This is the vitamin C season, because citrus fruits, a major source of vitamin C, are now especially plentiful.

Vitamin C helps protect your body against infection and helps protect the health of your gums and teeth. These are some of the important reasons why you and your family need vitamin C. And, at this time of year, your best vitamin C buys are citrus fruits.

You can buy citrus fruits throughout the year, but at this season, the citrus crop reaches its peak in Florida, California, Texas and Arizona—these states produce our year-round citrus supply. Here are some tips on selecting oranges and grapefruit, two citrus fruits that are important sources of vitamin C.

Look for oranges that are firm and heavy, with a bright-looking skin that is fairly smooth for that particular variety of orange. Oranges that are lightweight or discolored and those that have soft spots or weakened areas around the stem end of the button are not good buys.

Thin-skinned oranges usually have more juice than those with thick skins—you can usually spot the thick-skinned oranges because they have a very rough surface. Oranges that are too old have a dull, dry skin and a spongy texture.

You can't tell the quality of an orange by its skin color. Some are artificially colored to give them "eye appeal," although these oranges must be labeled "color added." This has nothing to do with their eating quality. Ready-to-eat oranges often have greenish spots or tan, brown or blackish specks on the skin; this has no effect on the quality and may often be found on the best oranges.

You might call oranges and grapefruit "convenience foods," since they're ready to eat when you buy them. Grapefruit is picked "tree-ripe," and oranges must be well matured before they are picked and shipped.

The best grapefruit are firm, well-shaped and heavy for their sizes. If a grapefruit is pointed at the stem end, it's likely to be thick-skinned and have less juice than thin-skinned fruit. Lack of juice may also be shown by a rough, ridged or wrinkled skin.

Avoid buying grapefruit with soft discolored areas at the stem end. Loss of color and soft peel that breaks easily may be signs of decay, which may affect the flavor. Grapefruit often has skin defects, scale, scars, scratches, or discoloration, but this usually does not affect the quality. Select fruit for the best eating rather than for the outside appearance. Buy only what you need—it doesn't pay to buy fruit in quantity and throw the extra away. But in season, since quality is usually better and prices lower when the fruit is plentiful. Handle with care—pinching fruit causes it to decay.

FOUR RAT CONTROL DEMONSTRATIONS HELD

The Kentucky Department of Agriculture, by the invitation and cooperation of Cumberland Production Credit Association and Extension Service, were able to provide four rat control demonstrations Tuesday, Nov. 25 in Rockcastle County. The four farms were Andy Cox, Jr., Mission Poynter, Clyde Lirville and W.S. and Kenneth Stewart. The farmers paid for the necessary material consisting of one pound Pival, eighteen pound corn meal and one pound sugar.

Any farmer wanting to destroy these pest on their farm can pick up the Pival at the Cumberland PCA Office in Mt. Vernon and get information on mixing and using it.

Rats and mice destroy and waste thousands of dollars of feed and seeds each year and also spread disease.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Kentucky will get 12 of 67 projects and $515,252 of $6.3 million in federal funds for manpower development and training announced by the Nixon administration in Washington.

The Kentucky projects call for training 224 men and women in the state's vocational schools and a practical nursing school to be clerk-typists, stenographers, auto mechanics, welders, hospital workers and diesel mechanics.

NUNN HALL

A portrait of Kentucky's First Lady, Mrs. Beula C. Nunn, was unveiled and she was given the keys to the City of Morehead at dedication of the new 10-story Nunn Hall named in her honor at Morehead State University.

Governor Nunn was among the dignitaries participating in ceremonies dedicating the $2.5 million women's residence.

TOO MUCH OF THE DAY—Alex McIntyre Jr., commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Motor Transportation, says too much of each day is spent at his desk, "pushing paperwork." McIntyre, from Hazard, would prefer spending his time out and about. He seems to have the knack of paperwork though, as the efficiency of his department attests.

FISHING IN KENTUCKY

A few weeks ago we had a column pointing out the great increase in the number of game and fish law violations, which have about doubled in the past eight years. That, of itself, seemed to indicate that sportsmen are a sorry lot and that not much dependence can be placed in them. However, a further check of figures reveals that type person is in the great minority. Law violations have increased, but when compared to the number of persons who purchase licenses to either hunt or fish (and this, of course, includes the deer hunter) the violations are indeed small. During 1968 total licenses sales were 715,789, which may be a bit high because included in both the fishing and hunting totals were the approximately 74,000 combination licenses. Of that number 5,253 persons were arrested, or about one out of every 135 persons who purchased a license. Put a bit plainer, it is easy to see that for every person who violates the law there are about 135 who do not, and that is not a bad percentage in anyone's book. By far the greatest violations for improper license or the lack of licenses altogether. This type makes up more than 50 per cent of all arrests. The improper licenses may include, for instance, a person who attempts to hunt or fish on a resident license, when he himself is a resident of another state. This is particularly true of Kentuckians who have migrated to neighboring states but return home for a few days hunting. Because they grew up in a given community, they believe they still should be permitted to hunt in Kentucky on a resident license. Of course, this is not legal, any more than it would be right for that same person to vote in Kentucky after he has taken up legal residence in another state. This violation occurs for both fishermen and hunters. Hunting out of season is another chronic violation.

It seems that when the weather becomes cold and frost is evident, the hunter thinks it is time to harvest the rabbit or the quail. He is a particularly difficult person to apprehend, too. He gets out of the house, bags himself a rabbit and returns before an enforcement officer can be notified. Prior to the squirrel hunting season there are some persons who hunt the bushy-tailed squirrel as they see a few young ones, they are ready to have fried squirrel for breakfast. They, too, are most difficult to apprehend. The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission, by no stretch of the imagination, make laws and regulations without purpose. If the rabbit bag limit, for instance, is reduced, it is done surely because the population of rabbits may be endangered. The length of the seasons for all game is determined on the same basis. For instance, during the past gun deer hunting season, only deer with visible antler or antlers were permitted to be taken in 95 counties. This regulation was not issued merely as a whim on the part of the Commission. Biologists who are assigned to study the deer conditions and the habitat available were of the opinion that most areas would support a few more deer than were available at the present time. By protecting the doe they were of the opinion, backed by sound biological research, that the deer population would be increased or at least held at the same level in these counties, notwithstanding the approximately 10,000 that were believed to have been harvested in the past season and the untold hundreds which fell victim to the speeding automobile, the spotlighting night hunter and packs of dogs. And so, when a person violates the fish and game laws of the state he is literally cutting down the game and fish which those very laws were designed to protect so that it may be perpetuated for the present day hunters and those of the future. And so, the short-lived victory the game law violators may enjoy will surely come back to him as a defeat for the very animal or fish that he so fondly likes to hunt or catch.

"Hunting and Fishing"

1,242,000 VETERANS TO PARTICIPATE

About 1,242,000 beneficiaries (8,700 in Kentucky) will participate in the Veterans Administration's training programs this school year, according to Olney B. Owen, Regional Manager of the VA in Louisville.

Owen said these programs include 24,000 disabled veterans (150 in Kentucky) in rehabilitative training, 1,580,000 veterans and servicemen (8,150 in Kentucky) receiving educational assistance under the GI Bill, and 62,200 dependents (400 in Kentucky) of deceased and disabled veterans.

The number of persons participating in education and training programs is expected to increase by 113,000 (1,500 in Kentucky) to 1,355,000 (10,200 in Kentucky) during 1971.

According to Owen, the number of veterans and servicemen seeking educational assistance is related mainly to the size of the armed forces and the yearly rate of discharges. Increased participation by veterans who served after Jan. 31, 1955, is another factor. Another reason for the rise in the number of trainees is the wide publicity being given the programs through U.S. Veterans Assistance Centers, the "Out-reach" program, and hospital visitations by VA Contact Officers.

The Brodhead Tigers downed Berea last Friday night, lost to Onda Saturday night, and bounced back to defeat Crab Orchard Tuesday night, December 9.

The Berea Pirates were unable to get things going in the first quarter when they were unable to score but six points to Brodhead's stem. At halftime, the Pirates were only down 3 points (22-19) and at the end of the third quarter they were ahead one point (32 to 31). However, the Tigers were not to be denied as in the fourth quarter they rallied for 20 points to Berea's 17 and won the decision by two points 51 to 49.

Scoggin was high man for the Tigers with 16 points followed by Goff with 15. In the Brodhead-Onda game, it was almost the same story in reverse. The Tigers could only come through with 13 points in the first quarter compared to Onda's 18. In the second quarter, they rallied and pulled to within 12 points for a half-time score of 34 to 32. The end of the third quarter saw the Tigers down by only one point 51 to 52 but, Onda put on a strong rally in the fourth and outscored the Tigers by 7 points for the 72 to 64 decision. Scoggin was again high man for the Tigers with 28 points. Goff got 22.

It was a little different story for the Tigers this time when they played the Crab Orchard Cubs. Things went a little better for them than when they were defeated by the Cubs in the Thanksgiving Turkey just two weeks ago.

The Tigers trailed by two points at the end of the first quarter but bounced back in the second half with 23 points to the Cubs' 6 to lead 34 to 19 at half time. And, in the second quarter, the Cubs were again unable to generate much offense as they only got 12 points compared to Brodhead's 19 and the final decision was 61 to 56.

Goff was high scorer with 15, followed by Pope with 14, and Scoggin with 11.

The Mt. Vernon Red Devils have chucked up two wins in the past week.

Last Friday night, they traveled to Livingston and came away with a 60 to 44 win and Tuesday night, at Burgin, the Devils won 67 to 55 in a rough contest.

At Livingston, Mt. Vernon led throughout the game. At the half, the Red Devils were on top 29 to 26 and at the end of the third quarter they were on top 41 to 32. Dale Coffey led all scorers with 14, followed by dosdy by Tommy Coffey with 13 and David McCauly got ten. Holt was the leading scorer for Livingston with 22 points.

At the half of the Mt. Vernon-Burgin game, the Red Devils were ahead 39 to 26 at half time. The Devils scoring was balanced with four of the starters in double figures. Stanley Burton led with 17, followed by Dale Coffey with 16, McCauly got 13, and Burdette 12.

Coach Laswell said, "I am still disappointed with the ball handling and shooting of the Red Devils. It is still poor, despite a lot of practice every day on foul shooting."

The Red Devils will meet Brodhead Friday night at Mt. Vernon. The "B" team game begins at 6:30 p.m.

Saturday night, the Livingston Blue Devils took on tough Knox Central at the Union College gymnasium and were defeated 57 to 39.

Coach Preston Parrett said after the game, "Our team played an excellent ball game against one of the region's top-ranked teams. This was our best effort of the season and I am extremely proud of the effort put forth by my boys."

The Devils stayed pretty close through the first half, and were only down three points (23 to 26) at half time. However, in the third quarter, Knox Central put on a burst of scoring that put them ahead 12 points and in the fourth quarter, the Devils couldn't contain them.

It was a different story last Tuesday night at Shopville—however, when the Blue Devils defeated Shopville 48 to 35. "The team is playing fine defense ball and our rebounding is good but our offense is bogged down," Coach Parrett said.

The Blue Devils will play Walton-Vernona Friday night at home.

Grant Approved For Extended Sewer System

The Economic Development Administration Tuesday approved a $42,570 grant to the City of Mt. Vernon for extension of the sewer system from the old city limits West Main Street through Bannett's Subdivision on the Old Brodhead Road. The extended system will also include the Harry Sparks Vocational School.

Besides EPA's $42,570 grant, the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration has granted the city $20,670 for the project. Besides these grants, the city has to put $42,160 into the project for a total project of $105,400.

According to Mayor Clyde Linville, the city is ready to have the $42,160 in share and, since no interim financing is necessary, the project should be ready to be advertised for bids in about three weeks.

About forty homes, besides the vocational school, will be serviced by the extended sewer system. Part of the $105,400 will be used for a lift station which is necessary at the school.

ORNAMENTS NEEDED

School Board Meets; New School Discussed

Several heads of committees, planning the new high school, met with the Rockcastle County Board of Education last Thursday night to express their dissatisfaction with the specifications for their departments.

Mrs. Jan Stevens, home economics teacher at Brodhead School, chairman of the Home Economics Committee, told the board that although her committee had requested 5,000 square feet of space, which included three classrooms, the specifications drawn up by Dr. John Gilliland's staff only allowed for two classrooms and cut the floor space back to 3,600 feet instead of the 5,000 requested.

Mrs. Stevens told the board that the State Department of Education's minimum requirement for floor space for each child was 55 square feet.

Superintendent Parsons, at this time, reminded the board and committee chairmen present that the cost per square foot for constructing the building was $20. The cost for the building now stands at $1,800,000, according to Mr. Parsons, which is $200,000 over the board's bonding potential.

Robert Pybas, Rockcastle County Band Director, was the next committee chairman to discuss the specifications with the board. Mr. Pybas told the board in his opening statement that he felt that as much money as was going to be spent on the band department in the new school "it needed to be done right or not done at all."

Mr. Pybas was mainly referring to the fact that the restroom, requested for the band department, had been cut from the original specifications. Mr. Pybas stressed that the restroom was necessary since the band would be able to use the bandroom at nights and having their own

CASH PROMOTED

Vernon Cash, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch L. Cash of Brodhead, was promoted to Army specialist five Oct. 27 while serving with the 572d Transportation Company near Long Binh, Vietnam.

A mechanic in the company, Spec. 5 Cash entered the Army in April, 1968, completed basic training at Ft. Knox, and was stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C., prior to his arrival in Vietnam last April.

restroom would mean that the main part of the school would not have to be opened so that restrooms there might be used. Mr. Pybas also asked for more storage space. The band department was allotted 1800 square feet for a practice area and storage. He stated that the band department needed at least a 30 x 30 space for storage alone.

Mr. Pybas further told the board that he felt that if the new high school was going to be built for a three-year program that it would be a gross waste especially in his department.

The State Department of Education conducted a facilities survey to determine if it was feasible for the school to be built for a four-year program and although their final decision has not been made known, indications are that a four-year program will be approved.

Mrs. Grace McCowan, chairman of the language arts department committee, told the board that this department would need at least two and possibly three more classrooms than the specifications called for.

Mrs. McCowan reminded the board that the language arts department included journalism, creative writing, drama, speech, and English for all four grades and with the amount of space now allotted by the specifications there would have to be at least 34 students to each classroom.

Bill Kelsey, chairman of the social studies department, reported to the board that, although his committee was reasonably well satisfied with the specifications for the social studies department, this department was shorted at least two classrooms from those requested. Mr. Kelsey told the board that with the type of equipment that would be used in these rooms (rectangular chairs, movable bookcases, and two filing cabinets) there would not be enough room in the space allotted for the number of students enrolled in the courses and requested that enough space be provided for at least 600 students in the social studies department.

And, last but not least, Billy Riddle, chairman of the Health and Physical Education Department, told the board that although he had looked the specifications

CITY COUNCIL MEETS

Ted Jackson of Mt. Vernon was hired as Building Inspector at last Thursday night's monthly meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council. Ma Jackson replaces Keith Cummins who resigned recently.

Councilman McKinley Perciful made a motion to set the maximum fine for persons dumping trash or anything on lake property. His motion also included not permitting any parking or loitering in the lake area.

The Council also voted to erect four no parking signs at the site of the State Highway Department Office on West Main Street fifteen feet back from each corner.

1-75 NOW COMPLETE THROUGH KENTUCKY

Kentucky's second interstate highway system was completed with the formal opening last Friday of a 30-mile section of I-75 between Mt. Vernon and Oolin.

The opening of the last stretch of I-75 in Kentucky provides 185 miles of four lane travel through Central Kentucky from the Cincinnati-Covington area to the Kentucky-Tennessee line at Jellico.

It also eliminates perhaps the worst bottleneck in the state with the removal of most through traffic from hills, curvy U.S. 25.

State Police recount instances of stopped cars 3 miles long on U.S. 25 near London.

Commissioner of Highway Eugene Goss cut the ribbon to officially open the new highway in Laurel County.

Census Information Now Available

Information about the 1969 Census of Agriculture is expected to be available in all county ASCS offices by December 1, according to Jack Welch, Chairman of the Kentucky State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Chairman Welch said in late November the Bureau of Census in Washington will send to all county ASCS offices an information packet containing a reference handbook, an introductory letter and a sample questionnaire. Information in the packet will help county office employees answer questions from farmers about the 1969 Agricultural Census.

The Chairman said farmers will receive the 1969 Agricultural Census questionnaire by mail on or about January 1, 1970. The questionnaire should be filled out and mailed back to the Census Bureau not later than February 15.

Chairman Welch said farmer cooperation in the census is very important because decisions that will lead to improved farm programs must be based on reliable facts and those facts can only be obtained through a nationwide census of all farm and ranches.

He said ASCS is one of the key agencies in the U.S. Department of Agriculture through which information on the 1969 Census of Agriculture will be handled.

Feeder Pigs from Tennessee

The L.G. Northington, State Veterinarian and Dr. L.T. Fisher, Veterinarian in Charge (Federal), have issued the following notice. Tennessee regulations require that all feeder pig producers have a marketing card endorsed by their county Extension Agent in order to sell feeder pigs in any Tennessee feeder pig sale. This action has been taken to assure that only Tennessee farm raised pigs are being offered for sale. These requirements are made to assure the swine feeding states that no pigs will be shipped to them except healthy, native farm raised pigs. This action by the State of Tennessee has resulted in an influx of unhealthy trader pigs being diverted to Kentucky feeder pig sales.

Effective November 17, 1969, NO Tennessee feeder pigs will be allowed to enter a Kentucky feeder pig market unless accompanied by an official Tennessee Marketing Card. These cards are available to all Tennessee pig producers through their county extension agents.

Cooperation by the management of Kentucky feeder pig markets in this matter will be appreciated. Kentucky markets are in serious danger of being prohibited from raising pigs to the grain belt states. It is of utmost importance to Kentucky's swine industry that a free movement of pigs in interstate commerce be maintained.

New Beef Extension Specialist

On November 1st Dr. William M. Brown began his new duties as Beef Cattle Extension Specialist at UK. His primary responsibilities will be for beef breeding, culling and selection, and he assumes management and maintenance of all beef performance test programs to include the Beef Herd Performance Testing and Bull Performance Testing.

In accepting appointment as Assistant Extension Professor of Animal Sciences Dr. Brown replaces Dr. Bernard Jones, Jr., who resigned September 30, 1969 to accept employment with Curtis Breeding Service as director of their beef bull testing and procurement programs.

Dr. Brown is a native of Alabama. He attended Vanderbilt University for one year and completed B.S. and M.S. degrees in Animal Science at Auburn University. He earned his Ph.D. with a major in beef cattle breeding at the University of Tennessee in 1969 under Dr. Robert Shroder.

The Horse/Bot According to W.E. Wise, Extension Veterinarian, there are 3 species of bots that generally affect horses in this area. The common bot fly, the throat fly and the nose bot fly. As the names suggest, the flies lay their eggs on various parts of the horse's body. The eggs are attached to the individual hairs. The common bot fly attaches its eggs to the hairs of the forelegs, mane, shoulders, underline neck and flanks. The throat bot fly attaches its eggs to the hairs about the lips. These flies variously lay from 160 to 500 eggs and attach one or more eggs to a hair.

The eggs hatch in two to seven days with proper stimulation and the immature bots lodge in the membranes of the mouth, the tongue, gums and lips. The larvae (immature bots) remain in the membranes of the mouth for 3 weeks to 2 months and then pass into the stomach where they attach themselves to the lining of the stomach. They remain attached to the lining of the stomach until they mature in 10 to 11 months and then pass out of the intestinal tract of the horse with the bowel movement.

The bots then burrow into the ground where they pupate and become a fly. This pupal stage may last from 15 to 70 days after which the fly emerges. The bot flies mate and start laying eggs, beginning a new life cycle.

Damage is caused by the flies attacking the horse to lay eggs and by the immature bots migrating through the body tissues. The bot larvae attach to the lining of the stomach where they cause severe irritation and pitting. Over 1000 bots have been counted in the stomach of a horse. Large numbers are leaving from the stomach at the same time may plug up the intestine and cause severe colic.

The life cycle of the horse bot can be broken at two stages: 1. the egg stage and 2. the larval stage in the horse's stomach. In the egg stage the cycle can be broken by rubbing the horse with an appropriate insecticide or by rubbing the horse with a warm wet sponge causing the eggs to hatch.

The larval stage in the horse's stomach can be eliminated with the use of worm medicines such as Carban disulfide, Trichlorfon and Equigard. These worm medicines should be administered by or under the supervision of a Veterinarian. The larvae have reached the stomach usually 2 months following the first killing frost. Medication should be given in December or January for best results. Precaution: Pesticides used improperly can be injurious to man, animals, and plants. Follow the directions and heed all precaution and contraindications on the label.

Consumer Comments

By: John B. Breckinridge
Attorney General

A common misconception regarding consumer protection in Kentucky is that a majority of businessmen are in opposition to consumer protection activities. To the credit of businessmen throughout the Commonwealth and to the benefit of Kentucky's citizens, consumer protection has the backing of the majority of those comprising the business community.

The proposed legislative measure drafted by the Legislative Committee of the Consumers' Protection Council is called the "Business and Consumer Protection Act." This act has been drafted for presentation to the 1970 General Assembly, and has been written to give businessmen and consumers protection against fraud and deception. As I have stated before in "Consumer Comments," many people are surprised to learn that there is no broad statute in Kentucky providing limitations of legal restraints in matters involving deception and fraud. The "Business and Consumer Protection Act" proposed by the Consumers' Protection Council would allow the Attorney General to work through the court to stop illegal practices and to seek a return of money to injured consumers.

"If-by-night" operators are not likely to pay occupational taxes in the community they are working. Neither are they likely to belong to the Chamber of Commerce or local civic groups, the members of which spend both time and money toward betterment of their community. Yet, the money taken through fraud or deceptive practices by unethical operators is money that would usually have been spent with the town's reputable merchants. This is not all - for so many times a person who has been injured in a business transaction will become a bitter buyer - suspecting all merchants and salesmen. Thus it is evident that both the "seller" and the "buyer" have a stake in the "Business and Consumer Protection Act." Citizens who have a complaint involving a consumer matter are invited to contact my assistant, Robert W. Bullock, Director, Consumer Protection Division, Office of the Attorney General, Frankfort, 40601, or phone 564-3235, Area Code 502.

IT'S FLOWER AND ITS MATES. It is said to say that practically everyone enjoys the beauty of flowers, but many persons have little knowledge about the actual physical makeup of flowers. A flower consists of five parts. These are the carpels, the stamens, the petals, the sepals, and the receptacle. Sound complicated? It's really not.

The carpels are the seed producers in the center of the flower. The stamens are the pollen producers located inside the petals. Of course, you know what the petals are. The sepals are the green leaf-like outer parts of the flower. And, the receptacle is just that—the topmost portion of the stalk which is a receptacle for the flower.

Flowers are nice for all occasions, and essential for many occasions. We can furnish the flowers for a cut arrangement, or for a formal wedding. Whatever your needs, call us.

Capital Digest

Edited By: Thornton McConnell

Lack of trained, adult supervision of children released from state correctional institutions is viewed by the Kentucky Crime Commission in a report to Governor Nunn as the state's biggest problem in the control of juvenile delinquency.

The commission cited statistics to show that as many as 80 per cent of those returned to their communities get into trouble again within three years. About 10,500 children aged 10 to 17 appeared in Kentucky juvenile courts last year, some as many as six times. Charles L. Owen, executive secretary of the commission, commented that while the institutional programs for youth continue to improve, "at least gaps exist at the community level. "If we don't prevent delinquency in the community today," he added, "we will have to control an increasing number of delinquents in state institutions at a higher cost tomorrow."

JENNIE NUNN A PRINCESS
 Governor Nunn and family

went to Washington at the invitation of a President Nixon to attend a special conference for governors and their families on narcotics and drug abuse. But Jennie had another reason. Jennie, the Nunn's 18-year-old daughter, a freshman at the University of Kentucky, was to be crowned by her father as Kentucky's cherry blossom princess.

She was voted this honor by the Kentucky Society of Washington and her name will be placed on a spinning wheel from which the 1970 Cherry Blossom Festival queen will be chosen next spring.

The governor also was to attend a foreign affairs briefing by members of the President's cabinet, and staff. Besides Jennie, the party included Mrs. Nunn and 17-year-old son, Steve. TWO NEW INDUSTRIES
 Location of two new industries in Kentucky was announced by Governor Nunn, one near Georgetown, the other at Shelbyville.

Johnson Service Co. of Milwaukee plans the first.

It manufactures control devices such as thermostats. The $1 million plant scheduled to open next November will eventually employ 725 Kentuckians. Chas. Groves, Louisville, said Plastic Parts, Inc., of which he is vice president, plans to open its furniture parts plant at Shelbyville in April and provide employment for about 50 Kentuckians.

LETTERS BRING AWARD
 Mrs. Agnes S. Haralson, columnist for the Central City Times-Argus, was the winner of the 1969 "Outstanding Achievement of Journalism Award" for "Outstanding Achievement of Journalism Award" for American servicemen.

The governor said Mrs. Haralson's weekly newsletters have been received by practically every Mullenberg County serviceman since World War I. She said her lettering "is not a hobby; it's a religion."

'MAYBE NEXT DAY'
 A monthly news conference that "by and large" has been "well pleased" with the work of Kentucky newspaper reporters but did object to a story saying he "slipped in" to a news conference for State Auditor Mary Louise Foust.

"I don't 'slip in' anywhere I go," the governor said good-naturedly. "When you go in and pose for pictures, you wonder why the reporters word it this way... maybe next day you get a break."

FARM MAY BECOME PARK
 The state has offered to lease 465 acres of state-owned farm land directly across the Kentucky River from the State Capitol to the Capital City Softball Association for use as a park with a number of restrictions.

Lease of the land, formerly used for farming, would permit such developments as a swimming pool, softball field, bandstand and camping and picnic areas, but would prohibit, among other things, a swimming beach on the river.

GAS RATE RISE ASKED
 The State Public Service Commission has set Jan. 27 as the date for a hearing on requests by the Columbia Gas Co. of Kentucky for an increase in rates of just under five per cent for users of natural gas in the Ashland and Lexington areas.

Henry King, a spokesman for Columbia, said the average increase for Ashland customers would be 40 cents a month and for Lexington-area customers almost 50 cents.

SEASON'S GREETINGS
 Programs for the 1969 tree lighting ceremony at the State Capitol carried this message of good wishes to Kentuckians from the governor.

"Mrs. Nunn and I wish you and your family all the joys of the Christmas season with the hope that those joys continue throughout the year."

F & C WANTS TO QUIT
 Claiming it can't make money any more, the 23-mile Frankfort & Cincinnati all-freight railroad, sometimes called "The Bourbon Route" because of whiskey transportation on its Frankfort-Georgetown link, has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) to allow it to cease operation.

The ICC announced a public hearing on the road's request would be held in Frankfort.

KENLAKA GETS NEW MANAGER
 William L. Sawyer, 25, a native of Albany, Ky., has been named park manager at Kenlake State Resort Park to succeed James Pella, resigned. For the past 10 months, Sawyer has been business manager at Kenlake. He is a University of Kentucky graduate.

State Parks Commissioner Robert E. Gable also announced Henry L. Allen has resigned as park manager at Lake Barkley Resort Park and that William Ledford, assistant manager, will be in charge until a new park manager is named.

STATE POLICE MARCH
 The Kentucky State Police will add 200 new troopers to their present force of fewer than 600. Public Safety Commissioner William O. Newman says more recruits are needed to offset a sharp increase in traffic and criminal arrests since 1967.

A request for the additional manpower is to be included in the State Police budget to be presented for consideration by the 1970 General Assembly.

GVERNOR A. V. P.
 Governor Nunn was named one of three vice presidents on the executive committee of the governing board of the Council of State Governments at its annual meeting in Lexington. He will serve with Gov. Warren Hearnes of Missouri and Gov. Robert F. McNair of South Carolina.

THE DUKE AT BARDSTOWN
 The John Foster Music Club of Bardstown, in an effort to promote concerts for the community, has scheduled Duke Ellington in the Nelson County High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. Feb. 26. The sponsor is Spalding College, Nazareth Campus.

NEED TO LEARN A TRADE?
 The Somerset Area Vocational School enrollment dates for the second semester in December 29 through January 2. The classes that have vacancies are painting, business & office data processing, and health careers.

The cost is $5.00 enrollment fee and $4.00 per month tuition for 9 1/2-time students and $2.00 per month for part-time students. If you are interested, call 679-8208 or visit the school between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

BISHOP PROMOTED
 Dexter C. Bishop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie E. Bishop, Route 2, Brodhead, was promoted Oct. 8 to Army specialist four while assigned to the 3d Infantry Division in Germany. Spec. 4 Bishop is a tank driver in Company C, 3d Battalion of the 64th Armor near Schweinfurt. He completed basic training at Fort Knox, where he was stationed before arriving overseas last January. The 21-year-old soldier attended Brodhead High School.

Expert Warns Many Women Who Need Rh Vaccine Most Are Not Getting It

By RALPH W. GAUSE, M.D.
 Obstetrical Consultant
 The National Foundation - March of Dimes

Medical authorities estimate that about one out of every four women who need Rh vaccine to protect themselves and their babies from a possible blood disease in their children is not receiving it.

The commission cited statistics to show that as many as 80 per cent of those returned to their communities get into trouble again within three years. About 10,500 children aged 10 to 17 appeared in Kentucky juvenile courts last

Community volunteers are kept informed about medical progress in the fight to prevent birth defects at March of Dimes Birth Defects Centers around the country.

Problems in pregnancy arise only when the husband has Rh positive blood and the wife has Rh negative. There are usually no harmful effects to the baby in a first pregnancy, but subsequent pregnancies can be jeopardized.

When Rh positive blood cells from the baby intermingles with those of the mother during delivery, her body sometimes responds by developing antibodies that attack blood cells containing the Rh factor. It is these antibodies that can be a possible threat to the child in later pregnancies.

Rh blood disease threatens some 40,000 unborn and newborn babies annually and is the cause of between 7,000 and 10,000 fetal deaths each year. If the infant stricken with the disease survives, he could be a victim of congenital anemia, heart failure, blindness, spasticity, mental retardation or visual and hearing defects.

The public must realize that the Rh vaccine is nearly 100 per cent effective and can prevent these tragedies. Every woman who requires the vaccine, however, must be inoculated within 72 hours after she has delivered her first child or has had a miscarriage.

Antibody Reaction Rh immune globulin supplies an Rh negative woman with the antibodies she needs to counter an invasion of Rh positive fetal blood. As a result she does not have to make her own antibodies and so does not become sensitized to Rh positive factor.

If a woman has been sensitized by a previous pregnancy or Rh typing routine cannot help her. Science, however, has developed other methods that her doctor can use to prevent the exchange transfusions at birth and intracranial transfusions. Rh disease is no threat to the vast majority. Most whites have Rh positive blood. Besides, a child will not automatically inherit the Rh positiveness of his father. Since one grandparent may have been Rh negative.

When the serum was licensed, the National Foundation launched a massive public and professional education drive. Chapter volunteers distribute information through health departments, schools, marriage license bureaus, pharmacies, clubs and organizations.

In particular, we would like to see Rh typing routine included in premarital blood tests. Then if a couple knew beforehand that they are Rh incompatible, the mother can be inoculated right after her first delivery.

Social Security News

Medicare beneficiaries who are holding their doctor bills until the end of the year to file for reimbursement should consider sending them in during December, James Mustian, Social Security Manager in Somerset announced today.

"Many people accumulate their doctor bills during the year and wait until January before filing them. The result is that in January there are so many bills to process that there may be a delay in getting the reimbursement from Medicare."

"If on the other hand, people would go ahead and file their claim in December for bills they have accumulated up to that time, they could expect payment on these much quicker," Mustian said. The doctor bills that are processed after that claim is filed can be filed in a later date sometime after the first of the year. In the meantime the accumulation of bills during 1969 up to that point can be paid.

Mustian stated that the Social Security Office and its representatives would give whatever assistance is needed in getting these bills filed for payment.

"All a person need do is to bring their bills to us. Of course, if a person wishes he can file his own claim by following instructions in the Medicare Handbook which has been sent to all Medicare beneficiaries."

For further information about filing Medicare claims or about any Social Security matter write, visit or call the Social Security Office at the Tradewind Shopping Center, Somerset, Ky., phone 678-8168.
