Today's women know that two heads (even three, perhaps) are better than one. This year, over 30 million hairpieces — falls, switchels, chignons and wiglets — have been bought by women yearning to change from blonde to brunette, or coiffed with curls they could never have naturally.

The increased use of women's hairpieces (according to Forbes magazine, 75 percent to 80 percent of all women in the larger cities and suburbs own hairpieces) is just a part of the success of hair as a fashion item. Men are following the trend, parting or pulling on moustaches, toupees, even beards and sideburns (for that after-six swinger look). In all, hair for men and women will be a $700 million market in '70 and an estimated $1 billion in 1972.

The development of synthetic hair in the mid '60s is the reason for the fast growth of the hairgoods market. Since synthetic hair comes in continuous strands, wigs of man-made fibers are produced in a single process rather than the expensive, four-step hand procedure required for wigs of natural hair. The average cost of a good shoulder-length wig of natural hair runs from $100 to $400 while similar looking wigs of man-made fibers sell in a price range of $20 to $175.

In addition to being inexpensive, synthetic wigs mean no-care hair. While being made, they are curled, colored and baked guaranteeing a permanent set. As for cleaning, wigs are almost a wash 'n wear item; they require shampooing every two to six months in warm to cool water and need only dry color.

Cool-fast, non-wilting synthetics are good for travelers and the sports-minded. They take the rays of the sun or a tumble in snow without damage. The spring cosmetic look will be healthy, with makeup used to camouflage, not disguise. EYES: no heavy eye makeup, dark liners out. Soft pastel eye shades to circle the eye for the round, soft, open look. Look for bisacryl eyeglasses for a milder eye appearance.

SKIN: the scrubbed and glimmering look achieved with bronze gel, gel rouge and see-through lipsticks; skin light. HAIR: unteased, the natural feel with the small, well-shaped shaggy-at-the-edges cut and the long, blunt, shoulder-length style still popular.

And... a look at the new shoes (?). Platforms, reminiscent of the 1940's, and Scandinavian clogs are the '70 forecast according to an American Footwear Institute report given at a design review in December.

A visit to the show convinced me that soles and heels are on the rise. Platforms are one-half inch or so thick and clogs elevate with an inch or more of sole. Heels are up to three inches in height. They are still sturdy in appearance but cut in styles from wedges and bell shapes to slanted and clogs. And the rounded toe is back, with sloped ovals, tapered, slightly angular shapes. The result if shapelier, taller and less comfortable? footwear.

MARINE CORP ANNOUNCES PROGRAM

The Marine Corps announced today a program designed to allow high school seniors the opportunity to enlist now and delay going to recruit training until after graduation. The new policy allows seniors up to 180-day's delay from date of enlistment, until after the time they report for active duty. Previously, the Marine Corps offered only 120-day's delay in their enlistment program.

Marine officials said the additional time between enlistment and reporting for training means high school seniors will have greater flexibility in planning personal requirements between now and graduation. Although seniors signing up under the program receive no pay during the delay period, the 180-day delay program means an immediate pay raise of about eight dollars a month upon reporting for active duty, Marine officials said. Additional information regarding the new program is available from NCO in Charge, MARINE CORPS RECRUITING SUB-STATION, FEDERAL BUILDING, DANVILLE, KENTUCKY 40422.

"The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration which supervises this program for the Department of Justice," Cook said, "is receiving $188 million more than last year, an indication of the dedication of this Administration to escalating the war on crime in America."

"Kentucky's share," the Senator added, "will be $347,000 in planning money and $2,906,000 in seton money." The action money, however, must be matched by a certain percentage of state funds.

Rep. James Osborne, Springfield: "The people in my district are mainly farm people. Daylight Saving Time, as it is, interferes with their work schedule. Rejection of this bill to exempt Kentucky from Daylight Time would greatly damage the farmer as well as the economy of Kentucky."

Rep. Jerry Kleier, Louisville: "As a person who would like to see it changed, at least to make hours smoother for the school children; but for the state as a whole, I'd have to vote to keep it as is."

Rep. E. T. "Tommy" Reed, D-Corinth: "In my district, being rural, the majority of the people are for attention, and I'll go along with my district."

Rep. Raymond Collins, R-Whitesburg: "I would exempt Kentucky from it. It gets the children off to school too early. In my area, we moved up one hour about 10 years ago. Another hour is too much."

CONWAY

A joint move in the legislature last week raised the possibility of local governments' being able to preempt one-tenth of the sales tax money the state collects from their areas.

The tax would be collected by the state and would be credited against the amount retailers would have to pay the state, so the five per cent total rate would be unchanged. Likewise, the amount paid to a city would be credited against that paid to that particular county.

City Councils and County Fiscal Courts, under bills introduced into both the House and Senate, could levy a .5 per cent sales and use tax on all retail sales.

Flowers

SELECTING TREES FOR YOUR GARDEN
 A beautiful garden includes more than just flowers. A variety of shrubs, trees and hedges should be an intimate part of your garden. This space is much too short to elaborate at length, but much consideration should be given to selecting trees for the garden.
 In the first place, trees should be selected which will not grow to towering heights unless you have acres of garden. Secondly, be certain that the trees will be of the varieties which will not cause an undue amount of litter. Be particular to exclude those trees which drop numerous large leaves in the Fall. Small trees accent flowers in all occasions.
 Flowers add to any occasion. Order an arrangement today for that upcoming special event. We furnish flowers for all occasions. Telephone your order to us today.

4 Called For Induction

Four youths will be inducted into the Armed Services on February 18, according to Mrs. Delia Seals, clerk of the local Selective Service Board. To be inducted are: Gary Wayne Abney, John Hess Parsons, Danny Edward Reynolds, and James F. Rogers, a transferee from Winchester, Indiana.

Three youths will also undergo physical examinations on the same day. They are: Raymond Dustin Owens, Benny Clayton Brewer, and Russell Wayne Barron.

Concerning the recently implemented Random Selection Sequence for induction, Mrs. Seals made the following statement in an attempt to clarify the processing of registrants under the new system:

"Selective Service Local Boards are only processing registrants for induction who are in the I-A Classification and who have been examined and found fully acceptable for military service. These registrants are placed in the I-A file in Random Selection Order with the lowest Random Selection Number first in the file.

The number is obtained from the birthdate of the registrant. During the year of 1970, registrants born Jan. 1, 1944 through Dec. 31, 1950 and not 26 years of age, who is in I-A Classification has been examined and found qualified for military service, will be processed for induction. In other words, none of the Selective Service Regulations have been changed, but just the order of selection."

The play is directed by Mrs. Carolyn Howard and the cast includes E.J. Smith as Rev. James Anderson, Grace Wilson as Amy Anderson, Harry Feaback as Jim Anderson, Margaret Taylor as Mary Anderson; Roger Munford as Robert Ayers; Jack Rice as Col. ## Dev. Assn. Elects Officers; Discuss County Programs

Officers for 1970 were elected at Monday night's regular meeting of the Rockcastle County Development Association.

All incumbent officers were re-elected. They are: Roy Brown, president; Clay Colson, vice president; H. Lee Durham, secretary; James Andeskin, Jr., treasurer.

During the meeting, President Brown introduced W.W. Thomson, London, Alvin Adams, Mt. Vernon, and Harold Crawford, London, all with Kentucky Telephone Company. Mr. Thomson gave a report on the progress being made in the telephone system in Rockcastle County and of recent improvements made to the local service in this area.

Mr. Thomson stated that the telephone system was switched to a new micro wave system two weeks ago and that the cost of this new equipment was $106,000.

Clay Colson was appointed chairman of the telephone committee which was formed at the November meeting. Other members of the committee are Jack Owens, Wade Roy, Clyde Linville, and Wayne Stewart. Mr. Colson asked Mr. Thomson if a representative of the telephone company could meet with the local committee some time within the near future and Mr. Thomson stated that a company representative would be available.

Clyde Linville reported to the group that Bob Lancaster, representative of a factory that has shown interest in coming to this area, will meet with officials of the Bank of Mt. Vernon on February 3 to discuss local participation in constructing a 20,000 cubic feet building costing in the neighborhood of $250,000 for construction.

Mr. Linville invited representatives of the development corporation to meet with the group at that time. Mr. Linville also reported that the city of Mt. Vernon's new water system is complete with only one street remaining to be blacktopped to complete the project.

Bobby Proctor discussed with the group the 28-acre industrial site located at Brodhead. He stated that Brodhead needs the deed to the site and 264 sewer customers before money will be available through the Economic Development Administration (EDA) and before actual construction can begin on the water and sewer project. This involves $28,000, which is $1,000 per acre for the site located on land belonging to Alec Proffitt and adjoining Cleston Saylor's property. The site would be served by the new water and sewer system.

Mr. Proctor also stated that $14,000 of the money could be raised locally and that the other half would be from a loan or grant.

Jack Crawford reported to the group on the airport project. He stated that the committee has been held in the process of making a study of the site at the Hobart Harris airfield and that he would like to meet with the airport board immediately.

MIND TEASERS—How well do you really know Mt. Vernon? These photos might prove that however well you think you know your town, you really aren't very observant.

However, some of these buildings, of which only the upper floor is shown in the photos, are sure will be recognized immediately. Some of them are very old, but most were built in the early 1920's and 30's. They are all located on Main Street in Mt. Vernon and are commonplace sights to you if you really look at them which we have found is usually not the case. Since Mt. Vernon isn't very large, it really wouldn't be any trouble for you to check the store fronts out first, but why not just test your powers of observation?

to keep drivers from falling asleep at the wheel was sponsored by the Kentucky Departments of Public Information and Highways.

The beverage-with-a-purpose was served at Travel Information Centers in Pineville and Florence, and in Holiday House, Inc., restaurants at Shepherdsville, Beaver Dam and Lebanon Junction as nearly 20 million miles were logged by motorists traveling Kentucky's parkways. One said "thanks" and "We heard of Kentucky hospitality, but this is a proof positive."

YOUTH WANTS PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY

State presidents of the Young Republicans and the Young Democrats have joined in an effort to give rank and file Kentuckians of both parties more of a voice in the selection of candidates for President of the United States.

To this end, Lou DeFaliasse, YR-Covington, and Don Mills, YD-Lexington, issued a statement urging the 1970 General Assembly to enact a presidential primary law to select delegates to the national nominating conventions.

Kentucky presently operates under the convention system, from the precinct to the state level. Mills and DeFaliasse said that whereas no more than 25,000 Kentuckians took part in the 1968 conventions, a presidential primary on regular primary day in May would attract from 500,000 to one million participants.

ANOTHER TRAIN ALLOWED TO QUIT

It's the end of the line for the Southern Railway's Royal Palm passenger train. Discontinuance of the run from Cincinnati south by way of Covington, Lexington, and Danville to Somerset was allowed by the Kentucky Railroad Commission when Southern claimed it was losing money.

Florida eliminated the southernmost segment of the run two years ago. Tennessee later granted discontinuance of the run between Somerset and Chattanooga. The Kentucky action is effective Feb. 1.

13,500 NEW JOBS PAYING $70 MILLION

Commerce Commissioner Paul W. Grubbs declared in an address at Lexington that 1969's new and expanded industries in Kentucky "will add 13,500 new jobs producing at least $70 million annually in direct wages and salary payments."

This direct income will produce some $3 million a year in additional tax revenue, he said, and added capital investment of more than $359 million will provide "a very significant addition to Kentucky's local and state tax base."

A RUBELLA 'FIRST' FOR ROBERTSON COUNTY

Robertson County was credited with the most comprehensive vaccination of any county in the state last week when 201 of its school children were inoculated against rubella (German measles).

The vaccine for 65 first and second grade youngsters was provided by the state, which pays $1.46 a dose, and that for 136 children through the sixth grade was paid for by the Robertson County Woman's Club.

In an effort to prevent a threatened epidemic by vaccination, Gov. Louie B. Nunn contributed $50,000 from his contingency fund and asked the legislature for $500,000 more over the next two years.

100,000 COMPUTER GRANT ANNOUNCED

A grant of $100,000 from his contingency fund to start a comprehensive computer network for the state that will save an estimated $4.5 million over a four-year period was announced by Governor Nunn. The current system of 16 machines will be reduced to a "modular" concept of five.

It also was announced the administration will establish a training center at Kentucky State College "to share data-processing expertise with business, agriculture and other facets of the private sector."

"People remain Kentucky's most important resource—they will not be replaced by machines," the governor said. "But machines such as computers... greatly enhance human capability available to state government."

FOOD STAMPS TO GIVE MORE FOR LESS

Economic Security Commissioner Merritt S. Deitz Jr. reports that under a new formula announced by President Nixon, Kentucky's 136,743 food stamp recipients will get more food for less money beginning Feb. 1.

A typical family of five with a net income of $40 a month has been paying $14 for stamps worth $68 in food. The new formula will give it $118 worth of food for the $8 it pays for stamps. Deitz said the new program will compensate for size in need of food prices and will also give low-income families enough coupons to buy food for a more nutritional diet.

FAIR BOARD WILLING TO TALK

The Kentucky State Fair Board at a recent meeting indicated it would be willing to discuss with the American Athletic Union (AAU) the possibility of moving the latter's national headquarters from New York to the fair and exposition center. The AAU, which sponsors a wide variety of athletic events, is said to have several cities besides Louisville under consideration.

The fair board elected Douglas L. Blair, Barbourville, to the third term as president, and Joseph E. Stoper, Louisville, to a second term as vice president. Governor Nunn later reappointed Wendell Smith, Owensboro, and Charles E. Eastin, Lexington, to four-year terms on the board.

GAS RATE INCREASE SOUGHT

Pending before the Kentucky Public Service Commission is a request from the Louisville Gas & Electric Company to approve an increase in its natural gas rates that would cost the average residential customer an average of about 68 cents more per month.

LG&E was reported seeking a raise because of a 15.6 per cent rise in the price it pays for gas bought from the Texas Gas Transmission Corp., Owensboro.

LG&E services Jefferson County and parts of 10 other counties—Meade, Hardin, Larned, Bullitt, Nelson, Marion, Oldham, Trimble, Henry and Shelby.

WELFARE WORKERS PART-TIME STUDENTS

Child Welfare Commissioner George Perkins announced 50 departmental workers in the Louisville area would enroll as part-time students at the Jefferson Community College this semester to work toward associate art degrees in the helping professions.

AIRPORT HANGAR LOANS APPROVED

Approval of state loans of $12,000 to the London-Corbin Airport and $40,000 to the Ashland-Boyd County Airport for the construction of hangars was announced by Governor Nunn.

The governor said the loan from the airport development revolving loan fund to the London-Corbin Airport would be made immediately and the one to the Ashland-Boyd County Airport probably in February.

Forestry Notes

Timber Stand Improvement

TSI (Timber Stand Improvement) can speed up the growth and raise the quality of your trees. TSI coupled with other improvement practices can help increase the enjoyment and profits from all of your forest resources. This article outlines ways this can be done.

TSI is a term used to identify management practices designed to improve the vigor, stocking, composition, productivity, and quality of forest stands. These practices include weeding, thinning, and pruning. The chief aim of TSI is to make forest management more profitable through sustained production of more and better timber products. TSI can convert a nondescript collection of trees into a dynamic working forest. TSI measures are applied to established timber stands, they provide some of the most effective ways for a forest landowner to realize a return on his investment. Forest owners who do not consult a forester about TSI overlook one of the most valuable forestry tools available.

Just as an untended garden seldom produces bumper crops of vegetables, so a neglected forest seldom produces large quantities of high-value timber. One of the problems in forestry today is how to improve the quality of the logs that are needed to supply wood-using industries. This is particularly true of the fine hardwood species.

Measures to improve timber production include: WEEDING young stands to remove unwanted species and make more room for higher value trees.

THINNING to relieve overcrowding and increase the growth rate of potential crop trees left as the residual stand.

RELEASE of vigorous young potential crop trees for faster growth and better quality by killing or removing overtopping trees.

PRUNING the lower stem of selected trees to produce knot-free timber for sawlogs, veneer logs and other products.

CULL TREE REMOVAL to make available growing space occupied by deformed or defective trees that are not marketable.

SANITATION CUTTING to remove trees that harbor insects or diseases for the protection of the remaining stand.

While the following re-land management is not included in the traditional TSI concept, they are essential to forest improvement and affect total timber production and property value.

HARVESTING timber crops in ways that will provide for desired natural regeneration or stimulate growth and improve the quality of the remaining stand.

SITE PREPARATION for seeding, planting or natural regeneration to obtain better survival and healthier stands of young seedlings. SEEDING OR PLANTING to improve stocking or to reforest cutover or idle lands.

Substantial improvement of timber stands is possible with management practices that do not require "out of pocket" costs. For example, a sale of pulpwood sometimes can result in thinning, salvage, sanitation, and release benefits comparable to those obtained by investment in the TSI measures outlined above.

The foregoing discussion suggests some of the TSI systems which can be used by you as a woodland owner or manager. You can benefit immensely if a professional forester helps you determine, analyze, and evaluate the potentials and limitations of your forest land. You must decide what your opportunities are and what you want from your forest. Accordingly, the forester can help prepare a management plan which includes those TSI and related practices most feasible and helpful to you in achieving your objectives.

Any woodland owner or manager interested in the forest improvement measures discussed here should see a professional forester for technical advice and assistance. Foresters employed by the Kentucky Division of Forestry provide such services free of charge. They will work on landowners to assist with planning, management, protection, and sale of their forest properties. Requests for such help can be made to:

The elastic mind of a fisherman is a thing of much latitude and the stories he tells must be tempered with this in mind. However, the facts are that Kentucky has more good jig fishermen than any other state and this is as it should be if the stories told by the pioneer Herrington Lake fishermen can be counted on with any degree of accuracy.

Kentucky has more jig fishermen simply because this state is the cradle of the jig fishing art and Herrington Lake is where it was perfected. The stories have it that in the early thirties fishing for black bass in Herrington Lake was so good that fishermen were reluctant to give up their favorite out or pasture even in winter months and that's why jig fishing was born. The anglers from Mercer, Garrard and Lincoln counties had become quite Kentucky's lakes, especially when the water is murky to muddy. There are variations. There are additions and subtractions from this method, but basically this is jig fishing. And the reason there are more jig fishermen in Kentucky than any other state is perhaps because today's fishermen knew about it first.

down to defeat last Saturday night 83 to 68 in a game played at Bush.

Foul trouble also hurt the Tigers with Johnny McWhorter fouling out right after second half play began. Scoggin fouled out in the third quarter after hitting for eighteen points, and Goff also fouled out after getting 15.

"Not taking anything away from Bush, but I believe on our home floor with the team well again, that we can beat them," Coach Billy Riddle said. Others scoring in the game were Adams with 13, McWhorter 6, Bussell 8, Bray 3, and Pope 2.

Pulaski County came to Brodhead Tuesday night and handed the Tigers a 74 to 64 defeat which saw only nine boys out of 12 dressed for the game and according to Coach Riddle, four or five of these were just about too sick.

Coach Riddle gave senior Ricky Bussell credit for keeping them in the game. The senior got 31 points for game honors. Others scoring were McWhorter with 8, Goff with 10, Adams 11, Bray and Graves 2 each. The Tigers travel to Crab Orchard next Monday night, host Mt. Vernon next Thursday night, and meet the Blue Devils on their home floor next Friday night.

The following poem was sent to us by M.C. Sutton of Brodhead who's son, Pfc. Tony M. Sutton, sent it to him. It was written by a soldier in Vietnam before his death.

Living and Dying
Take a man, then put him alone.
Put him 12,000 miles away from home.
Empty his heart of all its blood.
Make him live and sweat in the mud.
This is the life we have to live.
And why my soul to the devil I'll give.
You "Peace Boys" from your easy chair,
Don't really know what it's like over here.
You have a ball without really trying.
While over here the boys are dying.
You burn your draft cards, march at dawn
And plant your flags on the White House lawn.
You all want to ban the bomb,
"There is no war in Vietnam."
Use your drugs have your fun,
Then refuse to take up a gun.
There's nothing else for you to do,
And I'm supposed to die for you.
I'll hate you till the day I die.
You made me hear my budie cry.
I saw his arm, a bloody shred,
I heard them say, "This one is dead."
It's a large price he had to pay.
Not to live another, no, not another day!
He had the guts to fight and die,
He paid the price!! What did he buy?

Soil Conservation News

Putting much in feed production is easier said than done. Most of us know more about producing feed than we are willing to put into practice. The farmers who could benefit most by accepting new ideas in feed production are often the last to accept them. This is one of the big problems we face in Rockcastle County.

There have been many changes in feed production programs in the last 20 years. Most of us can recall when 50, 60 or 70 bushel corn yields were considered good. Farms are becoming larger. Many farmers are becoming part-time farmers. Farms are becoming more mechanized. The challenge has been to get with it or move on.

In working out a sound feed production program we must consider the capabilities of the soil. We are falling short of using our good soil to its greatest capabilities. There is need for Class I and Class II land to be used more intensively for row crop production. On the other hand, we often see Class III and IV land being used for row crops on a sub-marginal basis. Corn silage and alfalfa for hay are crops that have capabilities for large amounts of feed per acre. When feed production can almost be doubled by putting corn into silage instead of the crib we have a real challenge of putting the grain in feed production. Alfalfa, properly managed, can more than double hay production.

In any of our feed production programs we cannot overlook the necessity of a good lime and fertilizer program. This is an accepted idea but we often get in a hurry or too busy and fail to make the proper application for maximum production.

Pasture and hay renovation research has proven that renovation is profitable and it has been accepted by many farmers. This practice alone has put many farmers on good economical feed production basis that otherwise would have gone to public work. The unfortunate thing is that there are thousands of acres that still need the benefit of renovation. As we have pointed out many times, this practice alone can double production the first year and triple production the second year.

Research has shown that it is one thing to produce forage and another to get it consumed by livestock that we may tug into meat or milk and later into dollars and cents. Practical systems of rotational grazing have often allowed us to double the utilization of forage crops that we produce.

If we will place emphasis on these five things they will help us put real punch in feed production in Rockcastle County: (1) grow more corn for silage on our better land, (2) continue to renovate grass sods for pasture and hay production; (3) Re-introduce alfalfa into our forage program; (4) Follow a sound heavy fertilization program; (5) Keep enough good livestock to utilize the forage we produce.

Social Security News

"Farm household workers who fail to give their Social Security numbers to their employers may lose a part or all of the Social Security payment which may be due when the time comes to claim them." This warning comes from James Mustian manager of the Somerset Social Security district office.

Mustian pointed out the Social Security account number is the key to the worker's social security account. It identifies his record from all others. Social Security benefit payments are based on earnings. If a worker's social security number is missing from the earnings report filed on his behalf by his employer, he gets no credit
