WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT..?

The automobile which captured the hearts of the women in 1914, was the Ford Coupelet, a two passenger model which could be driven year round, in any kind of weather. With the top up, it was a snug, little car, clean and convenient and when the top was folded down, it became a smart little open air runabout.

Women motorists today still like convenience and style in an automobile, and they are so much more fortunate, for they now have a much wider range of makes and styles from which to choose.

Women also like style and convenience in their home, in fact everyone in the family does and this is one of the reasons that the Vagabond Mobile Home is capturing the hearts of thousands. The Vagabond is a combination of beauty, simplicity, comfort and livability. It features handsome, eye-appealing decor, furnishings in French Provincial or Italian Provincial styles, cozy dining area, ultra-modern appliances, spacious, comfort-styled bedrooms and quality construction inside and out. The Vagabond promises luxurious, comfortable and convenient living now and for many years to come.

NUNN VISITS MINE SITES

Gov. Louie B. Nunn toured surface mining operations in Muhlenberg County to "see what is being done to reclaim the land."

After visiting active mine pits and reclamation projects, the governor told newsmen he is generally pleased with the condition of the land. He emphasized his administration will continue to strictly enforce the 1966 strip mining law to assure continued progress in reclamation.

Accompanied by Commissioners of Natural Resources and Mines and Minerals, James Shropshire and H. N. Kirkpatrick, Nunn praised the mining industry for policing itself and offering useful suggestions for better reclamation techniques.

MORE TIME FOR TRAINING—From an Army National Guard tank Governor Nunn and Adjutant General Larry Dawson conducted a reconnaissance of reclaimed land leased from Peabody Coal Co. for weekend training of Armored Battalions. The 25,000 acres in Muhlenberg County will save eight hours of travel time for troops in western Kentucky.

Area Agent's Changed To Co. Extension Agent

"The county extension agent once again will be the major contact between the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and the people of the Commonwealth," Dr. Charles E. Barnhart, dean and director of the UK College of Agriculture, announced today.

The Cooperative Extension Service—with its 430 state specialists and local agents in agriculture, home economics, 4-H, and development—is being re-organized to be more responsive to the needs of the people, Barnhart added.

This re-organization is a modification of a plan started in 1965 when the Extension Service resigned county agents as area specialists in multi-county areas. This plan, Barnhart said, while having advantages, tended to create a gap between the people and the Extension agents.

County extension agents now will be assigned to each county and be responsible for assisting the people and developing educational programs within that county. These agents will be supported by area, multiarea, and state specialists when the local agent needs additional information or technical assistance, he explained.

If a county has only one agent, he will develop programs in all four subject areas: agriculture, home economics, 4-H, and development.

Counties with two or more agents will have one assigned to agriculture and the others to either home economics, 4-H, or development. The agricultural agent and the other agent or agents (whatever their program areas are) will be responsible for all four program areas.

In counties where a county extension 4-H agent is not assigned, the other county extension agents will develop and be responsible for the 4-H program. In situations where a strong 4-H program, Barnhart indicated that all county extension agents will be expected to cooperate in working with the 4-H club members and volunteer leaders.

In the new system, the county extension agents will develop their local programs and report directly to the appropriate assistant director for extension on the UK campus. The 14 extension areas in the state will remain intact, and an area director will be responsible for administrative matters in his area.

The Extension Service, founded about 60 years ago by an Act of Congress to carry information and public service to rural families, is best known to Kentuckians by the work of the "county agents and home demonstration agents."

"It's this close contact with the people that we want to maintain," Barnhart stressed.

This closeness is even more important now that we're working with such diverse groups—urban people, rural families, small farmers, commercial producers, and agri-business, he said.

"We believe that these changes will permit us to develop educational programs on the local level more effectively. The local agent, as a member of a community and with the help of local people, can determine how best the College of Agriculture can assist the people," the dean added.

"If this system should develop deficiencies, we will further modify it to insure that the people of the Commonwealth have the best Extension Service in the nation," Barnhart concluded.

36 PARTICIPATE IN SADDLE CLUB RIDE

under social security, if may be necessary to use years in which you had no earnings to get the average figure. In a very few cases, a worker's average earnings may be figured before 1951 all the way back to 1937, if this will give him a higher benefit. This will be the case if a worker's earnings before 1951 were higher than in the years since 1951.

After your earnings are averaged, the monthly benefit is then obtained from a table in the law. It is impossible to list all the benefit amounts payable but see the example.

If your average earnings are less than $900, your retirement benefit at age 65 would be $55 monthly. If your average monthly earnings are $1,800, your benefit would be $88.40; average earnings of $3,000 a year would give you a benefit of $115 a month; average earnings of $5,400 would give you a $165 a month benefit.

The benefit amounts given above are the retirement benefits that you would receive at age 65. If you begin to receive benefits before 65, your monthly cash payments would be reduced.

If you work after you start getting benefits and your added earnings will result in raising your average, your benefit will be automatically refigured after the additional earnings are credited to our record of your earnings.

The amount of your monthly disability payment is generally the same as the retirement benefit you would get if you were 65. We paid you as if you reached 65 at the time you became disabled.

THE FIFTY-FIRST DRAGON, by Hayward Brown. Gawaine le Cour Hardy, shy and awkward, doesn't have much promise as a knight. It takes magic to give him the strength and courage to slay dragons. Only success brings him self-confidence and makes him an admirable hero for his tale of medieval times. Grades 7-up.

FRONTIER NURSE MARY BRECKINRIDGE, by Katharine E. White and Elizabeth Moxley. Even today, people in Kentucky are benefited by the Frontier Nursing Service established by Mary Breckinridge. This biography presents the life of a dedicated and unselfish woman who gave up personal wealth and pleasure to serve those plagued by disease and death. Grades 5-up.

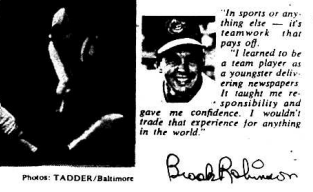

KNIGHTS IN ARMOR, by Shirley Gubok. The Age of Chivalry has been the origin of many tales of romance and battle. One of the most important people in that age... the knight and in 15... the life he pre- sented a chronicle of his life; his training, armor, and fighting. Grades 4-7.

NOBODY'S CAT, by Mike Mills. A city cat without an owner - he is tough, smart, and has a dignity all of his own. He accepts handouts, but does not give of himself. Not even when he is offered a security he has never before known. He remains his own cat. Grades K-3.

STOLEN PONY, by Glor Rounds. This story is a sequel to the exciting Blind Pony which... stolen and then turned loose when his blindness is discovered. In Stolen Pony, a faithful canine friend undertakes the job of leading him home, their trip makes fascinating reading. Grades 5-7.

THE SUNLIT SEA, by Augusto Galdin. A Let's-Read-and-Find-Out Science book. The Sunlit Sea explores the sea, a comparatively calm place that is actually teeming with life and activity. This is an excellent introduction to the sea and the animals and plant life that abounds in the underwater world. Grades 2-3.

FOR THE RECORD BOOKS Born in Little Rock, Arkansas, 12 years ago, Brooks Robinson has been playing for one of baseball's winning teams, the Baltimore Orioles, since 1959. In the most recent complete season, 1968, he led the league in batting average, leading three batters in batting for the sixth year. In 1967, he won the All-Star game. Brooks led the league in fielding percentage. He was named MVP of the Orioles in 1966, and he and his wife, Connie, have three sons and a daughter.

To the Citizens Of Mt. Vernon

I would like to take this opportunity to announce my Independent Candidacy for the Office of City Councilman of Mt. Vernon.

I am a young man, interested in the development of our town, and interested enough to want to be your spokesman for the next two years in this important office.

My voice on our City Council would provide a much needed younger voice and I would appreciate the chance to help direct our city's affairs.

Your vote and support will be appreciated.

PAYROLL DOWN 606
 State Personnel Commissioner Ralph Howe has provided figures showing the state payroll was reduced by 606 permanent fulltime employees during the first month of the job freeze put into effect by Governor Nunn on Aug. 21. The figures cover the period through Sept. 21.

Before Howe's most recent total given for permanent employees was about 25,500. The reduction lowers to less than 25,000 for the first time in months.

The Nunn order cut the payroll through attrition. Written justification by a Personnel Department approval were required to hire new employees. This since has been modified for three departments in critical need of certain workers.

IN MEMORIAM
 For the second time in less than a month, on Sept. 23, state government was shocked and saddened by the traffic-accident death of a popular and highly respected public official. It was Jefferson County Judge E.P. Sawyer, killed when his car crashed into a concrete bridge abutment on I-64.

Noting he and Sawyer came from the same section of the state, Governor Nunn paid tribute to a longtime friend

"He was a man of great morality and character. He was a man of principle. The county, state and nation have lost a good and honest man, and I am sure we will all suffer as a result."

On Sept. 3, Chief Justice Morris C. Montgomery of the Kentucky Court of Appeals and his wife were killed in a truck-auto accident near Nashville, Ill.

DEDICATIONS DAY
 Governor Nunn had what might be called "a day of dedications" this week.

Included were a new $150,000 building for the Larue County Public Library and a roadside park adjacent to the Abraham Lincoln Birthplace Shrine, at Hodgenville, and the new buildings—a science building and a student activities center—at the Elizabethtown Community College.

Two-thirds of the cost of the library came from a state program the Governor supported in the 1968 General Assembly. He cited the Elizabethtown buildings and a 34 per cent increase in operations in state appropriations to the educational system as evidence "we support education in Kentucky."

SAFETY PUSH ON
 Governor Nunn's Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee unanimously agreed at a Frankfurt meeting to ask the state's motor vehicle inspection law to its original stringency. This would include pulling a wheel to check brakes and proper alignment of headlights.

 Capt. Jerry Mullins, legal officer of the Department of Public Safety, told the committee the state also is considering advocacy of a law that would require drivers to be reexamined every four years when they renew their drivers' license.

The committee unanimously endorsed the safety department's fall packet of proposed legislation, which does not now include re-examination, if required would include an "inside test," covering such areas as vision and color blindness, plus written examinations.

Kentucky doesn't have more miles of running water than any state save Alaska for nothing. It has those many fine streams for something special and that is stream fishing. Many fishermen are not aware of the fine fishing that may be had from these streams. Rather they have been spoiled by the offerings of the bigger lakes in the Commonwealth and may be overlooking excellent fishing right in their own backyard, so to speak.

No better streams for variety fishing may be found than the Green, the Cumberland, the Kentucky, the Licking and the many smaller streams. And no better time to fish them than in the fall. It is then that mostly clear water may be found with a temperature in the sixties which as most investigating to the fish. And the clear fish mean good fishing. In October and early November the rivers are usually well within their banks and the water is clear and cool. By casting along rocky cliffs, over fallen treetops, beside logs and submerged stumps good catches of black bass are experienced. There are good sized bass in the streams, too, and a four pound black bass in a stream will, in all probability, give more fight than a six pounder taken from the lakes. They just have more vigor in the cool, clear streams and they undoubtedly resent more violently being duped by an artificial lure. Casting is not the only method of catching the battling black bass, however, the minnow fisherman, by dropping his line into the same places, may come up with just as many fish as the caster. The fellow who likes fast water-fishing can be satisfied most usually by casting into the waters immediately below the locks and dams of these streams.

In addition to the black bass he'll likely encounter there the white bass and occasionally the sauger in some sections. In addition, if he is fishing below the dams with live bait he may also take into a large catfish, or a buffalo or a croppie or a bluegill.

And while talking about "creeps" don't, "ogee" streams in the fall—for this species also. Dunk the minnow around fallen trees at three to six-foot depths and the croppie is more than apt to respond. This is true in the smaller streams as well as in the larger ones. In fact, some fishermen enjoy their very best fishing in streams like Salt River and the Fork by walking the banks and dunking the minnow around half submerged brush piles in the edges of these streams. In doing this, because of the cumbersome nature of casting equipment in brush-infested banks, a cane pole is used for dropping the minnow gently into the water.

Around brush piles also may be found abundant "ogee" had for the simple experiment of dropping a worm or cricket in the right place. A great number may be taken from around a single brush pile as they seem to congregate in such areas.

Perhaps, the epitome of fall stream fishing is reeled in the smaller streams. By walking the banks, or actually by wading if the weather is not too cold, and by casting into the eddies or riffles with a helgramite or minnow or a nightcrawler good bass are harvested. This is fall fishing in its finest form. True, the bass will not be too big, but the catch will battle with every ounce of energy and they'll employ the swift waters of the riffles to their advantage. To a lesser degree flies and popping bugs and other artificial lures that are shiny and resemble in action a minnow also are used. And who knows, while so fishing a redeye may challenge the lure or even a bluegill may relish the fight. But principally it's the black bass, the small-mouth no less, that will offer the greatest sport to the avid fisherman.

So, if you like the lakes, give them a try in fall season but don't for a minute think that those lakes offer the only good fishing at this time of year. Don't by any means overlook the fine fishing that is available in the streams.

MISS DOUTAZ IS CONTESTANT
 Miss Carol Doutaz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeMar Doutaz of Eaton, Ohio, is a contestant for the Junior Miss Title of Preble County. Miss Doutaz, whose parents are former residents of Rockcastle County and who's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O.R. Cass, reside in Berea, is a senior at Eaton High School.

The Junior Miss title will be awarded to the girl chosen for scholastic achievement, poise, personality, and talent.

Homemakers's Help

This fall look for patterns in fabrics that are defined and clear cut. There will be many geometrics, graphics, stripes and plaids. Native influences will be abundant. China, India, Java, Indonesia and the American Indian designs will be the most prevalent. Florida will be more striking and individual.

Colors will be clearer and more unusual combinations. Gone are the harsh tones of the past few years to be replaced by sunny and clear tones. Look for the clear bright greens, from grass green, through jade, emerald and lime. They will be mixed with clear blues including turquoise and ultramarine or with sunny yellows and tangerines or a mixture of all three showing an influence toward more multi-chromatics.

The blues in more shades and newer combinations will include some touches of purple which is becoming an accent color. Sunny tones of pink which include candy and peach, together with melon or soft tangerine, show up together as do many ochre, curry, rust, beige combinations. Black and white has a new strength in a variety of bold graphics and "geometrics. Yellows are many and they are fresh looking - often used with white or neutral for extra impact.

Texture is everywhere on every type of fabric but softened and not harsh. It is often simulated on prints, or defined by a variety of weaves, stitchery and years in the weaves. Fabrics have more refined designs and are more individual. Coordinated fabrics are fast becoming an essential part of the fabric industry.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

PROMOTED - Earl C. Bollinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bollinger of Camden, Ohio, has been promoted to Sgt. E5. He is a member of Company B, U.S. Army Strategic Communications Long Lines Battalion, in South Korea and is utilized as a radio teletype team chief.

Now is the time to make preparation to sow cover crops on all row crop land. Immediate attention should be given to tobacco land and land where silage is harvested. Why should land have a cover crop? There are several reasons for sowing cover crops. A good cover crop can prevent soil loss from erosion. Even on very gentle slopes much soil is lost during heavy rains of fall, winter and spring where there is no cover to protect the soil. Too, there is loss of plant nutrients by leaching where no cover crop is used. On tobacco land and silage land where high amounts of fertilizer are applied, this loss amounts to a considerable amount of money in plant food. Cover crops help, also, to maintain organic matter in the soil so that it will hold more water and remain in good farming condition or till. Some farmers use cover crops for the cost of feeding animals in winter and early spring before pastures are producing grazing.

Many ratings are being used as cover crops. Oats, barley, wheat and rye are small grains that are being used. Crispion clover and vetch are legumes that are used. A combination of a small grain and a legume is usually considered best.

Farmers who make arrangements for their seeds and inoculation ahead of the day they expect to seed are usually the ones who

MODERN WARFARE—Clarence Marshall (right), Health Department technician explains the virtually painless jet-injector to Stephen Phillips before administering the vaccine. The vaccine is also available through private physicians.

WAR ON RUBELLA

The Kentucky Health Department has waged war on Rubella (German measles). The Commonwealth stepped out as one of the first states in the nation to arm its future population against birth defects caused by rubella.

A group of young school children rolled up their sleeves in Clark County and faced the jet-injector guns of the Health Department crews, which vaccinated over 800 children in one day.

BADGE OF IMMUNIZATION—A flesh-colored band-aid marked the immunization on Cathy Phillips, child-bearing without the fear of birth defects caused by rubella. In the meantime the vaccine will prevent her from contracting the disease and spreading it to women of child bearing age.

VACCINE AND LOLLIPOPS—Dr. C. Hernandez, director of the division of Epidemiology, presented lollipop awards to the first veterans of Kentucky's war on Rubella. Immunizations today will be instrumental in fighting a predicted Rubella epidemic in the early 1970's.

Social Security

One of the most frequent questions asked by people who visit the social security office is, "How do you figure the amount of my monthly benefit?" People who ask this generally know that their benefit amount is based on their average earnings. But they wonder just which years are considered in figuring that average. Some have the impression that only the highest five years are counted. This is incorrect.

For just about everyone who was born before 1930, earnings are averaged over a period of years beginning with 1951, and up to the year the worker reaches 65 (62 for women), becomes disabled, or dies. Up to five years of the worker's lowest earnings are left out when his average earnings are figured.

For example, if you are a man and will be 65 this year, list your earnings in the years after 1950 and up to 1969. Now cross off this list of earnings the five years of lowest or no earnings. Add up the earnings and divide by 13. The result is your average yearly earnings. If you were born in 1930 or later, your average earnings will be figured beginning with the year in which you reached 22, also leaving out up to five years of your lowest earnings. If you should become disabled or die before reaching retirement age, the benefit amount would be based on your average earnings up to the year you became disabled or died, with five years of lowest earnings dropped out. At least five years of earnings must be used to figure retirement benefits, and at least two years to figure disability or survivor benefits. Remember, do not count more than the maximum creditable toward social security for any particular year — for 1951-1954, no more than $3,600; for 1955-1958, $4,200; for 1959-1965, $6,600; and for 1968 and after $7,800. Remember also that if you haven't worked very long and at least two years to

Fletcher - Lottstutter Vows Spoken - September 27

Pamela Lynn Fletcher and Albert Rollie Lottstutter exchanged marriage vows Saturday, September 27, at the First Baptist Church in Vandalia, Ohio with Reverend Marvin Bice officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fletcher of Vandalia, Ohio and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fletcher and Mrs. Lillie Howard, all of Brodhead. Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Lottstutter are the groom's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride approached the altar in a gown of white linen. The emcee bride featured a "scoped neckline and long sleeves edged in Venice lace. The same lace encircled the waistline topping a sheath skirt. Venice lace trimmed the wattleau panel in back and the bride's Venice lace-edged mantilla swept to cathedral length. She carried a bouquet of gerberias and stephanos.

Attending the bride as maid-of-honor was Denise Vincent. Bridesmaids were Sonja Wright and Vicky Lottstutter. Melissa Fletcher was flowergirl. They wore floor-length gowns of peppermint green chiffon.

The bridesmaids wore demt hats of illusion leaves highlighted with pearls and attached to bouffant veils. The Maids carried nosegays of white and green tinted carnations with yellow sweetheart roses. Melissa carried the same flowers in a small white basket.

Vows Exchanged Sept 13 At East Hamilton Church

The marriage of Miss Donna Lynn Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Phillips of Hamilton, Ohio, to Johnny C. Jesse, son of Mrs. Christine Morgan and the late Ernest Jesse, took place Saturday night, September 13 at the East Hamilton Baptist Church.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Phillips of Red Hill.

The Rev. Rochelle Ingie officiated. The musical program was presented by Mrs. Cletis, organist, and Mrs. Jo Ann Reiff, vocalist.

The aisle was lighted by candles in triple hurricane lamps and a basket of white flowers with pink and turquoise accents decorated the front of the church.

Tom Jesse was his brother's best man. Dennis Hiller and Robert Weisbrodt were the ushers. Michael Raines, cousin of the bride, was the ring bearer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown in layers of peau de soie, tulle and silk organza encircled at the bottom by two tiers of Alencon lace.

A headpiece of rose petals of silk organza outlined with seed pearls and crystals centered with an organza rose held her four tier elbow length veil of illusion. She carried a white orchid atop a Bible.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Amy Mathis, wore a dress of shocking pink crepe with floor length veil of tulle centered with a rose headpiece of matching crepe.

The bridesmaids were Miss Janice Frazier, in a bright blue gown, and Miss Barbara Schwartz, in a pale green gown. The attendants carried off center crescents of chatrieuse fujianni mums accented with braided ribbon loops to match their dresses.

A four-tier cake centered the cake table for the reception which followed immediately at the church. Hostesses were Mrs. Georgia Reiff, Miss Nancy Longfield, Mrs. Zelma Weisbrodt and Mrs. Betty Dye.

The bride is a junior at Miami University where she is majoring in elementary education. She is employed by K-Mart Enterprises.

The groom served three years with the United States Army and is employed as a mechanic at Marshall Texaco Service, Sharonville.

New Service Bulletin on Corn Silage Ready
Extension Specialists in Dairy Science at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture have announced publication of a new service bulletin on corn silage for dairy cattle.

The twenty page booklet, Corn Silage for Dairy Cattle, Corn Silage for Dairy Cattle, Misc. 376, U. of K. Coop. Extension Service, is illustrated with charts and photographs and provides valuable information on the benefit of adding urea to corn silage.

Urea is a simple chemical compound containing a high proportion of nitrogen (about 42-45%), and serves as a synthetic source of the essential element. Added to corn silage, urea can prove highly profitable for dairy farmers.

Darwin G. Braud, Extension Specialist in Dairy Science and project leader for the new bulletin, suggests that dairy farmers obtain a copy of Corn Silage for Dairy Cattle, Misc. 376, from their area extension agent.

UK Trials Released by

The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station has announced results of the 1969 Barley Variety Trials, and the development of "Knob," a new variety scheduled for the recommended list this year.

Knob has demonstrated a good yield potential for the Commonwealth. The new variety is slightly taller than Barsoy and matures a few days later.

The tests were conducted at the Lexington and Princeton experiment stations, and at Western Kentucky and Murray State universities.

Testing stations in the four areas show a state-wide average of Barsoy, 72 bushels; Jefferson, 67; Knob, 64; and Harrison, 63 bushels. Distribution of individual varieties followed the following results.

LEXINGTON: Harrison, 92 bushels; Knob, 86; Jefferson, 85; Barsoy, 84 and Dayton, 53 bushels per acre.

PRINCETON: Barsoy, 92 bushels; Jefferson, 89; Harrison, 75; Knob, 68 and Dayton 68 bushels per acre.

MURRAY: Dayton, 54 bushels; Knob, 39; Barsoy, 36; Jefferson, 34; and Harrison 26 bushels. Wet weather in the early spring reduced the yield severely at Murray.

BOWLING GREEN: Barsoy, 74 bushels; Dayton, 72; Knob 64; Jefferson, 62 and Harrison, 57 bushels.

Barley is an excellent crop to consider for double cropping with soybeans as it can be harvested earlier than other small grains and permits earliest possible planting of soybeans. When planting soybeans directly in small grain stubble, Barsoy and Knob should be considered, as they are shorter stranded and leave less residue on the ground.

Several excellent varieties of winter barley are available, and should give high yield, good test weight and strength of straw.

Selection of varieties depends on the desire for early or late maturing, and the personal preference for bearded or beardless types. Beards contribute to test weight and yields, but are considered less favorable in livestock feeding.

Recommended early bearded types are Barsoy and Dayton, with Harrison preferred for late maturing.

Knob, while available in limited supply, is ideal for early beardless, with Jefferson recommended for late beardless type.

Jefferson and Harrison show excellent strength against winter weather, and should be used where survival is a problem.

Farmers should consider seeding winter barley during the first week of October in northern Kentucky, and extended through the second week of October in western or southern Kentucky. Seeding rate is usually 1½ bushels to 2 bushels per acre.

Experiment station scientists recommend certified seed for best performance and suggest local seed dealers for this source. Foundation seed is available from the University of Kentucky.

Several excellent barley selections are in various stages of testing, and should produce some outstanding new varieties for the industry, reports Dr. Verne Finkner, plant breeding and small grain scientist at the U. of K. College of Agriculture. Detailed results of this year's test will be published later, and copies may be obtained from local extension offices along with planting dates.

Wheat Trials Released by UK
Results of the soft red winter wheat varieties have been released by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Kentucky.

Two new varieties placed on the recommended list in 1968, Blueboy and Arthur, showed good results for the second year and promise Kentucky farmers a real breakthrough in yield potential. Kentucky is principally a soft red winter wheat state.

Arthur has weaker straw and tends to lodge more than Blueboy, so where lodging is a severe problem Blueboy is preferred. Both varieties average about the same yield, although Blueboy does have a lighter test weight than any of the recommended varieties.

Tests were held at the Lexington and Princeton Experiment stations, Murray State and Western Kentucky universities.

Statewide averages for each variety in the four test areas revealed Blueboy, 52 bushels; Arthur, 51; Moon, 42; Redcoat, 42; Knox 62, 41; and Benhur, 32 bushels per acre.

Results for individual varieties at experiment stations showed the following:

LEXINGTON: Blueboy, 71 bushels; Arthur, 63; Redcoat, 59; Moon, 51; Benhur, 49 and Knox 62, 44 bushels per acre.

PRINCETON: Arthur, 64 bushels; Blueboy, 52; Benhur, 50; Moon, 47; Knox 62, 46; and Redcoat, 40 bushels per acre.

MURRAY: Blueboy, 41 bushels; Knox 62, 34; Arthur, 32; Redcoat, 32; Moon, 32 and Benhur, 25 bushels per acre. The yields at Murray were reduced by wet weather earlier in the spring.

BOWLING GREEN: Arthur, 45 bushels; Blueboy, 45; Knox 62, 41; Moon, 39; Redcoat, 36; and Benhur, Arthur, Moon, Benhur and Knox 62. Recommended for later maturing wheats are Blueboy and Redcoat.

Blueboy is not resistant to Hessian Fly, and farmers should not plant this variety before fly-free dates; in northern Kentucky, October 5 and in western and southern Kentucky, mid October. Seeding rates are 1½ bushels per acre, according to Dr. Verne Finkner, plant breeding and small grain scientist at the U. of K. College of Agriculture.
