IN PIONEER DAYS Dan'l Boone and Jim Harrod used to watch for Indians from a corner of their fort very much like this one, at Harrodsburg, Kentucky. It is part of a faithful reproduction of the first permanent settlement west of the Alleghenies in Old Fort Harrod State Park. This is the site of Kentucky's first law court and school, and where the first child was born to a pioneer family. The park's stockade, blockhouses, cabins and collections of pioneer tools, weapons and furnishings give an authentic picture of the early settlers' daily life.

CIRCUS GO'ER'S—The Shrine Club of Rockcastle County again this year sponsored a free trip to the Shrine Circus in Lexington for approximately 500 Rockcastle youngsters on Wednesday, August 14. In the above photo, the group is shown at Roundstone School where all the buses met before leaving and where the youngsters were fed. Last year, the Shrine Club took 160 youngsters. The local club furnished all tickets, gas for the buses, and insurance plus the youngsters meal before leaving. All proceeds from the circus go to the Shrine Children's Hospital in Lexington which treats thousands of crippled children each year and makes no charge for their services. The shrines also support a burn hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio to treat children with severe burns. It is the only one of its kind in the world and also makes no charge for the treatment.

Round About

By: Perline M. Anderkin

QUITE A MIX-UP

Believe it or not, we do occasionally get things right. However, last week was not our week.

The story we ran on the Cedar Rapids Recreation Center getting their funds to begin construction of their recreation facilities contained a few errors. To begin with the facilities will be constructed on U.S. 150 and not the Old Brodhead Road as reported last week (well, they are kinda in the same direction) and in the cutting under the picture of the directors, C.B. Owens of Brodhead was identified as Roy Brown. Our sincere apologies Mr. Owens but in a negative you sort of look like Mr. Brown.

Rev. Horn will preach at both the morning and evening service.

REGISTRATION BOOKS CLOSE SEPTEMBER 7

Voter registration books will close on September 7. Newcomers to the state, young people coming of age, and unregistered citizens must register by that date in order to vote. Voters who have moved to another precinct since their last registration need to re-register by the September 7 deadline. Voters who will need an absentee ballot must make application for their absentee ballot no later than October 17.

CHICKEN BARBEQUE

The Rockcastle County Saddle Club held a chicken barbecue Friday at Don's Five Towers near Mareburg. Approximately 83 members and guests attended the event despite the rain which made the hill a little slick.

Following the meal, a short club meeting was held. Music for the group was furnished by Emory and Linda Martin, Boyd VanWinkle, and Raymond Pickle. Some group singing was also done.

SERVICES SCHEDULED

Central Baptist Church cordially invites everyone to attend a tent meeting to be held August 19 through the 24 at the Old Chestnut Ridge School which is next to the Sherman Lovell project. There will be old fashioned preaching and gospel singing. Conducting the meetings will be Bro. Ralph Sears pastor of the church, Bro. Rafael Herin, and Bro. Garland Singleton.

FISH AND GAME CLUB

FISH FRY, AUGUST 15

The Rockcastle County Fish and Game Club will hold their annual fish fry at the Brodhead Fairgrounds on August 15 at 6 p.m. Tickets for the event may be purchased in Mt. Vernon at Cramm's Grocery, Maggard Drug Bank of Mt. Vernon, and McBee Dept. Store, and in Brodhead at Bradley's Service Station, Frank Martin's and Jack Owens.

WINS TV

J.W. Dillingham of Quail was the holder of the lucky ticket in the drawing held Saturday night at the Brodhead Fair by the Mt. Vernon Lions Club. Mr. Dillingham won a 21" black and white television. The Lions netted approximately $180 on the sale of tickets.

85 Persons Attend "Pig Roast" Monday

It was a perfect night for an outdoor barbecue picnic and the approximately 85 guests who attended the Rockcastle County Swine Producers Pig Roast last Monday night at Brown's Vacation Farm on Route 1, Brodhead, enjoyed every minute of it. Clay Colson, local soil conservationist, and Smith T. Powell, vocational agriculture teacher for the adult program in Rockcastle County, cooked the 160 pound pig all day Monday. Mrs. Roy Brown and Leo Durham, also contributed their culinary talents to the meal.

The pig roast grew out of a series of meetings held with the swine producers of the county. These meetings held since last October, dealt with such areas of pig raising as Sow and Boar Management, Health and Sanitation, Nutritional Requirements, Housing and Equipment, Quality and Selection, Feeder Pig Production, Feeding Systems, Finishing Hogs, and Marketing. Each meeting was attended by a specialist in these fields to help the local swine producers realize more profit from their pigs.

School Begins August 27th

Enrollment for Rockcastle County school children will be held Tuesday, August 27, but teachers in the county will have to begin a day earlier the 26th when they will go to school for a teacher's conference.

Parents are urged to enroll students promptly. Enrollment results in students missing out on important announcements, plans and scheduling. This is especially important for high school students. School buses will run on about the same schedule as last year. Students are urged to stand off the road while waiting for buses. The 185-day school year is broken into 175 regular school days, 4 holidays, 2 in-service days, 1 professional day, and 3 state and district meetings.

The children's first holiday will be Labor Day, Monday, September 2, followed by CKEA at Richmond on September 27 with two in-service days scheduled for November 21 and 22. Thanksgiving will be observed on Thursday, November 28 and the children will also be given Friday, the 29th as a day off. Christmas vacation begins December 20 and will continue through January 2, 1969 and spring vacation will be from April 7 through the 11th.

Area Agent's Notes

BY: H. LEE DURHAM

The University of Kentucky Horticulture has assembled a collection of over 300 cultivars of flowering bedding plants in an area on the south side of the University Campus in Lexington. The 1968 Flower Trail Garden includes rather large collections of several important groups of annual flowers—ageratums, celosias, petunias, salvias, and verbenas.

The garden is open from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily. All interested persons are encouraged to visit this colorful display area.

1968 FALL FERTILIZER PROGRAM FOR LAWNS, SHRUBS AND FLOWERS

Lawns need feeding in late September or October. In most of Kentucky apply 15-20 pounds of a 10-10-10 or similar fertilizer per 1,000 square feet of lawn. In areas where phosphorus and potash are naturally abundant in the soil, such as in the Bluegrass region, 6-7 pounds of ammonium nitrate per 1,000 square feet is usually adequate. Shrubs can usually be fed at the same time. Those shrubs which continue to grow successfully late into the fall should not be fed heavily with nitrogen. Usually one to two handfuls of 10-10-10 fertilizer per moderate size shrub is about right. Very large shrubs can benefit from more; smaller ones should have less. On shrubs which are still successful apply 15-20 or similar formulae. Using 20-10-10 is all right for many of the others. In the Bluegrass region use ammonium nitrate at one-third the rate that a 10-10-10 is used elsewhere.

The benefit of Phosphorus fertilization of mature shrubs and trees has never been shown. Young plants need it, but it transfers readily from place to place in the tops of mature woody plants.

Most herbaceous perennials and annuals benefit. Woody plants whose tops are removed annually—such as roses, butterfly bush and white hydrangeas benefit from having an adequate phosphorus level in the soil.

Most annual flowers and bulbs will not benefit from fall fertilization. Many perennial flowers will. The idea with shrubs, trees and herbaceous perennials is to get these minerals into the plant parts which live over winter in order to be ready to "go" when spring comes. Early spring fertilization is often too late to obtain good results in the spring, recent research has shown.

APPLY FERTILIZER AND LIMESTONE THIS FALL

As farmers push toward more economical crop production, fertilizer and limestone use will increase. If Kentucky farmers continue to help feed the world, the rate of increase will accelerate during the next decade. This has implications for the fertilizer and limestone industry as well as for farmers. For one thing, a change feeds to be made in the time of application of at least part of the fertilizer and limestone. Farmers are planting corn and soybeans earlier than they were just a few years ago. This means that the spring season for applying fertilizers and limestone is being shortened. The industry is already finding it very difficult, and sometimes impossible, to manufacture and distribute the fertilizer and limestone presently being spread in the spring.

In recent years (according to Department of regulatory Services reports) about 85 percent of the fertilizer used in Kentucky was spread between January 1 and June 30. We don't have the corresponding figures for limestone, but we know that more of it is spread in the spring than in the fall. If more fertilizer and limestone were spread in the fall, two industries could better serve their patrons, and the farmers would be better off if they would wait until the ground is firm enough to support the heaving spreading equipment.

Furthermore, limestone spread in the fall will react with the soil during the winter months and will be of greater benefit to crops planted the following year. Limestone can be applied to hay and pasture fields—shytime during the summer and fall, and should be applied on row crop fields as soon as the crop is harvested.

Phosphate and potash can also be applied to hay and pasture fields in the summer and fall and on row crop land as soon as these crops are harvested. There will be little or no loss of these nutrients except for that carried off to steep land by water run-off during heavy rain storms. The big advantage of fall applications of fertilizers and limestone is that the job is done while the ground is firm and a spring rush on the manufacturers and distributor's is avoided. Nitrogen should not be applied this fall for next year's crop, except for grass seed production. (See U. of Ky. Coop Ext. Serv. Leaf. 246, "Grass Seed Production.") For fall grass forage production, nitrogen should be applied in late July or August. In Kentucky, nitrogen should be applied at or about the time crop growth is expected to start.

A soil test should be used as a guide to determine the amounts of limestone, phosphate and potash needed.

STATE STRIVES FOR BETTER RURAL ROADS

State Highway Commissioner William B. Hazlett expects some $39 million will be spent on Kentucky Rural Road programs for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

The programs are in compliance with Gov. Louie B. Nunn's effort to step up repair and improvement of rural roads serving many Kentuckians.

The Rural Road Program in Kentucky consists of two parts: the County Road Aid Program—a singular program of State aid to county roads—and the rural Secondary Program, a segment of the State Primary System. Both programs provide for the maintenance and improvement of roads.

"I would like to point out," Hazlett said, "these programs form a large part of the annual road expenditure in the Commonwealth each year." The amount anticipated represents approximately one-third of all the money the Department of Highways will receive from the Commonwealth's own sources. Developed jointly by the fiscal courts and the Department of Highways, the County Road Aid Programs will be financed in this biennium through a $25 million Legislative appropriation from the State Road and Twelve million dollars was appropriated for this fiscal year.

The project is largely a program of maintenance of existing county roads. However, there is a substantial construction program which includes bituminous surfacing and bridge construction.

The Rural Secondary Program is dedicated to state-responsibility roads. The Rural Secondary System is made up of 9,800 miles of roads and bridges and forms a large segment of the State Primary Road System.

Funds for the Rural Secondary Program have grown steadily from $8 million in 1948 to an anticipated $27 million in fiscal year 1968-69.

Reflecting on the anticipated expenditure, Gov. Louie B. Nunn said, "It is our hope that we may continue to keep the rural roads, which service our people everyday, in the best excellent conditions we can possibly maintain."

"Converting to electric home heating was easier than we expected," says Mr. Amos Prewitt of Lancaster, "and our house stays much cleaner now," adds Mrs. Prewitt.

"We were afraid converting to electric heat would be a lot of fuss and bother, but it wasn't much trouble at all, compared to what electric heat means to us," says Mr. Prewitt. "And speaking of trouble, we just haven't had any with our electric heating system. Not even any fuel to order!"

"And without the soot and grime of our old heating system, the house is so much easier to keep clean," says Mrs. Prewitt. Call our nearest office soon, and let us explain how easy it is to convert your home to flameless electric heat.

These children, residents of Frankfort State Hospital and School, are taking part in Camp Title I, a day camp for retarded children from PSHS and the Frankfort community. Staff members David True, Suellynn Campbell and Lynn Joskin are working to involve the children in the bright, goody world of fingerpaints.

Mrs. Virgie Williams of Route 1, Paint-Lick, sent us the below clipping from a very old newspaper. She commented that she would like to know if any of the folks on Brush Creek can remember the man in the picture, Dee Himes.

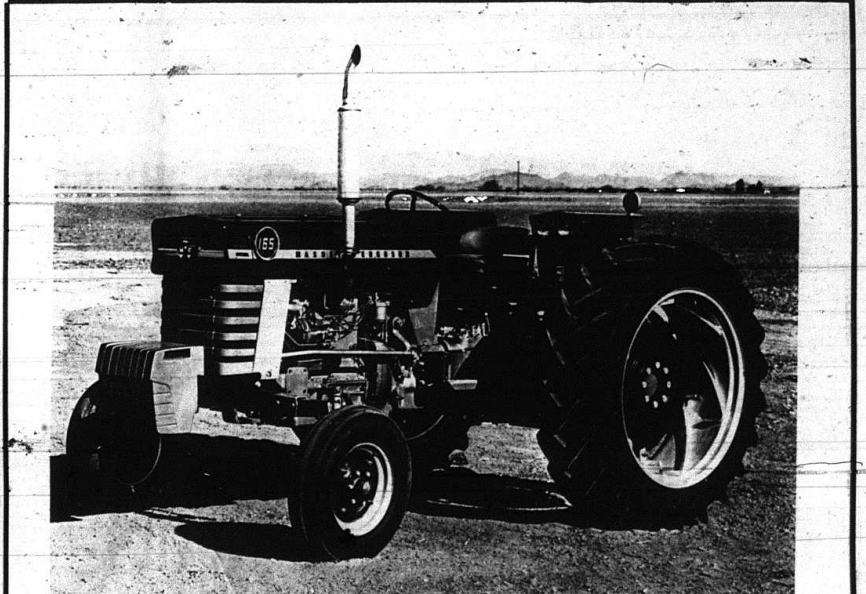

Tenant 43 Years

SUMMER THEATRE—Percival Browne (Gary Heilsburg) and Madame Dubonnet (Jo Zingg) are reunited in a scene from "The Boy Friend," a hilarious musical spoof of the 1930's playing the Jenny Wiley Music Theatre, Prestonsburg, Aug. 16, 23, and 30.

For the forty-third season, Dee Himes, 84, has signed his sharecropper contract, on a farm on Brush Creek, near Bummer, in Rockcastle County. He has occupied the same share-tenant house during the forty-three years. He raises a small patch of corn and a garden, has a horse, cow and old-age pension.
