr. Ward and his staff, I take this opportunity to publicly thank everyone who worked and voted for Henry Ward in the Democratic Primary. It is my sincere belief that when he is Governor, he will continue and expand the work he has already started to help us in Rockcastle County. The fact that Henry Ward carried every precinct in our county shows him that we appreciate his help.

County Agents Notes

THE USE OF GYPSUM TO SETTLE MUDDY WATER IN PONDS

A good Many Kentucky farmers use pond water in the home, in the dairy and for livestock purposes. In many cases this pond water would be far easier to filter if the mud could be settled out and the water could be clear. Under usual conditions this may take days or weeks but it can be done in a few hours by putting gypsum in the water. An initial application of 12 pounds of gypsum for each 1,000 cubic feet of water should be adequate. More can be added when necessary. This is equivalent to about 7 bags of gypsum for a one-acre pond. Gypsum may be obtained through a local lumberyard which can order it along with a shipment of plaster to take advantage of the lower freight rates available on carlot shipments. No harm is done to water for any household or livestock use. Gypsum may be used as often as necessary and at anytime of the year.

TWO VIRUS DISEASES WILL HIT FIELD TOBACCO, U.K. MAN NOTES

Watch field tobacco plants for two virus diseases etch and streak, that have been problems in the past. That's the warning from Dr. J. J. Smiley, U.K. Cooperative Extension Service specialist. He noted there is no chemical control for either disease. Both can hit plants throughout the growing season. They cause a low-down in growth and eventually reduce yields. Not many plants die from either disease, he says, so the slow-down is the main problem.

CONTROL

Both disease apparently come from weed plants that make seed, they are about through producing forage for the summer. This to do is to cut these plants off and not let them produce seed. If you will keep them cut off or grazed off, they keep on all summer trying to produce more growth and that, again, is a money-maker for the "boss-man."

Experimental work indicates that if the additional forage is properly used, mowing of pastures will pay you 12 to 15 dollars for every one dollar it costs to do the mowing. Do you know of any other farm job that pays you 12 to 15 times as much as it costs you.

CATTAL CONTROL NEEDED TO KEEP PONDS USEFUL

Cattails, a tall-growing plant that "looks pretty" in a farm pond, actually is one of the biggest plant nuisances of a farmer. Uncontrolled cattail growth eventually can choke out a fine pond and make the pond nearly unusable.

Here's how to control them, according to James Herron, UK Experiment Station weed control specialist:

- 1) Pull them out by the roots when they first appear in a farm pond. If allowed to stay these plants will develop extensive root systems and be harder to eradicate.
- 2) Use chemical killers if desired. One is Dalapon, a wettable powder used at the rate of 20 to 25 pounds of Dalapon in one gallon (Cont. To Page 8)
