MOON PIONEERS WILL HAVE STEEL GLOVES, FILTERED AIR

The moon's surface as it appears from 250 miles away. (Parker Press)

Model of spacecraft that will land on moon. Artist's conception of capsule on moon. (Globe)

Scientists expect to land American men on the moon before the end of 1969, as our science race with Russia reaches the final stages.
Although some last-minute details as to what our spacemen will wear and do remain to be decided, many interesting possibilities are suggested by informed speculation based on earlier orbital excursions.
Before taking their first step onto the moon, our astronauts will don a thermal meteorite garment—big white coveralls to protect them from heat and tiny meteorites.
To touch moon surfaces that may be over 200° F. the visitors will have gloves with palms of finely woven stainless steel.
Moving around in a 65-pound moon suit will be much easier on the moon than in training gear on earth. For the gravity pull on the moon is only one-sixth of what it is here.
In spite of most pictures we have of the moon, many scientists say that it is not pitted and rocky. Rather, radar measurements suggest the moon is relatively smooth and rolling and that our lunar explorers will be covered with fine dust at least out nothing at all outside their cabin, and that inside each will have one-half inch thick coated food cubes that are no life, no water and no air, reconstituted with water, then activated charcoal is so effective developing minuscule gases. The moon is believed to have been equipped with their own oxygen—enough for four hours away from the ship.
The oxygen breathed by our men will be purified with activated charcoal. Interestingly, prevent them from rotting and will do a thermal meteorite garment—big white coveralls to protect them from heat and tiny meteorites.

Although the first footwear to be made, were nothing but bare sandals, protection for only the soles of the feet, the history of shoe-making relates that as culture increased, so did additions to the original footwear.

Ornamentations and other parts were added to the sandals, parts which covered and protected the whole of the foot, and even the leg. Other additions were beads, buttons, bows, laces, and heels.

The crudely made, necessary items for foot sole protection advanced in their developments and soon became ornamented articles of attire being referred to, as shoes and boots.

Shoes and boots today, can be found in many styles and designs, made of a variety of materials and obtainable in most any color desired. These fantastic advancements can also apply to the modern new mobile homes. They feature exciting decor, sturdy framework and variety in style and design.

But their big, new advancement is their luxurious comfort and low economy.

Housing Project Construction Several Months Away

Construction of the 30-unit housing project for Mt. Vernon will probably not get underway for about a year, according to Jess Bullock, secretary and treasurer of the Mt. Vernon Municipal Housing Commission.

The total development cost for the project will be $555,205 which includes an initial loan commitment of $36,000 plus the $499,684, loan from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Members of the local housing commission have worked for almost three years, since their beginning in December of 1965, on getting the project approved. Members of the commission besides Mr. Bullock are Dr. J.D. Henderson, Sr., chairman, Billy Hiatt, Harvey Ramey, and Charles Alfred Mullins.

The entire loan amount will not be sent here in one lump sum, rather the money will be given the commission as they need it about enough to run them for three months at a time. McLoney and Tune of Lexington are the architects for the project and the land will be purchased from Clarence Carter and Ralph Sigmon. The ten homes to be built for the elderly will be constructed on Lovell Street behind the Dixie Boone Hotel. The maximum development cost of construction and equipment per room for the units for the elderly is set at $3,800 while the same maximum cost for the regular units will be $2,554 per room.

A persons chance of renting the apartments will be decided by their income level and a certain percentage of their income will go for rent for the apartment. Utilities are not paid by the tenant and they are not responsible for maintaining either the apartments or the grounds. However, no applications will be taken from persons wishing to rent the dwellings until at least after construction begins, Mr. Bullock emphasized.

Sgt. Clark Awarded Bronze Star Medal

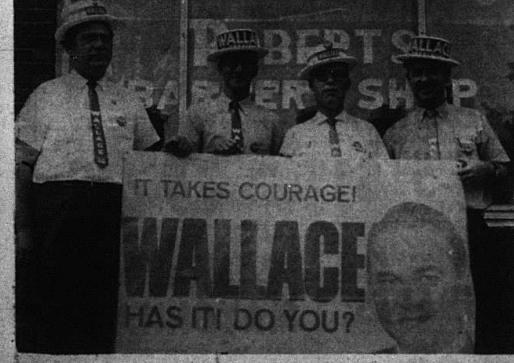

Jimmie C. Clark, who is stationed with the U.S. Marines in Vietnam, was recently awarded a Bronze Star Medal by the President of the United States.

Clark, who is a Gunnery Sergeant, received the medal "for heroic achievement in connection with operation against the enemy in the Republic of Vietnam while serving as Company Gunnery Sergeant of Company K, Third Battalion, Third Marine, Third Marine Division."

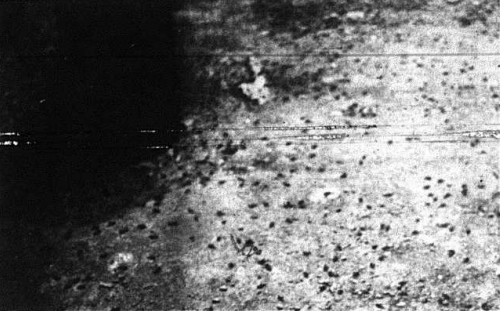

His citation further states "On February 7, elements of Co. K were assigned to assist a platoon which had become pinned down by enemy fire while conducting a search and destroy operation near Gio Linh, Vietnam. As the Marine approached the beleaguered unit, they suddenly came under intense hostile fire and sustained numerous casualties. Reacting instantly, Sergeant Clark took charge of the Marines near him and rapidly maneuvered them to an advantageous location where he established a perimeter defense. While supervising the evacuation of casualties to positions inside the perimeter, he repeatedly exposed himself to hostile fire in order to assist in moving the casualties. Alertly observing enemy activity, he skillfully directed the delivery of accurate fire upon the hostile soldiers, while simultaneously shouting words of encouragement to his men. Gunnery Sergeant Clark's courage, superb leadership and unwavering devotion to duty in the face of great personal danger inspired all who observed him and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the Marine Corps and of the US Naval Service.

Sgt. Jimmie C. Clark
Clark is married to the former Eva Remmer of Mt. Vernon and they have three children, Patricia, Sandra, and Kathy. He has been in the service for the past fifteen years.

CAMPAIGN DIRECTORS—These four Rockcastle men are all directors of the organization of George C. Wallace (candidate for President in 1968 on an independent ticket). Curt Roberts, third from left, is state co-ordinator for Mr. Wallace while the other men are local directors. They are, from left: Bob Baker, county campaign assistant, Bob Pybus, county chairman, Mr. Roberts, and Cletus Gentry, county campaign assistant. Mr. Roberts' barber shop on W. Main Street is the local Wallace Headquarters.

INVASION OF THE CRICKETS ??—Rockcastle residents may well have thought so last week when the insects were in evidence by the thousands. They were particularly well represented at the Mt. Vernon Playground where the above photo was made beneath one of the lights. Several business houses had to spray their front doors the next day before they could get in them.

County Bridge Included In Report To Governor

One bridge in Rockcastle County has been listed by the State Highway Department in a report to Governor Louie B. Nunn, as being among 185 in Kentucky which need major repair or replacement.

The bridge in Rockcastle included in the report is the bridge over Dix River at Brodhead.

Total repairs will cost an estimated $5 million and replacements will range from $10,000 to $1 million per bridge, it said.

The Department told the Governor that money for such a repair and replacement program is not available but a program to bring this about is being developed "on a priority basis as funds become available."

All the bridges are safe for travel at their posted weight limits and none will collapse "if the weight limits are observed," the Highway Department said.

The report shows there are 86 bridges in need of repair, 51 of these along primary and secondary roads and the rest along rural secondary roads. There are 99 bridges that need to be replaced, 34 of them on primary and secondary roads and 55 on rural secondary roads.

Governor Nunn said these bridges have been classified by the Department as "red tag" projects (meaning they need major repairs and replacement), and some of them have had that classification for years. Present costs of repairing these bridges far exceed the Department's original estimates.

Noting the lack of money for such an extensive repair and replacement program, Governor Nunn said the Department needs $3.6 million this year just for routine bridge repairs, but only $1.6 million is available for that purpose.

He said that funds for bridge repairs were increased for the fiscal years 1968-70, partly through the additional two-cents sales tax, but that "obviously, the funds are not enough."

ASCS Election Set For Sept.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Community Committee election will get underway about September 6, according to Shellie Mullins, Rockcastle County ASCS Chairman.

On that date, ballots will be mailed to eligible voters and must be returned by mail or in person by September 17.

Mr. Mullins said five committees in the county will have commitment. A slate of nominees will be selected by the present community committee. The county committee may select additional nominees.

Others may be added to the slate of nominees by petition if they are found to be eligible and willing to serve if elected.

Petitions must be limited to one nominee each. They must be signed by at least six eligible voters in the community. Eligible voters may sign as many petitions as they desire. The petitions must be in the county ASCS office by August 22 (today).

Mr. Mullins noted that persons nominated should be currently engaged in the operation of a farm or ranch and well qualified for committee work.

A person is eligible to be a community committee member if he lives in the community in which he is eligible to vote. If a person who is nominated by petition is found to be ineligible, he will be notified and given 15 days in which to appeal to the county chairman.

To Be Inducted

Three Rockcastle youths will be inducted into the Armed Forces on September 24, according to Mrs. Delia Seals, clerk of Selective Service Local Board No. 85.

To be inducted are Luther Isaacs, Donnie Ray Bullock and James Malchon McFarland.

Fifteen youths will be examined for the service on the same date. Scheduled for physicals are Loyal William Burnett, James Dale Alexander, John Leonard Fletcher, Alvin Wayne Cameron, Dannie Bruce Sargent, Ronnie Ray Payne, Terrell Kenzie Pittman, Randall Joe Cope, Wendell Wayne Stewart, Barry Lee Bullinger, Clyde Raymond Collins, Kenneth Edward Mullins, Edward Russell Cope, Henry Lee Harp, Johnny Keith Harp.

Football Season Opens August 29

With five returning starters, the Mt. Vernon Red Devils football team will take the field Thursday night August 29 for their first game of the season against Mercer County. The game will begin at 7:30 p.m. EDT.

The Red Devils will make eight teams this year with a couple of new additions to the schedule. On September 5, they will play Lily at home and will also be at home the following week, September 12, to Hazed Green. Friday night, September 20, the Devils will journey to their first away game when they meet Sayre at Lexington and will be at home the following Thursday night, September 26 to Burgh.

On October 4, they will play Cumberland County there, on October 10 will play Kentucky School for the Deaf (KSD) at home, and on October 17 will wind up their season by playing Burgh at Burgh.

Coach Larry Travis would not make any predictions for the coming season other than that he hoped for a better season than last years when the Devils were defeated in all seven games.

Jim Cox is the assistant football coach.

Cheerleaders for the 1968-69 school year are Vicki Burdette, Clarence Renner, Sue Wynn, Phyllis Nee, Martha Nicoley, and Maxine Thacker.

Home Ec Teachers Attend Meeting

Home economics teachers attending the annual meeting of the Kentucky Association of Home Economics Teachers, August 12-15, were told that "Vocational home economics teachers have a responsibility to help girls see the changing patterns of the roles of women and to assist them in occupational preparation needed in their future multiple roles of women, wife, mother, homemaker, and wage earner."

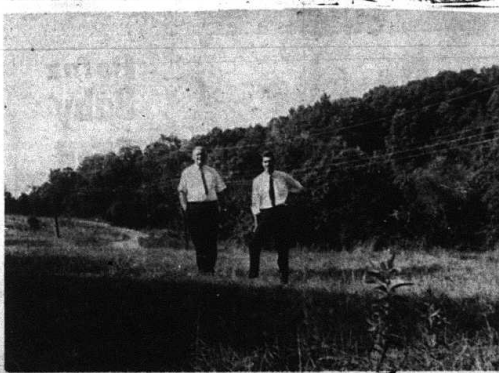

Miss Mary Bell Vaughan, Assistant Director, Home Economics Department of Education, Frankfort, Kentucky, was the keynote speaker.

Attending the meeting from Rockcastle County was Mrs. Betty Cain of Mt. Vernon High School.

Priority topic for the 300 teachers at the meeting was innovative programs in the field of home economics curriculum. Mrs. Lena Bailey, Home Economics Professor, Ohio State University, Columbus served as out-of-state consultant and helped teachers develop an understanding of the conceptual approach to teaching.

The annual meeting is sponsored jointly by the Kentucky Association of

Social Security

Today's young workers can look forward to getting social security retirement benefits worth considerably more than the total they will pay into social security toward that retirement protection, James Mustian social security officer-in-charge said today.

In addition, they have survivors and disability insurance under social security that may mean as much as $75,000 to $100,000 in payments to an individual family, should the worker die or become disabled for work before retirement.

Mustian noted that erroneous calculations continue to circulate, purporting to show that a young worker will not get his money's worth for his social security contributions. The facts show just the opposite, he said.

Even the group of young workers who will be paying into social security under the schedule of contributions now in the law, will get social security retirement benefits worth at least 15 to 20 percent more than their own contributions toward those benefits, and that includes an allowance for the interest the contributions might have earned.

"And it is a practical certainty," Mustian said, "that they will get a return even higher than that." As wage levels continue to rise, he explained, income to the system increases at a faster rate than corresponding benefit liabilities. Benefits can therefore be raised without increasing the contribution rates.

"The value of your social security protection grows as the economy grows," he pointed out, "unlike the usual private insurance contract which promises a fixed amount of money in return for a specified premium." So while a look at the schedule of benefits and contributions in today's law assumes the young worker that social security is a good investment, he can look forward to an even greater appreciation in its value.

This is true not just of his own prospective retirement benefits, Mustian said, but also of his survivors and disability protection. Specifically, the family of a young man who dies or becomes disabled will get benefits worth many times the value of his social security contributions.

As an example, he cited the situation of a young man, who has just now started to work at age 22 and earning $7,800 a year, the maximum amount now covered by social security. Suppose he works and pays social security contributions until he is 35 and then dies in an auto accident, leaving his wife, 32, and two children, one age 3 and one age 5.

His social security contributions by that time, Mustian said, will have amounted to $4,790. If you add compound interest of 3 1/2 percent per year, on the assumption that he would otherwise have invested those contributions, the total would come to $6,080.

The surviving family upon the death of the husband and father become eligible for monthly benefits of $434.40. The value of the benefits that would be paid over the years is about $63,000, or more than 10 times the value of his social security contributions up to the time of his death.

The value of this young man's disability insurance can be similarly illustrated, Mustian said. If, for example, the worker's accident resulted not in his death, but in disability, the family payments including the subsequent survivor benefits would amount to over $65,000 if he lived on for only 5 years following his disability -- much more if he survived longer.

So young workers are building substantial survivors and disability protection for their families as they work, Mustian pointed out. At the same time, they are building retirement and health insurance protection for themselves in their later years.

Relatively few will, of course, die or become disabled at age 35. And the young man earning the maximum of $7,800 a year that is covered by social security will continue paying social security contributions on those earnings. By the time he is 65, he will have paid a lifetime total of $16,490 toward his retirement, disability, and survivor benefits -- if you add compound interest of 3 1/2 percent, $39,700.

With an average life expectancy of 13 years more, the present male life expectancy at age 65 -- and with a wife the same age entitled to wife's benefits ($1 percent of the contributions he will have paid.

The worker now middle-aged or older will fare even better, Mustian pointed out. A man 50 years old this year, for example, who has paid social security contributions on the maximum amount of earnings creditable toward social security since he started work, say in 1940, can expect to collect retirement benefits worth almost 3 times the value of his social security contributions.

By the time he retires at the beginning of 1983, the value of his total social security contributions (counting in an allowance for interest they would have accumulated if he had otherwise invested them) will be $13,583.

Based on average life expectancy, and assuming again that he has a wife entitled to wife's benefits when he reaches 65, the value of his combined retirement benefits will be $37,459.

If, on the other hand, he is among the 19 percent of men reaching 65 unmarried or widowed, the value of his retirement benefits alone will be $21,815 -- still over $8,000 more than the value of his lifetime social security contributions.

The official seal of the Commonwealth was described in a bill passed by the General Assembly on December 20, 1792, six months after Kentucky joined the Union. The seal shows two friends embracing each other, with the words "Commonwealth of Kentucky" over their heads and around them the words, "United We Stand, Divided We Fall."

Store Disqualified From Food Program

A United States District Judge has sustained the action by the U.S. Department of Agriculture disqualifying a Chicago retail store from participating in the Food Stamp Program for 30 days, ruling that "a corporation is responsible for the acts of its agents even though the acts are committed without the knowledge of the corporation."

The disqualification of "The Market Basket" grew out of an investigation by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, working through its Office of the Inspector General. It is the first time a case involving disqualification of a grocer for violations of the Food Stamp Program has been judicially reviewed.

The investigation revealed that "The Market Basket" was returning cash to Food Stamp customers as change and selling ineligible items. These actions are in violation of the Food Stamp Regulation which are presented to all retail grocers in orientation sessions before actual participation begins.

"The Market Basket" and its parent company, Landslide Foods, Incorporated, had sought dismissal of the disqualification action, claiming that "the evidence produced before the Department of Agriculture and its reviewing officer failed to indicate or justify that the plaintiff (Landslide Foods, Inc.) knowingly or willfully violated or permitted violation of the Food Stamp Program by its employees; and that the decision to disqualify for any period of time was grossly disproportionate to the degree of culpability, if any, by the plaintiff."

Judge Julius J. Hoffman said that the administration determination was proved entirely valid, appropriate and fully warranted by the facts, and that the "agency's (USDA) determination was not unwarranted."

Disqualification of "The Market Basket" from the Food Stamp Program began June 21 and will last for a period of 30 days.

The Food Stamp Program helps low-income families to stretch their food dollars by purchasing Food Stamps with the amount of money a family of comparable size and income normally spends for food. The Federal Government then adds a bonus amount of stamps, giving the recipient the benefit of more food for the same amount of money.

When sewing, spray starch on hems, seams, facings, etc., and then press them with an iron. They stay pressed better, and it saves pinning the two seams together -- especially if they are straight pieces. The starch doesn't interfere with the sewing and it doesn't have to be ripped out.

Houseplants breathe through tiny pores that face their leaves. If these pores become clogged, the plants may wither and die. That's why it's important to remove dust and soil regularly from the leaves. The easiest and best method for cleaning the leaves is to wipe leaves gently with a damp soft cloth. You can set small plants in the sink and spray them with a fine mist.

A nose for history and a keen eye for the markers can lead visitors on a fascinating history hunts in every section of Kentucky.

Russell Mullins of Livingston is shown in the above photo with a 21 pound grouper which he caught while deep sea fishing in Florida. It took Mr. Mullins, who works for Kentucky Stone Co., about 20 minutes to land the fish. KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE NEWS
by J. Robert Miller, Commissioner

Saturday, September 21, has been set as the date for the referendum among Kentucky dairy farmers seeking approval for an assessment program on milk produced for sale. The levy was authorized under Senate Bill 289 passed by the 1968 General Assembly. The State Board of Agriculture has certified the American Dairy Association of Kentucky as the agency to handle funds collected under the assessment program. Senate Bill 289 specified that an agency representative of the producers of a given commodity be certified by the State Board.

Under the law, I as Commissioner of Agriculture have general supervision of the milk producers referendum and must approve the time and manner of voting. My office will also be responsible for tabulation of the ballots. In this referendum milk producers will be asked to approve the deduction of a specified sum of money from the milk they sell. The ADA has proposed that the assessment rate be four cents per hundred for Grade A milk and three cents per hundred for Grade B. Participation in the program will be voluntary. All farmers who produce milk on a commercial basis will be eligible to vote in the referendum. Polling places will be designated in all counties with farmers who produce milk for sale. Each polling place will be staffed by an employee of the Department of Agriculture and a person representing the ADA, the Farm Bureau or some other farm group. All funds collected under the referendum will be used for research and the promotion of milk and dairy products. Greater research efforts and more emphasis on promotion have been asked by the American Dairy Association as well as dairy leaders throughout the nation.

The annual Central Kentucky Barrow Show & Carcass Contest will be held in Campbellsville, September 11-16. The on-foot show will be held at the Taylor County Fairgrounds and will offer classes for both youth and adult exhibitors. A carcass display and demonstration will be staged at the Taylor County RECC building on September 16. Some $2,500 in prizes will be awarded exhibitors. The show is sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture and is one of four barrow shows sponsored for Kentucky swine producers.

And speaking of shows, I would remind 4-H and FFA members that our district beef shows open with the shows at Murray, September 23-26. The other shows will be as follows: September 25-27, Blue Grass at Lexington; October 1-4, Pennyroyal at Hopkinsville; October 5-9, Green River at Owensboro; and October 9, the Northern Kentucky at Maysville. The shows which run more than one day will offer both an on-foot show and a carcass contest.

The fascinating aspects of music history lining past to present.

LEGAL NOTICE - DAIRY REFERENDUM

Pursuant to the authority invested in me by KRS 247.450 to 247.595 I, J. Robert Miller, Commissioner of Agriculture, Commonwealth of Kentucky, do hereby call for a referendum to be held September 21, 1968, among Rockcastle County milk producers and those who share in the proceeds of the same. Voting time shall be between the hours of 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. at the Rockcastle County Courthouse.

Producers will be asked to vote on the question of whether or not to levy an assessment on milk sold to any commercial firm at the rate of four cents per hundred for Grade A milk and three cents per hundred for Grade B milk. The assessment shall be deducted from the seller's check by the buyer. All funds collected are to be administered by the American Dairy Association of Kentucky for research, advertising and promotion of milk and dairy products.

VETERANS Questions & Answers
Q - My sister is married to a World War I veteran who draws 100 per cent service-connected disability compensation. As his health is extremely bad and he is in his 70's, I am concerned about her financial welfare in the event of his death. Will she be entitled to any benefits as the widow of a disabled veteran?
A - Possibly. If a veteran dies as a result of a service-connected disability, his widow is eligible for death compensation. This amounts to $120 monthly, plus 12 per cent of the monthly basic pay now being received by a serviceman whose rank and years of service are the same as those of the deceased veteran. If the veteran's death is not the result of a service-connected disability, the widow may be eligible for a pension from the Veterans Administration. Detailed information may be obtained from the VA regional office where her husband's veteran records are kept.

Q - I am a war veteran but have never asked for my benefits from the Veterans Administration. Can I get a free medical examination?
A - Medical examinations are made by VA only in connection with an application for some sort of benefit, such as hospitalization.

Referendum Called For September 21

Kentucky Commission of Agriculture J. Robert Miller has called a referendum September 21 among Kentucky dairy farmers on the question of an assessment on milk produced for commercial sale. Enabling legislation for the measure was passed by the 1968 General Assembly.

According to Commissioner Miller, all Rockcastle County dairyman who produce milk for sale to a commercial firm and those who share in the proceeds will be eligible to vote in the referendum. Voting time will be between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. at the Rockcastle County Courthouse.

The balloting will be under the supervision of personnel of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture. A simple majority is required for passage of the referendum.

Funds collected under the assessment will be administered by the American Dairy Association of Kentucky. The ADA has been certified by the Kentucky State Board of Agriculture as the agency to handle the program.

The assessment funds are to be used to promote the sale and use of milk products through advertising and promotion. They will be levied at the rate of four cents per hundred Grade A milk and three cents per hundred for Grade C milk. The check-off will be collected by the dairy plants and remitted to the ADA of Kentucky.

new UNCONTROLLED CATTLE GRUBS

Cattle grubs cost you too much money to let them go uncontrolled. Several treatments are available that do a good job of controlling them. The systems are popular now and can be used in a variety of ways. Apply them as backline pour-ons with high-pressure sprayers, dip the cattle in them or include them in the feed or minerals. In the case of the pour-ons and sprays, the insecticide is absorbed through the animal's skin. The systemic, within the animal's system, controls grubs before they show up in backlines. These systems also help control lice, horn-flies and other parasites.

U.K. recommendations for the backline method include Co-Ral 4% in oil, Ruelene 25% EC, Ruelene BR and Neguvon 6% in oil. Maximum per head dosages are Co-Ral - 4 ounces; Neguvon - 4 ounces and Ruelene - 8 ounces. Pour any of these products down the backline of the animal.

For spray treatment Co-Ral 25% WP and Ruelene 25% EC are recommended. Mix three pounds of Co-around 25¢. U.S. farm turkey prices during August- November will likely average about 22¢ - about 2½¢ per pound higher than during the same period of 1967. Most of this price increase for the new crop will occur during the latter part of the August- November period.

New records in poultry and beef consumption were set by the American consumer in 1967. Consumers ate a total of 176 pounds per capita of red meats such as beef and pork, and 46 pounds of poultry making a total of 222 pounds of meat consumed by the average American.

Broilers made up a large portion of the total poultry consumption figure. Last year over 33 pounds were eaten per capita, with the remainder of the consumed poultry being comprised of turkeys and fowl. This 33 pounds of broiler meat consumed represents a 200% increase since 1950. Indications are that this trend will continue, as demand for broilers appears to be on the increase. Exports for 1967 broiler per capita consumption will increase another 40%. This, along with the population increasing itself, paints an optimistic picture for the broiler industry.

SEPTEMBER FOR SEED

THE LAWN
In Kentucky 90% of the lawn grass seed is sold in the spring but the first half of September is a much better time for sowing. Bluegrass is a cool weather crop. If sown in September it will grow during much of the fall and early winter. By next spring it should fully occupy the soil and be able to shade out or crowd out most of the crabgrass which will be coming up about late April or May. If you wait until spring to sow bluegrass it will probably come up, then before it gets much of a root system, it may die in a drought about April or May. In any event the new spring sown lawn is in a death grip with crabgrass almost from the beginning. So let's sow the new lawn during the first half of September.

To get good results you must have a good seed bed which should be prepared now. Have your soil tested and fertilize accordingly, or you may fertilize with 15 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer or its equivalent, per thousand square feet. So 1 pound of good clean, high germinating bluegrass seed to each thousand square feet. Keep the seed moist until they germinate and the plants are established. If water is not available then mulch the ground using 1 bale of weed free straw per thousand square feet of area. The use of water is preferable to mulching but either can give good results.

Remember to prepare the ground now and sow the seed during the first half of September.
