

Homemaker's Help

By: Faith N. Plummer
County Extension Agent

You can't retire from eating the right foods. Good eating habits are as important to a senior citizen as to a growing child.

Eating the right foods adds life to your years as well as, years to your life. Yet many older persons aren't as healthy and happy as they might be with good eating habits. A well-balanced diet helps keep the body at its best, and, in case of illness, the person who is well-fed responds better to treatment.

In addition, a poor diet, may be the reason for many complaints that trouble older persons. Here are some danger signs that can mean an older person is not eating the right foods - a chronic tired feeling, a gloomy outlook on life, anxiety or worry over small things, and loss of sleep. Many older persons say they, like only certain foods - and these may not be the foods they really need. Being well-fed gives so many benefits and being poorly-fed causes so many problems, that it's well worth the effort to eat wisely. Fruits and vegetables, especially the leafy green vegetables and the deep-yellow colored fruits and vegetables, are the best sources of vitamin A. This vitamin helps protect against infections of the throat and is important to good vision and good eye health. Oranges, grapefruit, strawberries, tomatoes, cabbage, and broccoli are the best sources of vitamin C, which is important to good health of the blood vessels.

However, many persons - especially older persons - need iron in their diet. Iron is found in many vegetables as often as they should. Four servings a day are recommended. You never outgrow your need for iron, because milk products supply the calcium and phosphorus needed for strong, healthy bones and teeth. A lack of iron seems to be broken bones, and most people believe that, as a person grows older, his bones become fragile and easily broken. Yet research shows that this need is not true if a person has enough calcium and phosphorus to repair and replace these minerals in bone tissues. Two cups of milk each day or its equivalent in dairy products should provide enough calcium and phosphorus if the body uses these minerals normally.

The foods from whole grain or enriched cereals provide the best sources of vitamin B, which is called "the morale vitamin" because it helps maintain the health of the nerves. A cereal and three or four slices of enriched breads daily are recommended for vitamin B and energy.

To keep your muscles in good tone, you need two servings of protein foods each day. Lean meat, eggs, fish, poultry, cottage cheese, peanut butter, and dried beans are good sources of protein.

These, then, are the basis of daily good eating - four servings of fruits and vegetables, two cups of milk, four servings of breads and cereals, and two servings of protein foods.

After these basic four food groups have been included in daily meal plans you can add other foods such as sweets, soft drinks and snack foods if they do not increase your calorie intake over what you need for energy. The more active you are the more of these high-energy foods you can eat without weight gain. A person who gets very little exercise should use very few of these foods to avoid gaining weight. The earlier in life you form good food habits, the more likely you are to have a long, and healthy life. But remember you're never too old to learn to eat the right foods.

County Agent's Notes

Could Anyone Know If You Used DDT or TDE on his Tobacco?
We've been asked confidentially several times whether anyone would really be able to tell if a grower used DDT or TDE on his tobacco. Without giving a direct answer, let us present some facts so you can answer for yourselves.

Residue detection techniques are so refined now that 1 part per million (ppm) residue of most pesticides can easily be detected. Levels as low as 1 part per billion of DDT or TDE can be detected. To help you visualize just how little 1 part per million is, look at these comparisons: 1 ounce of sand in 311 tons of cement is 1 ppm; 1 inch is 1 ppm of 16 miles; 1 ton haystack, 1 minute is 1 ppm of 1.9 years; 1 ounce of dye in 7,530 gallons of water is 1 ppm; 1 square inch is 1 ppm of 1/6 acre; 1 pound is 1 ppm of 500 tons; 1 penny is 1 ppm of $10,000.

Spring Weeds Can Taint Milk

Spring has sprung. So have the weeds - particularly wild onions, which cause off-flavored milks. Through weed-infested pastures, or weeds mixed with hay, silage, or the concentrate part of the ration, cows often eat enough bitterweed, carotweed, fanweed, ragweed, mayweed, peppergum, wild onion, or garlic to give off-flavored, tainted milk, says Dr. C. Bronson Lane, Dairy Specialist at the UK College of Agriculture.

Closely associated with weed flavors in taste are the feed flavors often found in milk. They are more prevalent during cold-weather months, but can occur throughout the year. Some of the culprit feeds which might taint the milk supply are alfalfa, barley, clover, cabbage, rye, turnips, and fermented silage, according to the UK dairy expert.

Feed nutrients ingested by the cow are used for milk production. Many times the feeds used contain undesirable flavors. These flavors are transmitted into the milk in two ways. A cow can breathe in the obnoxious odors which pass from the lungs into the blood stream. The blood stream carries them to the udder, where they end up in the milk. Foul odors also can pass from the rumen into the 'blood stream, through the udder, and into the milk.

Evidently, an equilibrium is established between foul odor concentrations in the blood and in the udder milk. So if the odor concentration is higher in the blood than milk, flavors tend to pass into the milk. However, if the milk contains higher concentrations of the undesirable flavors than the blood, the flavors pass into the blood stream, are carried back to the lungs and exhaled. Therefore, a cow can get rid of obnoxious odors in her milk if she is isolated from the feed and weed offenders long enough.

The cow's normal body processes can eliminate offensive feed odors from the milk, if sufficient time is allowed between feeding and milking. To insure "odor" free milk, Lane recommends the following procedures: Don't give cows offender feeds for four to five hours before milking. In certain cases, it may be necessary for the dairymen to experiment with this time factor and select the one which best fits his particular conditions.

Feed very strong-flavored feeds right after milking.

This usually allows enough time for the cow to release offensive odors.
Don't give cows those feeds which off-flavor the milk, even after the 12-hour time lapse between feeding and milking.
Provide an environment where the cow can breathe fresh air - air free of feedy, covey, or barny odors.
Eliminate weeds from pastures at a high enough level to prevent weeds from going to seed. If the pasture is to be renovated, used with proper varieties, and use good pasture management techniques.

Letter To The Editor

I have made Purple Martin, Blue Bird and Wren houses every day for the past five years; worked 10 to 14 hours a day and tried to realize only a fair 8 hours pay. Our desirable birds are very scarce. People have just quit providing a nesting place for them. One Purple Martin eats about 4,400 insects daily. You never see a mosquito if you have Purple Martins. Wrens and Blue Birds eat enough bugs in one year to pay you 10 times for providing them a nesting place. I make two kinds of houses for the Purple Martins. They have no door at all, and Sparrows won't nest in it. The other type has a door in the corners. They have three times the view that the usual side door has.

The Purple Martin will eat nothing but insects. The last week in August the Martins leave here and go to the Amazon Valley in Brazil. They return here from March 20th to April 10th to last years nest. They return after the insects begin to fly.

They are good company, sing from dawn to dark. In flight they are most graceful and very fast. Anyone who ever has the Purple Martin around the house will never again fail to provide them a proper nesting place.

Now a few words about the scariest bird on this planet - the Starling - pest of all pest.

I hear a lot and read a lot that spraying crops is killing our birds. I think it not that one word of this is true. The only bird that would eat a dead bug is a scavenger and that is what the Starling is. If spraying was killing birds, there would be no Starlings.

The Starling is the destroyer of our birds. Our woodpecker, Flicker and any birds that nests in a hole in a tree are about gone. When the Starling finds their nest, being to sorry to make his own, he goes in and throws out their eggs or their young and raises their own family. The only reason they don't do the same to the Purple Martin is that they don't make much of a nest.

No bird will feed near them or fight with them. They emit an odor that other birds can not stand. They also carry a disease that is fatal to humans. It causes hardening of the respiratory system.

This nasty thing was brought to this continent in 1886 - about a dozen were let loose on our east coast. Now there is five starlings to one of all other birds added together.

If they aren't destroyed now, in twenty years we will have no birds left except Starlings and a few sparrows and they too are imports from Europe.

It would, to me, be a direly lonely place without our beautiful song birds.

The Starlings stay in large groups. I used to live in New Jersey. A plane crashed in Elizabeth, taking 136 lives and barely missed a large hospital. On determining the cause of the crash, they found the air intake stopped up with dead starlings. The plane had just left New York.

Regardless of who likes it or doesn't, this pest must be destroyed and now! They can not stand and will be destroyed. If there be a law against our right destruction of them, a small bounty could be paid to the kids for their eggs for a few years.

If interested in houses, feeders, preservation of our birds, send name and address and stamp for brochure.

Pewee Valley Centennial

THE LITTLE COLONEL, 1970
... Maria Darst, age 6

Pewee Valley, a small community just outside Louisville, turns back the clock to mark its 100th anniversary this year. The celebration of Charter Weekend started the year-long celebration with Kenneth Harper, commissioner of Public Information, bringing a reproduction of Pewee Valley's first charter, signed by Gov. John Stevenson in 1870.

Harper arrived at the village square in a horse drawn carriage, much like those used a century ago - and when Anna Johnston wrote about the Little Colonel of Pewee Valley at the turn of the century.

Plays based on the stories of Miss Johnston will be given at the Pewee Valley Playhouse throughout the year as part of the centennial.

and know how a fire investigator can muster.

Seven Special Investigators: To assist districts and county forestry personnel in determining fire causes and apprehending the person responsible, the Division of Forestry has seven special investigators. These men have received special training in investigation procedures, and are themselves experienced forest fire fighters.

Even a simple case requires many hours of painstaking work interviewing witnesses living in the vicinity of the fire. Trying to find the point where the fire started and evidence of what started it is most important in determining if it was a carelessly dropped cigarette or match or a deliberate act. All evidence must be carefully weighed before the fire investigation files his report.

Court Action: If the investigator has sufficient evidence it will be presented to the County Attorney for prosecution. Last year Rockcastle County had thirteen prosecutions. Remember a wildfire is illegal, no matter how it starts and any fire out of control is a wildfire.

News About Ky.

Random selection, the new method by which young men are selected for induction to military service has "delivered" 685 registrants to the armed forces.

The so-called draft lottery, of course, has no effect on military manpower needs. The number of men drafted is determined by many factors, none of which reflect policies and methods of the local board.

Kentucky's quota for January and February, the first two months of the random selection system, was 685. And 685 men were "delivered" to examining and entrance station.

Below are questions frequently asked of the Selective Service System, along with appropriate answers:

Q- How many men have been inducted from Kentucky since the new draft lottery?

A- The Selective Service System delivers registrants to an Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Station for induction, but the actual processing is a function of the Armed Forces.

From Jan. 15, 1970, through Feb. 28, 1970, Kentucky delivered 685 registrants, which was our quota for these months and they were inducted by the Armed Forces.

Q- When I go to the draft your random selection sequence number are determined by date of birth. Selective Service local boards in Kentucky require verification of date of birth for assignment of the Selective Service number and the random selection sequence number.

Q- If I am drafted, while in the Army I can't make the payments on my car, will it be repossessed by the finance company?

A- The Kentucky Bar, the state-wide organization of lawyers and judges, has prepared a pamphlet in co-operation with the Kentucky Selective Service System for distribution to the men about to enter the Armed Forces. The following is quoted from this pamphlet:

"INSTALLMENT PAYMENTS- On automobiles, appliances, furniture, etc., the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act protects you against repossession by companies financing purchase, except through court proceedings under certain conditions, and hence you may be able to arrange to scale down monthly payments if necessary."

If you need legal counsel after entering military service, consult with the Judge Advocate or a member of the staff at your duty station.

Q- Can my ex-wife or her attorney look at my draft records?

A- Except as provided by law or by the Selective Service Regulations the records in a registrant's file and the information contained in such records shall be confidential and not be examined without your written consent.

HUNTING AND FISHING

Those sportsmen who have talked all winter long about fishing-who have mapped out in their minds jumps to favorite fishing spots this summer- and who have vowed that they will fish more than last year when their favorite pastime was greatly curbed by some trivial thing like "being too busy," had better get with it right now. The fishing season is at hand.

For the next couple of months, or until the water becomes too hot for some species, fishing should be in its prime. With the temperature hovering in the high fifties and low sixties, which should be reached in a few days, croppie, white and bluegill bass, bluegill and catfish will be awaiting the sportsman's lure.

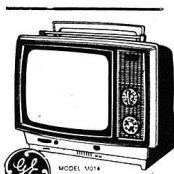

First in the parade of fishes will be the white bass-already showing signs of fast action in some of the headwaters. Catches have been made in the tributaries of Lake Cumberland, Dale Hollow, Rough River Reservoir and Barren Reservoir, and they'll be moving in other lakes right away.

The fish are moving into shallower water to spawn and while in these sections can be caught in great numbers.

The runs should continue for about three weeks, and may erupt at any minute.

Help Protect Our Forest

Forest Fire Ranger Stephen C. Bullen is seeking aid of Rockcastle Countians in preventing destruction of our forest by wildfires. He noted that any one starting a blaze is responsible under law for damage it may cause and subject to a fine of $100 and six months in jail or both, plus the cost of suppression of fire. This type of law violators will be contacted and every effort possible will be exerted in the apprehension of persons found guilty.

Last year, 1969, 2967 forest fires were reported by the Kentucky Division of Forestry. These forest fires destroyed 33,122 acres of Kentucky's valuable forest resources. Depending on time, place, or cause, the persons responsible for these fires are guilty of misdemeanors or felonies.

35 of these fires took place in Rockcastle County.

Once the fire is suppressed, the work of finding the responsible party begins. Sometimes this is relatively simple as in the case of the fire escaping from a plant bed or brush pile. Note - No burning in or within 150 feet of woodland or brushland before 4:30 p.m. Central Standard time is permitted during the months of March, April, May, October, November and December. There is an exception to tobacco bed burning, but if fire escapes from the tobacco bed and enters the woods the person has violated KRS 149:375 law - this fire law or regulations permits a person to burn, under certain conditions, but does not allow the person to let the fire escape to our forest.

A wildfire starting in the middle of a forest or on a lonely stretch of back road, miles from any houses, takes all the experience

City Council Meets; Discuss R & R For Lake

The Mt. Vernon City Council met Tuesday night for its regular monthly meeting and discussed rules and regulations to govern the operation of Lake Linville. The Council decided to meet in closed session within the next few days and work out a plan for the lake's operation. This plan will then be presented at an open meeting of the Council and passed upon.

SERVICES HELD FOR ROBERT LEE REYNOLDS

Funeral services were conducted Monday, April 8, at Our Lady of Mt. Vernon Catholic Church by Father Ralph Beizing for Robert Lee "Pop" Reynolds, 79, of Mt. Vernon who passed away April 3 in a Lexington hospital.

Mr. Reynolds was a native of Jessamine County, the son of the late Levi "Doc" Reynolds and Miss Anna Haggas, was a veteran of WWI, and a member of Our Lady of Mt. Vernon Catholic Church. He had owned and operated Pop's Junk Yard in Mt. Vernon. Besides his wife, Mrs. Mary Asch Reynolds, of Mt. Vernon, he is survived by two step-sons, Walter W. Myers of Columbus, Ohio and Robert C. Meyers of Ft. Wright; 6 step grandchildren, 10 step great grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

Concerning the recent tragedy at the city-owned Lake Linville, the Council voted to waive a letter of appreciation to each of the six rescue squads that conducted dragging operations for the victim.

Arrangements were by Sparks Funeral Home.

The Council also changed their regular monthly meeting date from the first Tuesday in the month to the second Monday, effective with their May meeting.

MRS. HATTIE CROSS DIES APRIL 5

The purchase of a 15 horsepower motor for the City Water Department's 14-foot boat was also authorized by the council. The water department uses this boat to treat the water and to get to their outside valves. City Water Department Superintendent Jack R. Craig was authorized by the Council to make the purchase.

Mrs. Hattie C. Cross, 78, of Mt. Vernon, passed away at the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital Sunday, April 5.

A resolution prepared by City Attorney Carl Clontz, commending ex-mayor Clyde Linville for his service to the City of Mt. Vernon during his tenure in office, was read to the Council and approved by them for inclusion in the City's minutes and for publication in the Signal.

Survivors are two sons, Delbert Meece of Phoenix, Arizona and Harry Browning of Toledo, Ohio; one grandchild, and one great grandchild.

The resolution will be found elsewhere on the front page of this week's paper.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, April 8 at the Cox Funeral Home Chapel with Bro. David Woods officiating. Burial was in the Felts Chapel Cemetery.

A fire early Tuesday afternoon completely destroyed the above storage shed in Elmwood Cemetery. The city fire department answered the call but were unable to save either the building or its contents, most of which belonged to W.H. Cox, local funeral director. According to Mr. Cox, the building contained two tents, two sets of cemetery grass, a lowering device, 32 chairs, a lawnmower, and miscellaneous tools. These items Mr. Cox valued at $2,000 and were not covered by insurance. In the above photo, Charles Brooks, left, Mt. Vernon City employee, and Ass't. Fire Chief John Cox are shown.

Bobby F. Cash, 33, of Brodhead Drowns Sat. In Lake Linville

Bobby F. Cash, 33, of Brodhead, was drowned about 4 p.m. Saturday afternoon while boating on Lake Linville. Mr. Cash became the first person to lose their life on the lake since it filled up about a month ago.

The victim had reportedly just started an 18 horsepower motor attached to his 12-foot flat-bottomed boat when the boat shot upwards throwing Mr. Cash, who was alone in the boat. According to reports, Mr. Cash had begun swimming to shore, which was about 100 yards away, when he began floundering around in the water. His companion, Donald Lee Cash, his brother, and Ray Denney, who were on the shore, saw the accident and, while Cash went for help, the other two pulled his clothes off and went in to attempt rescue. However, he too was soon in trouble and except for the swift intervention of Freeman Jack Robinson, fishing in a boat nearby, would probably have also been drowned. Mr. Robinson was successful in pulling Denney to safety but was unable to help Mr. Cash.

Bobby F. Cash

Rescue squads from Harlan Co., Somerset-Pulaski, Lincoln County, Coib in Tri County, London, and Danville, conducted dragging operations for the body of the night and the body was found about 11:45 a.m. Sunday by the Harlan County Rescue Squad.

The accident occurred on the east end of Lake Linville where the depth of the water is approximately fifteen feet.

Mr. Cash was a native of Rockcastle County, the son of Bill Cash of Brodhead and the late Lula B. Engle Cash. He was a member of the Brodhead Masons, Lodge No. 566 F. & A.M. and a U.S. Job Corp instructor.

Besides his father, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Joyce McFeron Cash, two daughters, Rita Ann and Sherry Lynn Cash, both at home; four sisters, Mrs. Betty Lucksinger of the Philippine Islands, Mrs. Bonnie Rouse and Miss Beverly Cash, both of Brodhead, and Mrs. Brenda Simpson of Camb Orchard; four brothers, Billy Cash of Pine Hill, and Charles,

Fiscal Court Discusses Garbage Disposal Problem

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court met Tuesday and listened to James Carpenter, of the Appalachia Region, Environmental Health, discuss the establishment of a county-wide containerized garbage collection system.

Mr. Carpenter told the Court that there were several avenues by which this problem might be approached. The one which he discussed as the most feasible was a plan under which in the more heavily populated areas, the garbage collection would be conducted individually. In the rural areas, there would be collection points set up where county residents might take the garbage for disposal. Then a truck would regularly make the rounds of these points to collect the garbage.

One method of financing the system, which would run about $3 per household per month, would be a tax which would have to be voted on by the people by a 2/3 majority. Under this system, every county taxpayer would pay for the service equally and would therefore be more likely to use it.

The Court, however, declined to take any action on the proposal. In other action, the Court voted to hire an attorney to file suit against the contractor and builders of the Courthouse if the County Attorney had not instigated these proceedings by the May Fiscal Court meeting.

County Judge Charles Carter expressed dissatisfaction with the speed with which the County Attorney had moved to begin these proceedings. County Attorney William Gregory was directed by the court to file the suit at their January meeting.

Bids for a tractor with backhoe and loader attached were opened. Four bids were submitted with Wilson Equipment Company of Lexington submitting the low bid of $7,731.00.

Clay Colson, local Soil Conservationist, met with the Court to ask if they had made a decision on whether or not to put up $500 in matching funds for his department. Mr. Colson and Wallace Proctor, Chairman of the Soil Conservation District, had met with the Court in one of their earlier meetings to request the $500 since if these matching funds weren't forthcoming the local district would not get the $1,033 provided by the state.

Mr. Colson told the Court that the money was used for office help two days a week which enabled him (Mr. Colson) to be out in the field moneypatching farmers.

However, Judge Charles Carter and the court told Mr. Colson that money wasn't available for this purpose but that when the new budget was set up in June something would be worked out where the funds would be available. The "something," according to Judge Carter, will probably be a limitation placed

Capital Digest

President Woodrow M. Strickler of the University of Louisville thinks some day "the twin may meet" but there is no current plan to wipe out the big difference between in-state tuition charges at U of L and existing state universities.

U of L, which will become a state university July 1 under Senate Bill 117 signed Monday by Gov. Louis B. Nunn, presently charges Kentucky students $1,050 a year compared to the University of Kentucky's $280 and the other universities' $260.

Strickler, in response to a question at the signing, said: "I have a strong feeling that the tuition charges of the other institutions will probably come up and I am hopeful that our rates will go down."

"Then sometime, someday, in the future, we will meet at an appropriate level of cost to individual students."

Gov. Louis B. Nunn said in signing the U of L measure that it will enable the venerable old municipal institution "to make an even greater contribution to the education, the economy and the people of the Commonwealth."

The governor, at the same ceremony, vetoed a General Assembly resolution calling for a two-year study of U of L's future state relationship which apparently would have delayed its affiliation with the state.

Troopers Get Snow Assist In Cockfight

In the heavy snow and sleet of Easter Saturday, 20 State Troopers preceded by two plainclothesmen swooped down on a Woodford County barn five miles east of Versailles and arrested 110 persons, including several women, at a cockfight.

Disorderly conduct charges were placed against 106, public drunkenness charges against three, and a charge of operating a chicken fight in violation of state law against one. The raid was the largest of its kind since 144 were arrested in Spencer County several years ago.

Officers in charge said snare helped the raiders in that four men who escaped into a field returned voluntarily rather than brave the snow and sleet. Some of those arrested went to the Woodford County jail and later paid fines of $10 and cost each. Others pleaded guilty Monday. Eight pleaded innocent.

Will Kentucky Gain Or Lose By Census?

The federal census taken by mail April 1 may mean a lot to Kentucky.

It will determine by the population count compared with that of other states

National Library Week

Libraries, the storehouse of books of knowledge, are feeling more strongly the pressure of major social change in America.

Increased pressure from the population explosion, prolongation of education, increase in continuing adult educational and vocational training are some of the changes that have made it difficult to provide the much needed library service for the nation.

It is the children who will bear the brunt of the lack of additional monies for libraries in the nation. With 40,000 schools without libraries in 1970, how can we afford to give every consideration to this national need? We must somehow communicate to the public this problem. A community's mark of quality can be justifiably predicted in its interest in good library programs.

National Library Week for 1970 is April 12-18. Only one week of the year is officially set aside to bring the needs of libraries to the public. We should work for good libraries each day of the year. What are you doing?

how many representatives Kentucky will have in Congress in the next 10 years. Kentucky now has seven.

The census also will determine whether Kentucky will gain, lose or stand still in its sharing the millions of federal dollars apportioned on a population basis.

The census figures also are expected to show a need for shifting the present allotment of the Legislature's 100 state representatives and 38 state senators in accordance with population.

Save's First Aid Course All-Embracing
 The first aid course given at Kentucky Dam Village this week in the "State Agency's First Aid Course (SAVE)" program planned for each of the state's 12 highway districts was reported to cover "everything from delivering babies under emergency conditions to work in case of a nuclear disaster."

Persons participating in the session conducted by the Department of Public Safety at the University of Kentucky campus were measured by the continuing traffic safety program are state employees whose duties include a lot of traveling within the state. The second in the series is scheduled for April 6-7 at Lake Cumberland.

Louisville Expressway Widening Planned
 State Highway Commissioner Eugene Goss announced the federal government had approved funds for widening the Watterson Expressway, at Louisville, with construction expected to start in 1974. Cost is estimated at $70 million. The state would pay 10 per cent.

Impala '400' Sale.

You save when you buy it. You save when you drive it.

When you buy any Impala V8 model during our "400" Sale, here's how you can get two popular extras at no extra charge.

You order your Impala equipped with a Turbo Hydra-matic transmission, radio, Comfortilt steering wheel, front and rear bumper guards and white stripe tires. Items you'd probably order anyway.

Then we add our big 400-cubic-inch V8 at 265 hp that runs on regular gas, along with dual exhausts—both at no charge. (The manufacturer's suggested retail price including Federal excise tax for the regular fuel 400 V8 and dual exhausts is $93.75.) But that's only the beginning. Because your Chevrolet dealer is really anxious to deal these days.

And the Impala you're buying, of course, got to be America's No. 1 car, because of all the value features built right in. Features like flush-and-dry rocker panels that fight rust. Inner fenders to protect the outer fending. Long lasting bias belted ply tires, steel guard beams in every door for added protection, an acrylic lacquer finish over its solid body by Fisher.

All of which contributes to Impala's traditionally high resale value, too.

You're getting America's No. 1 car on sale. The car more people buy—year after year after year.

How can you beat that?

BRASSWOOD HAS FRAGRANT FLOWERS
The Brasswood tree is probably most noted for the fact that its wood is often used in making cabinets, and decorative articles for the home. However, the flowers of the Brasswood are not only very pretty, but also extremely fragrant. These blooms are yellowish in color, with a slight tint of green. The flowers are very much favored by honey bees for the succulent nectar produced by the blooms. Brasswood flowers are sweet and fragrant. The flowers we sell in our florist shop are also sweet and fragrant. Why don't you drop by today and select a potted plant, or an arrangement from our large, varied. We deliver flowers locally, and wire to distant cities.

NATIONAL FHA WEEK

April 5-11 is National FHA Week. The Broodhead Chapter of FHA would like to take this opportunity to explain the meaning of our organization.

The three letters-FHA stand for the Future Home-makers of America. This is a non-profit organization for junior and senior high Home Ec. students. It was founded in 1945 and today is among the largest school organizations, with more than 500,000 members. It is sponsored by the United States Office of Education, the American Home Economics Association and other organizations in the educational field.

The three levels in the organization are national, state and local. The national level sets FHA's objectives. The state level helps the local chapters in each state with their goals. The local chapters plan their programs around the objective set by the national level. There are 10 officers in the chapter and the Home Ec. teachers serve as advisors.

The main objective of FHA is to help its members improve personal, family and community living. It also helps the members learn to grow as a better citizen of their community, state and county.
