INFORMATION PROGRAMS PLANNED BY CLUB HERE

Do you know the history of Rockcastle County? Appalachian history? How the past has made the present? How the present can decide the future?

If you would like to know more, come to the Rockcastle County Courthouse, Thursday night, February 13, at 7 p.m. to hear Dr. Richard Drink, history professor from Berea College.

February 13 will be the beginning of a series of weekly programs to let you, the people of Rockcastle County, know about existing programs you can use.

These meetings are being held mainly because a group of concerned persons realized how little they knew about such things as A.S.C.S., Extension Service, Farmers Home Administration, welfare rights, taxes, etc. Top people in each of these programs will be on hand at these meetings to explain and answer any questions which anyone might have concerning the programs.

The Kentucky Institute for Community Development has worked with the local Rockcastle Craftsmen Organization, which is sponsoring these meetings in arranging and coordinating these public information sessions for everyone in Rockcastle County.

the boys and their parents, the youths escaped the more drastic corrective measures.

"Lack of regular school attendance," according to Superintendent of Schools Charles Parsons, "often results in students being drop-outs."

"Educational and sociological research studies show that school drop-outs are more subject to become offenders of the law," Mr. Parsons said.

Judge Wayne Van Hook stated, "in view of these facts, parents should be more concerned with keeping their children in school."

way create further taxes for the people of this area and certainly did not mean that they would be annexed to the city. Linville said that one of the major arguments in favor of the commission was, the fact that the majority of industries wanted the land where they built new factories, zoned.

Wade Ray of Renfro Valley, Inc., also a pro-zoning advocate, told the group "we might just as well pack up and go home from Renfro Valley without zoning because if we cannot secure a loan from the Economic Development Administration for expansion then we will not be able to pay for it."

Mr. Ray represents the group which last year bought out John Lair and took over the operation of Renfro Valley. He said that there were plans in the making for the construction of a new auditorium and amphitheatre and other improvements in the Valley which would mean dollars in the pockets of the local residents.

He stated that zoning does not mean restrictions "it just means that certain areas will be zoned residential, industrial, agriculture, or recreational. And you yourselves (the people who live and work in this area) make the laws and it has not been a restriction but a protection."

Godiff Craig, who spoke for the commission, said the group that he realized and sympathized with the problems that confronted the people in this area. He told them that he knew that a zoning commission might restrict some of his own activities but that there usually had to be sacrifices made in order that more good might come to the county as a whole.

He cautioned the group to keep in mind "the age in which we live and the things which we want out of life." Mentioning the fact that so many of our young people have to leave the county to find employment, Mr. Craig told the group that he felt certain that a zoning commission would be a benefit to the people who wanted to live and work here but were unable to do so because there was no industry and therefore no way of making a living.

"However," Craig said, "before industries locate in an area, they consider the intellectual climate and the attitude of the people in the county. They do not want to locate industry and spend money in an area unless the people in that area

The main argument from the anti-group seemed to stem from the fact that they did not want anyone to tell them or their having to ask anyone what they could or could not build on their own property. Mayor Linville tried to clear up this point by stressing that all that would be necessary, if they desired to build something which did not fit into the commission's laws, would be to appeal to the commission for a hearing on their request for a change.

However, it was to no avail as the Fiscal Court members seemed to feel that the people who had elected them did not desire the commission and on a motion by Curtis Roberts, seconded by C.W. Phillips, the court rescinded the motion on the zoning commission which they had passed at their January meeting. In other business before the court, the board requested that the road, going by the Herbert Lair residence off of the Scaffold Cane Road, be repaired. Magistrate Hubert Thacker assured him that he would have a work crew repair the road immediately.

Mrs. Earl Baker also requested the court to grant permission for the use of the courthouse one night a week for meetings to be held by the Rockcastle Craftsmen Club. The request was granted.

The permanent airport planning committee was set up with three members being named by the county and three by the city. Mayor Clyde Linville named Clifford Bales, Lewis Neeley, and Harvey Rush to the committee and the county named Wade Ray, Hubert Harris, and Dr. Jack Lewis.

Hubert Thacker made a motion to set up Highway 1152 as a "yellowline" road which means that the state will be asked to maintain the road. Sherman Sargent seconded the motion and it passed unanimously.

Superintendent Charles Parsons appeared before the commission and requested their help in keeping the roads in a condition so that the school buses could continue to run. He expressed his appreciation to the court for their efforts so far in this endeavor.

Fourteen years have passed and gone since God called and you went home. It left us all so sad and alone, it won't be long until I come home. The angels came one cold winter night and picked a flower for Heaven so bright. It was God's will for you to go, but we still miss you down here below. I'll just be faithful to the end and pray the family will unite again. Maggie Gray

Holt, custodian of the Roundstone School, that he be allowed to move from the school's house at Roundstone to his own home. Bige Towery, a teacher at Round-stone, had requested that the Board rent the house to him at a reasonable rent and that he and his wife would be on hand to oversee things. The board voted to rent the house to Mr. and Mrs. Towery at $40 per month.

There were several resignations to be considered by the board at the meeting. Betty Lou Adams, a Title I aid at Brodhead, had submitted her resignation and the Board hired Mrs. Darlene Cameron to replace her. Edna Cook Williams submitted her resignation, as an elementary teacher at Sand Springs and Jeannine Cummins was hired as replacement. Trula Pittchett resigned her position at Well Hope School and Ronald Burdette was hired as her replacement.

Board member Virgil Mullins asked the board to explain why Climax and other county schools did not receive any aides under Title I and why the Remedial Reading bus had been discontinued to several county schools.

Superintendent Parsons explained that the Title I money was distributed according to the number of children enrolled in a school and that the Title I program had already been set up this year but that there might be a possibility of more county schools being included in next year's budget. The remedial reading bus was discontinued mainly according to Mr. Parsons, because batteries and gasoline were scarce.

During discussion of the new high school, Mr. Parsons told the Board that a Facilities survey by the State Department of Education had recommended that the new school only include the last three grades instead of the 9th through the 12th.

CARD OF THANKS
 I want to thank the many friends who helped me in my sorrow, the ones who brought food and the beautiful flowers, especially those who took me to the nursing home to visit my sick husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cromer and Mrs. Jimmie Cromer, for singing the beautiful songs, Bro. Ovie Smith for his consoling words, and Cox Funeral Home for their fine service.

Red Devils Lose Two; Blue Devils Win Two

By Roger Jones

The Mt. Vernon Red Devils went down to defeat in another close hard-fought game last Friday night to Casey County 71-65.

Coach Jack Laswell said costly turnovers and bad passes near the end of the game cost his team the victory.

In the scoring column, the Red Devils were led by Jesse Powell with 16, Joe Howard 15, Howard Saylor added 13, D. Coffey 10, Phillips 8, Burdette 2, and McCaulley 1.

In a home game Tuesday night, the Red Devils were defeated 81 to 76 by Jackson County.

Again, as in the last few games, the Red Devils have been in the contest until the last few minutes. The game was close all the way with the lead changing several times. Neither team could contain the lead for very long.

And, again, costly errors by the Red Devils as Jackson County made several baskets in the last minute when the Red Devils gave them the ball through mistakes.

Mt. Vernon was led in scoring by Powell with 19, Saylor had 17, Howard 15, McCaulley 14, D. Coffey 8, and Burdette 3.

The Devils will journey to Nicholas County Friday night and their next home game will be against Annville February 14.

The Livingston Blue Devils added another victory to their total last Friday night by downing Jackson County 77-67.

The Blue Devils steadily pulled away from Jackson County on the shooting of Lonnie Mink and Norman Owens and led 39 to 31 at half-time. Both teams fought an even tussle in the third period with Livingston scoring 19 points and Jackson County 15.

Livingston had four players in double figures with Lonnie Mink leading the way with 23 points followed by Norman Owens with 21, Jackson added 16, Gambrel 11, Shepherd 4, and Hurley 2.

Again, the Blue Devils traveled to Danville to play the Kentucky School for the Deaf on Tuesday night and picked up their second straight victory by defeating KSD 93-52.

Paced by Earl Jackson and Lonnie Mink, it was obvious from the start that KSD was no match for the Devils as the Devils pulled to a 20 point lead at half-time 39-19. In the second half, it was all Livingston, as the Blue Devils racked up 54 points to 33 for KSD.

Livingston was led in scoring by Earl Jackson with 28, followed by Mink with 24, Norman Owens added 18, B. Gambrel got 12, Kenny Hurley had 8, Larry Shepherd 2, and Jerry Reynolds 2.

Carter Will Seek County Judge Post

A member of the Mt. Vernon Christian Church, Fred Carter is married to the former Hazel Brown. He is presently employed in construction work and is a 32nd Degree Mason.

In a recent issue of the Signal in a story concerning Mr. J.R. "Boone" Cromer's announcement as a candidate for Magistrate on the 2nd District, the Signal erred in saying that he was a "life-long" Republican.

Mr. Cromer will be a candidate on the Republican ticket in the May Primary. The Signal regrets this error.

The name of Floyd Owens, recently elected secretary of Ashland Lodge 640 F & AM was inadvertently left off from a story about the club's newly elected officers which appeared in last week's Signal.

With Mr. Carter's announcement there is now a three-way race for the county judge's office. Magistrate Hubert Ash of Jeffersville Tip Reppert have previously announced their candidacy for this office.

NEW OFFICERS OF SADDLE CLUB—William I. Norton, standing, center, was re-elected president of the Rockcastle County Saddle Club at the club's banquet held last Monday night. Board Hires Fiscal Agent For New County High School

The Rockcastle County Board of Education has hired Stein Bros. and Boyce as their Fiscal Agent for the new county high school. The Board, which had bids from seven firms, decided to accept Stein Bros. and Boyce because of their experience with several other counties building new schools and because they are such a well-known respected firm.

Stein Bros. & Boyce's bid was $11,250 or 3/4 of 1% of the total $1,500,000 project for the new school.

In other business before the board, a delegation of men from the Wildie and Roundstone communities met with the board to discuss the possibility of the school facilities at Roundstone being used for recreation by youngsters in the area. Billy Hiett, spokesman for the group, told the board that since the other consolidated schools in the county were used for recreational purposes and since the principal at Roundstone, Roland Mullins, did not object to the use of the facilities, and that since the recreation would in no way be church sponsored but community sponsored that the community desired the use of these facilities.

Mr. Hiett also told the board that the group would be willing to 60% under the closest supervision of the superintendent and principal and that the recreational programs would be more than adequately chaperoned and supervised by responsible persons in the community.

The board granted the request on a motion made by Virgil Mullins and seconded by Willie Taylor.

The board also moved to grant the request of Brocade (Cont. To 8)

Fiscal Court Reverses Decision On Zoning Law

A storm of protest broke out the heads of the Fiscal Court members last Tuesday when a group of Rockcastle County citizens met with the court to protest a motion passed by the court last month which would have set up a zoning commission for a one and one-half mile radius of Mt. Vernon. About fifty persons were on hand to express their views (90% of who were against the action) to the court.

FLONNIE MCFERRON DIES AT BERA
Flonnie McFerron, 65, of Mt. Vernon, died Wednesday, January 29 at the Bera Hospital. She was a native of Rockcastle County, the daughter of the late Tommy and Ollie Lovins Stevens, and a member of the Mt. Vernon Church of Christ.

Besides her husband, Sam, she is survived by four sons, Estil of Route 4, Richmond, Bentley of Clinton, Clinton of Wildie, and Paul of Arlington Heights, Ohio; five daughters, Mrs. Alma Robbins and Mrs. Elsie Crocker, both of Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Zora Robbins and Mrs. Ollie Mink, both of Sand Springs, and Mrs. Frances McNally of Wildie; one brother, Ed Stevens of the Ottawa Cemetery.

MONEY STOLEN
Logan "Bertie" Wilmont, owner of the Mt. Vernon Cub Company, has reported the theft of about $20.00 in change from his cash stand in Vermont.

According to Mr. Wilmont, the theft occurred last Friday afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6 p.m.

CONTRACT LET
A contract for $2,384,912.21 for a bituminous concrete surfacing project on Interstate 75 in Rockcastle County has been awarded to Holloway and Son Construction Company, Inc., Middletown, by the Department of Highways, Governor Louie B. Nunn and Commissioner of Highways William B. Hazelrigg announced today.

The project will extend northward from the north end of the bridge over the Rockcastle River to US 25 at Burr, a distance of 8.1 miles.

MRS. LILLIE ALLEN BURIED AT FRESH HILL
Mrs. Lillie Allen, 60, of Mt. Vernon, passed away Thursday, January 30 at the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital. She was a native of Jackson County, Tennessee.

Besides her husband, Isaac Allen, she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Novella Spencer of Lewisburg, Ohio; three sons, Johnny of New Canfield, Ohio and Ashley and Jess, both of Dayton, Ohio; four sisters, Mrs. Delia Allen of Livingston, Mrs. Lettie Johnson and Mrs. Elizabeth Sears, both of Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Laura Gibson of Hamilton, Ohio; 13 grandchildren, and 1 great grandchild.

Speaking against the motion was led off by Wade Hopkins who owns and operates a machine shop on U.S. 150 and whose property would be included in the one and one-half mile area. Mr. Hopkins told the court that the zoning commission would "not benefit either the county or anyone else." He said that industry actually did not want to locate in an area that was zoned since they had so much trouble with the restrictions imposed by these laws. He cited three examples of industry which had moved out of Ohio into areas in Kentucky which were not zoned because of the restrictions. Mr. Hopkins said, "I do not see any sense in telling people what they can build or how to build it on their own property."

Mr. Hopkins was supported in his views by several other business people in the area. Earl Nichols, who owned a service station in the area, protested the zoning along with other such as Lige Hopkins, Rose Brock, Curtis Barnett, Uls Ramsey, Wayne Hysinger, and others.

JUDGE PROBATES TWO IN TRIJANCY CASE
Two Livingston youths were given a second chance last week in Juvenile Court by County Judge Wayne Van Hook. The Court had been petitioned by Mrs. Nancy Williams, Pupil Personnel Director for Rockcastle County Schools, to investigate the truancy of James Ellis Renner and Gerald Sturgill, both students at Livingston School.

Judge Van Hook stated that the Rockcastle Court is "100% in favor of enforcing the Kentucky Compulsory School Laws." However, after stem counseling with

Gregory Announces For County Attorney

William D. Gregory, 29, has announced his intention of seeking the Republican nomination for Rockcastle County Attorney in the May primary.

Gregory, a native of Rockcastle County, is a graduate of the American High School, the University of Kentucky, where he received his B.A. degree, and the University of Tennessee Law School. He has also spent two years in the Armed Services.

Mr. Brock expressed his fear to the court that such things as the zoning commission might eventually lead to annexation of the area by the city of Mt. Vernon, with additional taxes involved.

Both Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Brock, and several other anti-speakers, received hearty rounds of applause from the crowd. Most of the protestors seemed to feel that this was an attempt by the City of Mt. Vernon to meddle in their business and to get more control over their property. However, Mayor Clyde Linville stressed the fact that the city was not involved in any way with the zoning commission. The zoning crowd that the commission would be made up entirely of people from the one and one-half mile radius and the city would have no say so over their actions whatsoever.

Mayor Linville also tried to clear up some misconceptions which the anti-group had about the commission. He told the group that setting up the zoning commission would be in no way with the zoning commission.

An Editorial

Progress is a funny thing. It is easily there if we are willing to work for it and it is just as easily not there if we refuse to reach out for it.

Progress is a necessary evil. It is necessary to the lifeblood of a community if it is to grow and prosper and it is an evil to our citizens who do not desire a change but do basically desire to grow and prosper.

Progress takes many faces. It comes in the form of the county's new water system, in the facade of the vocational school, in the plans for the new county high school, in an individual's dream of economic prosperity, and a county's dream of a healthy economic growth.

We have said that progress is easily obtained, and it is, there are certain guidelines to be followed to progress and these guidelines are clear cut. The county has progressed a great deal recently and has also recently turned its back on one of the basic guidelines for progress.

Many of our most solid citizens met with the Fiscal Court last Tuesday to protest the court's action, at their last meeting, to set up a zoning commission for an area within a one and one-half mile radius of the city limits of Mt. Vernon. The county has been requested by some of the business people and residents of this one and one-half mile area to set up a zoning commission in order that the commission would have some authority in the future building in this area.

Many good arguments were heard on both sides of the question, the opposition's main objection was that they did not feel that anyone should have the authority to impose restrictions or limitations on what they might decide to build on their own property. The pro-group attested that the zoning commission would mainly be used as a safeguard against "fly-by-nighters" capitalizing off of the business and residential investments in this area.

Wade Kay, of Renfro Valley, Inc., pointed out to the court that his company planned the expenditure of one and one-half million dollars in construction for expansion. He stated however that this expenditure would probably not be possible unless some zoning laws were passed to protect their investment.

It seems to boil down to the age-old question of "Where does your freedom end and mine begin?"

My freedom begins when I have the right to ask the "powers-that-be" for the protection of my investment. Your freedom begins when YOU have the right to ask that your investment be protected.

Somewhere, there has to be a point of arbitration where these rights are decided by a fair and impartial board of local residents who only have the best interests of all the people in the county at heart.

Perhaps the best idea would be to draw up these zoning laws for the people to see so that they will know exactly what they are being asked to approve. This is, no doubt, the crux of the problem. After all, it is only human nature to fear and distrust that which we do not understand completely.

There would be NO additional taxes involved with these zoning laws; there would be NO question of the area being annexed to the City of Mt. Vernon; there WOULD BE a board made up of this area's own representatives to decide these laws, and there would be a step made in the right direction by the county to promote tourism and attract industry.

Forestry News

Many farmers and woodland owners do not realize that they can obtain assistance in forest management from the Kentucky Division of Forestry in the same manner that they get assistance in cropland management from their county agent and soil conservation service representative.

Landowners must pay taxes on their land whether or not they receive any return from it. If all this land is not being used to its maximum capabilities and producing satisfactory returns for the landowner this tax money is simply being thrown away.

Having money invested in land which produces little or no return is like saving money in a bank which pays very little or no interest.

However, the returns produced by almost all land can be increased by use of better management practices.

Land that is too steep, too poor, or too eroded to be tilled in tobacco, corn, or pasture can be used for timber production. Most land of this type already has trees growing on it. But the fact that there are trees growing on such land does not necessarily mean that it is producing maximum returns on the landowner's investment. Timber is a crop just as tobacco or corn is a crop and to just let the trees grow without trying to improve the quantity and quality of timber being produced is like planting corn out in the weed field and forgetting about it until picking time next fall. As any farmer knows, it just doesn't work this way. It takes longer to produce timber than to grow corn, of course, but the principles are the same. To get the maximum yield a little time and effort must be put into the crop.

Most timber stands may be improved by killing off cutting out old cull beech which are overtopping and shading out young poplar or by killing grape vines which are choking out young growing timber. Mature and overmature timber may be marked for a selective cut leaving good young growing timber standing for a future cut. There may be steep eroded hillsides which could be planted in pine.

PCA COMPLETES THIRTY-FIVE YEARS

When the Cumberland and Production Credit Association completes its first 35 years of service to Southeastern Kentucky farmers on February 12 it will have made loans totaling more than $100,000,000.

"These funds," declares Dalbert Sheman, general manager of the association, "brought into this community from the nation's money centers such as Wall Street, have been a boon to local businesses as farmers used the proceeds of their loans to provide the ever increasing cash inputs of farm production."

Times were so hard when the association was chartered on February 12, 1934, under new legislation providing for a nationwide system of local production credit associations to be operated by and eventually owned by the farmers they served, it was difficult to find five farmers in the area who had the necessary $2 to buy a share of stock to qualify as a director, says Sheman.

The Cumberland and PCA has 4,065 farmer-members in twenty Southeastern Kentucky Counties. During 1968 nomination made Jones amounting to $13,000,000 and on December 21 had a net worth of $2,027,979. "Loans were made" Sheman said, "for just about every sound purpose for which farmers in this area use short- or intermediate-term

In addition to its central office at Somerset, the association maintains field offices at Campbellsville, Columbia, Greensburg, Liberty, London, Monticello and Mount Vernon.

Social Security News

James Mustian, Officer-in-Charge of the Somerset Social Security Office said today that a new booklet, "What's the Status of the Social Security Trust Funds?" is available at the Social Security office in the Tradewind Shopping Center.

"The booklet," he said, "explains how the social security retirement, survivors, disability and Medicare programs are financed, and gives a report on the income and outgo of the four Trust Funds out of which benefits are paid; the amount of cash reserves in each; and the expected operations and status of the funds in the years ahead."

The 16-page booklet is a summary of more detailed reports on the four funds, submitted to the Congress earlier this year. The reports show that the social security program continues to be both financially and actuarially sound, Mustian said.

In a foreword to the new booklet, Robert M. Ball, Commissioner of Social Security, says, "Since the full reports are lengthy and detailed, we have prepared this summary for the information of those who want the key facts about the financing of social security without taking time to study the complete reports."

Ball also notes that no aspect of social security has received more attention than its financing: "Great care has been taken, both by Congress and the Executive Branch, to make sure the program is adequately financed. Congress has been scrupulous in providing in advance for full financing of all improvements in social security."

"To further assure that the system remains sound, its financing is reviewed periodically by independent, non-governmental advisory groups representing employers, employees, the self-employed, and the public. 'Each council,' Ball points out, "has reported that social security is soundly financed, and that each of its programs has, and can be expected to have, income sufficient to meet its obligations."

The law directs the Boards of Trustees of the four social security trust funds to report each year to Congress on the operations and status of these funds, and on expected operations in the future.

The Trustees responsible for the 1968 report were: Henry H. Fowler, Secretary of the Treasury and Managing Trustee; W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Labor; and Wilbur J. Cohen, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare. Robert M. Ball, Commissioner of Social Security, served as Secretary, Board of Trustees. Copies of "What's the Status of the Social Security Trust Funds?" may be obtained by calling, writing, or visiting the Somerset social security office. The telephone number is 678-8168.

and milk starts. A producing cow will need about 28 pounds of good hay a day (use a 30 percent legume hay, if possible) and a pound of protein. If hay is 50 percent or higher legume, supplemental protein will not be necessary in the winter ration.

3. SILAGE RATION: A dry cow will need 40 pounds of a good corn silage daily, a cow-milk, about 60 pounds. Add a pound of soybean meal a day for the cow in production.

4. CRITICAL PERIODS: These are just after calving and at breeding time. Nutrient needs are much higher during these periods. Rations should have plenty of energy and protein for milk production and body maintenance. A ration that lets a cow produce enough milk to wean her calf is probably good enough to keep her in breeding condition.

5. FEEDING PRIORITY: Give young cattle, first-calf heifers and cows nursing calves the best forage on hand. Older and larger cattle, non-calvers, etc. can use lower quality feed in winter.

Seeding Time is Near For Renovated Fields. It looks like the number of grass fields being renovated is going to increase again this year. The best time to seed these fields is mid-February to mid-March.

In case the weather caught you before you completed everything last fall, here are the steps to be completed this spring for maximum success:

1. Pull a soil test and apply needed lime and fertilizer. Nitrogen is an needed. A quality, nitrogen favors the establishment of grass instead of the new legumes.

2. Tear up about 20 percent of a good sod using a tiller, cultivator or disk harrow. On rolling land, till on the contour. Just ahead of seeding, smooth the soil.

3. Seed adapted legumes at the rate recommended for seeding alone. Use certified seed when available. Be sure that you inoculate the legume seeds with the correct nitrogen-fixing bacteria at seeding time.

Some seeding rates, in pounds per acre, for renovating: (1) White clover 1-2 pound and Kenland red clover 4-6 pounds (2) Kenland Red Clover 7-9 pound (3) White clover 1½-2 pounds (4) Alfalfa 12-15 pounds (5) Alfalfa 8-10 pounds (6) White clover 1½ pound.

More Profits from Feed and Livestock

Are you interested in doubling your pasture yields and improving your livestock program? Mr. Seldon V. Hall, University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Specialist in Beef Cattle, Mr. Wilbert Earley, University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Agent in Dairy Cattle, and Manuel B. Aron, University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Agent in Agronomy, will conduct a joint feed and livestock meeting Tuesday, February 11, 1 p.m. in the circuit courtroom of the Rockcastle County Courthouse.

Mr. Arnett will show slides and discuss pasture renovation, corn and silage production. Mr. Hall will discuss the latest recommendations in producing beef cattle, and Mr. Earley will discuss the latest dairy production recommendations. Feed production and livestock production together, and one cannot succeed without the other.

Anyone interested in feed and livestock production is urged to attend.

UK Recommendations Given For Winter Feeding of Beef Cow Herd

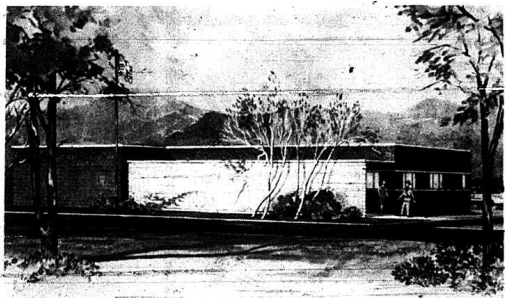

Beef cow herds usually need supplemental feed during winter, says Seldon Hall, Area Extension Beef Specialist. Supplemental feed usually makes up the major source of feed for 90 to 120 days depending on location in the state, he says.

Remember these points for winter feeding:

1. DRY/PREGNANT COWS: Most common ration is 20 pounds of good grass or grass-legume hay per day (2 pounds per 100 pounds bodyweight). This needs requirements if loose salt and a source of calcium, phosphorus (bone meal or dicalcium phosphate) are available at all times.

2. LACTATING: Beef cow's requirements increase about 40 percent after calving.
