The Brodhead Chapter of Futura Homeowners of America will observe National FHA week March 23 through the 28th, with special emphasis being placed on the interpretation of the FHA Organization.

The club plans to present each member of the faculty with a red rose, the organization's official flower, and a poster will be made for window display in downtown Brodhead and around the school.

SCOUTS COOKIE SALES STILL GOING ON HERE

Mrs. Jack Lewis, local Cookie Sale Chairman, announced recently that there are still plenty of the four varieties of the Girl Scout cookies for sale at 50 cents each.

The four varieties offered for sale are chocolate mint, peanut butter sandwich, butter flavored shorties, and assorted sandwicks.

The 7,550 Scouts of the Wilderness Road Council are hoping to sell 160,000 boxes of cookies this year. Each Girl Scout troop retains 10% of their total sales. This is often the only money for which a troop earns money for its troop program. The remainder of the proceeds of the sale goes to the Council treasurer. The net profit of the cookie sale is used to help finance the camping program and for the maintenance and improvement of the five camping properties within the Wilderness Road Council's jurisdiction.

In 1968, the sale of Girl Scout cookies made it possible for over 2,000 camps, both Scouts and non-Scouts, to enjoy the Girl Scout program in the out-of-doors, through camping.

The local Scouts Cookie Station is located at Floyd Owens Real Estate office where the Scouts will pick up their cookies.

The four Mt. Vernon troops will sell, with everyone's help, 2,508 boxes of cookies.

Governor Asked To Consider Elimination Of "Fast Time"

Harold DeMarcus, State Representative from Lincoln and Rockcastle Counties has called on Governor Louie B. Nunn to eliminate "fast time" savings time in the event he summon the legislators into special session soon.

"I believe the people of Kentucky are overwhelmingly against fast time," Rep. DeMarcus said, "and I believe members of the legislature realize this now."

The Stanford Republican noted the "possibility" of a special session to raise Kentucky's maximum legal interest rate above the current 7 per cent and asked Nunn to include the issue in the agenda if he takes such action.

However, the governor and other state officials have indicated the probability of a special session is distant at the moment.

Related Development
In a related development, a spokesman for Gov. Wendell Ford reported Ford had received some encouragement during a visit to Washington on his plan for all of Kentucky to be placed on the same time zone this summer - regardless of the two current zones.

Ford talked with several members of the state's congressional delegation and a few "responsive," the informant said, especially GOP Rep. Tim Lee Carter.

The U.S. Department of Transportation suggested last year that Congress amend the Federal Uniform Time Act to allow states with more than one time zone to revise their setup as each legislative chooses.

Ford's proposal to Transportation Secretary Alan S. Boyd is that Western Kentucky counties now in the central zone be selected to comply with nationwide fast time requirements. Entire State On Standard Time Concurrently, the Eastern Kentucky section would be exempted from fast time and the net effect would be to place the entire state on standard time all year.

If nothing happens by April 30 Kentucky automatically reverts to daylight time through October.

The time issue occupied much of the 1968 Legislature's time and had a subtle effect on unrelated legislation - with advocates of fast and slow time busily engaged in trading votes.

The Vote Broken
As president of the Senate, Ford broke a tie in the Senate which put Kentucky on fast time last year.

Demarcus' letter to Nunn blamed the lieutenant governor, a Democrat, for "putting this burden on the backs of our citizens." Nunn is a Republican.

Demarcus repeated the main complaints of slow time supporters.

"He said fast time "will be especially hard on the farmer who is already beat by a labor shortage in the planting and harvesting of his crop... also our children will be leaving for school before daylight."

IT'S BIRTHDAY PARTY TIME
A birthday is coming up, so it's to be a gay party for the girls and boys. Every child thrills to see his very own name in print... and on a birthday cake their delight is a pleasure to see. Use a simple cake from your favorite recipe or mix it up with a special frosting course, and perhaps a little Bisco poured on top. Here's the frosting recipe:
LEMON CREAMY FROSTING
½ cup Necco's margarine
½ cup light cream syrup
¼ cup light cream
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
Food color
Mix margarine, cream syrup, and salt blending well. Stir in lemon juice and confectioners' sugar alternating, leaving until smooth and creamy after each addition. Add enough lemon juice to make a good spreading consistency. Stir in grated lemon rind. Take out about ½ cup and tint for decorating. Frost cake sides and top. # Social Security News

Time is running out fast for about 200,000 of the Nation's elderly people and the Social Security Administration has no way to get in touch with them. Some of these people may be living here in Rockcastle County, James Mustien, Social Security Office-In-Charge, said today.

They are people 65 and over who never signed up with the Social Security Administration for either cash benefits or for hospital insurance under Medicare, and who may lose their last chance to enroll in Medicare's doctor bill insurance if they wait until after March 31.

Mustien urged relatives and friends of these older people to remind them that for those born October 1, 1901 or earlier, this will be their last chance to get the protection that helps pay physicians' and surgeons' bills and other medical expenses. Those born during the last 3 months of 1901, in 1902 or 1903, will have to wait a year for another opportunity.

Over 95 percent of the 19.7 million people 65 and over were enrolled in this program that supplements the basic hospital insurance under Medicare. The enrollment period began on January 1 of this year, according to Mustien.

The Social Security Administration has addresses for 800,000 of the estimated 1 million not yet enrolled for the doctor bill insurance because they have been issued cards showing that they are eligible for the basic hospital insurance. But the agency has no addresses for the other 200,000 who have never applied to establish their eligibility.

Last month, the Commissioner of Social Security sent letters to the 800,000 reminding them of the open enrollment period. With the letter was a card for the person to send back, marked "yes" or "no."

Older people not signed up for the voluntary medical insurance who did not receive such a letter and card, should fill out the coupon printed below and mail it in a sealed envelope to the social security office. Or, if they wish, they may call or write for information. The social security office is located in The Tradewind Shopping Center in Somerset.

Please send me an enrollment card for the Supplemental Medical Insurance under Medicare along with a booklet giving information about the protection the program provides and how to enroll.

CONSUMER... COMMENTS

By John H. Byrnes, Jr.
 Attorney General

Never sign a blank contract form!

This seems to be a simple statement of advice which most Kentuckians would hold so elementary that they would ask, "Who would ever sign a blank contract?" Yet, the Consumer Protection Division handles frequent complaints involving cases where buyers have signed blank contracts - finding later that they have agreed to terms and costs far above and beyond what they expected.

A recent case was that of a couple who had purchased a used car over a year ago. They claimed that a price for the car had been agreed upon and the papers filled out and signed. Later, the salesman told them he had made a mistake in filling out the papers and asked them to sign another form which was then blank. They signed the blank contract and now claim that the salesman later inserted a price that was greater than what they had agreed upon.

When asked why they had signed the blank contract, the wife replied that she had always trusted people and didn't want to offend the salesman by refusing to sign the blank contract.

My advice to buyers faced with a request to sign a blank contract is to refuse - offending the salesman if necessary. No legitimate business man will be offended by the buyer's request that all terms and conditions be stated in writing before the contract is signed.

Citizens who have a complaint involving a consumer matter are invited to contact my assistant, Robert V. Bullock, Director, Consumer Protection Division, Office of the Attorney General, Frankfort, 40601, or phone 564-3235, Area Code 502.

Right to Advertise

Do you have a right to advertise whatever you please your local newspaper, so long as you are willing to pay for the space? No. As a matter of fact, ads worth millions of dollars are rejected annually by the nation's press, usually on grounds of bad taste or dishonesty.

To the advertiser who is turned down, this may seem to be an unlawful exercise of power on the part of the newspaper. One merchant, whose ads were found unacceptable, raised that issue in a court test.

"A newspaper," he argued, "performs a public service. It has a duty to make its advertising space available to one-and-all."

But his complaint was denied. The court said that, since a newspaper is not a public utility, it has the same privilege as any other private business to turn down a customer.

That doesn't mean there are no limits at all on a newspaper's right to reject advertising. Suppose, for instance, that the rejection is part of a scheme to choke off competition and set up an unfair monopoly. In such circumstances, the United States Supreme Court has ruled, the newspaper is violating the anti-trust laws.

What about the news and editorial columns? Could a person insist on being mentioned in those sections? Again, the newspaper has broad discretion as to what it will publish.

In one case, a reader went to court to complain that his letter-to-the-editor had never been printed. He based his complaint on the fact that the newspaper had invited its readers to write in.

However, the court said the newspaper's invitation for letters did not amount to a promise that it would print them all.

In another case, a political candidate sought damages from a newspaper because it failed to mention his name in a story about the election. But the court ruled that it was the job of the editor, not of the candidate, to decide what was newsworthy. The court said:

"The newspaper" must be the judge of the news it prints."

CANDIDATE ROUND-UP

With the Primary Election only a little over eight weeks away, two candidates for major county offices and one Magistrate are unopposed.

Robert Cromer, Rockcastle County Tax Commissioner, will sail through the May Primary and November General Election with no chance of an opponent. In order for Mr. Cromer to have had opposition in the May Primary, potential candidates would have had to pass a state examination to qualify as a candidate. Clarence Carter, who is this week announcing for County Clerk, is the only person, either Republican or Democrat, who took the test and passed. Mr. Carter then chose to seek the Republican nomination for County Clerk, thus ensuring Mr. Cromer of being unopposed.

RCEA Meet Mar. 10 At Brodhead School

Despite very inclement weather, the March 10th meeting of the Rockcastle County Educational Association "was a resounding success," according to Jack Laswell, RCEA president.

Prospects for good membership turnout looked gloomy as snow swirled on the roads, but the tally showed that 116 of the 156 teachers were present.

Persons stated that, "this was very rewarding since members of the teaching profession have long been accused of refusing to attend professional meetings except those held during the regular school hours."

He further stated, "I feel that the teachers are to be especially commended as the weather was very disagreeable on this night."

Larry Burdette of the Brindle Ridge section of the county, sustained a broken arm and bruised ribs last Thursday night when he was involved in a three-car accident on U.S. 150 about 1 mile west of Mt. Vernon.

According to Collingsworth, he applied his brakes and his gear started skidding on the wet road.

Collingsworth did not hit the car in his lane but struck a car traveling east, driven by Henry Blankenship of Crab Orchard, in the side and then struck Burdette's car head-on.

Spring is a magic word it's like a fairy godmother waving her magic wand to awaken nature and in doing so, reveals herself in splendor and beauty. Spring affects most people this way - awakening their spirit to renewed interest, hope and gladness.

With a renewed interest in life, it may be well to turn our attention to our family - those that are dear to us. Children especially need the very best from parents and adults. Little children can blossom into radiance and glory like the most beautiful rose if they're given proper nourishment.

This nourishment includes more than food - it includes love, understanding, patience, faith and the freedom to grow and develop. This freedom is to have certain limits of course, but the important phase of this freedom is to become what one is capable of becoming.

It may be easy sometimes to limit a child's growth by breaking his spirit or by making him feel he is not a worthy individual. Too much criticism and too little praise could cause a child to feel unworthy - thus breaking his spirit. To help a child feel self-worth is vital to his best growth and development - like water and fertilizer will help a flower develop to its fullest growth and beauty.

Spring and summer is an excellent time to enjoy the beauties and mystery of nature with children. Hiking, picnicking, camping, nature study and gardening are just a few of the opportunities that nature provides for families to enjoy. Emphasis is placed on the family as a unit because family togetherness is very important today. With the busy life family members live in today's modern society, effort should be made to provide a certain amount of time together.

Parents sometimes lose the art of communicating with their children, especially teenagers. Communication takes many forms in addition to talking. Good communication can take place in a relaxed way during hiking, picnicking or while working on a hobby.

Communication involves listening as well as talking, responding to people in either a positive or negative manner - smiling or frowning, listening or not listening. Listening to children and others involves using all five senses. We can see what ears cannot hear, we can feel that which we can neither hear or see - it is real challenge to listen to children - to sense their emotional needs and to be able to satisfy those to the best of our ability.

For STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Are you tired of false promises, disappointments, and having more and more new taxes imposed on you each year? Then you should vote for MONROE BAKER because MONROE BAKER is against the new auto license tag increase, the additional sales tax, the new auto transfer tax, the new auto inspection law (in its present form), and against any more property tax increase.

Some people would have you believe that our governor put these taxes on us, but this is not true. Our Governor asked for most of these taxes but it was our present legislators, that are still in office, that voted the taxes on us. Our present legislators are solely responsible for voting all these new taxes upon us and this cannot be denied. It is already history and a proven fact as to what our present legislators will do for us and it is also proof to me that if you send the same man back to Frankfort that you can only expect more and more of the same.

MONROE BAKER will work for industry for Lincoln and Rockcastle Counties. MONROE BAKER will introduce a bill for a pay raise for our jury in the local courts, and this is not just one of those false promises like you have heard in the past. MONROE BAKER will cost his vote for the good of the people in Rockcastle and Lincoln Counties. MONROE BAKER will cost his vote in the House of Representatives to get the hand in Frankfort out of your pocket.

How to Control Cluster Flies

Early spring brings warmer weather and cluster flies. Those large flies that buzz around the house as the days get warmer probably are cluster flies or "attic flies," as they are sometimes called.

Cluster flies are a little larger and more sluggish than houseflies. Although they do not cause any damage or carry serious human diseases, they are quite a nuisance on warm or sunny days.

Cluster flies do not breed, lay eggs or raise offspring in the house. The larvae or maggots of cluster flies develop as parasites in the bodies of earthworms. Adult flies emerge in summer and often can be seen on the sunny sides of houses as cool weather approaches. Later, they may enter attics through unsecured openings and get into rooms through window pulley holes, around baseboards, and through other small openings. A good way to kill cluster flies in a room is to use an aerosol bomb containing synergized pyrethrin, an insecticide that leaves no residue; this material kills only those flies it hits when sprayed. Or you might simply use a vacuum cleaner to "sweep up" the flies collected around windows and doors.

A new product on the market is a thin resin strip impregnated with the insecticide DDPV also gives good cluster fly control in most cases. These strips hung in a room, give off a small amount of insecticide vapor for two or three months. This vapor quickly kills flies and other insects when they appear, yet is not dangerous to use around humans and animals.

Control measures taken in the fall will help prevent cluster fly trouble next year. In late fall, when cluster flies try to enter the house to overwinter, apply a chlordane, malathion, or dieldrin spray to outside walls to face the sun, beneath the eaves, and around the windows. Screen attic openings through which the flies might enter.

Once the flies enter the house, the control problem becomes more difficult. The entire attic, especially the windows and rafters, should be thoroughly sprayed with a residual spray containing chlordane, malathion or dieldrin. A 10 percent chlordane dust may be blown into places difficult to reach with spray, such as between the walls.

Cattle-Grub Control In Order Now

Cattle grubs will be showing their characteristic evidence now — small holes in the hides on backs of cattle.

In a few weeks (early spring) they will emerge, drop to the ground and eventually change into adult heel flies. These heel flies in turn will lay eggs on animal's legs and bellies and the larvae from these will go into the animal's bodies.

If holes appear on cattle backs, apply an insecticide to the backs. Force the material into the holes by high pressure sprays or by using a stiff hand brush. For dairy animals a 5 percent strength wettable powder is recommended. Follow label directions carefully. For beef cattle, use one of the insecticides recommended for lice control (Co-Ral, Ruelene, Clodrin, Lindane, Toxaphene, Malathion, Korlan, and Methoxychlor). Read the labels for specific information regarding these materials in grub control.

Best time for grub control is the period July to October. This is done with a systemic insecticide, a material that is absorbed into the bloodstream and kills the grubs inside the animals' bodies before the larvae can do damage.

As now holes appear in backs of animals, repeat the treatment.

How To Prevent Damage from Termites

Preventing termite damage to your house or farm building does not have to be expensive. By following a few simple suggestions you can be certain that your buildings will be safe from termite damage.

In order to plan proper prevention against termites, we need to know some facts about termites. 1. They are social insects, that is, they live together in groups of colonies in nests in the ground. 2. Each colony has three castes: (a) reproductive king and queen; (b) workers - most numerous; white in color; blind; avoid exposure to free air; the food hunters; (c) soldiers - blind; similar in appearance to the workers, but have larger heads and jaws. They defend the colony against their chief enemy, the ant.

3. Termites can be distinguished easily from ants by their thick waistline compared with a thin wire-like waistline of the ant.

4. Termites eat cellulose which they get from wood. 5. Most favorable living conditions: (a) they must have water; that is, they must live in a moist atmosphere because they absorb mainly through their body tissues. (b) they must have food (cellulose). (c) they need a heat range from 40 to 70 degrees F.

You can kill termites, therefore, by eliminating any of these desirable conditions.

If you have a dry crawl space under a building, obtained by good drainage and ventilation, you can cut off their water supply.

You can keep them from getting to their food supply (the cellulose in the wood) by keeping all scrap wood off the ground, all old tree stumps and roots removed, and no stakes or forming boards left in the ground. No supporting framework of untreated wood should touch the ground. Be sure crawl spaces under buildings have plenty of room so you can check for mud tunnels being built from the ground up the foundation wall. Termites use this tunnel to get from their nest parts of the house. This tunnel allows the insect to avoid exposure to open air. If mud tunnels have been built, they can easily be scraped away to destroy the termite's passageway from his nest to his food. Insect for these mud tunnels at least four times a year.

Concrete foundations or concrete blocks with concrete caps or metallic shields are effective in keeping the termite from building tunnels. You can also use treated lumber in all floor construction to keep termites from the rest of the wood above the floor.

Treat lumber by pressure, using creosote oil or an odorless salt-base chemical.

You can also treat the soil along the foundation wall of a building and prevent termites from passing.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank those from Cincinnati and Norwood, Ohio, Mrs. Bertha Adams and Ronnie, and the West Broadhead Church of God for the beautiful flowers that were sent to the funeral of my husband, L.C. Preston.

We also thank Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brown, for the food, Rev. Carl Blanton and Rev. Henry Bryant for their consoling words, Bro. J.W. Bryant, for the beautiful prayers, Watson Funeral Home, who handled the funeral services so well, and the men who volunteered to dig the grave.

We thank them all and God bless them all.

Mrs. Mary West Preston and family

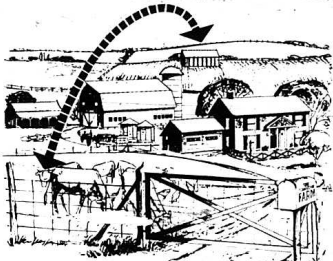

Until the 1920's, when the closed car became acceptable, the motorist had quite a problem. Not an automobile problem, but a problem of protecting themselves against the elements of nature, such as rain, dust, or freezing winds. Of course, in the cool weather, one could simply store his car, but rain and dust were threats the year round.

This problem was solved when many clothing companies came out with special designed exclusively for motoring, for both men and women. To the modern motorist of today, these costumes would seem grotesque and ridiculous, but they were quite fashionable as well as necessary then. Some of the more popular items were the woman's motor hat with dust curtain, the lady's ankle length rubber raincoat, the neck, ear and chest muffler and the dust coat, cap and goggles.

The manufacturers of the new mobile home have taken into consideration the elements of nature and weather conditions as well as the desires, comforts and necessities of those who will reside in them. The mobile home is completely insulated as well as ventilated, built of sturdy, top-quality materials inside and out, designed for maximum space utilization without sacrificing room to live, attractively furnished and complete with everything you need for easy, enjoyable living...and so economical too.

Flowers

By Ruth Fain

MUCH IS WRITTEN ABOUT ROSES

You probably read more about the rose than any other flower. Why, do you ask? There is a good reason—the rose continues to be the most popular of all flowers. The person that has no other flowers in her house will have at least one rose bush. The husband more than likely will order roses when he remembers his wife on their anniversary or some other special occasion—simply because the rose is symbolic of love.

Really beautiful roses are something that don't "just happen." Growers have worked extremely hard for hundreds of years to perfect the rose. They have done their job well.

Now would be the time to send your wife a dozen long-stemmed roses—not because it is any special occasion, but just to show your lasting love. Our flowers are carefully selected for their color and beauty. We will be happy to supply all your flower needs.

Library Notes

CHRISTY, by Catherine Marshall. Mrs. Marshall's first work of fiction is the story of a high-spirited and at 19 who is called to teach in Cutter Gap, in the Appalachians of Tennessee in 1912. She becomes deeply involved in the affairs of the small community, and at the end of her first year as teacher, missionary and friend, she finds that her destiny has been opened up clearly and profoundly to her. It is also a poignant love story, and a fine recreation of the time and the place and the many concerns of a mountain community.

English village, this presents three episodes in the life of one young man, Oliver. The first portrays the self-centered, confused world of the narrator as a youth, silently adoring an idealized girl while deliberately seducing another. The second, a brief adventure in near-force, displays the awkward awakening of maturity. The last, seen from an adult vantage, penetrates the complex realities of relationships as last viewed in complete awareness, without distortion, sentimentality, or rationalization.

SARAH MORRIS REMEMBERS, by D.E. Stevenson. The life of a whole generation is reflected in the reminiscences of Sarah Morris, who looks back to childhood in an English vicarage and a happy family growing up, and the expansion of her world as her brothers bring back friends from Oxford—among whom is Charles, the charming Austrian to whom she is strangely drawn. War comes to Europe, the established patterns of life are disrupted, and the friends and family are separated and at the end, Sarah and Charles are reunited to start out on a new patch of life together.

LEBON IN THE BASKET, by Charlotte Armstrong. An eminent surgeon performs a delicate operation on a young Middle Eastern prince, and the hospital (Cont. To 7)

SONS OF THE WOLF, by Barbara Michaels. A tale of suspense and intrigue, set in the dark wastelands of Victorian England by the author of the MASTER OF BLACKTOWER. Two girls, suddenly orphaned, find themselves and their inheritance assigned to the care of a distant relative—a Mr. Wolfson, who lives in seclusion at Abbey Manor on the edge of the Yorkshire Moors. Harriet, the elder of the girls, feels protective toward her cousin, Ada, a somewhat gentle girl of 17, and is conscious of a hidden menace in the lonely house. And she is terrified when a mad presents her with a talisman against werewolves.

VETERAN'S Q & A

Q- How can I check to determine whether my wife is the designated beneficiary of my National Service Life Insurance? This may be a strange question. However, my mother, who was my beneficiary when I went into service, died recently, and I cannot remember for certain that I filled out any form changing the beneficiary designation to my wife.

A- Write to the Veterans Administration office to which you send your NSLI premium payment and request that you be advised as to the beneficiary you have designated to receive the proceeds of that policy. In the event that you are not the designated beneficiary, ask the VA to send you form (29-336). It would also be a good idea to check the method of payment you may have previously selected to insure that the proceeds of your policy will be paid to your wife in the manner you desire.

Q- My brother has been in a VA hospital for three months. His last pension check was reduced to $30. Why was it reduced? Can it be increased to the amount he received before going into the hospital?

A- Your brother's pension check from the Veterans Administration was reduced to a low limiting pension to this amount for veterans without dependents after two full calendar months of hospitalization.

Your brother's full pension will be restored after he is released from the VA hospital.

Q- My son received his college degree under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act. He used his full 36 months entitlement. I am now eligible for up to 36 months of Veterans Administration educational assistance as the widow of a veteran killed during the Korean War. If I don't use my entitlement, may my son use part of it to obtain a graduate degree when he gets out of the Army after two years of service?

A- No, your entitlement is not transferable. The purpose of this education and assistance program for widows of veterans who died as the result of military service and the wives of permanently and totally service-disabled veterans is to enable them to advance their own skills and improve their own education so that they can re-enter or remain in the mainstream of American academic, social and economic life.

However, as a veteran himself, your son will be entitled to an additional 12 months of VA educational assistance as the result of a recent law permitting an aggregate of 48 months of educational assistance under two or more VA programs.

As a candidate for Magistrate from the Second District, I am vitally interested in our county affairs and our roads. I wonder if some of our Magistrates are so interested in building roads as building a spooling machine. I am asking for the opportunity to serve you for the next four years and I pledge to you that I will use my best judgment in caring for the affairs of our county. I also believe the voters of District 2 are perfectly capable of choosing their own Magistrate to represent them in their affairs for the next four years.

Come one, Come all and vote in the Republican Primary, May 27.

Sincerely Yours,

Good Family Eating Starts with Canned Italian Style Spaghetti

Occasionally, up pops a marvelous meatless recipe that rates a permanent position in your file of family favorites. Try this skillet dish of canned Italian style spaghetti and sauce, onion, and you'll find your family clamoring for it again and again. The flavor success of this dish lies in the new, improved taster spaghetti. With additions of more cheese, more tomatoes, and more spices, canned Italian style spaghetti (canned thin spaghetti) has become authentically Italian. Enjoy it right from the can, "as is," or combine it, for instance, with salmon and Italian green beans for a truly tasty and economical family meal. Keep a few extra cans of Italian style spaghetti on hand to use often at the base for many delicious dishes.

FRY A KETTLE OF FISH

How do you like your fish? If you're like most Americans, you like it fried—fried crisp and golden and served with a wedge of lemon. Now, how you fry your fish is altogether another kettle of fish. First of all, it depends on the fish. If you're frying oysters, scallops, clams or small fish, you may prefer to fry it in shallow oil or deep fat while if you're frying a fish steak, fish fillets or whole fish, it's better to pan fry it in 1/2 to 1/4-inch of fat. For frying fish, it makes sense to use an oil, such as 100 per cent corn oil, that provides active polyunsaturates. The fat in all fish, you know, is unsaturated. So by serving fish cooked in corn oil you can cut down your family's saturated fat intake. Here are directions for shallow frying fish in an electric frypan. MIXED FRIED FISH With flour or dunk in corn meal before pan-frying with a crumb coating. Your Maaza corn oil into a skillet or frypan to 1-inch depth. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees F, on a deep fat thermometer or as registered on an electric fry pan. Fry fish in hot corn oil 2 to 3 minutes, turning to brown both sides. Drain on absorbent paper.

Dr. Quizmee, our information specialist, is happy to answer his reader's questions in his weekly column. All responses are verified by Funk & Wagnall's Standard Reference Encyclopedia. As a starter, I'll take the query from John L. who asks: "Are helicopters of fairly recent origin?" Not unless you consider 500 years ago recent! Leonardo da Vinci's sketches of a flying machine in the 15th Century. All the 20th Century did was make an old dream a new reality. "Please tell me whether air and ozone are the same thing?" Ozone is not air—it is a special form of oxygen and is present in air in tiny quantities. There is a sharp odor, giving rise to its name which comes from the Greek word meaning "smell". Water, water, everywhere—and Frances G. wants to know: "How come 150 inches of rain must fall yearly in one spot, while 20 miles away the annual average may be only 15 inches?" It takes most air and mountain for this to happen. The moist air, rising over the mountains, cools and causes heavy rain on one side; then the clouds are drained of moisture, causing much smaller amounts of rainfall on the other side. If you are the first to submit a question to Dr. Quizmee, we'll include this newspaper, the writer of the column to be sure judge, you will receive free the full 64 volume set of Funk & Wagnall's Standard Reference Encyclopedia.
