Area Agent's Notes

BY: H. LEE DURHAM

PLANT COOL SEASON VEGETABLES NOW

Certain vegetable crops thrive best in cool weather and should be planted early in the spring for best results, according to H. Lee Durham, area Extension agent.

Cabbage, cauliflower, sprouting broccoli, Brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, and Chinese cabbage are considered cool season vegetables and should be transplanted to the garden now, he says. These vegetables give best results in a relatively cool, moist climate.

Have a soil test taken for your garden, Mr. Durham recommends. This will give you valuable information about the type of soil and the kind of fertilizers you will need to use in your garden.

The cool season vegetables may be grown on a wide range of soil types, but a sandy or clay loam soil gives best results. Plants will mature earlier on lighter soils. A soil of pH around 6.5 is most desirable for this group of vegetables. Leafy vegetable crops such as these are heavy users of nitrogen and potash; however, follow fertilizing recommendations based on your soil test.

Cabbage plants that have been well hardened before transplanting to the garden have been found to withstand temperatures as low as 10 to 15 degrees below freezing for short periods of time. Cabbage plants should be spaced 12 to 15 inches apart in the row.

Be very careful when cultivating the cool season vegetables. Mr. Durham advises. Many of their roots grow in the top 2 inches of the soil and may be cut off with deep cultivation.

Root crops also should be planted early in the spring to take advantage of cool growing conditions, he says. Included in this group are beets, carrots, parsnips, turnips, and radishes. All these crops have similar cultural requirements. They do best in a deep, friable, loam soil with a pH of 6.5 to 7.0.

Planting root crops in early spring usually results in better quality. Beets, for example, will have a higher sugar content and dark internal color throughout the root when planted early. Beets that are planted late and exposed to high temperatures develop alternate white and colored zones in the roots.

Thinning root crops will help increase the size of the root and help result in a more attractive vegetable, Mr. Durham concludes.

A SUCCESSFUL PEPPER GROWER

Mr. Francis M. R. Jonesboro, Tennessee has been very successful in growing Bell Peppers for Moody Dunbar, Inc. Mr. Vines has been growing peppers for the past 18 years, 17 of which have been very successful in that he produced letter than 10 tons per acre.

Mr. Vines relates to us the following methods he uses which he accounts for his success as a Pepper Grower. "I grow my peppers on well drained sandy loam soil following pasture land or sometimes following cover crop of small grain.

I use a starter solution (3 lbs of 10-52-17 in 50 gallons of water) when I transplant my plants (10,000 per acre). I use a total of 1200 lbs of 6-12-12 fertilizer, placing 500 lbs on one side of the row at first cultivation (day following transplanting if possible) and 500 lbs on opposite side of the row at the second cultivation (one week later). I use an Fermal tractor with a fertilizer attachment at the same time I cultivate. The remaining 200 lbs of fertilizer is mixed with 100 lbs of Ammonium Nitrate (33.5%N) this I use to side-dress my peppers after the fruit sets on (about 47 days after transplanting).

In the past, I have always cultivated once a week until almost harvest time to keep my peppers clean, but this year, I plan to use a herbicide (Weed Killer) and cut down on the number of cultivation.

Out of the 18 years that I have grown peppers, I have failed only one year to produce 10 tons per acre and I account my success to the above practices."

POWER MOWERS ARE DANGEROUS

Power mowers are handy machines, but caution is needed in their operation, especially with the rotary type. Though these mowers are manufactured to cut grass, they will also cut toes and fingers. Most of the injuries from mowers are caused by direct contact with the mower, though about one-third are the result of objects being thrown by the mower. Just plain carelessness and lack of knowledge on the part of the operator are the usual causes of accidents involving power mowers.

The blade on a rotary mower spins at about 1800-2000 revolutions per minute; the outermost part of the blade the speed of often approaches 200 miles per hour. Thus, tremendous force is available to provide the cutting action.

To avoid injury when using a power mower, follow these safety suggestions:

1. Be familiar with your law mower. Read the operator's manual that came with it and follow the manufacturer's recommendations.
2. Always disconnect the spark plug wire before you work on the mower.
3. Keep your mower clean and the blade sharp. A sharp blade does a better job of mowing and requires less speed.
4. Be sure safety shields are in place. Make sure they are not bent or damaged.
5. Keep the blade adjusted high enough so that it will not hit the ground or damage the turf. For most lawns, set the blade height at a minimum of two inches.
6. Store gasoline in approved metal container away from the furnace or fire.
7. Do not refill the gasoline tank when the engine is hot or running.
8. Use care in starting your power mower. Make sure self-propelled mowers are out of gear. Stand firmly, and keep hands and feet away from the cutting blades.
9. Operate the blade as slow as possible. High speed blades are more dangerous and cause greater wear on the mower.

10. Remove all toys, stones, bones, sticks, wire, cans, glass and other trash from the lawn before mowing.

11. Keep children and pets away from the mower.

12. Don't let small children operate power mowers.

Remember, your power mower is designed to be a handy, labor-saving machine, but if it is used improperly, it can be dangerous.

CORN FIELD TREATED WITH WEED-KILLER "TROUBLE" FOR THIS YEAR'S TOBACCO

If you are planning to put your 1968 tobacco crop on last year's corn field and the field received certain weed-killing chemicals last year -- you are asking for trouble.

"Tobacco-growing and certain corn-field weed-killers are incompatible," says Dr. J.H. Smiley, U.K. Cooperative Extension Service specialist. "You should NOT plant tobacco this year in fields which were (1) in corn last year and (2) received either Atrazine or Simazine, to control weeds. Tobacco often is injured by residues of these materials.

Nor, he emphasized, should tobacco fields be located where they might receive drainage from corn fields treated last year or this year with such materials.

MOSS-LIKE LIVERWORT PLANT PEST MAY BE RILANT BED PROBLEM

Liverwort, an occasional pest in tobacco plant beds, might be a problem this season, says Dr. J.H. Smiley, U.K. Cooperative Extension tobacco specialist.

Liverwort is a moss-like plant that springs up in plant beds. Already some calls have been received on the plant this year, Dr. Smiley said. It is a spongy growth two to four inches wide, dark green to black and of rubbery texture. It is mostly a problem in fall-treated plant beds that were covered with plastic all winter.

The rosette-type plant puts up two flowering parts that can be from two to three inches high. It competes with tobacco seedlings.

CONTROL: The old stand-by, bluestone lime (Bordeaux mixture) controls this pest.

Mix three pounds of bluestone (copper sulfate) with four pounds of hydrated lime in 50 gallons of water. Sprinkle this on the plant bed through the canvas. If liverwort persists, in three or four days reapply the application. Dr. Smiley says 25 gallons of this mixture (3-4-50 of this is known) will cover 100 feet of plant beds.

New Law About Mail Advertisements

Mail patrons offended by pandering advertisements can now take steps to curb such mail, Postmaster James O. Smith said today in announcing plans for administering a new law which gives each family the right to decide that an ad is "offensively arousing or sexually provocative."

When an advertisement sent through the mails is offensive on these grounds, a postal person can now ask the post office to direct the matter to send no more mail to him and to remove immediately the patron's name from all mailing lists he owns, controls or rents.

To assist patrons, the Post Office Department has published a brief pamphlet — How You can Curb Pandering Advertisements — which is now available at the Mt. Vernon post office. In addition to explaining how the law works, the pocket-size leaflet contains a form letter one can use when sending his complaint to the post office.

The pamphlet explains that when a patron receives an advertisement which is, in his opinion, pandering, he must send the ad, its envelope and the form letter, or one which includes its language, to his post office with the words, "Request of prohibitory order" on the face of the envelope.

Postmaster Smith said: "This new law should give some protection to American families offended by advertisements they believe to be morally harmful, particularly to their children.

"Last year the Post Office Department received some 140,000 complaints from those offended by pandering advertisements. While in most cases the ads were not legally obscene and were therefore mailable, they are often offensive and are usually not the type of material one would want his children to read," Postmaster Smith said.

He added that "because the law gives a mail patron the sole right to decide what is offensive, and does not deny others the right to receive the same mail, the Congress felt it does not violate Constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech."

While the patron's complaint will only be directed to the sender, Postmaster Smith believes that one or two complaints will provide substantial protection because "the great bulk of this advertising comes from fewer than 20 so-called 'smut-dealers' who are frequently swapping mailing lists."

If a mailer does not strike a complainant's name from this mailing list, and the patron receives a second mailing 30 days after the firm has received the prohibitory order, he may bring the matter to the attention of the postmaster. Issuing the initial order by writing him and enclosing the second pandering ad with its envelope. If the mailer still fails to respect the order, the Postmaster General may ask the Attorney General to apply for a Federal Court order directing compliance. Failure to observe the order may be punishable by a fine or imprisonment.

Most men receiving social security retirement benefits returned to work whenever they could get a job, chiefly because they needed the income. Usually, they were employed full time for only part of the year, or they worked on a part-time or irregular-day basis.

"The aged were among the first to be laid off when the economy contracted. When the national unemployment rate dropped, the employment of the aged rose."

The occupations men held prior to drawing retirement benefits had a direct bearing on their ability to get a job after age 65. For example, a 1957 national survey found the proportion of aged workers continuing in their pre-aged 65 occupation ranged from 65 per cent for operatives to 87 per cent for professionals, and technical workers. Between one-fourth and one-half of those employed after age 65 during the various survey years — 1941, 1942, 1944, 1946, 1949, 1951, 1957, and 1963 — had changed occupations and many had experienced an occupational downgrading.

As a result of liberalizations in the retirement test, the proportion of employed beneficiaries who were subject to benefit suspensions because their earnings exceeded the permitted amount dropped from a high of 62 per cent in a 1949 survey to 39 per cent in a 1951 survey and to a low of 14 per cent in a 1957 survey.

On the average, earnings of those whose benefits were suspended were approximately six times the amount of lost benefit payments in the mid-1940s and about four times as great in the 1950s.

A large majority of the men who were not employed during the final week of the various survey years said that their health would not permit them to work at any kind of job. The solution to the income problem of these beneficiaries therefore was not work opportunities, but larger benefits or other income.

The 48-page report, number 21 in the current series published by the Office of Research and Statistics of the Social Security Administration, is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, at 25 cents a copy.

Social Security News

Regardless of age, most men still leave their jobs involuntarily, even if they are eligible for social security retirement benefits. But in recent years, a growing minority, still in good health, has elected to retire in order to enjoy leisure.

A research report, "Employment after Retirement," released today by the Social Security Administration, shows that in the period 1941-51, only about 1 in 20 men in good health retired voluntarily; in more recent years, perhaps as many as 1 in 6 has chosen leisure over work as a pattern of living for the later years.

The majority of older men, however, generally stay in the labor force until forced to leave it by sickness, the infirmities of old age, mandatory retirement policies of employers, or inability to find suitable work. In the report, Edna Westworth of the Social Security Administration's Office of Research and Statistics, analyzes data collected in 11 surveys of men 65 and over conducted under her direction in the years between 1941 and 1963. Her findings show

"WHERE THE BOONEMAN JOINS THE DIXIE"

VOLUME 81 - NUMBER 32

THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1968

Wed. Morning Fire Destroys Home

Mrs. Marion Abney and five of her teen-age children, three girls, and two boys, narrowly escaped death Wednesday morning when they were awakened by a loud noise about 2 a.m. and discovered their home was on fire. The home is located on Brush Creek Road.

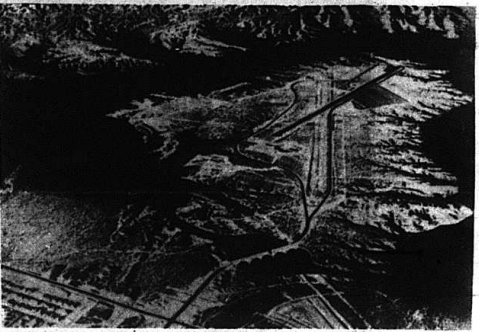

According to reports, the family escaped with only the clothes which they had on. Mr. Abney and two other sons were away from home working in Wabash, Indiana. The home, a two-story brick, had just recently been completely remodeled. The family lost all their personal belongings and the home's furnishings were completely destroyed.

According to Sheriff Tip Reppert, Mrs. Abney called him and told him the house was on fire. Sheriff Reppert said that when he arrived at about 3 a.m., the house had already caved in and only the brick walls were left standing. Sheriff Reppert said Mrs. Abney told him the fire apparently started in the basement.

It is not known at this time whether the family had insurance to cover their loss.

Mrs. Abney and her children left Wednesday morning for Indiana to join her husband and two other sons.

Mrs. Abney is the daughter of Mrs. Rosie Mullins of Main Street, Mt. Vernon.

THIS IS AN AERIAL VIEW of the Lake Havasu City site where historic London Bridge (drawn over man made waterway) will be brought stone by stone from its Thames River site and rebuilt. Lake Havasu City is a development of the McCulloch Oil Corp. in Arizona along the Colorado River just across from California. The company bought the bridge for $2,240,000. London Bridge is sinking down. (U.S. aid)

Red Devils Begin Baseball Season

The Mt. Vernon Red Devils baseball team opened their 1968 season by losing to Madison Model High School by a score of nine to three.

The Red Devils bounced back in their next game against Pulaski County High but took two innings to defeat the Pulaski Cougars.

It was a fine pitchers duel between Hank Mullins of Mt. Vernon and Eddie Girdler of Pulaski; however, it was a real cold day and Coach Buford Parkerson elected to bring John Parsons to the mound for the last two innings. Parsons pitched the eighth and ninth inning and got credit for the victory.

Mullins and Saylor were the leading hitters for the Red Devils as Howard Saylor hit a base cleaning double in the ninth inning to win the game for Mt. Vernon by a score of four to three.

In a game with Memorial yesterday, which went three extra innings, the Devils were defeated by a score of 10 to 4. John Parsons was the losing pitcher in that contest.

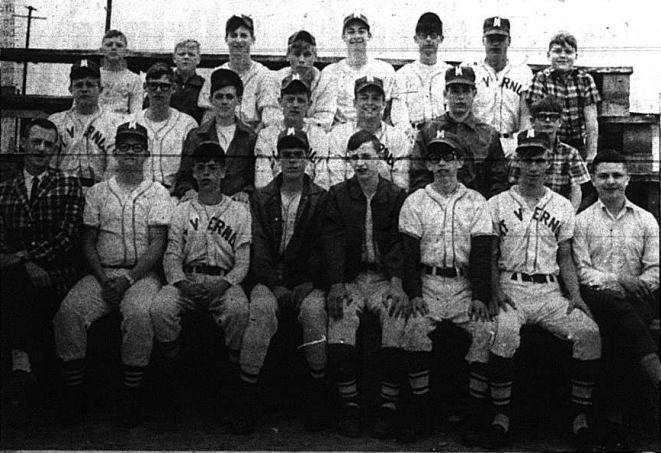

The next two games will be with Bush and London.

Construction Bids Advertised For Recreation Center Here

The Cedar Rapids Recreation Center has been advertising for bids for the construction of the swimming pool, nine hole golf course, and a colonial type brick veneer club house. The bids must be in by 2 p.m., May 20 and contracts are expected to be awarded within a week to ten days following the deadline.

A loan in the amount of $211,000 at 5 per cent interest was authorized to the Club by the Farmers Home Administration. This amount will be received by the club in a lump sum once the contracts are awarded. If there are no problems awarding the contracts, construction will begin immediately and should be completed by January of 1969.

Directors of the club are Dr. Joe Henderson, Dr. George Griffith, Charles Alfred Mullins, C.B. Owens, Joe Young, Jess Bullock, Carl Clontz, Tom Payne, Clay Colson, Ed Hunt, and Jimmy Robinson.

No more regular memberships of the original 200 authorized are available. However, once the construction is completed associate memberships will be sold for persons wishing to join the club. These memberships will be used until regular memberships become available. They will be sold at a higher amount than the regular memberships were sold at and only county residents will be entitled to buy regular memberships. Non-residents of the county may buy associate memberships but may not buy regular memberships. An associate member has all rights and privileges of a regular club member except the right to vote.

The farm of Mrs. Nadine Creechon US 150 has been purchased completely by the club and an option on the land of Ben Craig on US 150 has been taken and will be purchased when the club receives the loan money. All total, the club will have about 130 acres of land.

Radio Auction Nets $250 During First Night Sales

The Mt. Vernon Recreation Council's Radio Auction got off to a good start Tuesday night as mostly baked goods with a few other items tossed in were up for grabs.

The people of the county seemed to have responded with their usual enthusiasm as far as donations and contributions are concerned. There was the usual fight for Bill Cox's hickory smoked country ham with Mrs. James Tanner winning out with a bid of $30 and at last count John Allen was high with a bid of $17.50 on Mrs. O.D. Bryant's famous 20-egg Angel Food cake.

Auctioneers for last night's sale were: Dr. Joe Henderson, Norman Howard, Bob Pybas, R.H. Hamm.

Wednesday night auctioneers will be: Wayne Stewart, John Allen, Jim Tanner, and Jess Bullock.

Scheduled for Thursday night are: William D. Gregory, Floyd Owens, Charles Shivel, and Jim Earl Hammons.

If items hold out for Friday night auctioneers

The hours of the auction are from 5:30 to 7 p.m. and the auction is broadcast over WRVK Radio Station.

Not counting the cash contributions, received, last night's take-in was $250.

In last week's issue of the Signal the Western Auto Store was inadvertently left off of the list of sponsors for the auction.

AIDS-- Mrs. Joe Young and Mrs. R. H. Hamm kept the items straight for the auctioneers. The auction is expected to continue through Friday night.

AUCTIONEERS-- Things were, we are sure, a bit hectic at times for the first night auctioneers on the Mt. Vernon Recreation Council. However, $250 worth of merchandise was sold the first night. Tuesday night auctioneers were, from left: Dr. Joe Henderson, R. H. Hamm, Bob Pybas, and Bro. Norman Howard.

CASH REGISTERS TO JINGLE THIS SUMMER
 Now that Easter is over and taxpayers have -- or ought to have -- paid up what they owed Uncle Sam on last year's earnings, one of the big questions is: How freely will consumers spend this summer?

CURRENT ECONOMIC STATUS
 Upon the ultimate answer to that question quite a good deal hangs. We are now in the eighth year of a cyclical expansion which chalked up a $300-billion increase in Gross National Product. But the business community's confidence in the outlook is dampened by a sizeable number of uncertainties -- political, military, and economic.

While industrial production just hasn't made the long strides earlier forecast by some observers, with a strong boost from inflation GNP has roared ahead at near-record speed. However, uncertainties -- especially concerning possible government tax moves and the imposition of wage and price controls -- have added a note of caution.

PERSONAL INCOME
 Yet very much on the plus side in any assessment of the situation is the extremely high level of employment which maintained over the near term at least. Unemployment is being held to 4% of the total labor force... about as close to minimum as we can expect.

Perhaps the biggest plus of all is personal income. Already at a record high it continues to move smartly upward. The increases being registered reflect gains in several parts of the economy, including advances in wages and salaries, in business and professional income, in rental returns, as well as in dividend and interest payments.

LIVING COSTS, SAVINGS, PURCHASING POWER
 How much money people have available for discretionary purchasing, depends in large measure on what it costs them to obtain the necessities of life: food, clothing, and shelter. Living costs go on climbing relentlessly. At the end of February, latest month for which figures are available, consumer prices were 3.7% above a year earlier -- at a record 119% of the 1957-59 average.

But how much money is available for spending depends also on the amounts stashed away in people's socks. And since the middle of last year, time, been outpacing increases in living costs. As a result, a majority of the nation's consumers are in a favorable buying position even though many people have not shared fully in the broad income gains achieved nationally.

CONSUMER ATTITUDES
 People use their purchasing power in two ways. Either they buy goods and services, or they buy financial assets (savings). Their choice is limited by their income and/or their ability to obtain credit, as well as by the cost of that credit. Purchasing decisions are governed also by a balancing of the benefits and the costs of what is to be bought.

How will consumers react this summer? Since uncertainty begets caution and restraint, our guess is that by and large consumers will continue to buy more freely than last year. But spending decisions will be further influenced by price and tax developments, other government moves here and abroad, our commitment in Vietnam, and by business and employment conditions prevailing in local areas. While profligate spending may be avoided, consumer purchases of goods and services will show further advances this summer. It should be the biggest yet, for apparel -- especially sportswear, sporting and camping goods; and resort accommodations will get the big play.

Veteran's Information

Q -- How will the $100 increments in the new Veterans' Administration pension structure which goes into effect next January affect pension rates?
 A -- Basically, the $100 increments in the new VA pension structure will mean that maximum VA pension and dependency and indemnity compensation benefits will go to veterans, widows and parents with the lowest income. For example, under current law, the monthly VA pension for a veteran with one dependent and an annual income of $1,000 to $1,000 is $1.09. However, the re-structured pension program will provide payments ranging from $120 a month for an income of $500 or less to $709 a month for an annual income of $900 to $1,000. And VA monthly pension benefits will be reduced an average of only $3 or $4 for each $100 increase in income up to the new ceilings.

Q -- My Social Security check went up in March enough to put me over the income limit for the amount of pension I get from the Veterans Administration. Yet, I received a pension check in the same amount from VA around the first of April. Was this a mistake? Will I have to return the VA check?
 A -- The amount of the VA pension check which you received around the first of April was no mistake. And you won't have to return it. On March 28, 1968, President Johnson signed Public Law 90-275, which specifically protects pensioners like yourself from any reduction in their VA benefits due to the recent hike in Social Security payments. This is true not only for 1968 but also for 1969. For information as to how your higher Social Security income may affect your VA pension beginning in 1970, check with your nearest VA office.

INSPECTION PERIOD FOR THE PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL

The Rockcastle County property tax roll will be opened for inspection from May 6 through May 10, 1968. Under the supervision of the tax commissioner or one of his deputies, any property owner may inspect the tax roll to check the assessment of his property and compare it with the assessment of comparable property to determine whether it is equitably assessed. The tax roll may not be inspected for any other purpose.

This is the January 1, 1968 assessment on which state, county, and school taxes for 1968 will be due on September 15, 1968.

The tax roll is in the office of the county tax commissioner in the county courthouse and may be inspected between the hours 8:30 and 4:00.
