Nominations Open For ASC Committeemen

Nominations by petition may be made for incumbent Stabilization and Conservation community committee posts, according to Rockcastle County ASC Committee Chairman Willie Lamb.

Elections of ASC community committees are scheduled for September 8 through September 19 by mail. Three committee men and two alternates will be elected to serve one-year terms. The newly-elected committeemen also will be official delegates to the county convention where farmers will be elected to fill vacancies on the Rockcastle ASC County Committee.

Those eligible to vote in the community committee elections also have the right to nominate, by petition, candidates for committee membership. Such petitions, each one nominating one candidate and signed by six or more eligible voters, must be filed at the Rockcastle County ASC Office before August 25. Eligible voters may sign as many petitions as they wish.

Additional nominations may be made by the incumbent ASC community and county committees. Regulations require that where minority group members (Negro, American Indian, Spanish-American, and Oriental) make up at least 10 percent of the eligible voters in a community, a minority group member must be put on the slate of candidates unless one or more is nominated by petition.

Generally, nominees must live in the community in which they are candidates and must be eligible to vote in the ASC community election," said Chairman Lamb. He added, "Eligible voters include all persons with farm interests as owners, tenants, or sharecroppers who are eligible to participate in any program administered by ASCS." Other details on eligibility of candidates—such as restriction against political officeholders or fulltime Department of Agriculture employees—may be obtained at the County ASCS Office.

ASC is the farm program agency which administers acreage allotments and marketing quotas, commodity price support loans and payments, cropland reserve and diversion program, the Agricultural Conservation Program, and farm storage facility loans. Persons with questions about eligibility of voters or candidates in the ASCS elections should contact the Rockcastle County ASCS Office, Mt. Vernon.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
It has been said that I made a fool of myself at the school board meeting last Thursday night. Well if standing against what the administration is doing when I believe them wrong and telling our board members how I feel has let our community down, if this is making a "fool" of myself, then I am guilty as charged.

It is an odd thing to me that the administration can hurt whomever gets in their way and in the eyes of some few this is alright. But let someone speak out against what is being done and he is automatically labeled a "fool" of himself, or worse, that he isn't very intelligent, or is ignorant, or is most certainly "not professional."

Some few say it should be let alone so it can die down or "I don't want to get involved." Let's suppose our forefathers had never rebelled against the injustice being done to them and had not come to America. Then there would never have been this great country of ours. Just suppose after they arrived here they had set down and not fought for their rights being done to them. Just suppose when England was making it so hard for them and treating them unfairly they had said, "I don't want to get involved," or "it is time we let this die down." Just suppose there had never been a "Valley Forge," a "Bunker Hill," a "Boston Tea Party," or a "Paul Revere Ride," or any of the great battles fought for our freedom, where would we be today? Perhaps some are thinking who is the connection. The connection is this: It is time, we the citizens of Rockcastle County, woke up. I feel we can no longer stand aside and say, "I don't want to get involved." We are on the brink of a central high school. I am sure everyone is very proud of it. But what if it turns out to be another example of a school we do not understand me, we of the Roundstone Community are very proud of our fine of fine building and very fine facilities. But, that does not make a good school. A good school is one that the faculty, parents, and school administration working together for the betterment of our school, community, and county. It is not one group pulling against another group. I know there are bounties to be had in these times but differences can be worked out if both groups are willing to sit down and reason things out. I hope you will find this is the only thing the parents of this area have asked.

An example was used after the school board meeting Thursday night by a teacher which I would like to report, and elaborate upon just a little. The remark was "If a farmer has an orchard, with a disease to be in the middle of it, you would cut down the tree." Let's suppose there is a farmer who has an orchard. In one, he has a tree which is diseased, or so it seems. Now, if this is a good farm, it is a good tree. This tree a lot of extra care and attention, probably add some fertilizer, and water it very carefully for a few days. Then, if he feels it isn't any better, he would probably ask advice from his neighbors and friends and perhaps call in a tree surgeon. If, after all this careful attention, he still finds the tree is no better, then and only then would he cut the tree down and destroy it. Never, under any circumstances, would a good farmer dig up a diseased tree from one orchard and transplant it in another taking a chance on the disease spreading. I firmly believe if this example had been followed then, with all sincerity on everyone's part, our problem could have been solved before it began.

This is not a fight for the Mallins against Mr. Parsons, this is a fight for principles, rights, and standards set up many years ago. The same principles which many of our grandfathers, fathers, and sons, fought for in World War I and II, the Korean War, and which many of our loved ones are fighting for now in Vietnam. Are we in Rockcastle County going to get involved or are we going to sit down and let the school administration do as they please. After all, it is only the taxpayers and the parents who furnish the pupils.

Let me close with this final question, why should the County Fiscal Court choose not to get involved in "school affairs?"
Thank You,
Mrs. Glenna Baker

This month, with over 24 million Americans receiving $2.5 billion a month in Social Security benefits and 20 million people insured by Medicare, the Social Security Administration will celebrate its 34th anniversary. James Mustian, manager of Social Security in Somerset said today. The anniversary is being observed with ceremonies and special displays in many social security offices throughout the country, as well as at the National Headquarters in Woodlawn, Maryland, just outside of Baltimore. At the headquarters, an historical room is being opened this week showing mementos of the agency's history including the desk used by all the heads of the Social Security system since 1935. When President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act into law on August 14, 1935, he called it "The cornerstone of a structure which is being built but it is by no means complete."

timed. Mustian, "provided for large benefits to retired workers in industry and commerce only. Over the years, the Social Security program has expanded so that it now provides financial protection for virtually everyone in the country. In Rockcastle County, there are about 10,000 such persons in cash benefits. One thousand three hundred thirty-two persons over 65 are against the extension of hospital insurance and 177 residents are enrolled for medical insurance, the part of Medicare which helps pay doctors' bills. The first benefits to retired workers were paid in 1940. By that time amendments had been made to provide additional benefits for the dependents and survivors of insured workers.

In 1950 coverage was extended to millions of other people who were not covered under the original law—farm workers, state and local government employees, domestic workers, ministers, self-employed doctors, professionals, and members of the armed forces.

In 1956, disability protection was added to cover the thousands of people who could no longer work because of serious illness or injury. In 1961, "In its first quarter of century," said Mustian, social security had already gone into a program that protected a worker and his family in the event of his retirement, death, or disability. But it didn't stop there. In 1965, Congress created Medicare to help people 65 and older pay hospital, doctor and other medical bills. In just 3 short years, Medicare has covered 17 million hospital stays of elderly people. And there were more than one million admissions to post-hospital extended care. Older people have also received visits to their own homes from visiting nurses, physical therapists, and other health care specialists, paid for by Medicare. Payments under the hospital insurance program totaled $10.5 billion for the 3-year period, and a total of $4.6 billion has been paid under the medical insurance program, which helps pay for doctor bills and other medical services.

In 1967, still other changes were made. Disabled widows became eligible for benefits at 50. People disabled before 31 needed less work to qualify for benefits, and children became eligible on their mother's earnings at 16. Through the years, increases in monthly benefit amounts were made to keep pace with the rising cost of living.

Today's average monthly benefit to a retired worker is $95, compared to $63 ten years ago. The average benefit for a retired couple is $166 a month, compared to $111 ten years ago. "One out of every four beneficiaries are well below retirement age—young widows, children, and disabled workers and their dependents," said Mustian. The protection afforded American families in the event of a worker's death has a face value of $960 billion in potential survivors' benefits.

"Ten million people are kept above the poverty level in this country because they are getting Social Security benefits," Mustian said. "Since they have paid into the program for years, they have earned the right to receive their benefit checks—and do so with dignity."

COOK OPPOSSES 10% SURTAX

"I told the people of Kentucky during my campaign that had I been in the Senate at the time of the enactment of the 10 per cent surtax, I would have voted against it and that if I were elected to the Senate I would not vote for its extension." Senator Marlow W. Cook (R-Ky) voted against the extension of the surtax for six months and expressed special regret that the proposal failed to incorporate a provision which would raise the $600 exemption to provide more relief for individual taxpayers.

The Senator indicated that he opposed the extension of the surtax for two major reasons:

- 1) "A Government which justly announced a surplus in excess of $3 billion has great difficulty in convincing me of the continued need for the tax as a revenue-raising device. But if additional revenues are needed, I would favor taxing the corporations which are making a profit off the Vietnam War rather than the already overburdened American individual taxpayer. This is the first war in this century during which the excess war profits of firms providing supplies for the war have not been taxed."
- 2) "To the argument that the surtax is needed to fight inflation my answer is that there are better ways. The best example of a better way to combat inflation is to significantly decrease the spending of the federal government."

"The average American is fed up," the senator said, "with always having to foot the bill to correct government fiscal mismanagement. I agree with this sentiment and this is why I oppose extension of the surtax."

VETERAN'S QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q- I just got out of service and plan to enter college this fall under the G.I. Bill. Do I have to do anything to establish that I am entitled to educational assistance from the Veterans Administration? Or, will the school notify VA that I'm a veteran and have enrolled for training?

A- You should apply immediately to the VA regional office where your records are on file for a Certificate of Eligibility. This certificate will confirm your entitlement to G.I. Bill educational benefits.

The registrar at the college should also be specifically requested by you to notify VA of your enrollment and the amount of training you are taking.

Q- Last summer when I went to school under the G.I. Bill, I was confused by the hours shown on the attendance card. I was only taking three semester hours, yet on the card it showed 15. Why is this?

A- Since summer school is an accelerated session, payment is based on standard class sessions rather than on the number of hours. The card will show the actual semester hours. You will still be paid on the number of standard class sessions.

Q- I am a veteran with three years of active duty-1959 to 1962. I was totally and permanently disabled by an accident. Am I entitled to a non-service connected pension?

A- The answer is no. The basic requirement for non-service connected pension is that the veteran have at least 90 days active duty, any part of which was during wartime. Your active duty was not during wartime.

CARTER RELEASES VIEWS ON TWO ISSUES

Congressman Tim Lee Carter has released a statement of his views and action on two important legislative matters.

One area of his concern is the sending of pornography through the mails. If this has not touched your home there is every possibility that it will under the present law. Congressman Carter has been joined by some of his colleagues in introducing the Sexually Provocative Mail Regulations Act of 1969. This bill has several important points which are effectively amended in the present law and attacks the peddlers of smut in such a way that it will probably kill their business.

Upon passage of this bill producers of pornographic material will not be allowed to send it through the mail unless it has been specifically requested by the addressee. Today, innocent homes and offices receive tons of unsolicited smut. With such wide distribution, there is no way of telling who will open the envelope and prevent it from falling into the hands of minors is nearly impossible.

Congressman Carter's bill will allow those who wish to solicit such publications to do so but it protects the innocent and unsuspecting recipient from being the victim of such a mailing. This will certainly cut down their mailing lists and should effectively destroy their business.

A second provision of the bill would prohibit the dissemination of obscene materials to minors in those states having laws prohibiting the sale of such materials.

states and the District of Columbia currently have laws prohibiting this.

A second area of Congressman Carter's recent legislative concern was the appropriation bill for Labor and ITC. These appropriation bills were passed by the House on August 1st, but only after hard battles on the floor of which Congressman Carter participated to emphasize vocational training, library and educational facilities construction. The bill as reported out of Committee would have de-emphasized these and other provisions which are of vital concern to the District, but he and his colleagues were successful in passing several amendments which will directly benefit the Fifth Congressional District.

Two other important sections of the bill which Congressman Carter supported and worked for passage are of contemporary concern to everyone. The first such provision would prohibit any Federal funds from being used for the support of students, teachers or employees of colleges and universities who participate in campus disorders or interfere with the operation of the school.

A second provision stipulated that government funds can be used to force bus, to abolish any school system or to force attendance at a particular school which is against either the choice of the student's parents or the student's own choice. Congressman Carter stated that he had received a great deal of mail on both subjects and that his positions were the same as those of all the ones he heard from.

ASSIGNED
Army Private Gary W. Langford has been assigned to Company C, 14th Battalion, 4th Brigade, at Fort Knox.

Following the completion of basic training, Pvt. Langford, who is the husband of Mrs. Gary W. Langford of Route 2, Mt. Vernon, will receive at least an additional eight weeks of either advanced instruction or on-the-job training to qualify him in a specialized military skill.

Areo Extension Agent Pepper Diseases and Insect Control

Some pepper plants that are being grown in Rockcastle-Campbell packing are affected with bacterial leafspot. As verified by the Plant Pathology Department University of Kentucky. The affected plants may be found in a plot 10 x 20 feet or there may be scattered plants throughout the patch.

The lower or older leaves of the diseased plants fall to the ground and the top leaves become a little distorted with spots up some of them. The disease may develop in more fields if weather conditions continue to be hot and humid. Only fixed coppers should be used at this time for control.

An application of coppers each week is recommended until the weather cools and becomes less humid. Fixed coppers will be found mostly under the trade name Tri-Basic Copper Sulfate, which is about 53% strength. There should be some recommendations for its use on the package. The University of Kentucky Chemical Control, Bulletin, Misc. 374, recommends 2 tablespoons ful per gallon of water or 6 pounds per acre. No waiting period for picking after sprays is used. Rainy, cloudy, damp weather caused the disease to develop and spread. The spray should be applied about every 7 days.

Some aphids or plant lice have been found on peppers growing in Rockcastle County. These may be controlled effectively by using Malathion as a 25% wettable powder or a 50% emulsion. Use the 25% wettable powder at the rate of 2 tablespoonsful per gallon of water and the 50% emulsion at the rate of 1 tablespoonful per gallon of water. The foliage should be covered well, especially the under side of the leaves.

Chop Fine For Best Com Silage

Corn quality corn silage is not difficult to harvest, store and preserve if a few basic rules are followed. One of the most important rules is fine chopping of the corn plant, and this is important for several reasons: First, longer cut silage does not pack as well in improper fermentation and increases spoilage losses. Second, longer chopped silage is more difficult to handle with many silo unloaders and conveying devices. Third, coarse chopping results in a greater separation of the coarse and fine material during feeding.

Not only is the length of cut important for good packing and handling, but the quality of cut is perhaps equally as important. A good, clean cut can be obtained only if both the chopper knives and the shearbar comers are kept sharp and properly adjusted. Once the knives begin to dull, the chopper will tend to beat the plant material apart rather than cut it. This not only increases the power requirement but accelerates the rate of raling.

Since chopping becomes particularly important with more mature corn that is high in dry matter and does not contain enough moisture to pack well. As the corn plant becomes mature, the fibrous material is more difficult to chop properly. Studies at Michigan State University show that chopping at 1/2 to 3/8 inch increased dry matter stored per cubic foot 6-17% when compared with a 5/8 to 3/4 inch cut. Fine chopping is absolutely essential to prevent severe storage losses if it is harvested, high dry matter silage (50% dry matter) is to be stored.

Can com silage be cut too fine? Extremely fine chopping, such as recutting with a screen, can result in decreased buterfat content from cows fed such recut material as the only forage. Apparently, this material does not stay in the rumen long enough to maintain a normal buterfat test. Results from a recent Virginia experiment indicate that chopping to 1/2 inch with god clean slices did not cause low test. However, when the material was recut through a 1/2 inch screen, the resulting cut did cause low buterfat content after five weeks on the experiment. Summary for best com silage: 1) Harvest at 32 to 36 percent dry matter medium or hard (mature stage). This results in maximum yields and minimum problems of storage and field losses. 2) Adjust length of cut to approximately 1/2 inch. 3) Keep knives sharp and properly adjusted at all times.

Dairymen May Soon Be Able to Give Oxidized Flavor in Milk a Kiss Goodbye

Oxidized flavor in milk, a fact, it can render milk undrinkable. "Oxidized" is a term used to describe a common off-flavor in milk which is characterized by a cardboard or talow-like taste. This off-flavor is sometimes detected in milk taken directly from the udder. In most cases, however, it may require several days for the off-flavor to develop to the point of "consumer complaint." The oxidized flavor problem is generally thought of as a plant problem rather than a producer problem because of this time factor, but, let's not kid ourselves. This taint of the taste was originally on the farm quite often.

A number of factors are known to contribute to the development of an oxidized flavor in milk. The producer need not be the off-flavor culprit if he keeps the following in mind:

1. Prevent the milk from coming in contact with copper-containing metals such as brass, nickel and white metal.
2. Keep copper and iron out of the equipment wash water.
3. Prevent exposure of the milk to daylight or strong artificial light. Keep milk covered at all times.
4. Eliminate excessive foaming and agitation of the milk.

Proper control of these factors can drastically reduce the incidence of oxidized flavor. But what can be done to eliminate the cow who produces oxidized flavor milk naturally? Perhaps in the new future producer can kill this off-flavor goodbye forever! Dr. Raymond L. King and Marianne Oskarsen of the University of Maryland added a substance to cow feed which reduced or eliminated oxidized flavor in milk. In the experiment, the compound ethoxyquin was added to the alfalfa hay and grain ration of milking Holsteins. The milk obtained from the cows fed ethoxyquin was kept five days after adding copper to the feed (at 100 ppm). The oxidized flavor couldn't be produced even when copper was added. However, when the cows were taken off the experimental feed for seven days, the oxidized flavor appeared.

According to Dr. King, addition of ethoxyquin to cattle feed would be a practical way of controlling this troublesome off-flavor. At this time, ethoxyquin is an approved food additive, but has not yet been approved for milk. More research is presently being carried out with this cattle feed additive. Ethoxyquin or not, let's flavor in milk by controlling the contributing factors.
