Help Make Food Stamps More Meaningful

Do you know someone—a neighbor, perhaps—who needs help in buying groceries because of inadequate income, but who hasn't asked for it for reasons of pride, lack of transportation or disability? These are not unusual situations, but ones which often result in the most deserving people not getting important help available to them through the U.S. Food and Nutrition Service's food stamp program.

If you do know someone like this, and you count yourself a real friend, you'll be doing them a service to discuss the situation with them; impress upon them the importance of good health.

Because good health is often a direct result of proper nutrition, which simply means wise buying practices, careful attention to the types of foods a family eats, tasteful preparation of meals, etc. The food stamp program helps those with low income who can't afford to buy such food for a balanced diet.

How? It increases their food buying power; that is, it gives them extra grocery money to spend on the foods they haven't been able to afford in the past.

Each family getting food stamp help must put up at least some of its own money. The amount required is about equal to what the family could be expected to spend on food anyway, based on its monthly income, and other factors.

Then, in return for its investment, the family is given extra food money in the form of bonus U.S. Department of Agriculture food stamp coupons. The amount depends upon the number of persons in the household.

Where can food coupons be spent?

They may be used to buy food at any grocery store displaying a food stamp program authorization card. All bona fide food retailers in every food stamp area may be authorized to handle food coupons by applying to their nearest field office of the Food and Nutrition Service.

In most food stamp areas, virtually every retail grocery store is authorized to handle the coupons. There are more than 32,000 grocers already authorized in the nine southeastern states.

And what foods may be bought with USDA food stamp coupons?

FNS officials point out that a food stamp client may use her coupons for any food intended for human use, except certain foods that are identified as being imported into the United States from other countries. Argentine corned beef is an example of an imported food that cannot be bought with food coupons. Imported foods are in competition with American grown or processed foods, therefore, they are not eligible as food stamp purchases.

Food stamp coupons cannot be used to buy alcoholic beverages of any kind, tobacco or tobacco products.

And because the food stamp program is strictly what its name implies—a "food help" program intended to help improve the diets of needy families—food coupons cannot be used to buy nonfood items such as cleaning supplies, mops, brooms, etc.

After getting extra food buying power through bonus food coupons—that is, the free paying her purchase requirement—you might ask how someone without any training in nutrition knows what foods to buy for a balanced diet.

This is an important question; one that deserves the attention of any civic group, volunteer organization or private citizen wanting to do something to help others.

Getting the word to needy families about family budgeting, wise buying practices, proper food preparation, how to balance a diet, etc. is not an easy task. Constant efforts are being made by the Food and Nutrition Service, USDA's Cooperative Extension Service, and other federal and state agencies to improve nutrition education in low-income areas through better communications.

You, or your group, can help, too, by getting interested in the problem and assisting local agencies in spreading the word through group discussions, cooking demonstrations, workshops and visits directly in the homes of low-income families.

The Cooperative Extension Service, through county agricultural agents and extension home economists, is playing an important role in such nutrition education efforts. Home visits, workshops and at-home demonstrations have done—and are doing much to improve the situation.

But it's a continuing job. It isn't something that can be attended to today and forgotten tomorrow. That is why your help—and that of every concerned citizen—is needed to make nutrition education meaningful.

So why not get in touch with a local volunteer organization today, if you aren't already affiliated with one. Find out how you can help inform those with low income about

County Agent's Notes

By: H. Lee Durhan
cool weather means
new insect problems
For the most part, the cooler weather that's beginning to make its way into Kentucky causes insects like cluster flies, crickets, ants, spiders, and boxelder bugs to seek shelter, and this shelter may be your home, according to Dr. Wesley W. Gregory, entomologist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The cluster fly or attic fly is about twice the size of a house fly, and produces a most annoying buzzing while it flies in a rather sluggish manner. With the approach of cool weather, large numbers of the adult flies collect on the sides of dwellings and their way into homes through cracks unscrubbed vents and louvers.

The best solution to the cluster fly problem, according to Dr. Gregory, is to prevent their entrance into the home by good screening. If the flies are already in the house, one of the following control practices can be used:
- Hang 20 percent dichlorvos resin strips in the attic at a rate of one every 1,000 cubic feet.
- Apply a five percent malathion spray to rafters, and for a quick knockdown of flies that enter the living quarters, use an aerosol bomb containing pyrethrins.

Boxelder bugs are about 1/2 inch long, are oblong-shaped and black with red markings. They feed mostly on boxelders, but they also survive on ash, maple and fruit trees. When they invade homes in large numbers they may tear walls and fabrics with faces and they also produce a foul odor when crushed.

Dr. Gregory advised homeowners to control the bugs by cutting down host trees, screening them out of homes, or vacuuming them when they accumulate around doors and windows. If these methods are not practical, the bases of boxelder trunks and other trees where they cluster may be treated with a Swain spray. Crickets have probably begun to gather about most Kentucky homes already—and their incessant "chirping" can turn even the sound sleepers into a hollow-eyed leopards. For the control of crickets, as well as ants, spiders and cockroaches, spray the lower and outer foundations of the house with either a two percent chlordane mixture or a one percent diazinon solution. To prepare the chlordane spray, mix eleven tablespoons of 45 percent emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water; or two level cups of 40 percent wettable powder per gallon of water. To prepare the diazinon spray, mix 3/4 cup of 25 percent emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water. This information will be commonly recurring fall household pests, but Dr. Gregory cautions that you may encounter any number of different forms of insects. Therefore homeowners should supply their county agents with as much information as possible about the pest — where it was found, how many, what damage it was causing, it is always desirable to send in a specimen in some type of alcohol. This allows the county agent to recommend proper controls quickly and efficiently.

WEDDING PUBLICITY AVAILABLE

A new University of Kentucky College of Agriculture publication entitled "Weds of the Southern United States," should be instrumental in helping farmers and homeowners alike to identify weeds in their fields and lawns.

The full color, 44-page magazine contains pictures and a description of the growing habits of plants found in the Southern United States.

Copies of the magazine, costing 20 cents apiece, may be ordered by writing The Bulletin Room, Agricultural Experiment Station Building, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. 40546. Farmers should protect stored grain from insects.

The southern corn borer has already taken a heavy toll of Kentucky's crop, and Dr. Rusty Scheibler, entomologist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, reminds farmers that it will be especially important for them to protect their grain from insects.

Dr. Scheibler says that Kentucky is located in the area of the U.S. where stored grain insects are pests nearly every year. So before new grain is put into a bin, old grain that may be infested should be removed and the walls and floor of the bin sprayed with a solution of premium grade malathion, methoxychlor or pyrethrins. Small grains and corn may also be treated with dusts of malathion or pyrethrins to control pests that infest the grain while it was in the field.

If the grain is already in the bin, the surface can be treated with malathion, methoxychlor or pyrethrins to prevent infestations from occurring. But Dr. Scheibler reminds farmers that treatment of the grain surface will not control infestations that have already started.

"If blined grain is infested, the only control is with fumigants," he said.

For details on directions for controlling stored grain pests, farmers should ask their county agents for the leaflet, "What a Stop to Insects in Stored Grain," Misc. 387.

HUNTING & FISHING

On a bright sunny morning, following a light frost, we were impressed by the large number of dead wild animals that were to be sighted along highways. Our trip was from Frankfort to Lake Cumberland, a drive of Somerset and Hamilton, a distance of about 120 miles.

Here's what we were able to identify along this stretch of road — three rabbits; four opossums; a raccoon; two weasels, one red; a skunk and possible a mink. It was difficult to identify. The animals undoubtedly were killed the night before. Added to that casualty list were at least three squirrels and one groundhog that had left the sting of the whirling wheels that day before.

Domestic animals included at least a half dozen house cats and as many as three dogs.

Speeding trucks and automobiles take a heavy toll of Kentucky wildlife. According to a mortality survey for last year, deer killed by vehicles on the highways totaled 255.

Especially during the winter months and early spring it's not unusual to hear reports of deer kills on the highways.

A few years ago the National Wildlife Federation produced this slogan: "Give Wildlife A Brake." That admonition received nationwide publicity and undoubtedly saved the lives of many species of wildlife. More recently, during March last year, the Federation had as its theme for National Wildlife Week: "Seen Any Wildlife Lately?" This was not meant as a slam at the agencies designed to protect and perpetuate such wildlife, or as a citation of the high mortality rate on the highways, but as a warning that when one falls to see wildlife, then man's environment is suffering greatly from the inroads of civilization.

The slogan also drew attention to the amount of wildlife available and undoubtedly had a profound impact on the average citizen who had not previously stopped to think that when wildlife is gone, the environment will not be healthy for mankind.

As we need to say wildlife is disappearing, although the possibility of that happening is multiplying daily. Perhaps, there is as much or maybe more wildlife in Kentucky today than there was 25 years ago, notwithstanding the fact that it must be shared by more people and that its habitat is being squeezed tighter and tighter each day. More wild animals are being produced on a reduced acreage, and that's the way it must be, for never again will wild animals be able to use the acres that are being gobbed up by highways, suburban areas and the sprawling and creeping encroachment of man.

So the road count along the highway, as we journeyed to Lake Cumberland, must be viewed in both a good and a bad light. First, it is a shame that so much wildlife must be killed and wasted on the highways, but then again, it's comforting to know that we still have in Kentucky, a great population of wild animals! It may indicate that the time of the "short" as some would believe.

NEWS ABOUT KENTUCKY

Eighty-three communities, designated as "Dexterity Centers," are being promoted in the national advertising program during the final quarter of 1970, by the Kentucky Department of Commerce. The first half-page ad appears in the October 14 issue of the Wall Street Journal.

Cogmisioner of Commerce, Paul W. Grubb said, "The purpose of the 'Dexterity Center' campaign is to bring Kentucky's large pools of unused human talent to the attention of the nation's economic community."

Kentucky has made great progress in creating new job opportunities in recent years. Despite the success, there are many areas remaining with insufficient jobs to meet the needs of the population. "Dexterity Centers," according to Commissioner Grubb, are areas of Kentucky where large pools of unused human talent exist. Manufacturers will want to investigate those communities that possess a strong capability for training the talent, who live in the area, and who have the ability to support production with industrial sites, facilities, and transportation.

Counties are selected as "Dexterity Centers" if manufacturing employment is less than 5 percent of the population.

Loan Rates Announced For 1970 Burley Crop

COUNTY STATISTICS

The U.S. Department of Agriculture today announced loan rates by grades for 1970 crop Burley tobacco. These rates represent an average price-support loan level of 58 cents per pound, about 4.3 percent above 1969, as required by law and as announced April 2, 1970. The grade rates for the 1970 crop range from 10 to 10 cents per pound.

As in past years, growers will offer their tobacco for sale at auction markets in the usual manner, and price support will be made available through producer cooperative associations. Growers who have complied with their farm acreage allotments and who have certified that they have not used pesticides containing DDT or TOE on their tobacco are eligible for price support. No price support will be offered on any tobacco graded "M" (moss), "W" (wet), "NO-G" (No grade), or crap.

The original producer is eligible to receive price support. Additional copies of the loan rate schedules may be obtained from the Tobacco Division, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Social Security

Do you know how much you have paid into social security? Do you know if you have been given full credit for all your work under social security? These are two important questions to which every working man and woman should know the answers. "Just as you like to be aware of how much money you have in your bank checking or savings account, you should be sure that your social security record is complete and up to date," according to James Mustian, Manager of the Somerset Social Security Office.

The Social Security Administration recommends checking your social security record once every three weeks. This is especially important if you frequently change jobs. To check your record contact your nearest social security district office and ask for postcard form OAR-7004.

"If your records do not agree with the amounts on your social security record, get in touch with your nearest social security office. Do this as soon as possible, as mistakes become more difficult to correct as time goes by.

Remember, concluded Mustian.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Love Thy Neighbor

In half a dozen places, the Bible tells us to "love thy neighbor." But it may be difficult to apply this general rule to the specific people who live next door. To what extent does the law insist on a "good neighbor policy?" Under traditional legal rules, a home owner owed very little regard for his neighbor's sensibilities. He could do almost anything he pleased, so long as he did not actually intrude upon his neighbor's property.

In one early case, a home owner dug such a deep excavation near the boundary line* that his neighbor's house had to be abandoned as unsafe. Yet, even though he had acted with malice, a court held him not liable for ruining the neighbor's house.

And in another case, a court refused to condemn an enormous "spite fence" carefully designed to shut out light and air from the people next door. The judge said "it would be intolerable to allow a man's neighbors to question his motives."

But in recent years, as people began living closer together, the attitude of the law has changed. Today the right to excavate is limited by considerations of safety and fair play. Almost everywhere, the spite fence is forbidden. As one court put it:

"No one ought, to have the legal right to make a malicious use of his property for no benefit to himself, but merely to injure his fellow man."

Of course, moderate annoyances—even if unneighborly—are still legal. A home owner may still be reasonably noisy, even if the neighbors like it quiet. He may still paint his house a color that the neighbors consider frightful.

In one case, a man turned a deaf ear to a neighbor's complaint about his four large maple trees. It seems the trees kept the neighbor's house in almost constant shade.

But after a court hearing, the judge ruled that the neighbor had no legal grounds for complaint. This was the kind of "wrong," said the judge, for which the law provides no remedy.

To The Voters Of East Livingston, West Livingston & South Mt. Vernon Precincts

VOTE FOR MURPHY MARTIN, JR.

The Kentucky Foundation Program insures that all counties in the state get their share of the State tax dollar. This allows for equal treatment of all children in every county. However, what if the school leaders do with the money after they get it determines the quality of a county's program. In the year 1969 there were fewer than one of the one-room schools per school system across the state. Rockcastle County had seven one-room schools. Our system got its share of the tax dollar just as the others.

The citizens of Educational District Number One have the right to:

- A. An active Board Member who will be informed and look after your interests, guaranteed that there is an equal distribution of funds.
- B. An Independent Board Member who is not obligated to the administration or any other faction, and one who can face the issues, always voting his convictions.
- C. A Board Member who is interested in children, teachers, and conservative spending.
- D. A Board Member who does not believe in hauling children long bus routes for their education.
- E. A Board Member who believes that it is time for Rockcastle County to take its rightful place as an equal in the region in education.

If elected as your Board Member, I pledge to devote my time and energy toward the five above mentioned articles. Your vote and influence will be appreciated.

New bonus interest rate on U.S. Savings Bonds

Now all U. S. Savings Bonds pay 5% interest, PLUS a 1/2% bonus will be held to maturity. This overall 5 1/2% interest payment means that now you get a little bit more money for your money.

Technically, here's how the bonus works:

1. The bonus interest rate applies to all new Bonds purchased since June 1, 1970, raising their rate from 5% to 5 1/2% when held to maturity. Series E Bonds, whose maturity remains at 5 years 10 months, with a first-year rate of 4%, will have the 1/2% increase added as a bonus at maturity. Series H Bonds, with a 10-year maturity and first-year rate of 4%, will receive the bonus in the form of increased semiannual interest checks for their last 5 years, to yield an average 5 1/2% for the 10-year period.
2. There is no reason to cash in Bonds you now hold. Yields on outstanding Bonds, prior to maturity, will be increased by 1/2% for semiannual interest periods beginning on or after June 1, 1970. For E Bonds, the increase will be payable at maturity; for H Bonds, through larger semiannual interest checks for their last 5 years.
3. For Bonds now in their extension period, yields will be increased by approximately 1/2% to next maturity, whenever redeemed.
4. Finally, all Bonds maturing on or after June 1, 1970 while the bonus is in effect, will receive a 5 1/2% yield until next maturity.

Now, more than ever, it's to your advantage to buy U. S. Savings Bonds and hold them to maturity or beyond.

Sign up for Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank.

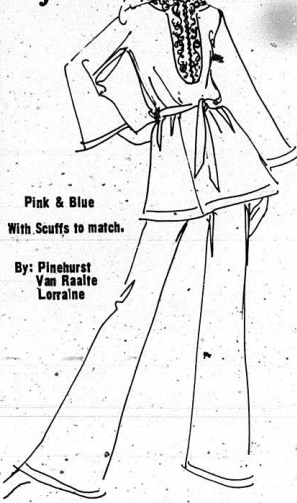

U. S. Savings Bonds. Now they pay a bonus to long-term holders.

Mr. Saylor, who lives in the Level Green area of the county, served three years and eight months with the U.S. Army; 21 years as an Engineer for the L & N Railroad; 16 years as a member of the 4-H Council, 10 years as chairman, secretary, treasurer of the Rockcastle County Fair Bureau for 16 years, 13 years as insurance agent, school board member for one year and three months, at present, is a director of the Bank of Mt. County Band Begins Fund-Raising Project

The Rockcastle County band members will soon be selling, (Are you ready for this?) party hose. Yes, it's all part of their fund-raising project to earn approximately $7,000 for new band uniforms. According to Band Director Bob Pybas, this project has the possibility of making more money for the band than any single project ever undertaken by the band.

Mr. Pybas was introduced to the idea by a former band student who is now in the hosiery manufacturing business and wanted to help the band in their fund-raising efforts.

The hose will be available in four shades - beige, coffee, cinnamon, and navy - and they are a one-size fits all type. Through this special deal, the band will be able to sell these quality hose for less than half of what they would ordinarily sell for in the stores.

It's a little far-fetched idea, but a good one for the band and the customer too. You can show your support of the county band by placing an order for several pairs of hose when the band students come calling and just think men you will have a nice Christmas, birthday or anniversary gift to give without worrying about the right size. As we said one size fits all, well, almost all. The size range for the hose is for ladies 4'10" to 5'8" and 10-150 pounds.

Mrs. Jessie Blevins Killed In Truck Accident Wed.

Mrs. Jessie Blevins, 40, of Orlando, was fatally injured late Wednesday night when the truck, in which she was a passenger, left Ky. 192 and turned over. According to Coroner Bill Dowell, death was instantaneous and was due to a crushed chest.

Mrs. Blevins' husband, Chester Lee Blevins, 47, also of Orlando, was the driver of the truck. The accident occurred about 11 p.m. Five and four-tenths miles south of Mt. Vernon. Mr. Blevins received Class B injuries (bruises and abrasions). Another passenger, Bill Clark, 68, was not injured.

According to State Police reports, the truck was traveling north on Ky. 192 approaching a right-hand curve. Coming out of the curve, Blevins apparently misjudged the roadway and drove off the left side of the road. The truck traveled fifty feet before going over a bank, rolled over one time and came to rest on its left side. No skid marks or brake marks were found on the road by State Police.

Blevins has been charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Mrs. Blevins was a native of Rockcastle County, the daughter of the late Edie and Maudie Langford Bullock and was a member of the Flat Rock Baptist Church.

Capital Digest

A murder was committed in Kentucky on the average of one every 29 months during the first six months of this year, Public Safety Commissioner William G. Newman says.

from local, county and state police and from sheriffs.

Newman announced "crime clock" figures after the completion of a study of the first half-year's operation of the state uniform crime-reporting system. The figures are based on reports received from local, county and state police and from sheriffs.

"These are the most complete figures we have ever had on crime totals in the state," Newman said.

"There was a robbery on the average of every 4 1/2 hours in Kentucky; a burglary on the average of every 26 minutes; a larceny ($50 or over) also on the average of every 26 minutes; a car theft every 55 minutes."

Aggravated assaults averaged one every 2 1/2 hours and forcible rapes, one every 25 hours.

DANIEL BOONE RIFLE REGAINED BY KENTUCKY

Outbidding the Tennessee team by a score of 183 points to 177, Kentucky Corps of Long Rifemen, shooters regained possession of the Daniel Boone Rifle in competition at the 23rd annual Daniel Boone Festival at Barbourville.

The long rifle matches between Kentucky and Tennessee teams began in 1946. Kentucky has won all except the 1969 shoot, what travel costs what travel costs may be paid by how far will the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department go in requiring Kentucky to pay the transportation expenses of Medicaid patients?

Economic Security Deputy Commissioner Danny Boggs will confer with federal officials in Atlanta in the near future to seek the answer.

The State has fulfilled its obligation to the elementary and secondary schools under the Minimum Foundation Program of basic aid local school districts. Christien added.

He said: "Financing of education has increased faster than improvements in the education system."

Christien decreed the spending of money on incompetent teachers as wasteful.

STATE STUDIES PLANS TO INCREASE CAMPSITES

Several plans are being considered to increase the number of campsites available to thousands of tourists and others attracted by Kentucky's top-rated system of State parks.

The State Property and Buildings Commission recently refused to approve issuance of revenue bonds to build more campsites. Other alternatives being studied are: (1) the leasing of some park land to private interests for development of campsites; (2) encouraging private investors to install campsites on land adjacent to State parks.

Governor Nom ordered a thorough study made before a final decision is reached.

LOUISVILLE AREA TO GET 'JOB BANK'

The computerized "jobbank" system successfully used in the Covington area for several months will be extended to the Louisville area Jan. 1, the State Economic Security Department announced.

The system enables the Employment Service to list openings and placements on an up-to-date basis.

Seven conferences on traffic safety begin.

His convening regional meetings at which Kentucky high school students are being asked to give their views on traffic problems are scheduled in a seven-week period.

Governor Nunn is leading off with a speech at 9:45 a.m. Tuesday (10/20) in the University of Kentucky Student Union Building. The other meetings will be Oct. 22, Jenny Wiley State Park; Nov. 4, Rough River Dam State Park; Nov. 12, Cumberland Falls; Nov. 18, Kentucky Dam Village; Dec. 2, Northern Kentucky; and Dec. 10, Jefferson County.

Among topics discussed will be the driver-points system, drug abuse, young drivers who drink and driver education.

merely pay for emergency ambulance service, or when Federal funds are three-fourths of spending, but the State itself is providing over $16 million in this fiscal year.

Federal funds are only 30 per cent of the total.

FIRST 25 ARE TREATED IN NEW DRUG PROGRAM

The State Mental Health Department is treating its first 25 patients under Kentucky's new program for rehabilitating those convicted for the first time of possession dangerous drugs for personal use.

Before the new law took effect, July 16, the 25 would have been sentenced to prison terms. Instead, they now are treated at Eastern State Hospital or, in some instances, they are treated on an outpatient basis—continuing at their jobs and living at home.

CHRISTIAN SAYS EDUCATION GETS FAIR SHARE OF FUNDS

"There is no short changing of education in Kentucky," State Finance Commissioner Albert Christien says.

"We have the largest percentage of increase in the past decade in school expenditures per pupil in the nation and top rank in increase in instructional-staff salaries."

The State has fulfilled its obligation to the elementary and secondary schools under the Minimum Foundation Program of basic aid local school districts. Christien added.

He said: "Financing of education has increased faster than improvements in the education system."

Christien decreed the spending of money on incompetent teachers as wasteful.

STATE MUST CHANGE VOTING LAW

Kentucky eventually will have to change its voting requirements—law to conform to the 1970 federal act which makes the residency minimum only 30 days for voting in a presidential election, Atty. Gen. John Breckinridge wrote Governor Nunn Monday.

The State law now requires a year residence in the state, six months in the county and 60 days in the precinct in order to register to vote in any election.

Breckinridge said questions in connection with the new U.S. law should be clarified when the Supreme Court decides several suits now before it.

AERIAL PHOTOS SPOT ILLICIT PROSPECTING

On a patrol in the Forest Service, State of Kentucky aviators and photographers cooperated and obtained aerial photos showing illegal strip-mining prospecting in Leslie County.

Recently the State refused a $100,000 permit in the Greasy Creek area, which conservationists respect as one of the last virtually unspoiled natural woods in the Eastern United States.

Warner Ford, State civil engineer for the Reclamation Division, and Herbie Johnson of Middleboro, reclamation supervisor in the area, flew over Round Hole Branch and Wilder Branch (of Greasy Creek) and spotted violations which are being investigated.

CHRONIC DISEASES

More people die of heart disease than from the second and third leading causes (cancer and strokes) of death combined.

Our rheumatic fever prevention program is one action by which the Health Department can try to prevent some of the early deaths of the children.

Permit us to have a rheumatic fever, when requested by their family doctor or specialist, can receive medicine necessary to control rheumatic fever and prevent future heart damage.

Each year, Kentucky physicians may report as many as 1,000 cases of the disease. When this kind of cancer is discovered early enough, treatment can be started and lives can be saved. By means of a simple test, signs which foretell the development of this kind of cancer can be seen even before obvious symptoms are noted by the patient or her physician. This test is now available at the Rockcastle County Health Department on ambulatory clinic days under the supervision of Dr. M.A. Sheppard.

Letter To The Editor

your influence for, and that you might vote for, Wayne Van Hook. We extend an invitation to all citizens of Rockcastle County to join us and use your influence in this important election. Let Mr. Van Hook serve, representing what he has applied for as a candidate and commitment each child in our county.

A vote for him won't just give our children a chance, it will put them "FIRST."

Mothers For Better Schools Committee

Mrs. Jack D. Lewis, Secretary

Our children deserve at least the following: (1) Clean, attractive school buildings, elementary through high school. (2) They deserve a clean, adequate lunchroom facility and program. (3) They deserve safe, sanitary restroom facilities. (4) They deserve school administrators who have compassion, tact, "know-how" and true understanding. (5) They deserve appropriate library facilities with volumes and audio-visual aids. (6) They deserve an atmosphere of honesty and fairness for teachers who should be allowed to teach without fear of disenchanted the administrators and thereby losing their position. (7) They deserve an atmosphere for parents who should be able to act on their individual principles openly, without fear of their children's being intimidated. (8) They deserve physical education programs and athletic programs of which each child can be proud in fitness as well as specialized personnel. (9) They deserve an all-around music program which will be fun and exciting. Again, they need equipment and more active and serious support of even the existing program. (10) They deserve a curriculum commensurate with our age, geared to the needs of each boy and girl. The age of antiquated texts and techniques is in the past. (11) Our children deserve the very best our tax dollar can give them.

At this time, the citizens of Rockcastle County have an excellent opportunity to improve our school system, to eliminate the need for teachers to "politicize" for jobs and to eliminate the fears that have run high among a large portion of our people for years. It is an excellent time to elect a school board member who is not a passive individual, one who is not supported by the present administration, and one who, in fact, will represent the interests of our children for four years without being committed to the same old group, technique and system that is failing to serve the interests of our children.

As mothers, we extend this plea to the citizens in School District 3 that you might use

"I learned from them and they learned from me. Now we both have electric heat."

Mr. Ledford Karr, Father

Mr. Billy Karr, Son

"We all remember how Dad used to fuss about furnace cares and repairs, fuel ordering and storage," says the young Mr. Karr. "I don't have any of those problems. Electric heat is carefree."

"Mom used to fidget because it was either too hot or too cold. With our baseboard electric heat it takes care of itself. We get even heat as we like it in every room."

"And when Dad saw how economical it is, he switched to electric. Now of course Mom finds house cleaning easier, and we're all enjoying the comforts of electric heating."

Frankfort Watchline

Donald Harkins is ready to stir things up. After nearly a year and a half in the relatively unpublicized post of legislative auditor, he's moving into the middle of a class fight.

Harkins thinks strict curbs should be put on the money-handling practices of boards that regulate professions and occupations in the state—auto-collisioners to embalmers, architects to pharmacists.

Reviewing the whole bookkeeping jumble, Harkins says flatly: "The regulatory boards are our worst bookkeepers."

He points out case after case of a board's failing to keep proper records of money coming in, not turning it over to the state treasurer promptly and letting it sit in highly questionable ways.

Harkins says one board seems to be sponsoring two of its members' campaign for legislative office by paying for wide out-of-state travel.

All told, it may not amount to a terrific sin. But at the end of fiscal 1969 the 12 regulatory boards had $221,000 on hand.

That's more than they spent throughout the year. But the $221,000 didn't lapse back to the state general fund. And that's one problem.

The boards tend to view money generated by licenses and fees within the profession or occupation as different from "state" money. And often they just flatly ignore regulations—and even statutes.

But Harkins feels that licenses and fees collected under state law are different, from voluntary membership dues—and that money received through acts of the legislature should be subject to some ultimate control of the lawmakers.

That's just what most of the boards don't want. Despite their obvious strength across the state, they could be in for a real fight from the 37-year-old Harkins. Since stepping into the big shoes left by the late Harold Watkins, the first legislative auditor, Harkins has proved careful, tough and aggressive.

And some of his questions need answering. One question that must be answered is, "If the property tax rollback law is held invalid, then what?"

Asland is challenging the law as it limits city taxes. And it seems certain a test on school tax limits will come from Louisville.

And one member of the Court of Appeals is on record as thinking the whole rollback law is unconstitutional. Another ran on a platform built mainly on attacking the 100 percent assessment ruling that triggered the rollback law to curb tax rates.

Just about everybody agrees the whole thing is a mess now. But who do you know that agrees with your answer to it? *****

Talk of a third Democratic candidate for governor to challenge Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford and former Gov. Bert Combs will be just talk—talk—for a while.

One of those in the talk-former Gov. A.B. "Big Boy" Chandler—wants to make sure that neither Ford nor Combs would drop out.

But it seems less and less likely as their followers go farther down the path of all-out battling.

It reached the point where Ford gave a tongue-lashing to a Combs supporter he felt was out of line—and a Ford advertisement was chopped by a labor organization from a convention program. *****

Redoubtable State Sen. Charles Upton took everybody off the hook by filing a bill in federal court on reappointment.

Now anyone can join to raise any question he wants answered. But Gov. Louie Nunn has no doubt on the key question. His executive assistant, James Watson, says the governor feels the one-man one-vote guideline "must prevail" in remapping legislative districts. *****

A work committee was also elected. They are: Jerry Bullock, chairman, Chester Blevins and Terry Mullins.

The two school projects chosen were (1) to purchase an overhead projector and (2) to improve and purchase playground equipment.

The next meeting will be in November.

TO THE VOTERS OF BULLOCK, NORTH MT. VERNON, AND WEST MT. VERNON PRECINCTS

At the beginning of this campaign I was cautioned many times about the concentration of power that would be used in behalf of administration supported candidates. It was pointed out that:

- (1) A budget of over one and one fourth million dollars has created a powerful political machine.
- (2) Administrator strategy meetings would be held, and voter lists gone over with "old line politicians" assuming the responsibility for some voters, while administrators would influence others in behalf of administration supported candidates.
- (3) Positions would be threatened.
- (4) Personalities, rather than issues, would be the campaign technique.
- (5) And various false rumors would be spread.

However, even those who pointed out the above-mentioned agreed that there were several overshadowing factors:

- (1) Dedicated school personnel need their positions protected.
- (2) A concentration of power is unhealthy and needs to be broken.
- (3) Many other counties have surpassed us in the education of their children.
- (4) People on limited incomes, as well as all others, need to get the most from their tax money.
- (5) School administrators need to be having educational oriented meetings rather than political strategy meetings.
- (6) And good, honest election of officials is the American Way, not the "handing of people" approach.

For the last several days I have made a special effort to talk to the people living in this District, and it is very gratifying to know that a large majority support my proposals for a sound, efficient school system.

If elected, I pledge to work toward making the schools powerful in behalf of the education of boys and girls, and not in behalf of a political machine or faction. I sincerely solicit your vote and influence.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By: Billy Dgwell

As people grow older and group themselves with kill older people, the subject of children's behavior often captures the conversation. This is an ageless topic which seems to attach itself to aging. The vices or virtues of present day children are compared with their own childhood days. Quite often, the hazy recollections of yesteryear are clouded by the passing of time. To those who complain or condemn, the following quote could be interesting:

"Our youth now love luxury. They have bad manners, contempt for authority. They show disrespect for elders and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the servants of their households. They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up their food and tyrannize their teachers."

Who said this - and when? Was it recently? Care to guess? ... The quote is fromocrates in the 5th Century, B.C. I guess it proves kids will be kids; always have been and always will be

U.S. Army Offers Unique Opportunity

The United States Army is offering qualified young men and women a unique and valuable opportunity to prepare for a professional nursing career through the Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing (WRAIN) Program. If their application is accepted," said Sgt. Biser, local Army recruiter, "nearly all educational expenses are met by the Army for four years. In addition, they receive the pay and allowances of an E-3 (PO2) but do not have to attend any military training."

Prerequisites include high class standing in high school and satisfactory performance on the College Entrance Examination Board or the American College Test.

The first two years are spent in an accredited four-year college or university of their choosing. They take general educational and pre-professional courses. The Army pays tuition and fees to the college. The student receives monthly pay and allowances for his or her room, board and personal expenses.

The candidates then enroll for the last two years in the University of Maryland's School of Nursing. The Walter Reed Army Medical Center provides clinical nursing and other educational experiences.

Upon graduation and successful completion of a state licensure examination in professional nursing, the candidate is commissioned a first lieutenant in the United States Army. The obligation for service is three years.

Established in 1901, the Army Nurse Corps is the oldest of all the military services for women. The all-officer corps now consists of male and female registered professional nurses and has since 1956, Nearly 5,000 Army nurses are carrying on the heritage to serve the soldier and his family when and where most needed. If you are interested in being a member of this selfless, elite corps, see Sgt. Biser at draft board each Tuesday from 10:00-12:00. He'll be glad to give you further information about registration and any other questions you might have concerning this program.

YOU & THE DRAFT

"Recently we received a letter from a young man from Southeastern Kentucky. He was seeking information as to whether he had any additional relief from fulfillment of his military obligation. His local board had recently reclassified him from I-A to I-A and the appeal board, by unanimous vote, sustained the classification of the local board.

The young man enjoyed a I-A deferment for on-the-job training as a barber. He recently completed 18 months of apprenticeship under that deferment. He requested his local board to continue his I-A classification following the completion of his apprenticeship under current guidelines issued by the President for the phasing out of occupational deferments. The local board could not consider the request for deferment as a journeyman as his apprenticeship has been completed subsequent to April 23, 1970. The young man is an only child. While he was taking on-the-job training, his father, a non-veteran, was killed in an automobile accident and his mother sustained permanent multiple injuries in the accident. She has no other relatives. The registrant could not qualify for a sole surviving son classification as the father was a non-veteran. We suggested he request the appeal agent assist him in presenting the new information, that he was the only person that could alleviate to a degree some of the present physical hardship his mother is undergoing as a result of the injuries she sustained in the accident. The appeal agent could intervene in this case as the local board had not mailed a Notice of Induction.

DEPENDABILITY COUNTS!

... A tribute to newspaperboys by the late Vince Lombardi

"A coach really appreciates a dependable performer," said Vince Lombardi, the late head coach of the Washington Redskins and one of pro football's all-time coaching greats. "It's the man that will be the big ones for you. You count on him to deliver -- and he never lets you down. "Newspaperboys are like that too: Reliable, hard-working, on the job in all kinds of weather. As newspaper subscribers we all appreciate the year-round good service we get from our carriers -- and when that Newspaperboy Day comes around, we ought to let them so!"

Opposing coaches will tell you Vince Lombardi was usually right -- and he was
