Rev. and Mrs. Ray Cummins and sons, Bobby and Billy, have returned from a vacation tour visiting Rev. Cummins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Cummins,

"I used to stand up and say the world was a miserable place. Then I would sit down and do nothing about it."

Now comes the big question. What can you do? You're only one little individual among over 200 million people. How can you help?

For one thing, you might think about investing in your country. Showing your faith in its future.

That's exactly what you do when you sign up to buy U. S. Savings Bonds. You're simply buying a share in America.

You're also socking away some money for yourself.

Of course. Savings Bonds are not going to cure all our headaches. But they'll help to provide the economic strength we'll need for the job.

And at the same time, they can cure a lot of your financial headaches in the years to come. Any way you look at it, they make good sense.

And that's just what we need in this country - right now.

If they're not bad, why not buy some?

Social Security News

Many workers may not be receiving full credit for their social security contributions said James Mustian manager of the Somerset Social Security Office. Mustian said that most earnings are correctly posted to a worker's record; however, the Social Security Administration is unable to identify the correct records for some earnings. This happens when the worker gives his employer an incorrect name or social security number or an employer filed incorrect returns.

Every person should present his correct social security number to his employer when he starts to work Mustian stated. He should also check his social security earnings record at least every three years. Any social security office will furnish a worker with form OAR-7004 which is used to obtain a copy of his social security earnings record. If a worker follows these two recommendations, he can be assured he is receiving full credit for his social security contributions.

Mustian stated the accuracy of a person's social security earnings record is very important because a worker's eligibility and the amount of cash benefits payable to the worker and his family will be determined by his social security earnings record. He suggested that anyone who desires to check his social security record contact his nearest social security office and ask for form OAR-7004.

CONSUMER COMMENTS

By: Attorney Gen. John Breckenridge

There it is, a repossessed, brand name sewing machine at a ridiculously low price. You rush to the phone and call the number that appears in the paper. The lady promises to send a salesman out right away. When he arrives, the salesman brings a dilapidated and beat up machine covered with grime and dirt. The salesman then explains the obvious - this machine is not suited for your purposes. However, the salesman just happens to have a more suitable machine out in his car. It turns out to be a brand you have never heard of and at a price many times what you had intended to pay. If you buy - you have been the victim of one of the oldest schemes on the books - the "Bait and Switch."

This scheme is used to sell many different types of products from sewing machines to swimming pools. The idea is to bait the consumer with the offer to sell a product that is never meant to be sold and then switch him to a more expensive and profitable model.

I strongly suggest that Kentucky buyers beware of such sales tactics and promptly report them to my Consumer Protection Division. Citizens who have a complaint involving a consumer matter are invited to contact my assistant, Robert V. Bullock, Director, Consumer Protection Division, Office of the Attorney General, Frankfort, 40601, or phone 564-3235, Area Code 502.

Area Agent's Notes

BY: H. Lee Durham Area Extension Agent Pepper Production

Two hundred-sixty farmers in Rockcastle County are growing approx. 500 acres of bell peppers this season. Prospects for a good yield are good at the present time. Insects may become a major problem without the grower realizing it. The 2 insects which are most likely to be troublesome are the pepper maggot and the European Corn Borer.

Neither of these insects are easily detected because they do very little damage to the leaves. They feed mainly on the pepper and may have destroyed several peppers before they are found. They frequently enter the pepper when it is small causing it to develop a soft rot. The peppers may remain on the plant for weeks before soft rot occurs, or they may decay soon after insects feed on them.

There is no way to know when these insects will be a problem, although they appear to be worse during wet weather. The best insurance against insects is to spray or dust weekly beginning when plants start to bloom and repeating three to five times.

The following materials may be used for the control of the pepper maggot: Thiodan, Endosulfan, Dyltox or Malathion.

The European Corn Borer can be controlled by using Sevin. Follow manufacturer's recommendations for their use.

One case of bacterial spot disease has been reported in Kentucky so far this year. The disease may develop in more fields if weather conditions continue to be hot and humid. The disease first appears on peppers planted on low land which has poor air drainage. Recent tests have shown some control can be obtained with streptomycin sulfate and with fixed coppers. Only fixed coppers should be used at this time if the disease occurs. An application of coppers this week is recommended until the weather cools off and becomes less humid.

Kentucky Farmland Values Continue to Climb, But Slower
The value of Kentucky's farmland has almost tripled since 1950 and has stayed ahead of the national average for increased value per acre.

"Area Agent's Note"

According to Dr. John H. Bondurant, agricultural economist at the University of Kentucky. Kentucky farmland and farm building values per acre have climbed about 17% per year while the national average is less than 130 percent. Bondurant said. His recent study shows that - on the average - an acre of Kentucky farmland that was worth $81 in 1950 is now worth $224 (Nov. 68 figures). "This upward trend will continue," Bondurant said, "but at a lower rate." Continued high interest rates on long-term farm mortgages and rising farm production costs will have a depressing effect on land sales," he added. Several factors, however, will keep the value of farmland up through 1969, even though the increase will not be so great as in the past, he noted. These include general inflation, improved agricultural technology, and slightly higher prices for farm products.

Another factor influencing land values is that less farmland is available for resale. Since 1950, Kentucky has lost 2.8 million acres of farmland to urban and industrial development, highways, recreational areas, and other nonfarm uses. Across the nation last year, farm sales dropped 5 percent. Fifty-seven percent of the farmland sales was acreages to enlarge an existing farm unit. Thirty-nine percent of the farmland purchases were made by nonfarmers for nonfarm uses. Bondurant predicted slightly higher prices for farmland in most of Kentucky. The greatest increases, of course, will be for land purchases made by metropolitan centers for urban development or part-time use.

Health Certificates for Horse Shows The Kentucky Board of Agriculture in regular session June 12, 1969, approved a change in the health requirements for horses entering show events. Effective immediately, Kentucky horses entering shows in Kentucky will not be required to be accompanied by a health certificate or to be examined by a veterinarian.

Out of state horses will be required to be accompanied by a health certificate issued within ten (10) days and indicating that the animal has a normal temperature.

All persons or organizations sponsoring horse shows are encouraged to continue having a veterinarian on the grounds to examine the horses even though it is no longer a requirement of state regulations.

State and Federal livestock inspectors will continue to be in attendance at most show events in order to check the health certificates on out of state animals.

Great Saltpetre Cave Development Progresses

Development of Great Saltpetre Cave, located on Route 1004, 9 miles from Livingston-Mt. Vernon interchange on I-75, is well underway, according to John Lair, owner of the historical site.

Other features of the cave and surrounding area which are expected to be completed in 1971 include: the complete modernization of a part of the camping area nearest the cave; the construction of a milldam on Crooked Creek to impound water for commercial trout fishing, and additions to the cave museum inside of the cave.

Mr. Lair also stated that some thought is being given to bringing the old stagecoach over from Renfro Valley and establishing a run between the cave and the Old stagecoach tavern. Some of the sites inside the cave to be seen are: Echo Auditorium, Atlas Pillar, Saltpetre Works.

1969-70 County Tax Rate Set; Lower Than Last Year

The tax rate for Rockcastle residents will be .7 of one percent lower than last year, according to County Court Clerk Clifford Bales.

The tax breakdown for 1969-70 is as follows: School, 34.6; 12.8, county; 2.5, health; 1.3, library; and 2.0, agriculture for a total tax rate of 53.2% of $100 property valuation as compared to 53.9 last year.

The health, library, and agriculture taxes stayed the same; however, the county tax came down .2 from last year's rate and the school rate last year was 35.1.

The Fiscal Court recently approved a $125,817.00 budget for the coming year; a figure which is up $3,000 over last year's budget.

A breakdown of the budget for 1969-70 is as follows: General Government - $41,520, up $2,722 over last year's appropriation; Protection to Person and Property, $6,500, same as last year; Health and Sanitation, $10, down $50; Hospital, Charities, and Corrections, $860, down $365; Debt Service, General Fund, $12,300, down $500; Miscellaneous, General Fund, $12,000, up $423; Highways, $28,800, up $4,150; and Other Funds, $23,827 up $327.

The net estimated receipts, which is the amount the county expects to take in from the various tax levies, breaks down as follows: net estimated receipts from tax levies, $55,000; delinquent tax receipts, $310; truck license, $29,000; fines, forfeitures, etc., $6,000; excess fees, $2,000; interest on deposit, $541; occupational licenses, $2100; election expense refund, $1,400; motor vehicle operator's licenses, $500; property transfer tax, $1,500; rent, $6,240; forestry, $1,127; Health, $9,600; library, $5,300, and agriculture, $7,800, for an estimated revenue total of $128,418.

The county was able to get by this year without having to borrow any money to operate on, which is the first time for this occurrence in many years.

Nunn Announces Emergency Grant

Gov. Louie B. Nunn today announced a $20,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity will enable the Department of Economic Security to extend its Emergency Food and Medical Service Project to include Fulton County.

Begun in 1968 in Harlan, Laurel, and Rockcastle counties, the project was funded for $24,000 this June to include Grayson County. The Fulton grant is effective as of July 7 for a 12 month period.

One hundred per cent federally funded, the project provides funds to needy persons to purchase food stamps and to a limited degree, funds for medical services relating to malnutrition and starvation to those not eligible for services from existing medical programs.

The project is operational on a 12-month basis beginning in each county with the date of funding, rather than on a fiscal year basis. It is estimated within a project year 20 thousand emergency cases will be served in Harlan County, 14 thousand total in the combined Laurel and Rockcastle counties, 4 thousand in Grayson County, and 3,250 in Fulton County.

It is expected most of the Fulton grant will be used to assist the county's many migrant workers whose jobs are seasonal, depending upon harvest times.

This emergency project operates in addition to the regular Food Stamp Program in all but Grayson County which has the Department of Agriculture's Commodity Distribution Program.

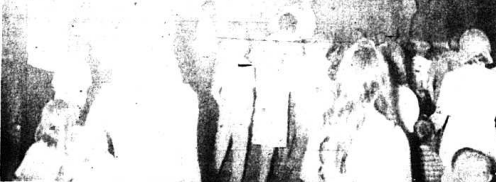

The project year grant for Harlan County is $65,000 and for Laurel and Rockcastle combined, $46,000.

Among the Gospel Singing groups who have already announced their intention of participating in this year's Sing are: The Tennesseans, The Christian Troubadours, The Campbell Family, and The Farmer Sisters.

For advance reservations, call Renfro Valley, area code 606, 256-2664.

A GROUP OF STUDENTS from Lincoln County recently toured the Great Saltpetre Cave. They are shown in "Echo Auditorium," which is reportedly the nation's most perfectly formed underground theatre, with a seating capacity of 2,000.

RUSSIAN DOME-- Attorney Bill Gregory stands in a portion of the cave known as the "Russian Dome." According to Mr. Lair, in 1804, when more than 60 men were employed in the cave in the processing of saltpetre, considerable heat was generated from their torches and open fires and was forced to the highest point by the cold air coming in from both entrances to the cave. By rising 65 feet to a crypt in the ceiling the workmen could take vapor or Russian-baths. Hence the name.

BIBLE SCHOOL-- Approximately 130 children attended the Bible School held recently at the Northside Baptist Mission in Mt. Vernon. The classes were held in the evening. Rev. Harvey Pensel is pastor of the church.

OUR LADY OF MT. VERNON Catholic Church completed the first of its two Bible Schools on Monday, July 14 with a picnic at Levi Jackson State Park. Out of 104 registered, there were 50 children with perfect attendance. The second session will begin on Monday, July 21. The school includes Bible study, arts and crafts, music and recreation. Classes begin 9 a.m. and end at 12 noon. Everyone is welcome. For further information, please call Parish House 256-4170.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
I would like to respond to the two critical editorials you have written about me recently. You keep blowing up the fact that Roland Mullins has been transferred from one school to another. Never once have you mentioned the cause for the transfer. Why don't you print both sides of the problem?
Wouldn't you think that after I recommended the employment of Mr. Mullins as principal at Roundstone that there must be some reason for my recommending his transfer. I recommended him- he was hired - he didn't work out, therefore a change had to be made. I am sure you are aware of the fact that ten (10) of his sixteen teachers and two (2) custodians refused to work under my no longer. The problem was never between Mr. Mullins and me but between him and his staff. By virtue of my position the problem was placed on my shoulders. What would you have done? Would you have closed your eyes to the problem? When relations between a principal and his staff become this serious something has to be done. Anyone should be able to realize that this group cannot work together any longer. The problem would grow worse next year and the children would be the ones to suffer. I have and will continue to put the interest of our children first.

I have tried to do the right thing. I have talked to several members at the State Department and have discussed the problem with 8 or 10 experienced superintendents from other districts and all agree that I had no other choice but to make the transfer. They feel that Mr. Mullins should appreciate the fact that he was given another position. Please understand that I have nothing against Mr. Mullins. I have tried to help him and will continue to help him. He simply could not work with his staff and I could not possibly transfer 10 teachers. There are not that many vacancies.
Much of the substance of the two editorials contained untrue statements. You never once talked to the teachers and staff to understand the problem and to see why they lost respect for Mr. Mullins before printing your editorial. Believe me there are two sides to this controversy. If you would study the magnitude of the problem I believe you, too, would agree that Mr. Mullins and these teachers cannot work together another year. Please don't be so prejudiced that you can't see both sides. Why not give everyone an even break?

As long as I am superintendent, whether one year or ten, I will not hesitate to recommend transfers if I find it is for the good of the school.
I will always operate out in the open where everyone knows what is going on. Board meetings are always open to the public. I am not dominated by anyone or any faction. I am willing to stand on my own record with the local citizens. I will always transact the affairs of the office in an honest and truthful manner. I will see that the taxpayer dollar is not wasted.
I have a devoted interest in the education of the young people in this county. I would like to move education forward so that this county can prosper.
I need your support and cooperation as well as that of all our people so that we can improve our schools along with the rest of the county. This county needs to move forward. Let us work together. This cooperation is what we need to carry out the plans that we have made for our county. Our boys and girls deserve this.

Sincerely yours,

NEW RECORD SEEN
Kentucky highway contract awards for the construction years of 1970-71 are expected to total $465 million, a record for any two years and equal to the amount spent during the four-year period of 1963-66, State Highway Commissioner Goss told the Downtown Kiwanis Club in Louisville.
Goss added that during the four months of his stewardship, the department has been reorganized and the salaries of engineers raised. He recommended inclusion of professional engineers in the state merit system.
GROWTH A FACTOR
Donald L. Johnston says the main reason he quit as director of the Seattle Center, site of the 1962 World's Fair, to become new executive director of the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center was "the definite potentials for further growth" of both the fairgrounds and the Louisville area.
1965 BONDS SOLD
Some $20 million in general obligation bonds, part of the $139 million for highway construction in the $176 million issue authorized in 1965, were sold by the Commonwealth at a net interest rate of 5.537714 percent to Equitable Securities, Marton & Co., Inc., Nashville.
The July 8 sale was for financing for interstate and Appalachian highway systems.

32 From Here Attend 4-H Camp At London

Making new friends and learning more about getting along with others is an important part of 4-H camping for the 32 of young people from Rockcastle County who are attending J.M. Felner 4-H Camp this week. The Rockcastle County 4-H'ers are among 118 young people from four counties who are attending the camp near London, Kentucky, July 7-11. Other counties represented are Laurel, Clay and Knox.

For many campers, staying in cabins with other young people and counselors is their first experience in group living. They learn to share responsibilities and respect the rights of others — the "give and take" necessary in group situation.

Each cabin group decided on some activities they will do together and may have certain projects or present special program. Each camper helps make these plans and learns to live with the decisions of the group. Some campers find they have leadership abilities that they had never had a chance to use before; during camp, they have an opportunity to develop these leadership skills.

The camper also learns to make decisions for himself, since each 4-H'er is on his own for part of each day at camp and can choose the activity he prefers. And, during the games and sports that are always a part of camp, each 4-H'er gets to know other campers and learns a sense of fair play in group activities.

Camping life has many aspects — outdoor recreation and other recreation; craft sessions on topics such as conservation and electricity; vendors, citizenship ceremonies and other programs. But meeting and learning to get along with other 4-H'ers is a highlight of the week for most campers, because the friendships made and the skills gained in group living continue after the final camp session.

Attending camp this week from Rockcastle County are: Deborah Shean, Dale Carmack, Jennifer Ponder, Carla Clutz, Rhonda Hayes, Steven Bullen, Dennis Struggill, Deborah Poynter, Terri Poynter, Kelly Poynter, Greg Poynter, Tommy Barrett, Deborah White, Karen Alexander, Deliah Alexander, Faye Alexander, Lloyd Pickle, Marcia Lamb, Carolyn Lamb, Lewis Reams, Randall Miller, Darlene Ramsey, Genevieve Abney, Pamela Phillips, Marita Stewart, Tammy Stewart, Kelly Mullins, Eula J. Warf, William K. Bullen Jr., Lynn Parsons and Larcy Welsh.

Counselors from Rockcastle County are Juddie Punder, Sharon Neeley, Donna Hunt, Roger Bray and Dale Halcomb.

4-H NEWS

By: Faith N. Plummer

A special interest camp will be held at the J.M. Felner Memorial 4-H Camp, London, Kentucky, during the week of July 21 through July 25. The camp will be built around five classes to be offered. Campers may select one of the following: Archery, Golf, Home Furnishings, Recreation, and Rifle.

It is expected that most of the campers will be 4-H club members; but the camp is not restricted to 4-H members. Anyone who wishes to attend the camp may do so. Adults and young people will attend.

The camp will begin with lunch on Monday, July 21, and end at 2 p.m. Friday, July 25. The fee will be $15, payable on the day camp begins. Campers will be housed in cabins and must furnish their own linens, etc.

Mr. Wallace Halcomb, Area Extension 4-H Youth Specialist, Whitesburg, Trail Area, is coordinating the camp and says that this may prove to be the most interesting of all camps held this summer. This camp will be a little different from most traditional 4-H Club camps. Each camper will be enrolled in one of the five special interest classes being offered.

Halcomb emphasizes that campers must sign up for their class choice before camping begins, and may take only one class. There will be a morning session and an afternoon session of one hour and a half each.

There will be plenty of time allotted for traditional camp activities such as swimming, folk dancing, ball games, cookouts, etc. The camp staff and instructors have planned to get the surely pace so everyone can enjoy the camp to the fullest.

Halcomb says that excellent instructors have been secured and classes should be tops. The following is a brief description of the classes to be offered.

ARCHERY— Campers will learn the fundamentals of archery: proper shooting, proper stance, parts of the bow, and maintenance of equipment. Teaching techniques will also be given in this class so that campers can learn how to teach others. The instructor will be Jesse Moberly, archery instructor at the camp.

GOLF— Mr. Bob Nelson, professional at the London Country Club, will teach this class; Golf classes will be taught in the morning only. Campers taking this class must furnish their own golf clubs and other equipment. The first lesson will be devoted to basics of golf. Lesson two will be putting. The third day will be devoted to looking over a golf course with a pro. On the last day the campers will play four holes of golf.

HOME FURNISHINGS— This class will be taught by Mrs. Ruth Baker, Home Furnishings agent from Leslie County and Miss Rebecca Gibson, Home Furnishings agent from Whitley County. The following four aspects of furnishings will be studied: color, how things look, how things feel, and finally, each class member will be able to plan and make something for their room or house.

Niece, Extension Specialist from Quicksand, will be in charge of this class. He plans to devote quite a bit of time to folk dancing and square dancing.

WHAT EASTER SEALS DO

Picture Story by Jim Miller and Art Penick
Ky. Dept. of Public Information

CAMP KYSOC operated by the Kentucky Easter Seal Society, entertained 76 perceptually handicapped children June 29 to July 4. It is the only public camp in the nation that has a special live-in session for the persons that have one or all of their five senses impaired by brain damage. The camp began in 1961 with a capacity of about 20 campers and a 10-year projection to go to 48. By 1968, the camp was enlarged, primarily through donations, to a capacity of 72 with added facilities to actually accommodate up to 90 campers.
