Fish and Wildlife Conservation—Its Effect On My Community

By: E.A. "Ted" Thomas

The year is sometime in the future. The place is Shelby County. It is Saturday, and a father has taken his young son to a downtown museum. They are looking around, when suddenly the little boy sees a dusty object in an obscure corner. He asks his father what it is, and his father tells him that it is a fishing reel.

"What was it a fishing reel?" asks Junior. "A fishing reel was used hundreds of years ago to catch fish," says Father. "And that gurbeside it was used to hunt rabbits."

"But what is a fish? And a rabbit?" Junior inquires. "A fish is an animal which lives in streams," says Father. "And rabbits live in the forest."

"Daddy, will I ever get to hunt rabbits and catch fish?"

"No, son, you won't, because these animals have been extinct for over three hundred years. Although it may be surprising, this look into the future could very well become true. As a matter of fact, it did come true for the passenger pigeon, which was wiped out in a period of 50 years; its death was chalked up to greed and carelessness—Extinction has happened in the past, and it may happen in the future. Some people may plan to sit by and let it happen, but take a different view. Reading on will reveal some important things we have to lose, and then why we can't lose them.

Hunting in Shelby County is a big business. In a period of one year alone $5,000 was collected for hunting licenses alone. And along with this goes the fact that over 300 hunting dogs have been licensed for this season. These facts themselves prove that hunting is important, even though the revenue is but a part of the financial benefit Shelby County receives from hunters and hunting each year.

This benefit is not all financial though, for the hunter can receive something that money can not buy. One such hunter put it this way: "Hunting is relaxing, and is a challenge that can be both physically and mentally."

Almost all of our county's hunters feel this way, and many a headache and upset stomach have been cured pursuing this challenging sport. But good hunting is wise hunting, and if the rules are not followed, our wildlife could be in even more danger than it is today. This is why wildlife conservation is so important in our community.

Even though hunting is important, it seems small next to the importance of fishing. Over $11,000 was spent on Shelby County licenses in the past year, and fishermen may spend as much as $300 on reels and other equipment. These facts show a great interest in fishing, and because of this interest, our community must conserve its fish.

But not all the money is spent by fishermen, for the state department has stocked over 500 small ponds with bass and bluegill. One Shelby County hatchery, because of sales made to the state department and to privately owned, commercial lakes, has grossed almost $150,000 in a one year period.

These aspects are all important, because Shelby County has based so much of its economy on the money it receives from the things mentioned previously. But in fishing, even more than hunting, the money does not matter. For fishermen receive a unique combination of satisfaction and relaxation that only this popular sport can bring.

Another facet of recreation in connection with wildlife is bird watching. This sport is not just for old ladies on front porches, but for everyone who likes to brush with nature. One bird watcher says she likes it because it gives her a feeling of collecting, such as finding seashells on the beach. Unlike fishing and hunting, bird watching is in season all year round, and the only equipment needed is binoculars and maybe a guidebook or two. Almost all bird watchers keep a life list, which they will proudly show to anyone who might be interested.

All these recreational activities are aspects in the overall future of our county's wildlife. And because of fishing, bird watching, and hunting, our wildlife and our community, our fish and wildlife are much too precious to continue on in senseless killing. Conservation rules must be followed, for adherence to them will mean so much to future generations. Think of these things while hunting or fishing, for your consideration today means bright hope for our fish and wildlife in the world of tomorrow.

Gunshot Wounds Fatal To Mrs. Della Mae Griffin, 28

Mrs. Della Mae Griffin, 28, was dead on arrival late Sunday afternoon at the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital. According to Coroner Billy Dowd, Mrs. Griffin was shot twice, once in the abdomen and once in the chest, with a .20 gauge single barrel shotgun.

The shooting, which occurred at Mrs. Griffin's home on Chestnut Ridge about two miles south of Mt. Vernon, was allegedly the result of an argument between Mrs. Griffin and her husband, Lester Franklin Griffin, 26.

According to a statement given the State Police by Griffin, the couple were arguing over a car battery while Mr. Griffin was cleaning his shotgun. Griffin told police that during a scuffle over the gun, it went off and his wife was shot. However, Griffin told police that he had no knowledge of the second shot.

The couple's two-and-one-half year old son, Stephen, was in the yard at the time of the shooting and afterwards was taken to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Griffin, who also live on Chestnut Ridge, by his father. Mrs. Griffin reportedly told his parents that his wife had been shot and left his son and returned to his home to await police.

Griffin was lodged in the Mt. Vernon City Jail Sunday and Monday, the Grand Jury, which was already in regular session, returned an indictment against Griffin charging him with "unlawfully, willfully, maliciously, feloniously, and of malice aforethought, kill, slay, and murder, his wife Della Mae Griffin." Bail was set at $8,000 and was filed late Monday afternoon when Griffin was freed pending his arraignment Thursday in Circuit Court for a trial date to be set.

Besides her son and husband, Mrs. Griffin is survived by her parents, Gillian and Hesperia Dangler, both more of Mt. Vernon; three sisters, Mrs. Ruby Allen and Miss Leta Fay McLenore, both of Covington, and Miss Elizabeth McLemore of Mt. Vernon; and three brothers, Charles, Jack, and Bill, all of Mt. Vernon. She was a member of the Church of Christ.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at Sparks Funeral Home Chapel with Bro. Howard Kelley and Bro. Russell McFerson officiating. Burial was in the Elmwood Cemetery.

Blue Devils Lose In Regional Play

The Livingston Blue Devils were downed 58 to 48 by Knox Central in the District play for a win in Regional Basketball play. The Devils were all tied up with Knox Central, 11 at, at the end of the first period of play, but were ahead 5 points at half time and the score was tied 39 all at the end of the third quarter. However, in the fourth quarter, the Devils were forced to change their defense when Knox Central went ahead and they were unable to contain the big team which had one 6' 7" player and two 6' 4" players.

If we had been at full strength physically, we would have won this game going away. We had a very fine ball club and I am very proud of the way the boys fought in this game and throughout the season," Coach Preston Parrett said. "Boys like Lenny Mink, Norman Owens, Kenny Hurley, Billy Gambrel, Earl Jackson, and the rest of the squad are a credit to their school and we are very proud of them." Coach Parrett further stated,

"The Devils had a higher shooting percentage (53%) than did Central (44%); however, Central out rebounded the Devils 32 to 28 and Livingston committed 9 floor errors which actually gave Central 14 more shots than the Devils had. Norman Owens, who got 18 points in the game, was named to the All-Regional Team.

Twenty-Five Attend "Information Class"

Last Thursday night's "Information Class," which was held in the County Courtroom of the Courthouse was a very interesting and informative one.

Twenty-five persons were on hand to hear Bob Pike, Adult Education Department in Frankfort, speak on what Adult Education can do for adults, and how everyone in Rockcastle County can get an education. It takes only 10 interested people, 18 years or older, to get a class started and anyone with less than a high school education may attend.

Classes are set up to teach everything from learning to read and write to getting your high school diploma. This diploma makes you eligible to go to college or to get a better job and it is all free.

If anyone is interested in getting a class started or joining one, contact Charles Parsons, Superintendent of Schools, Mrs. Faye Baker 256-4479, or Mrs. Ruth Pease 256-4332.

The Westwood office of the Kentucky Institute for Community Development spoke to the group on the School Lunch Program. He read the law on what the requirements are for a child to get a free or reduced cost lunch.

According to Mr. Vanderpool, the law also states that no child can be made to work for his free or reduced cost lunch in any way be it as a "fed as not being able to pay.

Superintendent. Pa. s. was also present and answered questions concerning the School Lunch Program on the local level. Mr. Parsons brought out the fact that there actually wasn't enough money or food available to meet all requests but he stated that if a request

CITY'S WATER BONDS CAN BE SOLD EARLIER

The City Council received good news last week when they were informed that they would be allowed to sell the bonds to finance the water system about 5 or 6 months earlier than originally anticipated.

The bonds were originally scheduled to be sold some time after January 1, 1970 but since the project is moving along so well and also since the project will almost certainly not run over its budget, it is now felt by EDA that the bonds can probably be sold either the latter part of July or the first of August.

The difference in the amount of interest which the City will have to pay on the bonds and the interest which they would have had to pay on interim financing will amount to a good savings for the City.

Annexed Area Gets New Insurance Rates

The area annexed to the city limits of Mt. Vernon in 1968 has been granted the city's present fire protection classification by the Kentucky Inspection Bureau. This means that residents of the area annexed will pay the same rate for fire insurance protection that residents, who were already in the city limits, are paying.

The decision came in a letter to Mayor Clyde Linville from John L. Thompson, manager of the Kentucky Inspection Bureau in Louisville, after a representative of the KIB had met with Jack Craig, Water Superintendent, and the city's consulting engineer. After a review of the present fire protection classification and the improvements accomplished to date, it was felt by the KIB representative that the city's present fire protection classification could be extended to dwelling property within the area annexed in 1968, based upon the improvements accomplished. The improvements being accomplished, and the sparsity of development within the area.

When the water system improvements are completed this year, a KIB representative will return to make a complete resurvey and evaluation of the city's fire defenses.

The city fire department was also inspected and several recommendations were made for certain improvements. Among them were (1) care and maintenance of the apparatus and equipment be improved

WE ARE SOLRY

The establishment of a pool room in Mt. Vernon, which two local townsmen discussed with the Mt. Vernon City Council, caused us (and others) untold confusion on names.

Virgil Alcorn and Raymond McGuire were the men who met with the Council to discuss the poolroom and Mr. McGuire's name was used in last week's paper. The Signal regrets this error.

high school musicians throughout the United States are selected for the band, it is quite an honor and membership evolves a great deal of prestige.

In addition to the concerts and a great musical experience under one of America's finest conductors, there will be much educational sightseeing on the tour. Chaperones for the tour are experienced in working with young people and the organization will be intelligently chaperoned.

Hotels, motels, and food will be of the finest quality. The cost of membership is $45 which includes all food, lodging, and transportation, plus other benefits and expenses while on the tour.

The Rockcastle County Jaycees have already contributed $100 towards the membership fee and it is hoped that other civic organizations in the county will recognize this fine boy and musician in a similar way.

As a candidate for Magistrate from the Second District, I am vitally interested in our county affairs and our roads.

I wonder if some of our Magistrates are as interested in building roads as building a political machine.

I am asking for the opportunity to serve you for the next four years and I pledge to you that I will use my best judgment in caring for the affairs of our county. I also believe the voters of District 2 are perfectly capable of choosing their own Magistrate to represent them in their affairs for the next four years.

on Labor and Public Welfare.

Although he is a co-sponsor, Cooper said he will reserve the right to suggest amendments to the proposed legislation. He also expressed a hope that the Labor Committee would take into consideration the extent to which the large and highly mechanized mines differ from the smaller ones in their effect on health and safety.

"But I want to express firmly my belief," Cooper said, "that new hazardous conditions in our coal mines require new remedies, if we are to provide for the health and safety of our workers."

Cooper added: "My co-sponsorship of the bill and my experience of many years in working with such legislation will enable me to have a part in developing the bill that finally will be adopted by the Senate."

In reserving the right to suggest amendments, the Kentucky Senator pointed to the previous experience he has had in dealing with mine safety legislation.

"I have reviewed the President's proposals," he said, "and I consider them to be strong and comprehensive measures for dealing with and meeting the increasing problems of health and safety in our coal mines."

The Senator pointed out that President Nixon, in his message on mine safety legislation, said "These proposals are not intended to replace the voluntary and enlightened efforts of management and labor to reduce coal mine hazards, which efforts are the touchstone to any successful health and safety program. Rather, these measures would expand and render uniform by enforceable authority the most advanced of the health and safety precautions undertaken and potentially available in the coal mining industry."

Cooper pointed out that Kentucky is the third largest coal-producing state in the nation. He also stressed that the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals has taken an active safety lead in conducting inspections and providing programs for the education of miners.

The Kentuckian discussed his efforts on behalf of mine safety legislation in the Federal Coal Mine Safety Act amendments were considered by the Senate and House Committee in 1965," he said, "I testified before both Committees before the Senate Labor Subcommittee was marking up the bill, H.R. 3584, in 1966, which was enacted in law. I was invited by the Chairman of the Committee, former Senator Morse, to meet with the Subcommittee in executive session so that my comments on various provisions of the bill, an amendment to the existing mining operations and procedures could be considered by the members of the Subcommittee."

"When the bill was considered on the floor, by colloquy with the manager of the bill, former Senator Morse, I helped to establish legislative history in which Senator Morse stated the bill as amended, provided a more effective measure. I mention this history to indicate my long-standing interest on this subject of coal mine safety legislation."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Missing and Presumed Dead

One fine morning Watson missed his wife, departed for the office and dropped out of sight. Years passed with no clue to his whereabouts. Finally Mrs. Watson, despairing of his return, put in a claim for her missing husband's life insurance.

The insurance company refused to pay off without "proof of death." Mrs. Watson promptly took the matter to court.

"Seven years have gone by without any sign of my husband," she argued. "Surely he must be dead."

This made sense to the court, which ordered the insurance company to pay her claim. The judge said:

"A normal person will not, if alive, remain away from his home for seven years without communicating with his family or friends." By and large, courts follow this "seven-year rule." That is, they accept a presumption of death after seven years of unexplained absence.

But the absence must indeed be unexplained. The presumption does not apply if there is some other logical explanation, besides death, for the person's disappearance.

Thus, another wife's attempt to collect her husband's life insurance was denied, even though she had not heard from him for eight years.

The court noted that the missing man had abandoned his family once before, that he was a fugitive from justice, and that his girl friend had vanished at the same time—all good reasons for him to "be low."

Not does the presumption of death apply if there has been no reasonable effort to locate the missing person. For example, a court refused to presume that an absent husband was dead, when it appeared that his wife had not even bothered to ask her in-laws if they knew where he was.

Suppose that, after the presumption has been accepted and the insurance paid, the "dead" man turns up alive. In a case where that did happen, the wife was required to refund the money to the insurance company.

The court could see no justice in letting her keep both her husband and his life insurance.

products of the respective states and prepared by the most popular method of the locale.

For quite some time the three Senators have been involved in heated debate over the relative tastiness of the Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee hams. Senator Cook advocates the taste-test and is willing to stand by the decision of the judges. The three hams are to be prepared by the Senate chef and served to the members of the U.S. Senate, who will select the winning ham.

Spring is fun, not work... with clean Electric heat

Flameless! No dirt... no film!

Cleaning house this spring instead of enjoying it? You need electric heat. In an electrically heated home you can see the difference. Because flameless electricity simply can't make dirt. You can count the difference, too, in house cleaning hours saved in dollars saved on decorating and in cleaning drapes and furniture. Ask any of our hundreds of electric heating customers. They'll tell you that extreme cleanliness is one of the things they like most about electric heat.

Before building or remodeling also ask our local office all about electric heat and learn something else our customers like the reasonable cost. Flameless electric heat won't burn a hole in your pocket.

No one person invented the automobile. It took the ideas, the inventiveness, the patience and the persistence of many people, who shared a similar theory, to make the automobile what it is today.
There are only nineteen makes of automobiles manufactured today, and only eight companies building them. The painstaking improvements and progress made over the years have produced for us comfortable, economic and convenient means of transportation.
Likewise, the manufacturers of the new mobile home have taken great pains and exerted much effort to bring you the finest home that money can buy. PRETTY YELLOW MARSH FLOWER
If you have ever driven along the usual marshes of our eastern seaboard you probably have noticed small, yellow flowers growing along the swamps. These lovely plants are Tickseed (Coreopsis).
Tickseed are favored by gardeners because of their beauty and because they are readily cultivatable. The swamp plant is an annual, but there are also perennial species. One blooms in the summer and the other in the fall. Most species produce yellow flowers, but some are brown and yellow.
Festal gifts convey a special message to someone dear. We have the widest possible selection of potted plants. Select one today and let us deliver it to a shut-in friend. You can provide the sunshine to brighten someone's day.

Social Security News

Residents of the Rockcastle County area who are receiving monthly social security checks are reminded by James Mustian, social security manager in Somerset, to report directly to the Somerset Social Security Office any change of address or other events affecting continued receipt of their checks. Reports may be made by mail, phone, or in person. Appropriate report forms are available at the office located in the Tradewind Center in Somerset.

Mustian said this reporting method enables the district office to take advantage of the increased capacity of its high speed communications circuits to transmit information to record centers. Until recently, social security beneficiaries were encouraged to notify the Social Security Administration of these events by mailing preaddressed postcard forms to a record center.

Events that affect receipt of monthly social security checks, in addition to address changes, are starting or stopping work (employment), marriage or remarriage in some instances, divorce, and death.

Mustian also reminds area residents that the Social Security Office is now open until 7:00 p.m. on Monday nights for the benefit of those persons unable to come in during normal working hours. The telephone number is 678-8188.

A-Yes. SGLI is not issued by VA but by private insurance companies. By John B. Beckleridge
Attorney General

In September of 1968 I appointed the "Attorney General's Consumer Protection Council" composed of 24 members representing commerce, education, agriculture, finance, home economics, labor, the low-income group, the Negro community, senior citizens and youth.

This Council was formed as a result of efforts to strengthen the activities and responsibilities of the Division of Consumer Protection of the Attorney General's Office. At the time I announced the formation of this group I noted its objectives to be as follows:

To bring together persons with knowledge in particular consumer areas, to study consumer problems and advise the Consumer Protection Division.

To assist the Attorney General in accounting the public with the services available through the office of the Attorney General, and to alert the public to fraudulent or improper practices in order to help the consumer protect himself.

VETERAN'S Q & A

Q- I have just completed three years of Army service and plan to enter college under the G.I. Bill this coming fall. If I work while attending college, will the amount of money I can be deducted from my G.I. Bill allowance?

A- No. The amount of G.I. education allowance paid by the Veterans Administration is determined only by the amount of schooling you receive (i.e., full-time, half-time or quarter-time training), plus the number of your dependents.

Whether you work or have other income does not affect your VA allowance.

However, an outside job could affect your school schedule -- that is whether or not you will be allowed to carry a full-time course.

Q- My pension from the Veterans Administration was increased the first of the year. Was this an automatic cost-of-living increase and will the pension be raised again next year if living costs continue to rise?

A- The increase in your VA pension was not automatic. It resulted from a law passed by Congress last year restructuring the VA pension program and providing for increases depending upon the amount of the recipient's income. Since it is not automatic, any future increases in pension amounts must be legislated by Congress.

Q- When I was discharged from the Army a couple of months ago, I converted my $10,000 Service Life Insurance policy to a permanent policy. I have recently been advised by the Veterans Administration that I can apply for up to $10,000 government insurance since

Planting Trees and Shrubs
Now is an excellent time to set practically all kinds of plants. Digging holes for plants or preparing the soil in the flowerbeds is one of the most difficult steps in planting. For example, if you are planting shade trees, you are planting shade trees, you are planting shade trees, before the trees are secured.

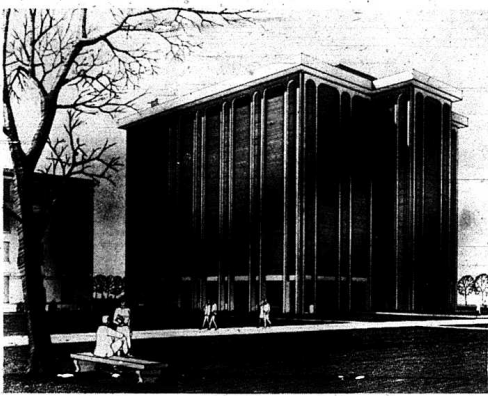

If the soil is found to be poor when it is removed from the hole, setting a plant in it will not make it any richer. Therefore, the thing to do is to discard the poor soil and bring some good soil from the garden or a cultivated field to replace it. You will be giving the plant a chance to get a good start.

If the soil is wet at the time of planting, do not tamp it around the roots of the plant. Instead, put it over the roots rather carefully and pour 4 to 5 gallons of water over the plant 'to melt' the soil around the roots. Then fill the hole with soil, but leave the soil loose.

Two or three handfuls of a good, high grade fertilizer may be mixed with the soil when each tree, evergreen, or shrub is set. This fertilizer acts as a kind of a starter for the plants, hastening the development of new roots. Of course, these young plants must be watched throughout the entire summer to make sure they do not suffer from lack of water. Plants around the foundations of a building must be watched especially because the building may prevent them from getting water even during a rainy season.

Planting Vines
Spring is the best time of year to set any kind of vine such as English Ivy, Vinca or Hydrangea, Bittersweet, wisteria, and Clematis. Few home-owners are taking advantage of the decorative value of vines when they are carefully selected and correctly located. A bare spot near the side of the house where there is too much shade for shrubs, grass, or evergreens may be covered with English Ivy or Vinca. Vines can be used in place of an awning on a side of the porch or to set a fence which is not attractive.

Farm buildings can account for 25 to 75 per cent of farm capital investment," George Turner, UK ag. engineer, says. "It's money in the bank for both farmers and builders if proper construction techniques and building designs are followed," he added.

In addition to Mr. Turner, George Duncan and John Walker of UK's ag. engineering department will be on the program. Others appearing on the program are: Ed Cox, Portland Cement Assn.; Paul Johannsmeyer, American Plywood Assn.; and Keith Fisher, Buller Manufacturing Co.
